VERMONT WINS IN ALL BRANCHES

SYRACUSE BLANKED

Middlebury is Defeated in Track and T. C. A. in Tennis

Last Saturday was a banner day in Varsity athletics. Syracuse was shut out in baseball by a score of 2-0. The track team opened up relations with Middlebury defeating them 64½ to 43½. The tennis team won from T. C. A. by a score of 3 to 0.

THE SYRACUSE GAME

In the best game seen on Centennial Field this season, Vermont defeated Syracuse by the small score of 2-0. The Vermont line-up showed several changes, as Berry and Dutton were unable to play. Gallagher played right field and the infield was shifted around considerably, "Prince" Smith going to first, Maiden playing short, and Linnehan going in at third. This infield combination seems to be about the best yet, going through the entire game without a misplay.

The score might have been larger, but Vermont seemed to be unable to hit in the pinches, when men were on base and runs could be made, although Syracuse seemed no better off in this respect. Five Vermont men who reached third never scored.

Both sides went out in one-two-three order in the first, but things looked somewhat rocky in the second when Newhart reached first on a very scratchy hit, Foley drew a pass and both runners were advanced on Carling's sacrifice, but Giles flew out to Maiden and Farber knocked one along the first-base line that Smith had no difficulty in hand-

CAPTAIN HAYDEN

Earle Shepard Hayden, '15, has been elected captain of next year's track team. He has been a prominent figure in all of the long distance runs ever since he entered college. He won his V in cross-country within two months after he entered and has also done consistent and brilliant work in the mile and two mile. His home is in St. Albans.

ST. ANSELM'S TODAY

An Easy Game Expected

The Varsity meets St. Anselm's on Centennial Field at 3 today. This will probably be one of the easiest games on the latter part of the schedule. Coach Winter intends to use many of the second team men. Zwick or Gilbert will probably toe the mound.

Finishing Touches on "The College Widow"--The Prom--Many Fraternity Dances--The Boat Ride

The Wig and Buskin Society were very fortunate in their choice of a play this year when they chose George Ade's cleverest comedy, "The College Widow."

The story of this inimitable comedy, with its sparkling wit, woven into lines that scintillate with brightness, and fashioned into situations which are convulsing, is well known. The theme became the common property of thousands during the successful career of this comedy in New York, where it ran for more than a year, and so successful was its career in London that its appearance there was followed by an insistent and general demand for other American plays. "The College Widow" did much to popularize American comedy abroad.

"The College Widow" was liked because it was unusual, and is still loved for the very same reason. From beginning to end it is redolent of the atmosphere of the college town. The athletic interest, now inseparably united with college life, figures prominently in it, a realistic football game, that interests all devotees of that sport, being one of the several big scenes in the play. All the familiar characters of college days, including, of course, the ubiquitous freshman, merge themselves in the story, each adding his or her quota to the general fun and animations. Gliding through the story as its central figure, is this fair and fascinating widow whose love entanglements furnish material for much of the merriment that the comedy provokes.

"The College Widow" was written in George Ade's happiest vein. It

NEW HEADS IN TWO DEPARTMENTS

PROF. FREEDMAN BACK

Prof. G. G. Groat New Head in Commerce and Economics

Professor William Horatio Freedman, who was head of the department of electrical engineering until two years ago will return next year to his old position. Since leaving Vermont he has had charge of the electrical department at Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, and has been engaged in engineering consulting work. His departure from Vermont was very much regretted and his return has been greatly sought for. The alumni have been exceedingly active in trying to secure his return. Professor Freedman has two Columbia degrees, C. E., '89, and M. E., '91.

Professor George G. Groat will come to Vermont next year as head of the department of commerce and economics. He has held a similar position at Ohio Wesleyan for the last seven years. Professor Groat has written several articles on economic subjects and has delivered some public addresses on taxation. In Ohio he has been as valuable to the state as to the college because of his great practical experience. His degrees are A. B., Syracuse, '95; A. M., Cornell, '01; Ph. D., Columbia, '05. He taught at N. Y. State Normal College, '97-'03, Morris High School, N. Y., from 1904 to 1906, was a lecturer of commerce at N. Y. Univ. High School and since then has held his present position with Ohio Wesleyan.

WONDERFUL SURGERY

Large Clinics Watch Dr. Albee's Operations

Dr. Fred H. Albee of New York, professor of orthopedic surgery, has been exhibiting some marvelous surgical skill before large clinics at the Mary Fletcher Hospital. Last Saturday he grafted a section of shin-bone on a tubercular spine. This is one of his own developments of surgical science, and has already worked very successfully on a Burlington boy.

SCHEDULE HALF PLAYED

The Averages to Date

Saturday's game marked the end of the first half of the season and the team is certainly playing in mid-season form. At this point it may be interesting to see how the team is batting and fielding in the light of cold figures. The averages follow:

	Games	Batting av.	Fielding av.
Zwick	2	.800	1.000
Maiden	2	.500	.833
Gilbert	2	.500	.500
Hunt	1	.500	1.000
Linnehan	2	.444	1.000
Dutton	8	.367	.985
Flaherty	9	.326	.800
Johnson	6	.315	.875
Smith	9	.300	.837
Mayforth	9	.286	.974
Tredick	9	.272	.918
Malcolm	9	.200	.917
J. Berry	9	.171	.857
S. Berry	8	.156	.800
Gallagher	4	.077	.889

In the first half of the schedule the Varsity has won six games and lost three, scoring 78 runs to opponents' 39. The last nine games include no easy ones barring St. Anselm's. Tufts are playing rather erratic ball and the Chinese University of Hawaii are as yet uncertain quantities. Otherwise the team is sure to meet some stiff combinations.

A NEW TROPHY ROOM

CHANGES IN THE OLD MILL

Present Smoking Room for Recitations--Present Y. M. C. A. Room for New Purpose

The present smoking room under the chapel is to be used for recitations next year. The Y. M. C. A. rooms on the ground floor of South College are to be used as a trophy room and a gathering place for students and will replace the old smoking room. This is the sum and substance of the rumors of changes in the Mill which have been going the rounds lately. The College Store will still continue under the present regime according to the latest decision of the faculty committee. The Y. M. C. A. will be given rooms either above their present ones, or possibly in the present smoking room.

While the location of the smoking room in the South end of the Mill ling without assistance. Vermont also had a look-in in this period when Nichols hit Mayforth and passed Gallagher. Mayforth stole second and took third when the Syracuse team happened to be looking the other way. Gallagher stole second, but both were left when Maiden went out shortstop to first and Smith and Linnehan struck out.

In the third inning, "Jake" Malcolm walked and astonished everybody, including himself, by stealing second. "Jake" made third in safety on Berry's hit, but was caught between third and home, in a bold attempt to win his own game, Berry going to second on the play. After Flaherty had fled out to left field, Tredick hit the first ball pitched to him for three bases, bringing Berry home with Vermont's first tally.

Syracuse had a chance to even things up in the fourth, when Foley singled, made second on Carling's sacrifice, and third on Giles' out. He attempted to score when Mayforth dropped a pitched ball, but the latter made a pretty recovery and tagged him out. In the fifth, Farber, the first man up, was hit by a pitched ball, advanced to second by Nichols' sacrifice, and made third on Mayforth's wild throw, but died there. This was the last chance Syracuse had to score.

Vermont also had a chance in the fifth. Linnehan singled, Berry got a life on Giles' error and Flaherty walked, filling the bases with one down, but Tredick struck out and Mayforth flew out to left field. Vermont's second run was made in the lucky inning, Linnehan made first on Giles' poor throw, Malcolm sacrificed, and Berry made a hit good for one base, scoring Linnehan. Berry then stole second, and made third on Flaherty's out, but was left there. Another example of Nichols' tightening-up powers came in the eighth, when, after two were out, Maiden doubled, and Smith singled, only to be left in the cold, for Linnehan struck out.

The game was remarkable in that only one of the three errors was on a hit ball. Considering the close resemblance of the diamond to a relief map of Mt. Mansfield and adjoining ranges, this is indeed a very remarkable showing. In the eighth, Linnehan pulled a screamer out of the atmosphere that was tagged for a hit and pegged it across the diamond in approved Larry Gardner fashion. The game was watched by a large, well satisfied crowd, and all went home with a feeling that the team had at last struck its gait.

VERMONT WINS MEET

Just to show the crowd last Saturday that the baseball team isn't the only one Vermont has, the track team won the meet with Middlebury by a score of 64 1-2 to 43 1-2. Vermont was easily superior in the sprints, broad jump and shot put; Middlebury had everything its own way in the 880, but with the exception of these events, the contest was close. The feature of the meet was the good time made in the sprints. When the condition of the track and the fact that a strong headwind was blowing, are considered, 10 3-5 for the hundred and 24 1-5 for the two-twenty are pretty good records. There were no Al Gutterson individual scores, the highest, Jones of Middlebury, making 13 points. Bolster and Ferrin of Vermont made ten apiece and Owens made nine. Bolster of the freshman class is the man who made the time of 10 3-5 in the hundred.

The summary:

100 yard dash. First, Bolster (V); second, Owens (V); third, Mayforth (V). Time, 10 3-5 secs.

1 mile run. First, Jones (M); second, Hayden (V); third, McGuirk (M). Time, 4: 48 3-5.

Hammer throw. First, Leighton (V); second, Ayers (M); third, Condit (M). Distance, 110 feet, 7 in.

220 yard dash. First, Bolster (V); second, Owens (V), third, Triggs (M). Time, 24 1-5 secs.

High jump. Ferrin (V), and Kron (M), tied for first and second; third, Wilcox (V). Height, 5 feet, 5 in.

440 yard dash. First, Jones (M); second, Paterson (V); third, Floyd (M). Time, 54 secs.

Two mile run. First, Hayden (V); second, Lamere (M); third, Weaver (M). Time, 10: 25 3-5.

Pole vault. First, Ferrin (V); second, Rogers (M); third, Bailey (V) and Cassavant (M) tied. Height, 10 feet.

Shot put. First, Schoff (V); second, Whalen (V); third, Chapman (M). Distance, 33 feet, 6 in.

Broad jump. First, W. P. Smith (V); second, Gallagher (V); third, Ferrin (V). Distance, 19 feet, 3 in.

880 yard dash. First, McGuirk (M); second, Jones (M); third, English (M). Time, 2 min. 10 4-5 secs.

220 yard hurdles. First, Dade (M); second, Owens (V); third, Ferrin (V). Time, 27 3-5 secs.

T. C. A. Tennis Match

The tennis team started the day of Vermont victories last Saturday by defeating Troy Conference Academy, 3-0. McFarland won from Torrance, 7-5, 6-2. Dow won from Ellis, 6-1, 6-3, and McFarland and Dow won from Torrance and Ellis, 6-2, 6-4. Ellis is a brother of R. R. Ellis, '14.

WONDERFUL SURGERY

The diseased spine will heal if the pressure is removed. He cuts out a splint from the shin with a neat little electric saw and splitting the projections or spurs of the vertebrae, he grafts the splint there in such a manner that it will grow to the vertebrae, above and below the diseased vertebrae, holding them apart and relieving the spine of pressure. The diseased bone is not removed; if the patient is kept in good health, it will heal. The bone splint becomes a part of the patient's back and grows as he grows.

will be less convenient for the student body than the present location, still it is preferable that the change be made. The noise and smoke ascending into the chapel at present is a decidedly unpleasant feature, and detracts from the dignity of the chapel service. At least we can all subscribe to the idea of the trophy room, for our trophies at present are scattered around and consequently do not make the impression upon visitors that they ought.

represents the very essence of the humor that has made him famous wherever the English language is known, and will always remain a brilliant testimonial of his matchless and incomparable wit.

Professional companies have produced this play with great success, but anyone who has seen them play this essentially college-man's play, has realized that there was something lacking—something that the actor could not give—that something is the real college atmosphere and spirit. It needs college students who are living every day the scenes of this play, and who can give an accurate interpretation of the many lines that are unintelligible to those outside the college gates.

It may prove of special interest to our readers, and a great asset to the artists appearing in the college play on Wednesday evening, that Celeste, the clever and popular importer of the most artistic and fashionable apparel for ladies, has consented to design and furnish the costumes for all the female characters. This alone should prove a very strong attraction, as the female characters call for about fifty different costumes, especially since the coach, who comes from Boston, assures the public that "The College Widow" excels any metropolitan play in detail and quality of costumes. Jane Witherspoon, the "college widow," will appear in costumes designed by Pervont and Rebeaux. The head-dress and hats will be designed by Celeste, who ranks with the finished designers of Europe. No expense has been spared to produce the play, and the costumers feel justified in guaranteeing that appropriateness and fineness of detail so often lacking in the costuming of the female characters in college plays.

President Farnham of the Wig and Buskin, wise through four years of experience, is striving in this, his last play, to make the interpretation of the female role surpass in every way all previous attempts here in Burlington, and since the very important item of costumes is so well provided for, brilliant success cannot fail to crown his efforts.

Track Team Trip Given Up

At a meeting in Dr. Stone's office Wednesday morning it was decided to give up the trip of the track team to Boston so Vermont will not be represented in the New England Athletic Association meet on May 24th. Owens and Hayden are not in condition to run, and Bolster, who won the 100 and 220 yard dashes in the meet with Middlebury, will be unable to leave Burlington on that date.

PLANS OF THE MILITARY DEPARTMENT

Several Improvements Next Year

If everything turns out as expected, the 1917 freshmen will get the benefit of a greatly improved and systematized military department. Capt. Ira L. Reeves in charge of the department has many excellent plans in view for its betterment.

In the first place, the commissioned officers will be of the junior or senior classes and their academic records, if good, will be of great assistance to them in obtaining an office. In this way only men of good standing mentally and who can give enough time will be in charge of the privates. The officers for next fall will be named in the spring and as soon as the men enter in the fall they will be turned over to these officers for drill and instructions. There will be many changes in the present staff of commissioned officers. Already Capt. Reeves has had a number of applications and the present rank of many will be changed.

During the summer the bowling alley will be remodeled to fit the requirements of an up-to-date armory. This room will be used for lectures; many of which will be illustrated by stereopticon views, for which Capt. Reeves has his own machine and slides and it is quite likely that it will be furnished with reading tables, chairs and reading matter which pertains to military life.

There is a possibility that the work during the winter months will consist of lectures alone, saving the lecture periods during the good weather for drill. Capt. Reeves expects to have more time next year to prepare his lectures and consequently they will be more thorough and interesting. Among other things a number of military electives will be given which will include "map reading," "map sketching," "broad sword fencing" and "laws of war."

A card index system is being prepared to keep an exact account and record of each individual student.

STUDENT EMPLOYMENT

Many Positions At Disposal of Committee

The student employment committee is being literally swamped with applications for student labor, both for odd jobs like mowing lawns, working in gardens, and for summer work. The summer work is canvassing for the most part, with a wide range of choice offered. That there is such a mass of applications is another demonstration of the superiority of Vermont for the man who must work his way through college. The committee would be pleased to receive communications concerning this work, from students, at any time.

MEDIC NOTES

Delta Mu Banquet Well Attended Annual Phi Chi Banquet

Twenty faculty members and forty active members of the Delta Mu fraternity were present at the annual banquet of the fraternity at the Van Ness House last Tuesday. Dr. H. C. Tinkham was toastmaster. The speeches were: "Welcome," President H. D. Hinman; "The Alumni," R. V. Boyce; "The Active Members," Dr. Lyman Allen; "A Few Words from an Out of Town Alumnus," Dr. John Gibson of St. Albans; "The Year's Work," J. L. Lovejoy.

Morris C. Lord, '16, has returned to college after an absence of six weeks in Belfast, Me., where he was operated upon for appendicitis.

The Phi Chi fraternity held its annual banquet Wednesday evening in the large dining room of the Hotel Vermont. The toastmaster was Dr. F. E. Clark and the following toasts were responded to: "Welcome," B. H. Hermann, 1913; "Fraternal Progress," Dr. Bush; "Our Motto," G. L. Steele, 1914; "Phi Chi of the Past," Dr. J. B. Wheeler; "Ad Libitum," Dr. F. H. Albee; "Phi Chi of the Future," Frank Scannell, 1915; "Our Fraternity," C. H. Hermann, 1913.

YE CRABBE

A Double Number. The New Board

Ye Crabbe for April and May has just appeared, the first product of the new board. The April number was held up by the engravers and suffered further delay when all activities were suspended in the faculty-student differences of a month ago. Thus the double number. It is the best one yet. Some of the cuts are very clever and the reader is sure to get more good laughs from the subtle jokes of its talented board than from any number of "Life." "A University Diary" is exceptionally good as is the "Visit of old Jule Caesar of the class of '28 B. C." Each succeeding number of the Crabbe gives it a firmer hold upon the affections and funny bones of the student body.

The new Crabbe board has been announced: editor-in-chief, Donald G. Babbitt, '15; business manager; Fordyce S. Sykes, '14; secretary, Roscoe B. Smith, '15; associate editors, A. St. John, '14, J. Wheeler Baker, '15, Helen G. Benton, '14, Leon W. Dean, '15, Arthur G. Levy, '16, Philip J. Desmond, '16, Howard K. Thompson, '16, Willard P. Leutze, '16, John R. Berry, '16.

Edward Mix, '13, spent Sunday with friends in Richmond, making the trip in his new Jackson car.

is published on Saturday of each week during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont. It will be mainly given over to news, while a literary supplement will, from time to time, be published.

Subscription price $2.00 per year;
10c. per copy.

SATURDAY, MAY 24, 1913.

Carrying class scraps into this season of the college year is a bad practice from every standpoint. Proctor night should officially close the season of any active rivalry other than inter-class athletics. The freshmen have had their lesson, however, and let us hope that all are satisfied with the present status of the two classes.

With this issue a new board takes up the publication of the CYNIC for another year. We will not begin with any detailed statement of our policy which might hinder us at a future date. We are starting with some definite purposes and ideals which we shall probably see fit to modify and add to before we finish the task. What a paper the new board could turn out, had it the actual wisdom of thirty years of experience! However, nearly every board has added something to the accomplishments of its predecessors after a little real experience. Such is our aim. At first we may seem to be feeling our way. But we trust that all readers will make due allowance while we are cutting our CYNICAL eye-teeth. Suggestions and constructive criticisms are welcome; they are necessary if the paper is to perform its mission and to keep out of ruts. To the members of the outgoing board we owe much in the way of inspiration, for they have performed their duty faithfully and well. The paper has developed in thoroughness under their control, and they have left behind a much fatter paid subscription list as a powerful bit of testimony.

At this point it is not out of place for the CYNIC to speak a few words concerning the improved condition of his material self. It is hard to keep either a critical or a cheerful air with nothing but holes in one's pockets. It is hard for a paper to maintain its standard without showing signs of decadence when the balance sheet foots up the wrong way. But it has been conclusively shown that the college will support the CYNIC if the matter is but brought to the attention of the individual students. The management is now able to look ahead to next fall with a much greater degree of assurance. The paper is not yet out of debt, but proper support next year on the part of students and alumni and very efficient management may be able to bring it out even.

The literary numbers will be by no means discontinued, but their regular appearance will depend as much on finances as upon contributions. It is always hard for a college paper to emphasize news without falling off on the literary side. At present the college contains some very creditable literary talent. Financial condition permitting, we shall endeavor to publish a literary number once a month. This, however, will not be done at the expense of the news section. These monthly numbers will be enlarged and will contain both.

A trophy room has for a long time been badly needed at Vermont, although nobody has shouted very loudly for one. Now, without any agitation whatever, the faculty are planning to give us one next year in the south end of the Old Mill. Therefore let us rejoice, and immediately sit down and think what the change will mean to the University.

As a college we are extremely backward in keeping records, at least accessible ones. The various student activities are making history every year, almost every week. Yet there is practically not a man in college with the instincts and disposition of a historian. No one knows just what are the records of Vermont in the various track events. The CYNIC makes the incorrect statement that we have never defeated Dartmouth in football, because there are no available records on that subject. There are too many other similar instances. The trophy room properly kept up will give to all daily reminders of past achievements. The trophies will not be complete records, but they will tend to arouse some men of latent historical dispositions, and will enable all to judge the accomplishments of the present in the light of a glorious past.

Class athletics should receive inspiration from a trophy room. The past winter showed a good development in inter-class athletics, and now they will be given further encouragement. It was proposed to offer a permanent hockey cup last winter, the winning class numerals to be inscribed upon it each year. The question arose as to where such a cup should be kept from year to year, and there was no answer. Inter-class hockey, basketball, and track will probably gain new impetus from the cups and banners which should hereafter be forthcoming. In several directions a good trophy room will arouse class spirit as well as creating a greater college consciousness.

THE COMMONS CLUB

The Commons Club held a regular meeting Wednesday evening, about forty-five members being present. Various business matters were discussed, among them the minstrel show and the track team. Professor Thompson and Mr. Robinson were elected to honorary membership, and the names of two other non-fraternity faculty men were proposed. The club voted to allow a committee, consisting of Seiple, '14, Minkler, '15, and Corley, '16, to make a list of the college activities in which each member of the club participated and to endeavor to get every available man in the organization out to work in some particular activity. Devereux, Evarts and Armstrong were appointed to collect money for the 'Varsity baseball banquet.

The following rather significant resolution was passed, "Resolved, that Art. 2 of the constitution stating that 'any non-fraternity man in the University, etc.' be interpreted to mean—'any man not a member of a fraternity having a chapter at the University of Vermont and not a member of the society known as Theta Nu Epsilon.'" Under this interpretation, a man who has been a member of a fraternity in some other college before coming to Vermont may become a member of the Commons Club.

A vote of appreciation was passed for the work of the baseball team and for the C. C. men who worked in the Middlebury track meet. It was voted also that every man who plays henceforth on any of the clubs' athletic teams must be a registered member in good standing.

The military inspection which is being held on Friday and Saturday will be reported next week.

NEXT COMES JUNIOR WEEK

The Prom

On Thursday evening comes the biggest event of the week, the junior prom, in the gymnasium. The style of decorations will be Japanese with many gay Japanese lanterns. Each fraternity will be given a place to decorate and furnish as a fraternity booth. Barton's orchestra of ten pieces will furnish music. The concert begins at 8.30 and the dancing at 9 o'clock sharp. The prom will be over at 2 o'clock.

Fraternity Dances

The following fraternities will hold dances on Friday evening of junior week.

The Sigma Phi at Sigma Phi place; the Phi Delta Theta and Lambda Iota, together, at the Hotel Vermont; the Alpha Zeta at the Van Ness roof garden; and the Alpha Tau Omega at the roof garden of the Hotel Vermont.

The Delta Psi fraternity will hold a dance on Friday night also, and the Delta Mu on Monday night.

JUNIOR WEEK BOAT RIDE

Last Event of the Week

The junior week boat ride which is to be held Saturday evening, May 31, under the auspices of the junior class, is to take the place of the regular annual band boat ride. The steamer Ticonderoga which has been chartered for the occasion, will leave the King street docks at 7:15 o'clock. Music will be furnished by Romeo's orchestra, consisting of harp, violin, and clarinet. Tickets are now on sale and the juniors are striving to make this one of the most interesting events of the week.

UNDERCLASS BROILS

Hatchet Dug Up and Buried

The freshmen's audacity in interfering in the sophomore banquet on Saturday was met with a little swift justice on Monday. As a result fifteen frosh marched in a chain gang through the streets of Burlington early on Tuesday morning. The entire sophomore class had lain in ambush for them all night long at the Dorm. Each freshman was bound as he entered the Dorm. About 5:30 a. m. the captives, artistically decorated with green paint were marched through the streets. The martial roar of the drum and some tinkling cymbals lent dignity to the procession. The march broke up in front of the Battery Park fountain where all the freshmen were of the opinion that hostilities between the two classes should be suspended.

A LARGE BANQUET

One Hundred Attend the 1915 Function

A sophomore banquet unique in the annals of the University of Vermont took place on the evening of Saturday, May the 15th, at the Hotel Vermont. The only occurrence to mar the pleasure of the evening was the news received during the toasts, of a death in the family of one of the classmates, as a result of which it was voted to suspend the banquet. At the same time a committee was appointed to send flowers on behalf of the class.

Despite some slight hindrance on the part of the freshmen, all the men were at the banquet, making an attendance of nearly one hundred. As evidence of the new Vermont spirit, the medics were on hand as well as the academic men, and all were harmoniously boiling over with class spirit. There was no distinction between academic and medic; all were enthusiastic 1915 men of Old Vermont. An excellent menu was well served by the hotel management, for which much praise is due. Music was furnished by the sophomore orchestra.

Donald Babbitt presided as toastmaster with his characteristic excellence. The following men responded to toasts before the banquet suspended: John Sanford, Harold Mayforth, Leon Dean, James Bunce and Merle Davis.

The complete toast list as originally scheduled was:

Chairman's Address,
"Jack" Sanford
Academics, 1915, "Hon." Dean
Medics, 1915, "Jim" Bunce
1915 Debating Society,
"Ironsides" Davis
Military Organization,
"Bob" Daniels
Mystery, "Prof." Leffler
Athletics, "Shep" Hayden
Getting Together

"Bull" Moose Olzendam
Medic, View of Getting Together,
"Crab" McCormick
Faculty, "Gen." Gardyne
Co-eds, "Geo." Merriam
Stump Speech, "Pat" Sturgis
Church Street, "Monk" Ferrin

Only four of these gems of post-prandial wisdom were perpetrated before the banquet adjourned. The world must forever remain in ignorance as to the content of the remaining nine of the formidable list.

The committee in charge of the banquet was: Sanford, (chairman), Knight, Mayforth, Rapuzzi, Warden, and to them is due, in great part, the credit for the success of the affair.

Perry H. Aldrich, '15, is chairman of the Y. M. C. A. handbook committee.

BASEBALL SERIES

Sigma Nu, 11 Sigma Phi, 7

Sigma Nu defeated Sigma Phi in the Key and Serpent baseball series Monday afternoon by the score of 11-7. The Sigs piled up five runs in the first inning, but were unable to solve Martin's delivery after that, while after the third nearly every Sigma Nu batter reached first and those who did went right along home.

The line-up:

CLASSICAL CLUB

Last Meeting—Officers Elected

The following officers of the Classical Club were elected for next year at the Latin dinner given the club by Professor and Mrs. Ogle, on Friday evening, May the 16. President, Rodney R. Ellis, vice president, Miss Ruth O'Sullivan; secretary and treasurer, Robert Daniels; chairman of executive committee, Miss Dorothy Cook.

The club drank a toast to Professor Goodrich, our professor emeritus of Latin, and tendered a vote of thanks to Professor and Mrs. Ogle for the dinner. It was decided that no more meetings of the club would be held this year.

The annual initiation banquet of the Ukma society was held Wednesday evening at Dorn's restaurant. Twenty were present. The toastmaster was H. A. Gardyne and toasts were responded to by Paul Kruse and Edward Currier. The other speeches were impromptu.

THE COLLEGE WORLD

Tap Day at Yale this year differed not a little from the Tap Day of former years, and the more normal attitude toward the ceremony reflected a new spirit of democracy, which is sure to help the spirit of the University, in the opinion of many. The traditional pomp, and terrific, unnatural earnestness, which have characterized former Tap Days, were entirely lacking; partly due to the absence of the public, who were barred out, and of the underclassmen, who were in their rooms in obedience to the edict of the dean, and partly due to the attitude of the neutral seniors, who good naturedly "joshed" the society men as they came stalking out to administer the fateful slap. The rebellious attitude of the sophomores, who threatened not to accept elections to the senior societies next year if the elections of this year were not in their opinion, representative of the whole student body, had the effect of breaking down the "family lines" which have been followed for some years past in selecting the candidates, and of causing the election of more men of actual worth. As the sophomores are said to be well satisfied with the elections this year, the senior societies, which seemed for a time about to drop out of existence, will no doubt enjoy many more years of activity.

Prof. J. W. Votey was out of town on business Wednesday.

GARDNER'S ANKLE INJURED*Out of the Game for Three Weeks

Larry Gardner of the Red Sox was injured at St. Louis last Saturday by turning his ankle when sliding into second base. X-ray examination showed that the ligaments were badly torn and the arch broken. It will require at least three weeks for his recovery. The Red Sox are in rather poor condition this year and the loss of a man like Gardner will be a severe blow.

GIRLS' FIELD DAY*First of Its Kind at Vermont

On Saturday, May 24, at 2.30, the Girls' Athletic Association will hold a field day on their new grounds at Grassmount. The contest will be between the sister classes, the senior-sophomore and the junior-freshman, a pennant being awarded to the winning team. This is the first event of the sort which has ever been given by the young ladies of the University and promises to be a great success. The events to be run off are the usual features of a girls' track meet, including various distance races, jumping, shot put and baseball throwing for distance, followed by a baseball game between the sophomores and freshmen. The girls have shown great spirit in preparation for the event, and the rivalry between the freshmen and sophomores has been especially vigorous. The meet is under the efficient supervision of Mrs. Stone, the physical director of the young ladies, who has conducted many such meets in schools where she has held similar positions. In most colleges for women great stress is laid upon this phase of athletics and it is hoped that within a few years sufficient interest may be aroused among the young ladies here to make field day a permanent institution.

Officers Attend the Norwich Inspection

Maj. Lincoln F. Daniels, Capt. Robt. Daniels, Lieutenants Grandy and Gilbert and Privates Huntington and L. French went Tuesday morning to attend the inspection of the Norwich battalion at Northfield, held on Wednesday and Friday. The officers went in uniform. Blankets, tents and board were furnished by Norwich University, the only expense of the Vermont men consisting of their carfare. The invitation to attend the inspection was extended by Capt. F. Thompsons, 10th Cavalry, U. S. A., and Maj. Holland of the cadet battalion.

A rifle range is being arranged on the University experiment farm. Already an outhouse has been constructed for holding targets and other material. Some of the matches for the Louis C. Clark cup will be held on Saturday.

TENNIS

The tennis tournament is being run off on schedule time which is something unusual. The semi finals will be played next week. A consolation tournament has also been started.

The tennis courts are to be fixed up. There is about two inches of sand on the top of the courts which will be scraped off until the clay bed is reached. When this clay has been rolled and put into shape a much better playing surface will result.

SOPHOMORE MEETING*Want Earlier Junior Week Next Year

The sophomore class at a meeting held in the Williams Science hall on Friday, the 16th, voted to recommend to the student council that junior week next year be held the week of the 15th of May. The present arrangement is undesirable because junior week is too near examinations.

There was also some discussion of the financial condition of the class, and the measures which should be taken in preparation for next year, but no revolutionary measures were adopted.

The Northfield Student Conference was earnestly discussed at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Tuesday evening.

Vesper Service

The regular meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association will this week take the form of a vesper service on the Grassmount lawn at five o'clock on Sunday afternoon. A talk will be given by an outside speaker.

Deutscher Verein

The active members of the Deutscher Verein will meet in the Y. W. C. A. room at seven-thirty o'clock on Monday evening. Students who intend to become members of the Verein may present themselves at that time, or may hand their names to Spring, '13, or Miss Gifford, '14. Every member of the club should make a special effort to be present as officers for next year are to be elected at this meeting. A large share of the evening will be devoted to the singing of German songs led by Herr Appellmann and Dane, '13.

On Monday May 19, the Yale nine defeated Holy Cross 4 to 3 in a 13 inning game, making a total of 15 straight games for Yale. This will be of interest to Vermont men since a game with Holy Cross is scheduled to take place.

LOCALS

The preliminary trials for the Kingsley prize speaking contest this year were held on Thursday, May 22, for the sophomores, on Friday the 23rd for the freshmen.

The 1915 Debating Club held a short business meeting, Monday evening, May 19, and voted to postpone their banquet from May 26 to June 2, after which the meeting adjourned.

The Electrical Society met in the Science hall on Thursday evening, last week. Mr. Hooper of the weather bureau was the speaker. He spoke of the electrical recording instruments at the weather beauru.

The Kappa Sigma fraternity held a dance last Monday evening at the Hotel Vermont roof garden. About twenty couples were present. The chaperons were Professor and Mrs. J. L. Hills and Dr. and Mrs. G. E. Partridge. Barton's orchestra furnished music.

The Mount Hermon Club has elected officers for the following year as follows:

President, L. W. Dean; vice president, R. A. Healy, secretary-treasurer, R. C. Downing.

Dr. Fred H. Albee of New York, a graduate of Bowdoin, was entertained by the Kappa Sigma fraternity last Saturday night.

The entire cast of "The College Widow" will take a trip to Enosburgh Falls, playing there on Monday night, May 26.

Willard Smith, '15, was called to his home in Cuttingsville, Saturday night by the death of his grandfather. Elliot Brill of Dartmouth visited J. W. Baker over Sunday.

At the meeting of the 1916 Debating Club held last Monday evening the topic was, "Resolved, that California is Justified in Passing the Anti-alien Land Law." The question was argued by Petty and Desmont affirmative, and Mack and Levy negative.

Prof. M. Andrews attended the annual meeting of the New England entrance certificate board held in Boston on May 9. Middlebury College and Massachusetts Agricultural College applied for admission to the board at this meeting. Several of the high schools and academies throughout the state of Vermont were added to the approved list.

President Benton went to New York City on business last Wednesday.

At the 1916 class meeting held last Saturday, Chester R. Boyce of Windsor, was elected to serve as baseball manager. Practice has begun and a freshman-sophomore game is being planned for the near future.

Currier Captain

The sophomore baseball squad has elected Ned Currier captain. On account of second team games and other activities the men have not been very consistent about coming out to practice, but conditions are more favorable now, and a large squad is expected to turn out hereafter. The indications are that the sophomores will put out a winning team this year, but they are going to take no chances, and the men expect to get down to hard work right away. Mgr. Buchanan has arranged a tentative schedule of three games with the freshmen, and one game with the second team. A game was played with B. H. S. on Monday which 1915 won 9 to 5.

ST. ANSELM'S WHITEWASHED

Three Double Plays Feature. Zwick has Control

Vermont handed the goose egg to St. Anselm's in an uninteresting and one-sided game of baseball, played last Saturday afternoon on Centennial Field. The same team was in evidence that handled the Syracuse game so nicely, although in the eighth, Johnson, Fitzpatrick and Brown replaced Flaherty, Berry and Mayforth. Vermont tallied eight times.

Devine started the game for St. Anselm's with a clean hit by third and Harris reached first on a fielder's choice. Devine was safe on second as the throw was poor and badly handled. It looked bad for Vermont but the next man struck out and Walizer flew out to Flaherty while Linnehan made a difficult catch of Holcomb's foul. Pitcher Wallace started the game with a bang by fanning both Berry and Flaherty. Tredick was an easy out to short. Although Wallace allowed but one more hit than Zwick, he was wild at critical moments, allowing five passes and hitting two men.

In the second inning Kelly drew a pass but died on second when O'Connor hit to Maiden who handled it nicely, touched Kelly out at second and threw O'Connor out at first making the first double play of the game. Smith had no trouble with Walsh's grounder and retired the side. Vermont started scoring in this inning and crossed the plate four times. Mayforth reached first on Devine's error and Smith drew a pass. Maiden tried to bunt but popped one to Wallace and Gallagher struck out. With two out, Linnehan got a free ticket and the fun began when Zwick hit clean, scoring Mayforth. Berry got hit and Smith walked home. Flaherty, next up, hit safe scoring Linnehan and Zwick. Tredick knocked an easy grounder to first, and was out.

Tredick pulled off a pretty play in this inning, when Harris hit safe for one base. The next man met the ball squarely and drove it right at the second baseman who touched Harris out completing an unassisted double.

Vermont scored in the fifth when Berry was passed and went to third

PLAY IN ENOSBURGH

A Record House Greeted "The College Widow"

"The College Widow" met with great success at the Enosburgh Falls performance last Monday night. The theatre was packed with what was said to be the biggest crowd in its history. On the trip about thirty-five men were taken including the cast, the managers, musicians, football "supers," attendants for the female parts, and property men. The play went smoothly without any hitches and pleased the audience immensely. The ponderous verbosity of Talbot, the actions and reactions of Bub Hicks and his father, and the comedy which Flora and "Silent" Murphy furnished were especially appreciated. Several local hits on Dr. Ray B. Thomas and others were applauded.

The Vermont alumni in Enosburgh Falls deserve the credit for the success of the play. Merrill L. Irish, '10, worked early and late to advertise the play throughout the vicinity. F. H. Ovitt, '07, R. B. Thomas, '10, J. K. Perley, ex-'10, R. M. Best, ex-'11, and L. H. Pomeroy were also staunch supporters. The cast were entertained royally at the houses of many of the hospitable townspeople. An enjoyable dance followed the performance.

FOOTBALL PROSPECTS

Coach Not Yet Engaged

Nothing definite, other than the schedule, has been announced for the next football season. Several men have been considered as possibilities for head coach, but no decision has been reached by the athletic committee. Most of last year's team will be available next season, but the absence of Captain Buckmiller, tackle, fullback, Zwick, Sefton and Smith, halves, O'Brien, quarterback and Davison and Hayes, guards, will be seriously felt when Vermont resumes its gridiron activities in the fall. Several of these men have been bulwarks of the team in the past and next year's coach will be confronted by a serious problem in filling their places. However, many of the men who received their first letters last fall will show up much better after a year's experience, and seconded by the promising material which is expected to enter next fall, Vermont should put a strong team into the field.

"THE COLLEGE WIDOW"

Opens Junior Week Festivities—Pleases Good House

The "College Widow" was a great success. On Wednesday evening an audience which nearly filled the Strong theatre was introduced into college life by college men. Without a doubt this performance was the largest and most successful affair that the Wig and Buskin Society has ever attempted. Every part was ably taken. There was a snap and a dash to the whole performance which is seldom found in amateur dramatics.

Roswell Farnham, '13, was the widow herself. Farnham scored his greatest hit in this character. His bearing on the stage, his walk, his voice and his whole manner was excellent. Seldom if ever have the people of Burlington witnessed a college man in a feminine role carry his part so spiritedly. H. A. Gardyne, '15, as Billy Bolton carried his part well and received his full share of the applause.

Bradly Thomas, '16, as Mrs. Primley Dalzelle, a reliable chaperon, played his part in a dashing, vigorous manner which made his appearance on the stage a pleasure. His work was very clever and his interpretation of the feminine role was "great."

"Stub" Talmadge was there in the person of "Brig" McFarland, '14. The manner in which McFarland played his part was perfectly natural. His bearing on the stage was excellent. He made one feel confident and his free and easy manner scored him a great success.

Seth Johnson's interpretation of the role of Peter Witherspoon the president of Atwater College was most admirably done. Throughout the play Johnson carried his part with apparent experience and seemed to be perfectly at ease behind the footlights. Kenneth Owens, '13, as Jack Larrabee, the coach, showed vigor and force, and played his part exceedingly well. His speech to the players in the third act was especially well done. "Silent Murphy" impersonated by "Bill" Whalen, '14, was one of the "hits" of the evening. His appearance before the punch bowl at the faculty reception was the signal for one of the largest applauds in the entire performance.

BOAT RIDE TONIGHT

Tonight the steamer Ticonderoga will leave the King Street dock at seven fifteen for the annual junior week boat ride. In previous years the boat ride has been held under the auspices of the college band, but this year the junior class has taken charge. By the advance sale of tickets the affair tonight promises to be one of the most enjoyable that has ever been given. Romeo and Juliet's "Three legged orchestra" will furnish music. The boat will return at eleven-thirty after a trip south.

JUNIOR PROM

High Water Mark of Junior Week

Friday morning, May the twentieth closed the most successful junior promenade in the history of the University of Vermont. About two hundred people attended and the gallery was filled with spectators.

The gymnasium laid down its military arms and carried the green and white banners of 1914 into the mystic atmosphere of Springtime in Japan.

From the ceiling, rows of green and white flags fluttered around the hanging Japanese lanterns. Purple wistaria vines hung from white lattice-work, screening the promenade under the running track; where banners lettered in Japanese characters and green vases of white spiraea on white pedestals marked off the fraternity sections. At the farther end, before a background of green screens and Japanese parasols, there was a raised dais, furnished with rugs and seats, and four white stands with vases of flowers; here the president and vice president of the junior class, Mr. L. W. Bachelder and Miss Isabel A. Spofford and Mr. W. H. Boardman and Miss Helen Benton of the prom committee received with the patrons and patronesses:—Governor and Mrs. Fletcher, President and Mrs. Guy Potter Benton, Professor G. H. Perkins, Dr. Tinkham, Miss Bertha M. Terrill, Professor and Mrs. Tupper, Judge and Mrs. Mower, Mrs. A. H. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Smith.

After the concert, at nine o'clock, couples began the grand march, led by Mr. Bachelder and Miss Spofford and Mr. Boardman and Miss Sherman.

ANNUAL MILITARY INSPECTION

Very Creditable—A Two Day Exhibition

The annual inspection of the military department took place Friday and Saturday of last week. Captain S. J. Bayard Schindel, of the General Staff, U. S. Army made the inspection. Because of the rains he was detained at Norwich University with his inspection there, and did not arrive at the time arrangements had been made for our inspection. It was almost 3 o'clock Friday afternoon before the battalion was formed outside.

The program as outlined in Order No. 12, by Captain Reeves, was carried out. The first formation being battalion review, and this was followed immediately by battalion inspection in which Captain Schindel made a most minute inspection of the members of all the organizations constituting the battalion including the band. This was followed by battalion parade including the ceremony of escort of the color by Company A, Captain St. John commanding. The parade was immediately followed by Butt's manual to music by the band. This concluded the work for Friday.

Saturday morning at 10:30 the battalion was again formed and the work began with battalion drill, Major Daniels commanding. Battalion drill was followed by company drill, close and extended order. The three freshmen companies were then combined into a war strength company which was drilled in turn by Captains Sykes and Daniels. Company A gave the bayonet exercises and the hospital detachment under Lieutenant Grandy and Sergeant Taylor gave an exhibition in litter drill.

An advance guard and outpost problem was given for solution, Company A formed a detached outpost and took station in the Converse Hall woods. The other three companies under command of Major Daniels formed the advance guard of an assumed advancing army, and had instructions to drive in the outposts. The result was a spirited skirmish engagement with blank cartridges.

The signal corps sent through successfully by wireless several war messages dictated by Captain Schindel.

After the formal inspection Captain Schindel gave a talk to the cadet officers in which he spoke in complimentary terms of their work and that of the men in their companies.

The band was especially complimented for its efficiency considering the length of time it has been in existence.

The work of the signal corps was excellent and received encouraging and complimentary words from the inspector.

The companies made a most excellent showing, and many on-lookers who have seen former inspections made the remark that the showing was the best ever made by the University battalion.

The interest and attention on the part of the men was excellent from first to last and it was the element of individual effort that made an excellent showing possible.

Captain Schindel upon his arrival called officially on President Benton to pay his respects, and paid him a visit after the inspection was concluded. He was greatly interested in everything pertaining to the University, visiting the library, called on Deans Perkins, Votey and Hills; was shown through the museum by Dean Perkins; called on the registrar, Professor Andrews, and visited some of the dormitory buildings. He left Sunday noon for Durban, N. H., where is located the next college on his list. While here he was the guest of Captain and Mrs. Reeves at their home, 14 Summit St.

On Friday evening Captain and Mrs. Reeves gave a dinner party at their home on Summit Street for the inspecting officer, Captain Schindel. President and Mrs. Benton, Captain Oden, Miss Marshall, Professor Appelman and Mrs. Pickering of Lowell, Mass., were among those present.

ST. ANSELM'S WHITEWASHED

on Tredick's hit and scored when Mayforth hit to Connor who made sure of him at first. Smith fanned making the third man out.

The scoring was ended in the seventh, Vermont crossing the plate three times more. Back at the head of the batting list once more, Berry went out to second. Flaherty drew a pass and made third on Tredick's hit. Mayforth hit to Holcomb who muffed the ball and Jake crossed the plate with another score. Wallace had another touch of wildness and hit Smith, filling the bases. "Billy" Maiden next up, touched up Wallace for another hit and scored Tredick and Mayforth with "P" Smith a close third, but he was touched out at home. Gallagher fanned and the scoring was over.

In this inning Vermont made the third double play of the game, figuring Maiden and Smith. Kelley was out Tredick to Smith. The next man received one of Zwick's two passes and tried to reach second when Walsh hit to Maiden, who recovered, touched second and threw Wallace out at first.

Considering the raw wind from the north which cooled the spirits of both spectators and players, the game was not so slow as it might have been. St. Anselm's had been defeated by St. Michael's in the morning which perhaps took some spirit out of the visitors and made things look easy to Vermont. Zwick pitched in fine form allowing but two passes and five hits. Wallace for St. Anselm's was much wilder, allowing five passes and hitting two men, which was enough to decide the game had there been less than six hits made.

Linnehan made an excellent catch of a foul in the first inning, which made the spectators take notice. Three double plays will feature any game, and they were appreciated by the onlookers. Maiden took eight chances with two errors, one of which was excusable, when the condition of the ground is considered, as was Smith's error. Tredick also played a fine game and was the only man to connect twice for hits.

The score of Saturday's game:

JUNIOR PROM

On each side of the hall in the center, under two white Japanese torii entwined with wistaria, delicious green punch was served from huge crystal bowls on white tables and glasses clinked toasts to the joyful spell cast by the Japanese inscription of the class numerals over the gates.

The refreshments were green and white ice cream and cakes served by Miss Lucinda Smith.

From the balcony over the entrance Mr. Barton with his ten piece orchestra filled all space with that magic music, which makes chapters, exchanging pleasantries on their reviewing stand, look down indulgently on the rainbow tinted throng joyously dancing on into the dawn.

We thank the committee for the successful junior prom, and give much honor and praise to the artistic ideas of Miss Benton and the untiring efforts of Mr. Boardman.

The dance programs carried out the Japanese idea. They were tasteful creations with green leather covers. The entire personnel of the committee which is responsible for this delightful affair is as follows: W. H. Boardman, B. McFarland, P. J. Hurley, K. A. Emerson, J. M. Malcolm, J. L. Lovejoy, E. S. Grace, W. J. C. Agnew, Miss Jeanette M. Sparrow and Miss Helen Geneva Benton.

"THE COLLEGE WIDOW"

W. P. Leutze, '16, as Hiram Bolton did his part in a most acceptable manner. Leutze put force and vigor and life into every line he spoke and his interpretation of the westener showed marked dramatic ability.

C. B. Stetson, Jr., '16, as Elam Hicks was huge. His lines were well spoken and provoked a great deal of laughter. His son "Bub," was cleverly done by F. S. Sykes, '14. No professional could do the part any better. M. Davis, '15, as the post-graduate tutor was very good. His ministerial bearing and action was fine. Hyzer, '14, as the sheriff was exceptionally funny and his lines were all very well spoken. Flora Wiggins by R. H. Ballard, '15, was very successful.

J. Carrigan, '14, as "Matty" McGowan the trainer did his part to perfection. He showed just exactly the right amount of "pep." His dash and enthusiasm lent much to the success of the performance.

Bessie Tanner impersonated by Bean, '16, was cleverly played. Bean was on the stage much of the time and his carriage and manner was excellent. Ollie Mitchell by C. Ferrin, '15, was natural and well done. Weeks, '16, as Tom Pearson was very good indeed. His acting in the third act being especially commendable. Howe, '14, as Dick McAllister, Hunt, '15, as "Jimsey" Hopper, W. H. Smith, '15, Fitch, '14, Keeler, '15, Sheldon, '15, Foster, '16 and Seaver, '16, all played minor parts in a creditable manner.

The costumes furnished by Celeste were enough to make the heart of any woman glad. Never before has there been such an elaborate array and such a variety of costumes in a college play as were seen on Wednesday evening.

Prof. Andrews and Mr. Clancey deserve great credit for the splendid performance which was the result of their untiring efforts. Mr. Barton furnished excellent music throughout the evening. The Wig and Buskin Society are to be heartily congratulated upon the success of "The College Widow."

FACULTY INVESTIGATES CLASS SHRINKAGE

Abstract of Committee's Report Natural Incapacity, Poverty, Too Much "College Life" are Factors. Reforms Recommended

Too large a proportion of Vermont students leave college before graduation, and the faculty senate has been investigating the matter through a special committee. We print herewith an abstract of their report, and the changes suggested.—
ED.

The committee on class mortality was appointed to investigate the causes of the shrinkage of classes in college between entrance and graduation. While the impression is very general that poverty is the most potent of all the causes the investigation seemed to indicate that the most important cause of withdrawal is to be found in the natural capacity or rather incapacity of the individuals concerned. One senior professor remarks: "A considerable number, who think that they would like to go thru college, find that they are not naturally adapted to mental work and give it up." This maladaptation to the exacting requirements of a college career seems to be of two sorts: (1) ineptitude for intellectual pursuits (dullness); (2) distaste for study (frivolity, etc.) While deficient scholarship, due to ineptitude and native distaste for mental activities, influences many to withdraw, many are seriously retarded in their progress or even prevented from graduating by their interest in and participation in the various extra curriculum activities of so-called "college life." Athletic and other undergraduate organizations, fraternity life, dormitory

"hob-nobbing" and "rough-housing," all serve to so distract many as seriously to handicap them. The influence of these factors is enhanced by too free indulgence in dances, card-playing, motion-picture shows, etc. Too many loiter or fall by the academic wayside because in their interests "college life" overshadows and crowds out college work. Distaste and incompetence for college work and a false view of the true aim of a college career entail low-standing. Consequent dissatisfaction and discouragement induce many to withdraw.

Preparation of inferior quality naturally suggests itself as a potent factor but the committee was not able to secure definite information regarding its relative importance. It would, however, seem probable that inferior "fit" for college is responsible for not a little of the so called ineptitude and distaste for mental effort.

Next in order of importance comes poverty. Not a few enter college with an inadequate appreciation of the financial responsibilities involved and reluctantly conclude because of poverty to withdraw. This factor, however, seems less potent in the case of good students in general than in the case of the more incompetent. There is much difference of opinion as to whether or no outside work for self-support handicaps or benefits the student as student. Some regard the enhanced sense of the seriousness of college work as a distinct advantage.

In the case of freshmen and sophomores prolonged "horsing" of the freshmen in the autumn serves as a serious handicap.

The foregoing applies chiefly to male students. In the case of women poverty and ill health seem to have been most effective in preventing graduation.

The following recommendations are made:

(a) That the conference council take steps:

(1) To reduce the amount of class taxes levied.

(2) To enforce due degree of order and quiet in all dormitories.

(3) To restrict further the pre-initiation hazing of freshmen; and

(b) that a permanent bureau of appointments be organized to serve as a clearing house for student labor.

is published on Saturday of each week during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont. It will be mainly given over to news, while a literary supplement will, from time to time, be published.

SATURDAY, MAY 31, 1913.

The whole university has just reason to be proud of the improved condition of our military department. Many in the past have considered the military drill a necessary nuisance in which it was very desirable that we should "get by" once a year. Now the things that we accomplish in college are to be measured full as much by the spirit in which they are done as by the actual, tangible results achieved. The work of the college battalion this year was admirable when measured by both standards. Military drill in institutions containing schools of agriculture and mechanical arts was inaugurated by a wise and far-seeing senator, and it should be a source of gratification to us if we have lived up to his ideals and purposes.

This week is notable in two ways. First, as Junior Week it is the social high tide of the college year, if there is such a thing as a tide in the social affairs of men. Secondly, we are entertaining prep school track men from all over the state. Each event should interest a large proportion of the student body, for each is an annual event that emphasizes two different phases of the normal, all-around college life. It is indeed regrettable that the two conflict, since we shall not be able to entertain the prep school men with our usual hospitality.

This brings up a point which has several times been brought to notice. There ought to be some means by which conflicting dates in college affairs could be avoided. In this case the dates conflict through the fault of the faculty, since two committees acting independently fixed upon the same date. It was thus in a measure unavoidable. But there are many student meetings and functions which are dated in a very slipshod manner. Ordinarily in a college of this size no difficulty would be experienced in the matter of conflicting dates. But this year has seen a sudden influx of clubs, many of which hold meetings upon one day's notice and postpone them upon six hours' notice; other organizations meet upon stated dates often not known to outsiders. Thus when it is necessary to set a date for an important meeting such as a smoker, it is very difficult to find a time in which the undivided interest of the whole student body can be secured. There ought to be some way of avoiding conflicts.

The best method would be to have some central committee of two or three empowered to determine the dates of college functions. This committee should not disturb the present program except where it is necessary. Every organization should notify them well in advance of the date of its meeting. At the beginning of the year every student interest which requires a certain number of dates should receive consideration. For instance, the number and dates of the college smokers should be determined and announced early in the year; likewise the dates of the Key and Serpent dances; and so on down the line. We believe that a similar system is in successful operation in many large colleges where it is practically indispensable. Properly managed, every major and minor student interest should profit from it. This is something that could be taken up by the student and faculty council, since that is the representative instrument of the entire student body which is always ready to consider such matters and to promote them if they are feasible.

THE 1914 ARIEL

It is expected now that the long-looked for 1914 Ariel will appear some time next week. This Ariel promises to eclipse all former numbers. An abundance of interesting cuts, including one of the young ladies of the University with pictures of all the juniors, together with many clever personal hits will be included. The fraternity section will differ this year and will include fraternity groups, etc. The drawings and headings excel any which the Ariel has ever published. The cover will be of green burlap presenting a most acceptable appearance. There will doubtless be a rush for copies as soon as the book is out. Adrian St. John will have the sale in charge and copies may be obtained of him at the Phi Delta Theta house.

A PEERADE SUBSTITUTE

Stunts on Church Street Advertise the Play

On Saturday evening of last week the cast of the "College Widow" took possession of Church street, Burlington's leading thoroughfare, and for fully an hour they carried on a most interesting entertainment advertising the play which was so successful on Wednesday evening of this week. Never before has a college play been so forcibly brought before the public as was the "College Widow" on Saturday evening.

A short "peerade" made the record breaking crowds aware that something unusual was about to take place. "The College Widow" herself was there in her motor car surrounded by numerous admirers. A ferocious set-to between two colored men, automobile accidents, arrests by genuine officers of the law, (previously arranged,) flirtations between Hiram and the widow, protests of Hiram's rural spouse, all furnished great amusement and incidentally brought the fact before the public that a college play was soon to be presented.

Such advertising as this produces splendid results and there is no doubt but that whenever anything more of general interest is going to take place, the hill boys will be there with the advertising.

THE COUNTY FAIR

Seventy-five Dollars Cleared

On Monday evening, May twenty-sixth, the Young Women's Christian Association held a "County Fair" on the Grassmount lawn. The attractions were many and varied. The tight rope walkers and the snake dancers were enjoyed by all the spectators, other entertainments being provided in side shows. Mrs. Jarley's wax works and A Zoo were thronged with lively crowds and the fish pond, where one angled to the tunes of the singing fish, was very popular. "Free for all" races were among the events of the evening, prizes being offered to the winners. "Pure unadulterated ice cream," home made candy, pink lemonade, hot dogs, popcorn and hot welsh rarebit were offered for sale in various booths, scattered over the lawn. The whole scene was made very pretty by the electric lights, for which the grounds were carefully wired by Prof. Thompson.

The proceeds of the entertainment, which amounted to about seventy-five dollars, will be added to the Silver Bay fund.

INTERSCHOLASTIC

MEET TODAY

Seven Schools Entered

On Saturday, May 31, at 2 p. m., the Eighth Annual Interscholastic Athletic Meet of the University of Vermont will be held at Centennial Field. There will be about fifty entries, and seven different preparatory schools will be represented, namely, Goddard Seminary, Hardwick Academy, Middlebury High School, Brandon High School, Burlington High School, Brattleboro High School, and Troy Conference Academy.

The events will be as follows: 100 yard dash, 220 yard, 440 yard, 880 yard, mile run, 120 yard hurdles, 220 yard hurdles, high jump, broad jump, pole vault, shot put (12lbs.), hammer throw (12lbs.), discus throw. Trials for the 220 yard dash, the 440 yard dash, and the shot put will be run off at 10:30 a. m., the meet beginning at 2 p. m.

The following prizes will be awarded. Medals of gold, silver, and bronze will be given for first, second, and third places, respectively. To the winning school will be given the possession, for one year, of a large silver cup. This cup, if won three times by the same school, becomes the property of that school. The cup is now held by Goddard Seminary, having been twice won by that institution.

It is needless to say that Goddard is planning on the possession and ownership of this trophy, and will send up a strong team to compete in this meet. She has lost some of the material which has helped her to win the last two meets, Sherburne, the star of the meet two years ago, having left. However, we hear reports that new material has been obtained which will make a good showing for the school. Brattleboro will send a strong team this year, also, and will be a worthy opponent to Goddard. The other schools have good men and there may be surprises in that direction. Vermont Academy, which has figured conspicuously in previous meets, does not appear on the list this year.

This annual athletic meet for preparatory schools in this locality is held under the direction of the University of Vermont for the purpose of encouraging athletics among the schools of the state, furnishing an opportunity for these schools to get together in a joint meet, and, at the same time, to give the preparatory school men of the state an opportunity to visit their state university, as guests of the college men. In this way, it is hoped that sub-freshmen may become interested and select Vermont as their choice of a college.

The representatives of the different schools will be entertained, while in Burlington, by the various fraternities, clubs, etc., of the University. The Key and Serpent Society will have charge of this entertainment, and it is needless to say that the fellows will be given a good impression of Vermont.

GIRLS' FIELD DAY

'13--'15 Team Wins. Records Not Published

The first annual field day of the Girls' Athletic Association which was held last Saturday afternoon at Grassmount resulted in co-victory for the sophomores and seniors, the score being 55-36. This first meet was a decided success and will doubtless be repeated every year hereafter. The officials were:

Starter, Mrs. Stone; announcer, Miss Wilcox, '14; clerk of the course, Miss Parkhurst, '13; recorder, Miss Gifford, '14; timers, Miss Marshall and Miss Simpson, '13; referee, Mrs. Allen; track judges, Miss Hatch, '13, Miss Bartlett, '13, Miss Cotnoir, '13; field judges, Miss Coulman, '14, Miss Dewey, '14, Miss Thomas, '14.

WOMEN'S NOTES

The last meeting of the Girls' Musical Club will be held next Monday evening. Each member is requested to invite one guest for the evening. A special program is being prepared, and it is planned to make this last meeting of the year an especially pleasant one.

Miss Alice Brennan of Poultney, is spending junior week with Miss Ruth Durfee, '14.

Miss Ruth McMahon of Stowe, and Miss Katherine St. John of Matteawan, New York, are junior week guests of Miss Marie McMahon, '15.

The Y. W. C. A. meeting was held last week on Sunday, at Grassmount. A vesper service was held, conducted by Miss Wilcox, '14.

JUNIOR BANQUET

The junior class banquet was held at Dorn's restaurant after the play on Wednesday evening. About thirty-five men were present. President Louis W. Batchelder was toastmaster. Toasts were responded to by A. St. John, D. W. Howe, K. H. Emerson, Clarke Agnew, J. E. Carrigan, D. M. Bartlett, and J. H. Malcolm. Impromptus were given by about a dozen other members. The gist of the speeches was a get-together-and-push spirit for next year.

On Tuesday of next week the Sigma Nu fraternity will move from their present house on Main Street to 49 Williams Street, the estate of the late Dr. Bingham, which they have recently purchased.

We will pay these Cash Bonuses in addition to a very liberal cash commission for yearly subscriptions for Outdoor World and Recreation, the popular outdoor magazine that stands for recreation, wild-life protection, conservation, clean sport and fair play.

We want teachers and students to cultivate the acquaintance of outdoor enthusiasts, especially those who are in sympathy with the movement to protect our wild birds and game from extermination.

North, South, East and West, there are thousands of people who would enjoy a publication like ours, if it were only brought to their attention by intelligent representatives.

If you will undertake this pleasant outdoor work, with a determination to obtain enough money to help you with your college expenses in the Fall, our Vacation Helpers' Department will send you a complete outfit and help you in laying out a successful campaign for the next three months.

Write us to-day. We will send you full particulars by return mail.

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR COLLEGE MEN

No household article placed on the market for many years has created such interest and enthusiasm among agents, canvassers and salesmen as the Roberts Lightning Mixer. Every mail brings unsolicited expressions from agents, such as, "Sells like hot cakes," "Sells on sight," "No trouble to sell them," "Every woman wants one," etc.

Our liberal advertising of them in the leading magazines has created a demand for the Roberts Mixer all over the United States.

BAKER, '15, WINS
RICHOLD MEDAL

Last Competition in Manual of Arms

The final competition in the manual of arms was held on Wednesday afternoon at the regular drill period. Officers from Fort Ethan Allen and the Vermont National Guard acted as judges.

The gold medal was awarded to Fred Wood Baker of Company D, who won in two out of the three competitions held since last September. Upon the back of the medal will be engraved the names of Wesley Alba Sturgis and Palmer Woodard Everts both of C. Company who have made an excellent showing in the series of competitions.

To Richard Henry Ballard of Company D was awarded the silver medal, which he has won in two of the three competitions, Robert Briggs of Company C, having once held the medal.

The bronze Ræves medal, once held by Lucien Huntington of the signal corps, was awarded to William E. Remby another member of D. Company. Remby's winning in the last competition established his title to the medal.

The awarding of medals for excellence in the manual of arms has stimulated an interest in and materially improved the drills.

U. K. M. A. ELECTIONS

At a recent meeting of the U. K. M. A. society, the following men of the freshman class were elected to membership:—Charles Francis Baldwin, Essex Junction; George Lawrence Bean, Littletown, New Hampshire; John Raymond Berry, Montpelier; Carlton Richmond Bloomer, West Rutland; William Francis Gallagher, Brooklyn, New York; Willard Parker Leutze, Newton, Pa.; Arthur Gustavus Levy, Rutland; Harold Alonzo Mack, West Woodstock; Camillus Horton Nelson, West Pawlet; Harry Arthur Putnam, Bellows Falls; Villroy Carleton Taplin, Windsor.

The initiation banquet was held at Dorn's last Wednesday evening, Gardyne acting as toastmaster. Toasts were responded to by Babbitt and Currier. There were many well spoken impromptus.

FRESHMAN BANQUET

On Tuesday evening, May 27, Dorn's Cafe was the scene of gay festivities, when seventy-five members of the class of 1916 gathered for their first banquet as classmates in the University of Vermont. The affair was wide awake to say the least. From the very moment when the fellows entered the dining room, a spirit of comradeship and class loyalty pervaded the entire crowd. Before sitting down to the splendid banquet which Mr. Dorn had prepared for the occasion, the "Old Vermont, with '16 three times on the end" rang out from every throat.

It goes without saying that due justice was done the splendid food which was set before the company. At the close of the feasting, the following toast list was handled cleverly by Toastmaster "Tommie" Thomson:

Prexy's Address, "Rip" Gallagher
Chairman's Address, "Raz" Berry
Engineer's Speech, "Willie" Wilcox
Chemistry Quiz, "Bob" Pease
Aggie's Apology, "Cherub" Leutze
Classical's Dope, "Joe" Levy
'Going to Be" Medics,
"Police Lieut." Becker

A dvice to Faculty,
"Grouch" Conroy
Chips, "Doc" Johnson
Athletics, "Old Man" Putnam
"Sodie Water," "Bill" Greene
Stump Speech, "Ham" Mack

These toasts were responded to in a snappy fashion, each speaker having an abundant supply of witticisms to spring on the company.

On Tuesday evening the annual meeting of the Vermont Forestry Association was held in Morrill Hall. Governor Fletcher was present and was elected president of the association for the coming year. The governor was one of the speakers. President Benton and Prof. Hawes, the state forester, were among the other speakers. A number of the men from the Agricultural College were present.

MEDIC NOTES

The Alpha Kappa Kappa fraternity have moved from their house at 16 Loomis Street to rooms over the Chittenden County Bank on Church Street.

Delta Mu Dance--Cap and Skull Elections

The Delta Mu fraternity held their annual dance on Monday evening at the Vermont roof garden, which was charmingly decorated for the occasion with college and fraternity banners. Over forty couples enjoyed an order of twenty-one dances, music being furnished by Barton's orchestra. Light refreshments were served during the evening. The chaperons were Dr. and Mrs. J. N. Jenne, Dr. and Mrs. P. E. McSweeney, Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Beecher, Dr. and Mrs. David Marvin and Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Dalton.

N. R. Caldwell, '14, spent Sunday at his home in Groton.

H. J. Kelley, '16, has returned to college after a week's absence.

S. F. Berry, '14, who underwent an operation at the Mary Fletcher Hospital last Friday for an abscess in the upper jaw, has returned to college and will probably hold down his old position in the right garden in Friday's game.

At a meeting of the honorary senior medical society, Cap and Skull, held Tuesday evening, the following juniors were voted into the society for the coming year: Donald Guy McIvor of Swanton, David Paul Moloney of Tewksbury, Mass., Stanley Francis Berry of Franklin, Mass., Michael Francis Claffey of Naugatuck, Connecticut, George Lewis Steele of Lyndonville, and Everett Sayles Towne of Burlington. The society has enjoyed a most pleasant and prosperous year, each member having read an original paper on some of the latest topics of interest to the medical profession. The annual initiation banquet will be held in the near future.

Dr. George Hancock Ingalls, '85, died at East Kingston, N. H., on May third where he had been staying for six months, hoping to regain his health. He was a brother of Dr. F. W. Ingalls of the class of 1884.

Dr. J. E. Dewey, '04, of Montpelier was in the city last week attending the post-graduate school.

ALUMNI NOTES

Plans have been completed for the erection of a large club building in New York for use of the members of such college alumni organizations as desire to avail themselves of its privileges. The idea is to have the various alumni associations take up headquarters in the building and then have its members be allowed to avail themselves of the privileges of the building by the payment of a moderate fee. The building would have all the conveniences of an up-to-date club. The individuality of each club would suffer in no way but would rather be accentuated since the men take membership in the house only thru their own college organization. The men at the head of the project are college men and are thus the better able to fill the want.

As the result of an investigation by a committee of the Vermont association, it has been voted to join in this project and cards have been sent to all the members asking them to help make this a success. This scheme fills a long felt need in its line and it is hoped that every member will take advantage of it. Further information can be obtained from W. J. Dodge, secretary of the organization.

VERMONT AND TUFTS

2-2 SENSATIONAL GAME

Thirteen Innings. Called on Account of Darkness

Vermont-Tufts formed the most hair raising combination last Friday afternoon that has been seen on Centennial Field this season. With the remembrance of several close games in the past and a 13-1 slaughter earlier in the spring to edge her on, Tufts went at Vermont with a determination which resulted in a 2-2, 13 inning, pitchers' battle, game called on account of darkness.

The visitors set things to moving in the first when, with two men down, Marzynski reached second on Malcolm's fluke, and scored on Lee's hit. Smith handled Bennett's grounder, and retired the side.

Vermont failed to score until the third time up. Malcolm came to bat first, and straightened out the first ball offered for a single into left. Johnson, taking his place as runner, was tagged on the steal second. P. Berry drew a pass on balls, and stole; Flaherty struck out; Tredick drove one through short, scoring Berry. Smith was then thrown out by short to first, and the game stood one, one.

THE NEW LAMBDA

IOTA HOUSE

The Lambda Iota fraternity house is nearly finished. It is well situated on the corner of South Prospect and Pearl Streets overlooking the campus. The house faces Pearl Street and the lawn in front is being graded with a slight terrace near the porch. The whole is built in the colonial style of architecture and massive colonial pillars line the front of the porch supporting the piazza roof.

As one enters at the end of a short hall he sees the broad stairway ascending to the floor above and again the large colonial pillars in place of newelposts at either side of the stairway. On the left is the roomy library all furnished with mission wood furniture, opening onto the hall with the glass doors characteristic of the first days of our country. On the right is the

SONG BOOKS APPEAR MONDAY

Many New Songs--128 Pages

The new Vermont song book will be out next Monday and will be placed on sale at Bailey's Music Rooms, the College Store, and at the Phi Delta Theta House in care of K. H. Owens, '13, the publisher. The book is the first one that has been published in over ten years. It contains all the new songs such as "The Old Mill Song," by F. B. Wright, '05, and "Hail, Green and Gold," by C. F. Robinson, '16, many songs that have not been published in a Vermont song book, as well as the best of the old songs. The book contains 128 pages. It contains a foreword by President Benton and a picture of University Place. It is well bound in green cloth with the University seal on the cover. The price will be $1.25; by mail $1.40.

U. V. M.'S BEST INTERSCHOLASTIC

Brattleboro 1st, Goddard 2nd and T. C. A. 3rd

Brattleboro High School, with a total of 53 points, won the state interscholastic track and field meet held at Centennial Field last Saturday. With 45½ points, Goddard Seminary came second; and Troy Conference Academy secured third place with 36 points. The schools represented at this meet were:—Brattleboro High School, Goddard Seminary, Troy Conference Academy, Springfield High School, Burlington High School, and Brandon High School.

The highest point winner was Brown of T. C. A., who secured 14 points for his school, showing up well in both the sprints and the weights.

With 13 points to his credit, Holsapple of T. C. A. came second in rank as a point getter, taking first place in the pole-vault and discus, both sharply contested.

The Ariel Next Week

The 1914 Ariel will appear next week, probably on Monday. The book is dedicated to President Benton. Among other innovations it contains group pictures of all the fraternity chapters.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK PROGRAM

Events Announced Officially

The following definite program has been compiled for commencement week:

Saturday, June 21

8:00 p. m.—Kingsley Prize Speaking at the College Street Church.

Sunday, June 22

4:30 p. m. Academic procession and the Baccalaureate sermon by the president on the College Green. The procession will form in front of the Science Hall. In case of unfavorable weather, the procession will be suspended and the services will be held in the First Church, the bell of which, in this event, will be rung at three o'clock.

Monday, June 23

11:00 a. m.—Department Reunions. At this hour instructors will be glad to receive alumni and visitors at the respective rooms and laboratories.

2:00 p. m.—Class Day Exercises on College Green. Fraternity Reception.

7:30 p. m.—Meeting of the Trustees at the Library of the College of Medicine.

WIG AND BUSKIN SOCIETY

Elections and Annual Banquet

The Wig and Buskin Society elected the following officers last Monday:

President, H. A. Gardyne, '15; manager, Charles S. Ferrin, '15; secretary and treasurer, D. G. Babbitt, '15. The following new members were elected: K. H. Owens, '13, W. E. Whalen, '14, Brigham McFarland, '14, S. P. Johnson, '14, F. S. Sykes, '14, J. E. Carrigan, '14, M. H. Davis, '15, R. H. Ballard, '15, J. Hunt, '15, C. B. Stetson, '16, W. P. Leutze, '16, G. Bean, '16, W. S. Weeks, '16, and B. Thomas, '16.

Professor M. W. Andrews and Coach Frank Clancy were elected honorary members. The annual banquet was held at the Hotel Vermont on Monday night. All the old members and all the cast of "The College Widow" were present.

STUDENT COM- MITTEES ACTIVE

Commencement Plans Maturing

Letters have been sent out by the undergraduate committee to every alumnus. The response has been wide and enthusiastic. One member of '59 has replied, saying that he will be back. F. C. Fiske, '13, permanent president of the class, is the chairman of the student committees on commencement arrangements. The three sub-committees are as follows:

Peerade—Bonner, Simonds, Jordan.

Smoker and Bonfire—Boyce, Kruse, Fiske.

Publicity—Owens, Severance, R. D. Sawyer, '12.

The Ukma Society will be asked to cooperate on the bonfire. A tennis match between Varsity and alumni will be played at commencement time.

1916 WINS SERIES

Two Games Decide Class Baseball

Saturday afternoon, May 31, the freshmen won the first interclass game from the sophomores by a score of 3 to 1. The game was featureless except for the heady pitching of Martin, and somewhat ragged. The freshmen showed up better on the whole though both teams showed a plentiful lack of practice. The game was called at the end of the fifth inning on account of the boatripe in the evening.

SIGMA NUS IN NEW HOME

Last Tuesday and Wednesday the members of the Sigma Nu fraternity were busied in moving into their new home. They possess a fine house, containing fifteen spacious and well lighted rooms. On the bottom floor there is a splendid opportunity for dancing at house parties; all the rooms on that floor are exceedingly large and connected by large folding doors. From the roof of the house a most picturesque view of the lake and Adirondacks may be obtained. During senior week there will be an alumni reunion in the chapter house.

VERMONT AND TUFTS

Considerable excitement was aroused in the next inning by a Tufts-umpire dispute which brought the crowds pouring off the stands, and delayed the game for about an hour. Angell, the first man to face Malcolm, was walked, and made second on Meagher's bunt, which was fumbled by third. Adams followed with a strike out, but Stafford got one in the ribs which placed him safe on the initial sack, filling the bases. Griffin now fled to center, and it looked like a sure score for Tufts, but Angell at third, starting before the ball was handled, was declared out. This brought on the obstinate dissension of Jameson, a Tuft's bench player; the umpire called the game a 9-0 forfeit to Vermont, and left the field. Out of consideration for the spectators, however, Vermont was loath to cut the game in two, and it was finally recommenced with Zwick acting as umpire until O'Brien could again be secured.

The next five innings were a pitchers' battle in which either side was unable to score, and the game went two extra innings. In the tenth, a two bagger by Meagher and another by Adams seemed to put the game on ice for Tufts, and the crowd was willing to lay good odds that Adams had won his own game. But Vermont came back with a sensational and heady rally. Smith snatched first on short's error, and was advanced to second on Linnehan's sacrifice. Fitzpatrick was now substituted for Malcolm, and put up a sacrifice scor'er into right, placing Smith on third. The cap was put on by P. Berry, who tapped out one of the prettiest singles of the day.

So far as scoring was concerned the game was now ended. Flaherty, taking Malcolm's place in the box, held Tufts; and Adams held Vermont until darkness closed the game.

Two of the game's features were the Griffin-Stafford-Bennet double play in the seventh inning which benched Smith and Malcolm, and the consistent work of "Stan" Berry behind the bat.

Tabulated score is as follows:

magnificent reception parlor which will be used for receiving guests and for dances. When the doors are thrown wide the reception parlor, library and hall make a fine place for dancing, the floors being of hard wood.

On the second floor are the rooms for the students. All are fitted with mission wood furniture and are of good size and adapted for the use of the fraternity members. All the modern conveniences are at hand including shower-baths. The third floor also has rooms for the members. Two students sleep in a bedroom and have an attractive room adjoining for studying purposes.

In the basement there is a billiard room in which there will be billiard and pool tables and there is also a bowling alley which will give much pleasure to the members.

On the whole the house is remarkably well built for a fraternity house. The walls and ceiling are of a very light color and with the large windows this gives an abundance of good light in the daytime. The whole house is lighted with electricity and is heated by steam heat. In the parlor, library and billiard room there are fireplaces built in the colonial fashion with the rough bricks exposed and these when lighted will add to the coziness of the house.

The Y. W. C. A. will send five delegates to Silver Bay this year.

U. V. M.'S BEST INTERSCHOLASTIC

Le Baron of Goddard proved himself a thoroughbred when he came off the winner of ten points, and within two seconds of breaking records in both the mile and half mile.

Moses of Goddard showed what he was good for when he broke a record in the 440 yard dash that had stood for five years, and added 11 points to the scoring of his school.

Sherman of Brattleboro was there with 10½ points, and with a record in the 220 yard dash that is liable to remain for some time.

Feeley was another one of the Goddard aggregation who helped drive up the points to second place with a new record in the broad jump, and a total of 9 points.

Hutchins, the lone representative of Springfield, showed up mighty well and secured 6 points for his school.

12 pound shot put. First, Brown, T. C. A.; second, Root, Goddard; third, Merrill, Goddard; fourth, Haskell, Brattleboro. Distance, 37 ft. 8 1-2 in.

440 yard dash. First, Moses, Goddard; second, Fitts, Brattleboro; third, Rice, Brattleboro; fourth, Le Baron, Goddard. Time 54 3-5 seconds.

Pole vault. First, Holsapple, T. C. A.; second, Moses, Goddard; third, Thayer, Brattleboro; fourth, Torrance, T. C. A. Height, 9 ft. 6 in.

220 yard dash. First, Sherman, Brattleboro; second, Moses, Goddard; third, Brown, T. C. A.; fourth, Rice, Brattleboro. Time, 23 seconds.

Throwing discus. First, Holsapple, T. C. A.; second, Root, Goddard; third, Merrill, Goddard; fourth, Brown, T. C. A. Distance, 89 ft. 6 in.

120 yard hurdles. First, Haskell, Brattleboro; second, Mallory, T. C. A.; third, Angier, Brattleboro; fourth, dropped out. Time 18 2-5 seconds.

Hammer throw. First, Cook, Brattleboro; second, Holsapple, T. C. A.; third, Merrill, Goddard; fourth, Brown, T. C. A. Distance, 101 ft. 2 in.

Mile run. First, Le Baron, Goddard; second, Harlow, Brattleboro; third, Feeley, Goddard; fourth, Hutchins, Springfield. Time, 4 min. 56 2-5 sec.

Records set down or equaled are as follows:—

100 yard dash. Equaled by Brown of T. C. A. Time, 10 3-5 seconds.

220 yard dash. Broken by Sherman of Brattleboro. Time, 23 seconds.

440 yard dash. Broken by Moses of Goddard. Time, 54 3-5 sec.

Broad jump. Broken by Feeley of Goddard. Distance, 20 ft. 11 1-4 in.

Pole vault. Broken by Holsapple of T. C. A. Distance, 9 ft. 6 in.

Results of the various events are as follows:—

100 yard dash. First, Brown, T. C. A.; second, Sherman, Brattleboro; third, Torrance, T. C. A.; fourth, Le Casse, Goddard. Time, 10 3-5 sec.

Running high jump. First, Thayer, Brattleboro; second, Hutchins, Springfield; third, Feeley, Goddard; fourth, Sanders, Brattleboro. Height, 5 ft. 2 in.

880 yard run. First, Le Baron, Goddard; second, Hutchins, Springfield; third, Feeley, Goddard; fourth, Sanders, Brattleboro. Time, 2 min. 12 4-5 sec.

Broad jump. First, Feeley, Goddard; second, Torrance, T. C. A.; third, Sherman, Brattleboro; fourth, Taggart, Burlington. Distance, 20 ft. 11 1-4 in.

220 yard hurdles. First, Angier, Brattleboro; second, Haskell, Brattleboro; third, Bingham, Brattleboro; fourth, Feeley, Goddard.

This meet was the fastest and best ever held at Vermont in that four new records were laid down and one other equaled. A larger crowd witnessed the events than is customary, and there were far more contestants. Great credit is due Manager Wheeler and his assistants for the snappy manner in which all events were pulled off.

On Wednesday afternoon the freshmen continued their work of Saturday by defeating 1915, 8-1, thus taking the second game and ending the series. Martin pitched his usual strong game, allowing only four hits. The single run of the sophomores was scored in the eighth inning. The freshmen played a tight game all around, showing marked contrast to the looseness of their opponents, who hindered their own chances by a crabbing contest. Sefton umpired.

Senior Debate

The last senior debate of the year was held Thursday morning, June 5. The question at issue was the following: "Resolved, that the passage of the Anti-alien Land Act by the California legislature is justifiable." The question was debated for the affirmative by Mr. Ferrin and Mr. Smith, and for the negative by Mr. Cobb and Mr. Andrews. Professors Andrews and Jackman, and Mr. Dane acted as judges. The judges rendered a decision in favor of the affirmative.

Tennis Arrangements

On Thursday the tennis team played St. Michael's College. Today the team plays Middlebury at Middlebury. Last Saturday's scheduled match with Middlebury was cancelled. The individual matches have dragged somewhat because of rain and Junior Week, but the past week has seen rapid progress. Brundage has reached the finals by defeating Remby; Dow and Hitchcock are left in the semi-finals. The consolation tournament is not so far advanced. As we go to press Andrews is the only man who has reached the semi-finals.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN

Last Meeting of Year

The Deutscher Verein held its last meeting for the year Monday night, June 2, in the Y. W. C. A. room in the Old Mill. The meeting opened with the singing of "Die Wacht am Rhein." There was a goodly attendance of both active and honorary members. Two games were played which demanded a knowledge of German language and literature. Mr. H. Dane, '13, won the first prize and Mrs. Paris and Miss Gifford, '14, tied for second prize in the first game. In the second game, the first prize was won by Miss Georgia Gifford, '14, the second prize went to Miss Helen Benton, '14, and the third to Miss Beatrice Moore, '14. The treasurer gave his report which was a very favorable one and everything seemed to point to a prosperous opening for next year. The election of officers for the following year was left until the first meeting of the new year. Mrs. Paris, an honorary member, served refreshments of Turkish delights. Selections were read by Dane, '13, and Spring, '13, and the meeting closed with another song.

Miss Dorothy Farrar, ex-'15, is visiting friends in the city.

is published on Saturday of each week during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont. It will be mainly given over to news, while a literary supplement will, from time to time, be published.

SATURDAY, JUNE 7, 1913.

In reviewing the work of the college year now ending, it is possible to note advances in several branches of college activities. It has been a poor year in Varsity athletics, football, baseball, and track. All other college activities have prospered. A number of organizations have been formed for worthy ends, and a good proportion of these have accomplished much in rounding out undergraduate life. There has been an increase in class spirit and a much needed extension in class athletics. The growth of class spirit can probably be traced largely to the greater facilities for holding meetings with the new chapel arrangements. The extension of class athletics into basketball and hockey is in response to the sane demand for a greater number of students in the game instead of on the sidelines. The formation of the student council will probably prove to be the most important event of the college year. As time goes on this body will be able to consider and settle problems that have formerly been but slightly considered and never settled. There have been some material obstacles in the way of success in athletics, namely the loss of the grandstand and continual financial embarrassment. However, there have been great strides this year in the direction of a greater college unity and a greater college spirit. The newly formed Interfraternity Conference and the Commons Club have good latent possibilities. There is no reason why these two bodies can not in the future bring about ideal relations between individuals and organizations. Next year we should set before us as a goal: First, a further improvement in college spirit, which involves of course better inter-fraternity relations; second, participation in athletics on the part of all who are physically able; third, greater efficiency in all the activities which now exist; fourth, the establishment of Varsity hockey, if possible. These are four big steps toward an ideal college.

Every week brings a new plea to the underclassmen to remain for the commencement week exercises. Appeals are made on behalf of duty and on behalf of the benefit to be derived from the exercises. These should be enough to persuade every man to stay. However, if these are not sufficient, consider the plain enjoyment to be gained at that time. Ask any man who has stayed before, if you are in doubt on this point. It is the pleasantest time of the college year, and every true Vermont man who stays once will leave no stone unturned in his endeavor to stay again. Let no trivial reason keep you away. Try it once and no plea will be necessary next year.

The following communication clipped from the "Free Press" is the first public complaint of two notable evils. It is a just complaint, and the evils are not so flagrant but that a little attention should remedy them.

COLLEGE ATHLETICS AND LOYALTY

To the Editor of the Free Press:

Saturday morning a well known man about town, an enthusiastic fan, was asked if he saw the Tufts game. The answer was very emphatic, "No, I did not. I no longer support athletics in the U. V. M., because there is not a proper college spirit and no loyalty in the team itself to the University." Necessarily there are very few games played here. These games should be made as interesting as possible and no player should be allowed to leave the home games to play professional baseball elsewhere. No man who is loyal to the college would do so and if he goes he should not be permitted to play again with the team and he should be deprived of his V.

The burning of the grandstand was unfortunate, but it is the more reason why the bleachers should be made as comfortable as possible instead of that small boys in swarms are constantly running back and forth, walking over the spectators and utterly destroying the pleasure of watching the game.

If a man can not endure this and tries to take in his own seats with him, thus relieving the congestion of the stands, he is charged fifty cents for his automobile, although by taking it in he is furnishing from two to five extra seats.

Is there not some justice in this man's criticisms?

—A Lover of Baseball.

1915 DEBATING CLUB

Election and Joint Banquet

The last regular meeting of the 1915 Debating Club was held Monday evening, May 26. Plans for next year were discussed and the following board of officers was elected: President, H. A. Bailey; vice-president, P. H. Gates; secretary, A. B. Taylor; corresponding secretary, L. M. Prindle; treasurer, J. S. Hunt.

Monday night, June 2, the joint banquet of the 1915 and 1916 clubs was held at the Hotel Vermont. Several members of both clubs were unable to attend on account of depletion of purse caused by junior week festivities, and for other more serious reasons, but between fifteen and twenty finally assembled to enjoy a good feed and to dispense with decorum, rules and orders. After the banquet proper all adjourned to the Roof Garden for the speeches. H. A. Bailey acted as toastmaster. The toasts were as follows: Class of 1915 and Debate, Sanford, '15; "Co-eds," Baker, '15; Military, Daniels, '15 Student Council, Dean, '15; 1916 and Debate, Stiles, '16; Modern Vermont, Davis, '15; Prophecy, Mills, '15; President's Address, Bailey, '15. Others spoke as the spirit and the toastmaster moved. The general purpose and spirit of what was said looks toward more real and effective work, the formation of a live college debating association and the wiping out of class lines among those who are working for a common object—the success of debate at Vermont.

Mrs. E. A. Robinson of Dorchester, Mass., is visiting her son, W. B. Robinson, of the University.

Neal William Sawyer, 1909

Mr. Sawyer died in St. John's hospital, New York City, on the morning of Wednesday, 4th June, after a second operation for appendicitis. He was born in Hardwick 1 July, 1886, the son of C. W. Sawyer, a lumber merchant. His earlier studies were taken at Hardwick Academy. He was married the 22nd of last March, to Ruth L. Armstrong, daughter of George A. Armstrong of this city. He was a civil engineer in the service of the state of New York.

MILITARY NOTES

Decoration Day. U. V. M. Rifle Team Heads B League

For the first time in many years the entire battalion including the band turned out on Decoration Day. The call for assembly sounded at 1:30 p. m. on the back campus, and soon afterwards the line, headed by the major and his staff mounted on horses, loaned for the occasion by Colonel Gresham of the 10th Cavalry, marched down Pearl Street to Church Street. The march ended at North Union Street where "battalion front" was formed and all stood at attention while the Grand Army veterans marched by. The latter were very grateful for the presence of the battalion, and Captain Reeves and other officers were highly complimented on the showing made. The attendance was good, the men arrived down-town exactly on the minute, and the general demeanor was excellent. It is a fitting thing to take part in the Decoration Day exercises and let us hope that the practice will become permanent.

The general improvement in the military department is in no way better shown than by the fact that there were only three absences from inspection this year as against 20 a year ago.

It is of interest to those interested in the rifle team to note that the colleges will not be divided geographically as in the past into a western and an eastern league, but will be divided at the end of each year into an A and a B league on the basis of the average scores of the preceding year. Vermont will occupy the first place in the B league next year, although our team is a thing of only a year; and the year after next will doubtless be well up in the A league.

A practical demonstration of the necessity of lying down in a hurry between rushes in advancing against fire was given at the rifle range Wednesday afternoon. A life size silhouette of a man was drawn and fastened to the target. The men were posted at a distance of 135 yards, and each had to fire 5 shots within 30 seconds. Over 50 per cent. of hits were made. It does not take one long to figure out what would happen to him if he were the silhouette.

SIGMA NU REACHES FINALS

Swamps the Phis in Baseball

Sigma Nu smashed her way into the finals of the interfraternity baseball series last Monday afternoon by defeating the Phi Delta Theta aggregation 19-3. The Phi Deltas, heretofore invincible, weakened, allowing the batting machinery of Sigma Nu to get in its destructive work and pile up the runs. Nelson, who was pitching for Phi Delta Theta, was removed when the score stood 9-3, and Bellefontaine took his place. Jackson did the catching. The Ellis-Willis combination comprised Sigma Nu's battery. This game left only one more to be played—that with the Commons Club, to the winner of which goes the Key and Serpent cup.

Tri-Delts Hold Annual Dance

The Delta Delta Delta Sorority held its annual dance at the Van Ness Roof Garden Friday night, June 6. There were about thirty-three couples present. President and Mrs. Benton, Professor and Mrs. Messenger and Miss Katherine Graves, '13, received the guests. Among those present from out of town were Miss Dorothy Hill, ex-'13, from Isle La Motte, Miss Dorothy Lanar, ex-'15, of Enosburg Falls, Miss Olive Hayden, '10, of Richford, Verge Babcock, ex-'16, of Plattsburg, and Ray Schoppe, '12, of Canaan.

Fifteen Commencement Addresses for President Benton

President Benton has an itinerary of fifteen addresses for the coming commencement season, arranged as follows:

- June 4—Derby Academy, Derby, Vermont.
- June 5—Leland and Gray Academy, Townshend, Vermont.
- June 6—Memorial Central Academy, Hyde Park, Vermont.
- June 8—Newport High School, Newport; and St. Johnsbury High School, St. Johnsbury, Vt., baccalaureate sermons.
- June 10—Vermont Academy, Saxtons River; and Black River Academy, Ludlow, Vermont.
- June 11—Stowe High School, Stowe, Vermont.
- June 13—Wilmington High School, Wilmington, Vermont.
- June 17—Swanton High School, Swanton, Vermont.
- June 18—Enosburgh Falls High School, Enosburgh Falls, Vermont.
- June 19—Randolph High School, Randolph, Vermont.
- June 20—Spaulding High School, Barre, Vermont.
- June 22—University baccalaureate sermon.
- June 26—Chicopee Falls High School, Chicopee Falls, Mass.

VERMONT AT AMHERST TODAY

Vermont meets Amherst at Amherst today, and the chances for a victory seem to be in our favor. Last year U. V. M. had the distinction of being the first team to break Amherst's magic circle and defeat her on her own grounds. This year she has been up against such teams as Springfield Training School, Wesleyan, Harvard, Yale, Tufts, and Brown. She took the Springfield game 13-5, and the Wesleyan game 5-3. Harvard shut her out 5-0, Yale beat her 14-1, Tufts 9-7, and Brown 12-8. Thus far Vermont has not lost to any team that she did not lose to last year with the single exception of Harvard whom she tied, 0-0. To counterbalance this we have beaten and tied Tufts who downed us 4-1 last year. If the slate is kept as clean for the next few weeks, the team will have had a much more successful season than the early spring led us to hope for. The men started on their present trip Thursday, playing Holy Cross yesterday, and ending with the Amherst game today.

RECEPTION AT

PRESIDENT'S HOME

President and Mrs. Benton gave a reception Tuesday evening to the seniors, professors and assistant professors of the faculty and the trustees. Two hundred invitations were issued. In the receiving line were President and Mrs. Benton, A. S. Bloomer, J. J. Brosnahan, Dean Tinkham and Dean Perkins. The Misses Helen Benton and Bernardine Kimball and S. P. Johnson, '14, and W. J. C. Agnew, '14, presented the guests. Those who presided in the dining room were Miss Marshall, Mrs. Richmond, Mrs. Hills, Mrs. Votey and Miss Terrill. The following young ladies served punch: The Misses Kimball, Shepardson, Watson, Benton, Durfee, McLaughlin, Barrett, Spofford, Spinney, Rogers, Ward and Dorothy Votey. Little Misses Annette Burns and Annette Hollington received at the door, and upstairs Misses Pauline Benton and Mary Hollington received. A two piece orchestra furnished music from the piazza.

A LARGE BOAT RIDE

Fine Weather for Junior Affair

The Ticonderoga left the dock at 7:30 o'clock last Saturday evening carrying about 370 students on the annual junior week boat ride. It was not given by the band as has been customary but under the auspices of the junior class. The weather could not have been more auspicious for a search light excursion. The boat went south and took on a party at Cedar Beach, then sailed over past Essex, N. Y., and returned. Romeo's orchestra furnished music.

RESEARCH CLUB MEETS

Papers--Officers Elected

The University of Vermont Research Club held its June meeting last Monday evening in Morrill Hall. The past year has been the most progressive and most successful year in the history of the club. Three papers were read, which are as follows: "The Red Rot of Pine in Forest Areas," B. A. Chandler; "The Red Rot Fungus," Dr. B. F. Lutman; "Forest in Relation to Stream Flow," Professor A. F. Hawes. This meeting as all others was well attended and the papers read were highly interesting. Officers were elected for the ensuing year. The persons honored were as follows: President, Dr. F. E. Clark; vice president, C. N. Jones; secretary-treasurer, Dr. A. D. Bush; members of the executive committee, Dr. G. P. Burns; Dr. F. K. Jackson; Dr. H. F. Perkins. Refreshments provided by the home economics department added greatly to the enjoyment of the meeting.

NO MORE PROC NIGHTS?

Substitute May Be Considered

Sometime ago the faculty senate voted that a committee of the faculty should meet with a student committee to try and find a substitute for proc night. As there has been no necessity of immediate action, none has been taken; but there has been for some time considerable opposition to proc night as it now exists. Graduates do not agree as to when the institution started at Vermont, but it seems likely that it existed some time before it was recognized in public print. In its present form it has existed with a few slight changes about twelve years. It is probable, however, from all reports that the custom of pasting procs on the night before the class football game started about fifteen years ago, and the organized class scraps of the present proc night developed from this.

Class scraps at Vermont have evidently been modified considerably in the last fifteen years. The cane rush has existed for some time. It used to start in on Church Street as soon as the freshmen with their canes in hand came out of Miles and Perry's store, but the neighboring plate glass windows were not equal to the strain, so it was removed to the back campus. Class banquets used to be held in secret, and there was fierce rivalry, kidnapping, and scrapping over these affairs. This course was brought to a sudden halt by the sad death of Nelson Bond, '05, who was drowned at Plattsburgh in 1902 while trying to escape his captors. Fully determined that no such tragedy should occur again the student body passed a resolution abolishing class scraps altogether and putting an end to secret banquets. These resolutions were to be read at the beginning of each college year, but this provision has long fallen into disuse. Proc night was not discontinued at this time but other class scraps were. If proc night is to be discontinued, a good substitute must be provided to mark the official close of the somewhat useful underclass ebullitions.

LAST GAME WON BY WILLIAMS

Score, 8-3, Six Innings--Flaherty Lacks Control

Eight bases on balls proved costly for Vermont in a six inning game with Williams at Williamstown on Monday. With the aid of five hits the Purple scored eight runs winning easily from Vermont. By agreement the game was called at the end of the sixth to allow the Vermont team to catch a train for Burlington.

Vermont played errorless ball but were able to find Hodge for only three hits, of which two were three baggers by Tredick and Dutton. Flaherty was not up to his usual form.

S. F. Berry, Baseball Captain

Stanley Francis Berry, '14 of Franklin, Mass., was elected captain of baseball at the annual baseball banquet on June 19. He has been holding down right field during the greater part of his baseball career, and has been substitute catcher. He prepared at Dean Academy. All of the regular team were present at the banquet, which was given by the students under the management of the Key and Serpent Society.

"THE LARGER VISION"

Theme of President Benton's Baccalaureate Sermon. Services on College Green

President Benton in preaching the baccalaureate sermon last Sunday afternoon on the college green, used as his theme, "THE LARGER VISION," based on the 17th verse of the 6th chapter of Second Kings. In the course of his sermon he said:

It is doubtful if a feeling of more oppressive loneliness ever comes into the experience of an individual than that which comes to the student at irregular intervals throughout his college course. He is not a producer; he is a consumer. He sees his hard-earned accumulations, his allowance or his patrimony slipping away and nothing of the like comes to fill the void.

All the invisible forces of the universe of God are at your command and they that be with you are more than they that be with them. You may not have known it, but these invisible armies of the upper air have been fighting for you all your way along up to this auspicious present. Every appeal of your soul, even though you have not recognized it, has had its response from your unseen helpers be-

DARTMOUTH WINS

In the Twelfth. A Muffed Fly Clinches Hard-Fought Game

Vermont lost the last home game of the season to Dartmouth by a score of 2-1, but it took the Green and White 12 innings to do the trick. Wanamaker, catching for the visitors, was probably the star of the game, making three hits out of five times up, and making a difficult catch of a high foul which came down in the crowd between the grand stand and the bleachers. One of the city's efficient police force was in the way, and hit the dirt with the catcher, but the latter hung on to the ball, and the former was not injured seriously enough to interfere with the discharge of his duties.

A PERFECT VERMONT CLASS DAY

Splendid Exercises--Fraternity Receptions

Class Day was perfect. The weather, the college green, the many guests, and the excellent speeches made it a very satisfactory event. The seniors made the class walk in the morning at nine, visiting the professors, who responded from their piazzas. Later in the morning the department reunions were held.

The exercises began in the afternoon when the class with banner at their head marched down to the favored spot beneath the pines on the college green.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

The literary program was opened by the president's address, delivered by Asa S. Bloomer. After a few words of welcome he told how important this last meeting of the class seemed to those immediately concerned. He dwelt upon the value and pleasures of the four years spent at college. College life, he said, was life on a small scale. If a man succeeds in college, his chances are good in the outside world. The pleasant sojourn in the beautiful with all its new friendships will be remembered with mingled pleasure and sadness. Addressing President Benton, he asserted that it was unnecessary to tell him of the respect and admiration which the students

BOAT RIDE TONIGHT

The most delightful social event of the year, the senior boat ride, occurs tonight. The party leaves this afternoon at 5:30 sharp on the Steamer "Vermont." Arriving at Hotel Champlain about 6:30 they will be given an opportunity to wander about the grounds for a couple of hours. Dancing begins at 8:30, the Hotel Champlain orchestra of six pieces furnishing music. At 12 a banquet will be served in the hotel dining room. The return will be at 1:30 a. m. via the "Chateaugay." The management are anticipating and have prepared for an unusually large crowd. This pleasing function will close the program of commencement week.

NINETY-FIVE RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Exercises in Gymnasium

"The University and Civic Ideals," Address by Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, D. D., of Brooklyn--Honors

The exercises of the 109th commencement were held in the college gymnasium on Wednesday morning, June 25 at eleven o'clock. The academic procession led by Marshal Charles E. Allen, '59 formed on University Place and marched once around the campus. Class Marshals William Prince Smith and Clarke Blance were at the head of the academic and medical seniors.

After two musical selections and a prayer by the chaplain the Commencement Address was delivered by Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, D. D., of Central Congregational Church, Brooklyn. His subject was "The University and Civic Ideals." He said in part:

The University has the incontestable merit of creating and holding together the most liberal and international of aristocracies. It is a citadel of freedom for the intellectual life where the usurpations and tyrannies which oppress reality cannot enter. Within its precincts men and women can act impersonally and without fear, since the governing motive is a passion for veracity.

"THE LARGER VISION"

yond the stars. Every longing of your heart has had its answer from your spiritual allies behind the clouds. Every outreaching of your mind has received its reply in the increased impetus that has been sent through the mists from the mind of the Infinite.

The first six thousand years of man's existence were used by God for the two-fold purpose of conquest and education. Divine recognition of the greatest of all educational principles, namely that the way of approach to the abstract conception is through the concrete, was God's motive for leading men through the physical struggle to spiritual apprehension. The strife and carnage of the battlefield were educational processes designed to bring men up to the point of comprehending the possibilities of spiritual effort and the full meaning of spiritual achievement. The slow and difficult movements required by the centuries, the whip of the taskmaster, the grind of hard physical toil, the crushing burden, the mastery of nature's forces, were all necessary steps to make earth ready for the effective operations of man's immortal spiritual powers. You may call it evolution, if you like. It was truly a part of God's great plan in the development of his own eternal purposes.

The assertion that we now live in a spiritual age may be questioned. It is the frequent declaration of the cynic that ours is a materialistic age. The greed for wealth and the multiplication of schools of technology are sighted to prove this declaration. Those who look upon these things as evidence of an age of materialism lack the penetrating vision necessary to see through them and find their proper interpretation. It is true that men are greedy for gain today as they have ever been, but he who looks long enough and far enough to observe the trend of the times, will see that high-minded men, in places of influence, are rising up to call a halt on the armies of avarice. They are saying in no uncertain terms "The limit of human accumulations lies at the threshold of your neighbor's rights. Thus far shall ye go and no farther." The spiritual conflict of this new age will not reduce all men to a dead level of financial equality but it will bring all men to a level of neighborly regard.

Those who look upon schools of technology as proofs of a materialistic age are near-sighted. In the days of the old physical regime, the few men who were the masters of the humanities, were the spiritual men and those who toiled with their hands were the sordid.

There are good people who are sorely concerned because modern methods and conditions have released us, in large measure, from the hardships endured by the pioneers. They mistake unnecessary physical labor for the simple life. No greater blunder is made by religious people than that born of the belief that corporeal burdens are to be accounted as means of grace. To treat conscious existence as an evil, and to recommend penance and bodily torture as necessary, is to resurrect Brahmanism and substitute it for the teaching of Christ. Jesus taught no doctrine that warrants the attempt to perpetuate the inconveniences of manual labor. The whole burden of his instruction was to lead man up to spiritual excellence as the result of physical conquest. It has taken the sons of men nineteen hundred years to learn the greatest of all lessons taught by the Nazarine. To emancipate the race of men from submission to the dominion of physical forces was the supreme purpose of His ministry. His miracles, His death, and His resurrection. The light is just beginning to dawn after nearly two thousand years of struggle in the dark, and God's children are commencing to understand why they were made in His image with limitless possibilities of development. Future generations will know, as we do not know, the full meaning of humanity's great emancipation proclamation "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

This new spiritual age has already begun to write its history and you who go out into the world now, go with the inspiration of the shining examples in the accomplishments of men who have pushed the race a long way up the road toward the spiritual goal. You go into a world where men of achievement have already proven that the mountains are full of horses and chariots of fire round about him who fights for civic righteousness. You go into a world in an age when public opinion is ready to follow the leadership of the man who puts lofty duty above the love of self and power. The signs of the times are good and they indicate that the world, after all, may not be much older before the spiritual consummation.

The day will come to you, perhaps very early, when in the beginning of your struggle for success, you will seem lost in the great ocean of humankind. Very few people will know you and you will feel lonely in your obscurity. When this time comes, I beg of you, unveil your faces and see the re-enforcements in the spirit world round about you. You will find the intellectual clouds filled with the armies of the immortal intellects that belong to the ages. With these it will be your privilege to commune, and there, too, is the intellectual storehouse of the Infinite from which you may draw at will. Are you lonesome in moral effort, look through the clouds and see the numberless hosts of the marshalled spirits of just men made perfect. Above all, see the face of Him "who was and is and is to come" and know that He is more than all else beside. Are you in solitude because of defeat, behold the glorious company of martyrs to defeat. Are you lonely in triumph, look up through your tears and see the spirits of those who have been humbled by responsibility.

Do not take it for granted, though, that you are always right whenever you are in the minority among men. There are too many fanatics in the world who flatter their misguided souls that they are right because they stand alone. The man may be right and the crowd may be wrong. The crowd may be right and the man may be a fool. Bear in mind that it is possible to be lonely in a great assemblage and it is possible to be lonely in isolation. The great truth to be remembered is that whether in the throng or in isolation, the man of honest intent always has behind him the invincible army of the invisible world and, with such support, defeat is impossible.

Forth into the conflict of life, young people, you are about to go. When the lonely days come, in the crush of commerce or in the solitary places, when the tide of battle seems to be running against you, I beg that you stop and listen. If yours is the blood-red banner of the Cross, the armies of King Immanuel will be on your side and they are all ways invincible. Out of the silences you will hear with your spiritual ears the rumbling movements of the legions of your unconquerable allies, and when the clouds part you will see the mountains filled with horses and chariots of fire round about you. You will not be lonely then. You will be conscious of present victory. You will have the assurance of triumph in a world without end. You will know that this invisible and invincible army of the upper air is ever above and about you as your strong defense and your unfailing source of mighty power.

Professor John Ellsworth Goodrich as chaplain of the baccalaureate service, offered prayer and read from the scripture. The congregation sang a hymn before and after the sermon.

1899 Capt. Wait C. Johnson, 18th U. S. infantry, graduated this month from the army school of the line at Fort Leavenworth at the head of his class. He will remain another year for the staff course.

felt for him. A ready advisor at all times, in whom all could place their confidence and trust, he could rightly be called the "Father of the student body," for his interest has been of a parental nature. Many have had the opportunity of an intimate acquaintanceship with him. To the members of the faculty he declared that they were responsible for the best that was in the individuals in the class. Speaking to the undergraduates he said that a great task was left for them. He counselled them to go at their duties enthusiastically, and to cooperate with the administration that all might be proud of the University.

CLASS HISTORY

The class historian, Ralph W. Simonds, recounted at length the exploits of the class, some of which had never before been given to the public ear. He first told how faithfully the class had performed their duties in freshman year, most of their duties being other than those assigned by the faculty. The achievements of each year were enumerated in humorous vein. Those which seemed to be most memorable were conflicts with the police department, class scraps, and class banquets. In his opinion the class had showed a very liberal spirit in sharing with other classes the honors of the class contests. He referred to the death of President Buckham and the coming of President Benton. He also dwelt upon the deaths of four of the class members, John Brewer, Dora Reissig, John Schneller and Henry Thorpe. His duties as historian ended with class day. From now on each one must become his own historian, and it lies with each one what sort of history he writes. He closed with the poem of A. H. Grout, '01, "Farewell to Vermont."

CLASS ESSAY

The class essay, entitled "Fiction in the Magazines," by Miss Cora A. Parkhurst took up in a semi-serious way the prevailing types of short stories in the representative magazines of to-day. She dealt with six different classifications. In every case the class of readers appealed to was carefully analyzed. The first type was the kind founded on ingratitude and resignation, such as children going off and leaving neglected parents on the old homestead. The second were stories of social and economic problems. The third were idyllic stories, sentimental twaddle, with little plot or literary value. The fourth group included neglected children of parents interested in society. Then fifth came the detective stories. The history of these were traced through Poe and Conan Doyle. Last came stories of the development of character or characters, which dealt with social relations and the niceties of modern life. Supernatural, adventure, and ghost stories were not included in any of these classifications, and were not treated. In concluding the speaker said that some of these too modern magazines cause an injury in that they are used by foreigners as standards of American appreciation of literary values.

BOULDER ORATION

The boulder oration was delivered by George M. Nelson. Students and faculty may change, he said, but the college surroundings do not. Inanimate objects in some measure determine our habits and help shape our characters. The large and symmetrical boulder which stands on the campus exerts a powerful influence over those who know and love it. He then told a little of the history of the boulder before and after it saw the Vermont campus. Since the senior society chose the stone as its emblem, the boulder has won the reverence of alumni, faculty, and students, through the medium of the society. To the alumni the boulder stands for loyalty to Vermont, her ideals and traditions; to the faculty it stands for the spirit of cooperation between them and the students; and to the undergraduates it represents clean athletics, good morals, college loyalty, and good scholarship. In short the boulder typifies the qualities which make up the ideal college man.

CAMPUS ORATION

Paul F. Kruse gave the campus oration. He mentioned the beauties of the campus and surroundings. He asked why all had the true Vermont loyalty, what binds it in their hearts. He found his answer in the life on the campus, on the bleachers, and in the college activities. He then dwelt upon the importance of those college activities which are not included in the curriculum. They attract the prep school graduate rather than the standard of scholarship. These activities should always be strongly maintained. In looking back at the rich friendships of the pleasant four years just passed, every man is stirred with a spirit of gratitude and loyalty. He then mentioned the many gatherings on the campus which will always be associated with its beauties. As college graduates the class has at least one advantage over their less fortunate fellows, they have an alma mater that will always inspire and stimulate them.

CLASS POEM

The class poem was then delivered by Miss Mary J. Simpson.

Four times their wealth of red and golden leaves

The guardian elms have on the campus strewn.

To lie deep buried 'neath the winter's sun.
Four times the suns and winds of merry May
Have kissed the campus corners into bloom,
Since we, from out a hundred varied homes,
First gathered here within these college walls
Each with the aim to find the consummation
Of that long apprenticeship by which
Our lives are fitted for the share we take
In the great scheme of which we are a part.

A goodly place we found it, where to us
Fell that fine heritage of all the years
Thro' which, with earnest tho't and patient toil,
Frought with much struggle and with sacrifice,

The plan of the great founder's slowly grew,
Expanding yearly into finer form
Until, at last, the doors rolled open wide,
And there within, our college proudly stood,
Offering with lavish hand to all who came
The chance, which we by coming made our own,

Of gathering up the riches of the world
Stored by great minds in many goodly books
Where they who lived before us left in trust,
The secrets which life taught them as they passed.

All this and more our Alma Mater gave.
The chance to strive, to serve, and to partake
Of her success; and best of all at last,
The opportunity to work with tools
Of her providing toward that lofty goal
Which she has set before us; that we may Acquire love of learning for its sake,
And when we have acquired that great gift
That nobly we may use it as we ought,
To lighten the dark places of the earth,
To straighten crooked paths of life and tho't.
Wherever we may find them. There to aid
By charity and fine appreciation
The upward struggle of the world to which
We go, when at the end of four swift years,
The seal of her approval on us,
As messengers of her high teaching
We leave our college for a wider sphere.
A precious legacy we bear forth with us,
For as each member of this class goes out
To take a great or small place in the world,
Within his power lies the making or
The marring of that fair and goodly name
Which every loyal son of hers holds dear.

Today as backward glancing we review
The pleasures of our sojourn here beneath
The shelter of these stately college walls,
And forward steppings, see the Future stretch
Before us, holding much for all,
With gratitude for what is ours and no fear
For what the coming years may bring,
We raise our heads for her last message,
Which, translated by our understanding
Of her creed, taught thro' four years
Of close communion with her,
We humbly hope to read and understand,
"To thee, the latest group upon whose heads
I set my seal of learning, I commit
The careful keeping of a sacred trust:
In all things honest and with breadth of mind,
To judge not quickly, but with charity;
To teach the good, exalt the noble and
To frown on all which base or wrong may be
With conscience bright to feel the keener edge

Of duty, and with growing minds alert
To seize upon the best; with tho'ts alive,
Which guided by an honest purpose, may
Expend their strength upon a worthy aim.
With power to perfect and polish all
The knowledge which from here has taken life,

So that thy day and generation may be served
The better for thy having played thy part.
Go, and may each one among thee bear
Thy message, wheresoe'er thy path may lead
So that in crisis, toil or great success
Whatever test life offers, thou canst turn
And proudly answer in the face of all,
"I am the captain of my fate and soul;
By right I am the master and the king."

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 25, 1913.

We hope that the readers will pardon any inaccuracies of detail in our reports of Tuesday and Wednesday. In order to publish the paper on time, everything had to be written in advance.

Commencement is a season of sober rejoicing. It is a time of rejoicing when the graduating class reaps the fruits of four years' toil, and the alumni join with undergraduates in many social pleasures. At no other time of year does our alma mater show forth in all her glory. For the alumni the rejoicing is sobered at the sight of the old scenes which bring up faces that will never return again. For the graduating class the rejoicing is at times subdued in contemplation of the future, its uncertainties and doubts which will not be cleared away. The atmosphere of the one hundred and ninth commencement is well expressed in the speeches and addresses of the occasion. The class of 1913 must leave our midst with a deep sense of this atmosphere. It is expressed in the sympathetic and encouraging note of the baccalaureate sermon, in the serious and facetious reflections of the class day speakers, in the pleasant class and fraternity reunions, in the sparkling poem of the alumni luncheon, and in the inspiring commencement address. Some of this spirit should remain with each one of us always.

May the members of 1913 leave our midst deeply impressed by it. They need no further exhortation always to take an active interest in the University's welfare and always to bear in mind that they are integral parts of the University.

The baseball season just past pales somewhat in comparison with the splendid record of last year. It was not the sure and easy fielding team of last spring. Yet the team did very well this year considering the amount of new material that had to be developed. Every man pulled for his team with fine spirit, and it should go down in our annals as a good Vermont baseball team.

The CYNIC of recent years has inherited a reputation for literary merit which is hard to live up to. At the same time it has inherited a reputation for slack management which is equally hard to live down. The present board is not responsible for either reputation, but is simply striving to do its best for the paper and for Vermont. If any alumnus who is back for commencement is disappointed because of the present literary quality we ask of him suggestions and interested assistance. If any alumnus has suffered from past managements, we ask him to forget it, to help support us now, and to pull with us for Vermont.

NINETY-FIVE RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

The protection and domestication of truth and the acquisition of purely intellectual knowledge are decided gains, but there are also other treasures to be mined from this vein. Civic and national ideals grow on the same stem with the ultimate object of all knowledge which is moral and not merely intellectual. It answers the three queries of Kant: What can I do? What ought I to do? What may I hope for? by replying: Do what you can to do what you ought and leave hoping and fearing alone. "That man," said Huxley, "has had a liberal education who has been so trained in his youth that his body is the ready servant of his will * * * whose intellect is a clear, cold, logic engine * * *, ready like a steam engine, to be turned to any kind of work, and spin the gossamers as well as forge the anchors of the mind; whose mind is stored with a knowledge of the great and fundamental truths of nature * * *; one who, no stunted ascetic, is full of life and fire, but whose passions are trained to come to heel by a vigorous will, the servant of a tender conscience; who has learned to love all beauty * * to hate all vileness, and to respect others as himself."

The student, thus moralized, carries into his future vocation standards of thought and action which exact from him justice and courage. Integrity, a lucid sense of right and wrong, an unimpeachable devotion to the interests of righteous causes, however neglected or forsaken, are the main outcome of his formative period. Great souls are an epitome of the race, and where shall we find them if not in the university? In them and their researches mankind is born to larger opportunities. To them belongs the merit of inoculating their own and future generations with ideals in knowledge of which lie our freedom and health of body and soul. Their greatest endowment is a sure and passionate honesty by which all their thoughts and actions are irradiated as by a central fire.

That man or woman who is all intellect or even morality, may be sadly incomplete because devoid of the sense of beauty, or little disposed to cultivate it. We must recover to ourselves the faculty for proportion, form and color, in order that the City Beautiful may not be an iridescent dream. This, like any other endowment, needs to be aroused and directed until the universal language of music and of every art shall be heard and answered throughout the land. And such a perennial spring of ennobling pleasure can no longer be omitted from any sufficient scheme of university education. Fine literature is art incarnate in words, as the Lincoln statue of Chicago is art incarnate in bronze. Masters of sculpture, painting, architecture, music, are for the upraising of city and hamlet to the level which the enlightened ones are beginning to demand.

There are thrusting days, the strain and stress of existence become more acute. A timely choice of a profession or a business is therefore a matter of grave consequence. The average student must walk warily here. Education cannot be mainly guided by professional aims, because education is needed to guide us in the selection of a profession, to enable us to know what our special calling or profession is. And that special calling, whatever it may be, will be the better served by him whose mind has been enlarged and his vision clarified by the enriching influences of an education that comprehended wider fields than those of the utilities.

The University is not established merely to hand down a body of knowledge, however sacred the heritage. It exists to enable the flower of the rising generation to solve its own problems, to control civilization for God and humanity, and to serve the present age by fulfilling its various callings. Those who have learnt aright what to pro-

A 13 INNING STRUGGLE

Holy Cross Defeated in Tight Game

It took Vermont 13 innings to win from Holy Cross in one of the fastest games ever played on the Holy Cross diamond. "Prince" Smith knocked out a home-run, it being the longest hit seen on that field. Other features of the game were Capt. Flaherty's pitching, he keeping seven hits scattered through 13 innings, and Gallagher's work in left field, Holy Cross losing several drives good for extra bases through his brilliant catches. Good fielding on both sides kept the score as low as it was. Murray of Holy Cross ran into the bleachers and caught a drive labeled for a home run. It was nip and tuck throughout the entire game. Vermont had a one run until the ninth, when Holy Cross tied it up, and it took four extra innings to settle the game.

AMHERST BUNCHES HITS

Wins from the Varsity Who Tallies Once in the Ninth

On the day following the victory over Holy Cross Vermont lost to Amherst in a featureless game by a score of 3 to 1. Each team got six hits and Amherst made four errors, but the latter bunched hits, earning two of its three runs. Vermont made its run in the ninth, when Mayforth got his second single of the game, took second on an error and scored on Stan Berry's hit. Vermont's chances looked fine in the first, when Pete Berry drew a pass and poor handling of Flaherty's sacrifice left Berry on third and Flaherty on second, but Tredick fled to left field and Dutton to right, Berry being held on in each case, and Mayforth hit to the pitcher, retreating the side.

LUCK WAS WITH VERMONT

Cornell Defeated in Pitcher's Battle. Flaherty Strong

Friday, the thirteenth, proved a lucky day for Vermont, when Cornell went down to defeat by a score of 3-1, in a fast and interesting game. It was Captain Flaherty's pitching that saved the bacon, for the support he got was very ragged, Vermont making five errors.

After both sides had gone out in order in the first, Cornell began things in the second when Clute made first on Tredick's error, got midway when Smith dropped Mayforth's throw, and scored when

Smith and Tredick collided in an attempt to take Mayforth's throw on Butler, who had singled. In Vermont's half Mayforth singled, and stole second, but was caught in attempting to take third. In the fifth Trainer walked, stole second, and after the next two men had fanned, reached third on Edlund's single, but Flaherty struck out the third man and no runs resulted.

Vermont went out in one-two-three order until the sixth when Edlund weakened enough to lose the game for Cornell. After Smith had struck out, Linnehan walked and Flaherty got in the way of a fast one, filling first and second with one down. Pete Berry after some waiting, found one to suit him and knocked a beautiful second to right-field, scoring Linnehan and leaving Flaherty on third. Gallagher went out on a high foul to the catcher on which Berry went down to second. Tredick singled, scoring Flaherty and Berry. The P. L. then stole second but was left there on Dutton's out second to first. In the seventh Mayforth got another single and stole second again, but was left there when the next three men were easy outs.

Cornell kept the final result in doubt throughout the remainder of the game in spite of Vermont's two run lead. In the sixth, with two down, Clute singled and got around to third on a wild pitch, but died there when Butler went out on a popfly to short. In the eighth, Edlund got a life on Dutton's error and Schirick got on through Smith's error, Edlund's runner making second on the play. An attempted double-steal proved fatal to Cornell's hopes for Mayforth caught the runner coming down to third, and, although Schirick later reached third on a passed ball, he was left there when the next two batters struck out and flew out to first, respectively.

Cornell came back so strong in the ninth that it looked for a while as though it would be necessary to carry the game into extra innings to settle it. Butler singled and was advanced to second when Trainer fouled out to Mayforth. Adair knocked a grounder to short and was safe when Dutton dropped the throw to first, leaving men on first and third with two out, but the pinch-hitter who took Taber's place in this inning, succeeded only in knocking out a fly which was easy for Gallagher.

Capt. Flaherty was the star of the game allowing only 5 hits, striking out 7, and making four assists and a put out, besides bringing in a run.

Dow	beat	Hammelle, 6-1, 6-2
Hitchcock	beat	Sarrault, 6-0, 6-1
Brundage	beat	Hammond, 6-0, 6-1

Doubles

McFarland and Dow beat Geary and Hammelle, 6-1, 6-3.
Hitchcock and Brundage beat Sarrault and Hammond, 6-2, 6-0.

The 1914 Ariel

The 1914 Ariel appeared on June 10. It is dedicated to President Benton. A splendid tribute to the late Professor Stetson entitled "The Empty Chair" was written by Professor Tupper. The book contains the usual record of college events and organizations of the year. In the way of innovations it has photographs of all the fraternity chapters. The cuts are very good and unusually clear. Although pulling against financial difficulties all the time the board has turned out a good book. The book is bound in green burlap with the college seal on the front cover.

The board which published the book is: Karl A. Emerson, Editor-in-chief; Adrian St. John, business manager; Lincoln F. Daniels, assistant business manager; associate editors, H. W. Averill, J. W. Bartlett, J. E. Carrigan, B. McFarland, D. G. McIvor, G. L. Steele, F. S. Sykes, E. S. Towne, the Misses Georgia Gifford, Ruth O'Sullivan, and Nina Shepardson; artists, Miss Helen Benton, O. T. Johnson, H. V. Wheelock; photographers, W. W. Howe, J. M. Malcolm, and Miss Jeanette Sparrow.

COMMENCEMENT

COMMITTEES

Credit should be given to the following committees for managing the events of commencement week:

Class Day—F. C. Fiske, Farnham, Jordan, Nelson, Hitchcock.

THE CLARK CUPS

Prizes Awarded in First Shooting Contest

Three shooting matches were held in competition for the Louis C. Clark cups. The outdoor match was won by Captain Paul H. Gates, '15, with a score of 136 out of a possible 150. The indoor match was won by E. M. Washburn, who made a possible score of 186 out of a possible 200. So they received the two individual cups. The cup going to the best team from a college organization was won by Company D in an outdoor match. The members of the team were Capt. P. H. Gates, E. M. Washburn, C. E. Morse, Jr., H. A. Mack, P. L. Ransom.

According to the terms of the gift three cups will be offered for three years. The organization cup was open to teams from any college organization. Fraternities could have put teams in the field, had they so desired. A splendid start has been made in the rifle club next year, and there is no doubt but that next year the participation in this activity will be much more general.

ALUMNI NOTES

Guy W. Powers, '11, was married Monday, June 16, to Miss Ethyl V. Goewey of Troy, N. Y., who for the past three years has been teaching in Chester High School. Mr. and Mrs. Powers left immediately for an extended carriage drive. They will take up their residence at Townshend, where Mr. Powers runs the Townshend Inn.

EDUCATIONAL COMMISSION
AT VERMONT*Investigates Conditions at the University

The educational commission visited the University last Wednesday. The commission, which was appointed by Governor Fletcher in conformity with a joint resolution of the last legislature, consists of the following men: Judge John H. Watson, chairman; President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, Theodore N. Vail of Lyndonville, Eli H. Porter of Wilmington, Percival W. Clement of Rutland, Mayor James B. Estee of Montpelier, Horace F. Graham of Craftsbury, Frank H. Brooks of St. Johnsbury, and Allison E. Tuttle of Bellows Falls. The last three members were unable to visit the University at this time.

They arrived at 10:30 a. m. on the private cars of Mr. Clement and Mr. Vail, and were met at the station by the president and the deans, some of the trustees, and members of the executive committee of the associated alumni. The program of the day consisted of two hearings at the Marsh room of the Billings library, dinner at the Ethan Allen Club, an automobile trip about the hill, and a reception at the president's house where the commission met the faculty and the members of the graduating class.

At the morning sitting the president and the deans told of the work of the departments and the whole in its relation to the needs of the State, stressing those points where an improved organization might result in better accomplishment. In the afternoon Judge Powers on behalf of the trustees and alumni presented an able argument for a more unified organization of the whole State educational system. President Benton also spoke frankly his attitude and the attitude of the University on the question. Numerous questions were asked by the commissioners to bring out further points about the work of the institution.

THE COTILLION CLUB*Last Dance of the Year—Officers Elected

The Cotillion Club held its second dance of the year at the Hotel Vermont roof garden on Thursday, June 19. Mr. and Mrs. Max Powell, Captain and Mrs. Ira L. Reeves, and C. P. Smith, Jr., were in the receiving line. Barton's orchestra furnished music. The club elected officers for the coming year: President, Brigham McFarland, '14; vice-president, Willard H. Smith, '15; secretary, Jason M. Malcolm; treasurer, H. Almon Gardyne, '15.

SIGMA NU CHAMPIONS*Win Key and Serpent Baseball Cup

In the final game of the inter-fraternity baseball series on Saturday, June 14th, Sigma Nu defeated the Commons Club 11-2. The Commons Club was severely handicapped by the absence of Sefton who did the twirling in the other games. Anderson who replaced Sefton was hit hard and had little control over the ball while Martin pitched a strong game for Sigma Nu. The winners of this game received the cup offered by the Key and Serpent Society. Batteries—for Sigma Nu Martin and Willis, for Commons Club, Anderson and Tennien. Umpire, Pease.

1906 Ralph F. Perry, who is assistant headmaster of the Pennington school, Pennington, N. J., recently received the degree of master of arts from Princeton University.

SAVED FROM THE BURNING*LAST TWO INNINGS WIN IT*Chinese University Fail To Stand Off Vermont's "Come Back"

Dope

Vermont acted like the man who always takes more change out of the collection-plate than he puts in, when after allowing the Chinamen to get a six-run lead they came back strong in two innings and won the game 10-9. Gallagher pitched a good game for Vermont, for, although she was touched up for ten hits, he kept them well scattered, there being only one inning in which the Hawaii men got more than one hit. The fielding was of the bush league variety, Vermont's errors accounting for most of the Chinese University's runs.

Both sides went out in order in the first, but in the second Lai started the scoring on a single aided by Smith's error. In the third four errors, a sacrifice and a hit gave three scores. A double play Tredick to Dutton ended the inning and the agony.

In the fourth Tredick began things with a long drive to center which was not returned to the diamond in time to keep him from making the circuit of the bases, bringing in Vermont's first tally.

In the fifth Akana made the longest hit of the season for a home run and Lai singled, stole second, took third on Mark's sacrifice and scored when Smith mishanded Apau's hit. Hawaii scored again in the sixth, an error aiding.

There may not be much in superstition, but the seventh was a lucky inning for Vermont. After Berry had gone out on a foul fly to third Smith and Linnehan were safe on first and second on two successive errors by Kan Yen. Gallagher followed with a three-bagger and scored on "Pete" Berry's single. Berry stole second but was out between second and third for running out of the baseline, Flaherty made first on a fielder's choice, went to third on Tredick's hit and Dutton walked filling the bases. Flaherty scored on Apau's error, Mayforth making first in safety. Stan Berry ended the inning by flying out to center, leaving the score 7-5.

The eighth was Vermont's big inning, when singles by Smith, Gallagher, J. Berry, and Tredick, with a triple by Flaherty, and a double by Dutton netted five runs and the game. In their half of the ninth the Chinese made two more runs when Kan Yen doubled, stole third, and scored on an error at first, and Lai made first on a fielder's choice, stole second, and scored on a wild throw by Mayforth, but they were unable to tie the score.

Fire at Phi Delta Theta House

There was a small fire at the Phi Delta Theta House last Friday morning at 7:30 a. m. The blaze caught beside a chimney in one of the studies in some unknown manner. The boys in the house were all on the third floor and knew nothing of the fire until they were awakened by the auto truck outside, which had been called by someone on the street. The damage which was confined to a partition and some pictures on the wall was fully covered by the Hickok and Peck agencies. It was estimated to be $200.

DARTMOUTH WINS

Dartmouth scored its first in the fourth, when Loudon hit to deep center for three bases, and Wanamaker singled. Vermont's tally came in the sixth, when Flaherty reached first on an error at short, stole second, was advanced to third on Tredick's fly to center and scored on Dutton's single. In the twelfth Bennett was hit by a pitched ball, stole second, and came in when Flaherty dropped a fly back of third after a hard run in.

Vermont had plenty of chances to score enough runs to put the game on ice but somehow failed to make them good. In the third Linnehan singled but was forced at second on Malcolm's hit to the pitcher. Malcolm made second on J. Berry's out and after Flaherty had been hit by pitched ball, both runners were advanced by a passed ball. Malcolm overran third and Wanamaker threw the ball down there but it went several feet over the baseman's head. If Jake had kept on for the plate there would have been a good chance of his being safe, for the ball bounced off the leftfielder's shins and it was a minute before he could recover it. But Jake went back to the bag and was left there when Tredick was an easy out. This was Vermont's only good opportunity to score outside of the sixth.

Mayforth made a peculiar play in the seventh when Donahue attempted to bunt. The ball hit the plate and bounced backward into the Vermont catcher's hands. He threw to second in time to catch the runner from first, but Smith could not get the throw away in time to complete the double play. In the ninth Sullivan made a running catch in deep right that robbed J. Berry of a three-bagger and threw the ball to first doubling Malcolm there and preventing a score.

TENNIS TOURNAMENTS

Dow and Roberts Get Cups.
Review of Season

L. F. Dow has emerged from the tennis tournament with the honors of the spring tournament in his possession, and the silver cup. Brigham McFarland, however, defended his position as college champion by winning from Dow, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3. The consolation tournament was won by D. J. Roberts, who thereby secured the silver cup offered by the tennis management. The two cups are at present on exhibition at the college store.

The tennis season this year has been very successful. The Middlebury and one T. C. A. matches were cancelled, but every other match was won. The men on the team have played well but on account of the hindrance caused by the lack of a schedule they have not had the opportunity to show up as they should. Manager Owens is very well satisfied with the work of the team during the season. One thing which has helped the team toward success is the use of the Ethan Allen tennis courts, which the Ethan Allen club kindly permitted. If a schedule can be arranged for next year there is every hope for a tennis team which will be a credit to Vermont.

NEW VERMONT SONG BOOK

The new Vermont song book has appeared. It more than fulfills our expectations. It contains all the new songs such as "Hail Green and Gold," "Hail to Vermont," "Vermont Today," "The Old Mill Song," and the recently acquired "Ring the Bell in the Old Mill" and "Our Colors." In addition it contains the best of the old songs, many of which have been almost forgotten. A very good feature of the book is that it contains separate sections for the Vermont songs and the general college songs such as "Bingo" "The Bull-dog," "Solomon Levi," "Quilting Party," etc. The only notable omission is that of "The Men of Old Vermont." The English publishers of the tune of this song, "The Soldiers of the Queen," would not release it under any conditions. The entrance of this book into college life should see an increased interest in singing, and a revival of many of the old songs.

The song book is compiled and edited by H. R. Dane, '13, and K. H. Owens, '13, and published by Hinds, Noble, and Eldredge. For frontispiece it has a picture of College Row. President Benton has written a foreword. The book is well bound in green cloth and contains 128 pages. Its price is $1.25, by mail $1.40. It may be purchased from K. H. Owens, Phi Delta Theta House or from Bailey's Music Rooms.

BOOK AND SKULL BANQUET

The book and skull society, the honorary junior medical society, held their annual initiation and banquet at the Van Ness House, Friday evening, June 6. David Marvin, M. D., professor of pharmacology at the University, was taken in as an honorary member and served most ably as toastmaster. The following men were elected to membership: Van Dyke, McCormick, Meyers, Chapin, Young, Platt, Bunce, Browson, Cameron, Atkinson, and Niles. Toasts were responded to as follows: "Welcome," E. S. Towne; "Objects of Society," W. J. Clarke Agnew; "History of the Society," George Steele; stories, dialects, etc., Harold Hatch. The sophomores responding to impromptus were George Young, G. D. Van Dyke, and Niles. Including new members, 22 were present.

And as we bow our heads to take this trust,
And with it go to seek new fields of work,
We breathe a silent prayer that by no deed
Or tho't of ours may our college name
Be tarnished, or her splendid fame obscured,
Who has so well and nobly tutored us
For the great tasks which life demands of every human soul.

PIPE ORATION

After the class were all puffing gravely at their long birch peacpipes, Roswell Farnham delivered the pipe oration. He said that the class called upon the pipe orator just as the royal court calls upon the jester for a few moments of recreation and amusement. He touched upon some of the achievements of the class, and said that although they had lost many since freshman year the class still had enough life left so that there was a general impression with the public that it was an unusually large graduating class. He made mention of Captain Ira L. Reeves of the military department as one of the faculty who had especially won the admiration of the students. He dwelt upon some of the phases of the record which the class had made,—their kindness in sharing honors, the class Ariel, and the class treasury. The class in his estimation should be famed for two virtues, loyalty and originality. He referred to the student strike of two months ago, and the better understanding which it had caused between students and faculty. In closing he hoped that 1914 would creditably bear their burdens as seniors.

ADDRESS TO UNDERGRADUATES

Wesley R. Wells delivered the address to the undergraduates which dealt with "Ideals in College Life." He first spoke of the importance of old traditions and customs in creating a college atmosphere. Not the least of these are the ones regulating the relations between the classes. A wise custom keeps each class in its proper place. The backward look upon traditions suggests the forward view upon the ideals of college life. The whole history of man is the realization of ideals. Students find ideals of some sort already set up. The governing body is largely responsible for these, but the accountability rests in part with the students. Ideals are sown into a soil of fact. Among collegiate ideals should be named the ideals of loyalty, of scholarship, and of character. "Tis not what men do that exalts them, but what men would do."

IVY ORATION

The Ivy oration, last on the program, was given by Fred C. Fiske. He told how the custom of planting the class ivy at the library originated. This is the twentieth year of the ceremony. The custom should never be dropped, and many years from now all of the principal college buildings should be overgrown with ivy. The ivy has been chosen because it is symbolic of all that is beautiful and good. In future years the classmates who return will see their ivy with deep interest, since it will serve to bring back their college days and all they mean. The class ivy is significant of a victory over all the hardships of the educational careers. But the victory is not the end. It is just a milestone. While the graduate is weak and small like the ivy he should possess a like power of rising to a higher level.

FRATERNITY RECEPTIONS

Lambda Iota

The Lambda Iota fraternity held a large reception in their new house at the head of Pearl street on Monday afternoon from four to six. In the receiving line were Ex-Gov. and Mrs. E. C. Smith of St. Albans, President and Mrs. Benton, Mrs. Henry Wells, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Middlebrook, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Brodie, Dr. and Mrs. Engleby, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Parker, Mr. D. L. Cady of New York City, Mrs. C. J. Wright of Williston, Misses Isabelle Spofford, Bertha Hills, Ellen Wood, and Dorothy Farrar assisted. Romeo's orchestra furnished music.

Sigma Phi

The Sigma Phi fraternity held a reception from four to six. In the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. Lyman Allen, Miss Mary Benedict, Miss Julia Pease, Mr. Fred B. Wright, and Roswell Farnham. Those who served were the Misses Hazel Gates, Laura Wales, Dorothy Hickok, Mary Parkhill, Dorothy Gates, and Dorothy Chase.

Delta Psi

On Monday afternoon from 4 to 6 Delta Psi fraternity entertained at their home on Prospect street. In the receiving line were Prof. and Mrs. Goodrich, Dr. and Mrs. Perkins and Hon. Darwin Kingsley and wife. Among those who served were the Misses Virginia Ferguson, Marjorie Adsit, Harriet Whittemore, Mary Tanner, Alice Taylor, Margaret Thistle and Cornelia Vaughn.

Phi Delta Theta

Vermont Alpha of Phi Delta Theta entertained at their house on College street Monday afternoon from 4 to 6. In the receiving line were President and Mrs. Benton, Dr. and Mrs. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Waterman and Kenneth Owens, '13.

Among those who served were the Misses Helen Benton, Margaret Shanley, Helen Rutter, Nelly Field, Isabelle Taylor and Mrs. H. W. Wilson.

Alpha Zeta

Alumni guests, honorary members of the faculty and students of the University were pleasantly entertained on Monday afternoon from 4 to 6 at the home of the Green Mountain Chapter of Alpha Zeta on Prospect street.

Sigma Nu

On Monday afternoon from 4 to 6 Sigma Nu gave a lawn party at their new home on Williams street. About 300 invitations were extended to members of the faculty, to the students and to a large number of Burlington people. The guests were given the opportunity of inspecting the new house. The decorations in the house and on the lawn at the rear consisted of roses and peonies. Prof. and Mrs. Messenger and Prof. and Mrs. Aiken with the seniors received.

Among those who served were Mrs. W. O. Smith, Mrs. H. C. Bloomer, Mrs. L. H. Olzendam, Miss Edwinna Barnes, Miss Bernadine Kimball, Miss Nina Shepardson, Miss Veda Bloomer, Miss Blanche Patridge, Miss Ruth Stearns and Miss Helen Van Aiken.

On Tuesday evening after attending the various functions on the hill the alumni and active Sigma Nus entertained at the first dance in their new house. About 25 couples were present and a most enjoyable evening was passed.

THE SENIOR PROM

A Delightful Affair

The Senior Prom was held on Monday night in the Billings Library. A large number of alumni, students, and friends were present. In the receiving line were President and Mrs. Benton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roberts, Professor and Mrs. Tupper, Captain and Mrs. Reeves, Paul F. Kruse, Miss Alice Taylor, Asa S. Bloomer, and Miss Florence O'Neill. Barton's orchestra of twelve pieces furnished music for an order of twenty-three dances. Decorations consisted of palms. The dance orders were of white leather with a metal Vermont seal in the center. It was a very pretty event and made a fitting close to class day.

Lambda Iota Dance

The Lambda Iota fraternity held a dance Monday evening in their new house. Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Middlebrook, and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Brodie were patrons and patronesses.

CORPORATION DINNER

This afternoon at two the annual Corporation Dinner will be held at the Hotel Vermont and in the evening occurs the Senior boat ride.

ALUMNI DAY ON TUESDAY

At ten a. m. the annual meeting of the Associate Alumni was held. Considerable routine business was transacted. The matter of a new general catalogue was discussed.

At eleven the annual meeting of the Athletic Association was held in the chapel.

At noon on Tuesday the alumni luncheon was held in the gymnasium. About 200 attended, including alumni, guests, and members of the graduating class. After the luncheon came a few speeches. President Benton introduced the graduating class to the associate alumni, and they were received officially by Charles E. Lamb, '93, president of the alumni. Dr. Robert E. Lewis, '92, gave the "Address of Welcome" in place of the usual alumni oration. Fred C. Fiske, '13, permanent president of the graduating class replied. A feature of the meeting was the presentation of $1000. and a tablet in the memory of Rev. Calvin S. Pease, D. D., who was president of the University from 1855 to 1861, and professor of Greek and Latin previous to that time. The gift was made by relatives of President Pease, Mrs. Katherine A. Pease Benedict, Mrs. Jane H. Pease Wheeler, George Wyllis Benedict, '93, Miss Mary Eunice Wead, Miss Katherine H. Wead and Sarah H. F. Shaw. The $1000 will be known as the Calvin Pease classical fund, the income of it to be used in purchasing books relating to the language, literature and art of Greece and Rome. The tablet will be placed in the classical alcove of the Billings library. It will contain in Latin a record of President Pease's services to the University. Professor J. E. Goodrich, '57, and Lucius Bigelow, '61, also spoke. Fred B. Wright, '05, spoke for the New York alumni. There were a few impromptus.

COMMENCEMENT

ALUMNI DAY ON TUESDAY

The time when nature seems almost too fair,
Except for those who breathe scholastic air;
The time to don the crown that work bestows,

And honors, new and nobby as our clothes
The time when Alma Mater joys abound,
(For Almus Pater never comes around);
Perhaps he has no cap, no gown, no coat;
Perhaps he's home while "Alma" goes to vote.

June, the diplomaed month, is here again;
See watch-keyed women, millineried men;
See bachelors and doctors arm in arm,
Prepared to treat your form or treat your farm.

See Grassmountese, with Tutors on the string,

Hear Deans assent to almost anything;
See Syphax Freshie and Soph Scipio,
Across the campus uncontending go;
The Senate and the Plebs are now at one,
And Pompey Prex no longer packs a gun;
Right hands strikes hard as Greek meets loving Greek,

And human nature changes for a week.
Such peace and such good will are nowhere seen,

Except on Alburg Tongue and Hinesburg
Green;

We who have traveled far to reach this feast
Had traveled farther were the miles increased;

The coil of years unwinds and throws us back,

To days when Will was Bill, and John was Jack;

To days when eyes could see and pedals
frisk,

And near-by grapes grew ripe at owner's risk.

Somehow at first we feel a trifle queer,
As though some test or quiz were hovering near;

As though we'd need to "make up" this or that,

Before we'd be allowed to chirp or chat.
Somehow at first the rhythmic sound of "class,"

Provokes that ancient question, "Did I pass?"

The very sight of pad and pencil starts
A frizzly feeling 'round our wuzzy hearts.

But soon we reach the normal point of view,
And find we're seated in the proper pew;

Anon the syncopated talk we hear,
As "Lab", "exams" and "Gym" fall on on the ear;

The blackboards, where we proved we did not know,

The chairs that stood or toppled in a row;
The stratified construction of the floors;

The lampblack numbers on the lilac doors;
The Hall of "creature comforts" down the way,

And those Winooski bells that start the day—

All show that we have reached the place we sought,

Our mental home, the unquantivalanced spot.

Nor are these all the signs that we are back Upon the "road" and in the right-hand track;

We clasp again with joy the hands of those Who pulled and pushed us through our Annual woes;

The gentle Goodrich, loved in fifty states,
Perkins, the princely shortstop of "The Fates;"

Samuel, the Emersonian charioteer,
Who helped us off his car three times a year;

Nathan, the litmus king, whose theories ran Through all that is, from freshman up to man,

Who'll isolate ere long an atom's pelt
To dangle at his Algonquinic belt;

And Archibaldus "X" whose clear eye sees
The roots and powers of "n" with equal ease;

Who measures worlds and superworlds in pairs;

And every circle with his hatchet squares;
Who vaunts the milky way a big success,

As all its grades are two per cent. or less—Yes: these are they who held the supreme power,

And 'lowed our clocks to strike the sheep-skinned hour.

We look around, and lo! the old-time
grace,

The same good color in the landscape's face;
Along the horizon, just as erst we saw,

The earth and sky connect without a flaw;
Both "North" and "South" are where they ought to be,

And at our feet still shines the sacred sea.

Why did we ever leave this unmatched scene,

This city that is every inch a queen;
These halls wherein fair Learning long since set

A table that is amply loaded yet?

Was it because we heard the great world call,
Or just because we thought we knew it all?

Howe'er it be, here our affections rest,
And oft as we return so oft we're blest.

The peerade had to be omitted; it was impracticable to put it on.

At two-thirty came a baseball game between the medical and academic faculties. President Benton umpired.

The line-up for the doctors was:
Allen first base, Bombard second,

Clark short stop, Brown third, Ar-chambeault and Latour catchers,

right, Dodds and Beecher pitchers.

For the other department the line-up was: Blackburn catcher, Slocum first, Burns second, Borland short, Lindsay third, Tupper center, Per-

Burdick pitchers. Professor Ogle acted as substitute.

At four President and Mrs. Benton gave a reception at their house to the trustees, alumni and friends.

Faculty ladies assisted.

At six p. m. a well attended medical alumni banquet was held, to which the graduating medics were invited.

tained by Frank R. Wells on his yacht, "Ausable" on Monday afternoon. Supper was served on the boat. The class also gathered for breakfast at the Ethan Allen Club on Wednesday morning.

The class of 1898 held a reunion at the Van Ness roof garden on Monday evening, after which Professor H. F. Perkins entertained them by a trip in his launch.

About 20 members of 1912 gathered at White's restaurant at six o'clock on Tuesday evening.

FRATERNITY RE-UNIONS

On Tuesday night, June 24, the fraternities held their annual reunions.

A number of the fraternities held reunions last night. The Lambda Iota fraternity held a reunion in their new home at which about 100 were present, including alumni from all over the country. The program was as follows: toastmaster, Judge
C. B. McLaughlin, '79, of N. Y.; orator, Dr. E. C. Bass, '59, of Providence; historian, F. H. Crandall,
'86, of Burlington; poet, D. L.
Cady, '86, Litt. D., of N. Y.

SIGMA PHI

About 65 members were present
The banquet was held at the fraternity house. John J. Allen, '62, was toastmaster, George Wyllis Benedict, '93, was orator, and M.
Shaler Allen, '95, was poet.

Delta Psi held a reunion at their house. No banquet or formal program was held.

Phi Delta Theta held a reunion and a banquet at the Van Ness.
About 40 were present. Among the speakers were President Benton,
Judge E. C. Mower, '92, Thomas
C. Cheney, '91, and Professor G.
P. Burns.

Alpha Tau Omega held a reunion and banquet at the house. Guy
were present.

Kappa Sigma and Alpha Zeta also kept open house, but had no formal program.

CAMPUS CAMPFIRE

One of the most enthusiastic smokers that U. V. M. has ever seen began on the back campus around a huge bonfire, at 9 o'clock on Tuesday evening, June 24. It was a get together which will stand out in the memories of all who were present, when alumni, graduates, and undergraduates mingled and made acquaintanceship, joined by love of Old Vermont. President Benton presided over the program, doing much to make the smoker what it was,
and with the cooperation of every man present, a new realization of Vermont spirit and Vermont itself was achieved.

CLASS REUNIONS

The class of 1888 held its 25th reunion at the Van Ness House on Monday evening, the guests of Charles L. Woodbury and Dr. F.
W. Sears. About 20 were present.

About 12 members of the class of 1893 with their wives were enter-

COMMONS HALL

To the Men of "Old Vermont"

Commons Hall is now under University management and it is the desire of the authorities to make the Hall serve the student body in the largest way possible.
In order to do this, it is necessary to have every table full, for then only can the best food and service be given the patrons.

Those who can are asked to board at this institutional table and those who find that impossible are requested, for the sake of the University, to do what they can for the betterment of

UNDERCLASS CANE RUSH TODAY

Canes Given the Sophomores Tug of War Follows

The class of 1917 will have their first chance to try its mettle in the cane rush and tug of war on the back campus at 2 p. m. today. Since the sophomores are outnumbered, they will start the rush in possession of the canes. Football men are debarred from both contests. The rules:

CANE RUSH

Time, two o'clock sharp.

1. Sophomores will hold the canes.

2. The rush will last seven minutes.

3. Each whole cane counts two points for the class in possession. Each crook end with one foot of cane will count one point.

VARSITY VS. MIDDLEBURY

First Home Game Next Wednesday

Middlebury will be our opponents in the first football game of the season, which will be played on Centennial Field next Wednesday. This is the first season in several years that Middlebury has been on our schedule and the result of the game means much to them. Since this is the first game of both teams, there is no opportunity of sizing up either eleven or attempting any forecast of the result. Middlebury has been working hard and is said to have a somewhat better team than usual. Coach O'Brien has not been letting any grass grow under his feet, and his hard working squad are of the opinion that all of their hours of practice on Centennial Field have been decidedly discouraging to the greensward. The game will be called at four.

NEW DISTINCTION CONFERRED UPON JUDGE POWERS

Alumnus and Trustee Made Chief Justice of Vermont

Hon. George McClellan Powers, '83, of Morrisville, associate justice of the Vermont supreme court and a trustee of the University, was appointed chief justice on September 21 to succeed Chief Justice Rowell, resigned.

Justice Powers was born at Hyde Park, Vermont, December 19, 1861, the son of Horace Henry, ('55) and Caroline E. Powers. He prepared for college at People's Academy, Morrisville, and entered the University in 1879. In 1883 he graduated and in 1886 he was admitted to the Vermont bar. In 1893 he married Gertrude F. Woodbury of Burlington. They have four children,

HON. GEORGE M. POWERS

Horace Henry, Mildred Dorothy, Elizabeth Lillian and Roberta Frances. Mr. Powers was state's attorney for Lamoille county from 1888 to 1890; messenger in the senate in 1872 and 1874; assistant clerk of the house of representatives in 1884, 1886, and 1888; secretary of the senate in 1890, 1892 and 1894 and was reporter of decisions from 1902 to 1904. In 1896 he represented Morristown in the legislature. In 1904 he was appointed a judge of the supreme court by Governor McCullough and he kept this position until 1906, when he was made superior judge.

RECORD-BREAKING CLASS MARKS 123rd OPENING

President Benton Greets 189 New Students His Theme, "The Perfect Stature"

The opening exercises of the one hundred and twenty-third year of the University on September 24 were most inspiring. The entering class numbered 189, the largest in the history of the University. President Benton's address, "The Perfect Stature," extended greeting to the largest body of students assembled in the halls of the University.

Every seat in the gymnasium was taken by students, new and old, by faculty, and by friends of the University. The exercises were opened with the singing of the doxology. Dr. Bliss of St. Paul's church read the scripture lesson. Prof. Goodrich offered prayer, and "America" and "Champlain" were sung by the entire assemblage.

President Benton then began his opening address as follows:

"Students of the University of Vermont, to those of you who are returning to your studies after the vacation period I extend a warm welcome back to your college home. To those who are here for the first time, I give cordial greeting. Old students and new, your teachers share with you the hope that every day of all the weeks and months of this academic year may be for you, individually and collectively, a golden day. It is fitting that the beginning of a new epoch in your educational history should, if possible be made auspicious by a message that will enlarge vision and inspire the determination to high endeavor. In the laudable hope of such results I come to you this morning bringing as my chosen theme 'The Perfect Stature.'"

The president then went on to say that, "the man who does not

CLAYTON J. WRIGHT BECOMES TRUSTEE

Young Alumnus Appointed by the Governor

Colonel Clayton J. Wright of Williston has been appointed by Governor Fletcher to fill the vacancy made in the board of trustees by the death of Hon. Cassius Peck. Mr. Peck's term of office does not expire until 1917, the election having been made by the 1911 legislature. The governor's appointment will hold until the next session of the legislature.

Mr. Wright is an alumnus of the University and was graduated in the class of 1886. He is a member of the firm of Smith Wright's Sons, a cold storage firm doing business in Williston. He was one of Governor Fletcher's staff, and is a prominent young republican of the state. He belongs to the Lambda Iota fraternity.

Colonel Wright will bring to his duties as a member of the trustees of the University an enthusiasm and business experience that will be of large value to the institution. The governor's action in this appointment is receiving general approval.

FIRST COLLEGE SMOKER

Songs, Cheers, Election of Cheer Leaders on Tuesday Night

The first smoker of the college year will be held in the gymnasium on Tuesday night at 7:30. The songs and cheers will be practiced in preparation for the Middlebury game the following day. New cheer leaders will probably be tried out, and an election of a cheer leader will be held, since Adrian St. John, '14, now on the football squad, is the only regular cheer leader now in college.

It is expected that the military band will give a few selections, and other snappy entertainments will be furnished under the direction of the Ukma Society.

The freshmen are expected to be present to a man. There will be a roll call of the freshmen, and absentees will be asked to explain their absence. It will be the first opportunity for the new men to learn the songs and practice the cheers. The valuable little Y. M. C. A. handbooks should be brought by the freshmen.

think never achieves; the necessary conditions of full moral stature as set forth at this time, then, will presuppose full physical and intellectual stature." He next pointed out how in the eyes of men the college student seems to be a despised person citing an example from the pen of one of the most distinguished chief justices of one of the greatest states in the union.

Dr. Benton said: "I believe in the college student. I would not have the college man or woman prosaic, pokey or a mere stick, prematurely old. I love him because of his contagious optimism and for his infinite possibilities. * * * * There are four essential conditions of growth into full moral stature, namely, a mind of truth, a heart of love, a courageous will and a life of service. Truth, love, courage, service, these four cardinal virtues incarnated in every living personal ty will mark the perfect day dawn.

Truth is absolute. * * An honest man is not always truthful but a truthful man is always honest. Honesty is the basic principle of civilization. * * * I have enough confidence in my students to believe that the majority of them are honest. What a genuine pleasure it is to me to meet a student who is absolutely square.

Secondly, the spirit of love must be nurtured to produce the full statured man who is to be the world's salvation. * * * *

Then there is courage, the third essential to full moral stature. Properly conceived, courage is the quality of mind which enables one to encounter dangers and difficulties with firmness or without fear or fainting of heart. Courage never accompanies a weak or uncertain will.

Finally the stature of the race will not be full until the universal man shall offer his life upon the altar of unselfish service. 'I serve' is the most glorious heraldic emblem a serious man or woman can wear to challenge the love of fellowmen and command the approval of God."

In closing the president said:—"On this the threshold of the new year I would not point you to an irreparable past but rather to an opening future. It is morning, young friend, morning, the morning of humanity. The day is early. This world has combats worthy of your prowess, combats in which it will be glorious to conquer and advantageous to die."

PROF. EMERSON HONORED

New Head of State Library Commission

Professor Samuel F. Emerson professor of history and sociology, has been appointed chairman of the Vermont State public library commission by Governor Allen M. Fletcher to succeed President G. P. Benton, who resigned on account of the pressure of other duties. The other members of the commission are: Elizabeth H. Winslow of Brandon, E. M. Goddard of Montpelier, Caroline H. Clement of Rutland, Mrs. W. P. Smith of St. Johnsbury and Miss R. W. Wright of Montpelier, secretary.

Changes Made in Class Rooms

The summer interim is usually a busy time at the educational institutions of the country, by reason of the improvements and repairs made to the physical plants at that time. The University of Vermont this summer has been no exception to the rule, and numerous changes calculated to increase the efficiency of the University have been inaugurated and are now nearing completion.

Feeling that an effort should be made to assign space on a scientific basis, the buildings and grounds committee has studied carefully the ground plans of the buildings and has begun an assignment of class rooms looking toward institutional economy. The cement laboratory has been moved from the old north college to a location nearer the engineering building and is now nicely housed. The rooms left vacant by this change have been re-modeled into an English suite, which eventually will meet the full needs of that growing department. Last year the classical suite was brought into being and next year it is hoped to take care of the modern language group in the same way. Eventually the social sciences and the humanities will all be intelligently placed in order to reduce to a minimum lost motion and to produce greater correlation among the departments.

The armory has been revamped and the University boasts of a most complete equipment for its military department. The gymnasium in the department of physical education is having its locker system rearranged and new apparatus is being ordered for this important feature of the work.

The college store has been shifted to make room for the social quarters in the southwest corner of the "Old Mill." The trophy and lounging room has replaced the old Young Men's Christian association room, while the office of the director of religious work takes the room left vacant by the college store. The rooms of the departments of German, philosophy and education have been redecorated and the whole interior of the ancient structure begins to take on an atmosphere of youth. A new boiler has been added in the gymnasium.

The class room of the professor of anthropology in the museum has been enlarged and redecorated. The hallways of Converse hall have been frescoed. The addition to the greenhouses is under way and it is hoped that the new wing will be ready for occupancy shortly.

It is the expectation of the committee to refit the institution with Tungsten globes which will add greatly to the conveniences of the institution. A new telephone has been added to the list at Williams Science hall. Prof. George P. Burns is chairman of the buildings and grounds committee and Laurence W. Swan, secretary of the University, its secretary.

is published on Saturday of each week during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont. It will be mainly given over to news, while a literary supplement will, from time to time, be published.

Subscription price $2.00 per year;
10c. per copy.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 27, 1913.

One of the most important things that the CYNIC board is trying to do in the way of improvement is to start and maintain a live alumni department. In the course of the summer, alumni have been engaged in many of the large cities who have agreed to be responsible for all alumni happenings in their vicinity. Making a good alumni department is a difficult problem. We realize that all the news items that we print must come through the alumni themselves, yet we are trying to do much more than sit in our chairs and complain because nobody sends us anything. We hope that we have started an organization that will keep us well supplied with alumni items throughout the year. If there is any alumnus who is not satisfied with it, we shall welcome from him some suggestions and some news.

We welcome the class of 1917. Much will be made of the fact that you are the largest class in the history of the college. It rests with you whether three or four years from now you will be considered the best class that Vermont has seen. During your first year you will be judged largely on how you get into things and turn out for things. It is not necessary that you all make some team or shine in music, dramatics or literature in your first year. A large proportion of you will come with no specialty in which you can excel. It is best then to wait a few weeks, accustom yourself to your new surroundings, tackle your studies, and get your bearings. Then make up your mind what branch of college activities you are best fitted to enter, and when the proper time comes, enter into it with all your might.

Do not be misled by the new freedom which you find in college life. It will make or ruin you. You will no longer have a watchful parent to lead you aright, nor will you have an instructor to see that you are in your room studying at certain hours. You will have no monthly report cards as in prep school days, and will not have the same continual pressure to keep up in your studies. But if you use your new liberty and do not abuse it, you will have gained one of the great benefits of a college education.

Make up your mind that you will at once learn the songs and cheers; that you will adhere to the freshman rules; that you will always attend the interclass contests, the games and the smokers; that you will, at once subscribe to the CYNIC and CRABBE; that you will read the bulletin boards and keep posted. The freshman rules are not a piece of impudence on the part of the sophomores designed to humiliate you, although some of you will at once jump to that conclusion. The whole college is behind them. They are college customs of long standing and no upperclassmen will excuse any violation of them. They are an important part of our college life. It is only to your credit if you follow them and entirely to your discredit and discomfort if you do not. The freshman caps will be a great advantage to you, for by them you will recognize your classmates and soon become acquainted with them.

You should of course subscribe to the CYNIC and CRABBE if you can afford it. And you can afford them if you plan to spend a dollar outside of actual necessities while in college. You are doing nothing unusual if you all subscribe at once. Practically every man in the class of 1913 has subscribed to the CYNIC for this year.

The summer vacation ought to mean a great deal to us. In addition to giving us all a rest and relaxation and giving many of us some money of our own earning, the vacation ought to mean a fresh start with a broader outlook. The recreation and the work have carried us out of the college atmosphere, within which it is easy to grow somewhat narrow. Meeting men of business may have given us a certain practicality which has its place in the college life. Talking with men from other colleges should have given us a wider viewpoint and a certain desirable feeling that our own good old way is not necessarily the best way. Mingling with Vermont graduates should have caused us to get a few new ideas for the good of Vermont.

Every man ought to return to college with one good idea for the improvement of the college. If you have such an idea, talk it up and try to put it through. No one will question a statement that we have much room for improvement here at Vermont. A few good ideas properly pushed, can accomplish much. If you believe that we should have an extension of student self-government, an active interfraternity council, a good sane rushing system, a more successful year in athletics, a Varsity hockey team, more interclass athletics, more and better "smokers," better singing and cheering, a new grand stand, better tennis courts, a swimming tank, or any other improvements in our customs, our attitudes of mind, or our equipment,—pick out what you think is the greatest need, get behind it and push.

About 20 of the merchants of Burlington are running a library contest which offers a good chance to the college. Each purchase at these stores gives the purchaser coupons which are good for votes. The society or organization receiving the largest number of votes wins a large library of standard literature. Burlington churches and fraternal organizations are becoming interested in the contest.

Why shouldn't the votes of the student patrons be bunched for one common interest? We recommend that students cast their votes in favor of the University library. If we win, the library could get the books with a string attached. That is, when we get a good college union or commons hall the books could be turned over to the new building and form the nucleus of a good library. The books include much current fiction and would be more suitable for this purpose than for the Billings Library. Students should be careful in this library contest not to be influenced to patronize merchants other than advertisers in the college publications. We feel, however, that in the ordinary course of their shopping that enough library coupons will be thrust upon them to win the contest for the University. Incidentally the amount of the student vote may be an eye-opener to some of the short-sighted merchants who still fail to realize the value of student patronage. So don't waste your coupons.

A TWOFOLD MISSION

Pres. Benton Addresses Faculty Senate. University's Duty to the State Emphasized

At a meeting of the University senate on Saturday afternoon President Benton delivered an address on "The University and the State." The address dealt with the University's dual obligation to the State and to the youthhood who come here for instruction, and called attention to some of the changes in the teaching staff and to the extension of courses.

A brief summary of his speech follows:

A State University should be directly useful to the commonwealth. Its activities should extend far beyond the bounds of the campus. Every faculty member is a State official owing a solemn responsibility. Every department of the University owes its peculiar mission to the State. In the colleges of engineering and agriculture large opportunities are opening for public service. The last legislature made the first appropriation for agricultural extension. Professor Thomas F. Bradlee has been made head of the new department of agricultural extension. There is also a demand for teachers of the fundamentals of agriculture. Prof. F. B. Jenks now takes the chair of agricultural education. Our civil and electrical engineering departments are to do a great work in helping to harness the Vermont streams and to solve the transportation problem. The college of medicine is training men who are cooperating with civil authorities to combat disease. The departments of zoology, botany, and education are fulfilling a larger mission. It is hoped that the department of commerce and economics will soon become a separate college of the university system, and Professor George G. Groat becomes the new head of this department. Ably seconded by Prof. Jackman, he will make his department of large service to Vermont. The new conception of a university is a company of scholars, not secluded in the class room, but a community of thinkers and leaders bearing vital relationship to the public on the street running through the campus.

It is also necessary to think of the larger and older and more important feature of our twofold responsibility. Our chief obligation is to those who come to us for instruction. To make our outside service worth while, our inside service must be of the highest type.

FACULTY CHANGES

The first faculty meeting was held on Saturday the 20th. The following changes in the faculty are announced:

Professor George G. Groat comes to the chair of economics from Ohio Wesleyan. He takes Professor C. W. Mixer's place.

Professor Floyd B. Jenks assumes the new chair of agricultural education, resigning as agricultural specialist in the bureau of education.

Professor William H. Freedman returns to the University from Pratt Institute in Brooklyn to take the chair of electrical engineering.

The Rev. Stephen G. Barnes enters the faculty as assistant professor in mathematics and he will also have charge of religious work in the Y. M. C. A. He succeeds Willis B. Robinson in mathematics.

Frederick S. Page, graduate of Dartmouth, '13, becomes curator of the herbarium.

Professor Thomas Bradlee, a graduate of Cornell University, is to take charge of agricultural extension.

Dr. Barnet Joseph, instructor in anatomy and pathology, has gone to Fordham Medical College.

Dr. B. D. Adams succeeds Dr. John H. Woodruff of Rutland as instructor in surgery.

Henry Ernest Williams, A. M., of Quincy, Mass., is the acting professor of analytical chemistry and mineralogy during Professor Jacob's absence.

H. R. Murdock, instructor in chemistry, has resigned to go into business.

R. D. Sawyer, executive clerk, becomes the president's secretary.

H. F. Barton, instructor in electrical engineering, has resigned for additional study. His place is not yet filled.

1879. Professor John Dewey, now of Columbia University was honored with the degree of LL. D. by the University of Michigan at its last commencement.

ALUMNI DECEASED

Since last commencement we have learned of the passing of seven graduates of the University, sketches of whom we hope to present in due time. We give the list below:

- 1843. James O'Halloran, K. C.
- 1849. Rev. Charles Cutler Torrey.
- 1858. Lieutenant Cornelius Wickware Morse.
- 1871. Prof. Charles Simeon Denison.
- 1893. Loyal Ethelbert Sherwin.
- 1898. William Silas Bean.
- 1899. Mrs. Mabel Nelson Jacobs.

The first named has been since 1910 our oldest graduate. He is succeeded now by Rev. George Gaby Rice of the class of 1845, who was born two years before Mr. O'Halloran. His later graduation resulted from interruptions in his college course. Our venerable brother rounded out his 94th year on the 22nd of this month. We salute him with sincere respect and best wishes.

The cost of producing meat or milk would be much less if it required less acres to produce the feed.

Both the quantity and quality of the feed improve when the right plant foods are used to supplement the manure and clover. They improve enough to yield a handsome profit on the expenditure.

The right plant food includes enough in available form. Supplement the manure and phosphate with 50 to 100 pounds of Muriate of Potash, or 200 to 400 pounds of Kainit, per acre, and you will raise big corn and fine clover after the grain and at the same time improve the fertility of the soil.

Try Potash salts alone on the swamp land pasture and note the clover and good grasses crowd out the wild hay. Write us for prices of Potash, one bag up.

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK

A week of football practice has brought out some good material. The squad is larger than ever and with able coaching promises to develop into a strong team.

Although many of last year's veterans have left college, we may expect much from those remaining, among whom are Captain Whalen, Currier, Putnam, Fitzpatrick, Frank, Gallagher and Claffey. Of last year's second team, St. John, Weeks, Taylor, Tomassi, Becker and Hayden have reported.

There is plenty of new material, the freshmen class furnishing a husky lot of men. Among the new men are Little, former tackle at Worcester, Turnbull, a halfback at Cushing, Ramson a Lafayette University halfback, Conner, quarterback on the Montpelier high team, Kelley, Tennien, Dolphin, Beckwith, Hayden, Paulson, St. Cyr., Powers, Brantley, Weston, Burrage, Sanders, Delehanty, Benley and Mitchell.

With this material and what may show up later, Coach O'Brien will whip out a team worthy of the best support of the students.

The Middlebury game comes October first at Centennial Field. Let us be out strong.

J. J. O'Brien, Coach

Jerry O'Brien, '13, was appointed coach of the football team of the University of Vermont for the season of 1913. O'Brien was graduated from Pittsfield high school. During his high school career he was prominent in athletics, especially football and basketball. After leaving Pittsfield he entered Williston Seminary where he played football and basketball. He was captain of the Williston football team one year and played on the basketball team which was unbeaten for two years. At Vermont he has played on the football team for four years at end, halfback and quarterback. This is his first year at coaching a college team but those who know him are confident that he will develop a strong team.

THE FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Oct. 1—Middlebury at Burlington.

Oct. 4—Williams at Williams-town.

Oct. 11—Dartmouth at Han-over.

Oct. 18—Bowdoin at Burling-ton.

Oct. 25—Fordham at New York.

Nov. 1—Brown at Providence.

Nov. 8—Tufts at Medford.

So far three games have been arranged for the second team as follows:

Oct. 11—Middlebury Seconds at Middlebury.

Oct. 25—Montpelier Seminary at Montpelier.

Nov. 8—Troy Conference Academy at Poultney.

The New Phi Delta Theta House

Plans for the new home of the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity have already been drawn up and adopted. The house will be three stories high of brick or granite; and will be placed on the present property of the fraternity but situated farther back from the road and the land in front will be graded down to the level of the street. When completed it will accommodate 20 men and will have a modern equipped boarding department. The old structure is to be torn down early in the spring of 1914 and it is expected that the house will be occupied by commencement week of the same year.

RULES FOR FRESHMEN

The following rules for freshmen were put up Tuesday night by the sophomores, with the aid of a few freshmen:

Tip your hat to all professors and instructors.

Never walk on the north side of College street.

There are walks on the campus. Use them.

Always wear freshman caps except on Sunday.

Wear no prep. school insignia of any kind.

Don't smoke on the campus.

Never be seen wearing corduroy clothing.

Always wear dark socks.

Be at every athletic game and smoker with lots of pep.

Be ready to work day and night for the good of the University.

Never make yourself obnoxious by shouting on the campus.

All freshmen must learn the words of "Hail Green and Gold," "Hail to Vermont," "Grand Old Vermont," "Champlain," and "Old Mill Song," before November 1, 1913.

New Distinction Conferred Upon Judge Powers

Then in 1909 he was put on the supreme bench where he has since been. He was elected to the board of trustees of the University in 1911. It will be remembered that he delivered the Founder's Day address last year.

The appointment of a chief justice of the supreme court who was not the oldest man on the bench is an innovation for this state and the fact that Judge Powers is the first such, makes his appointment an especial compliment to his ability and standing. Judge Powers has always been one of our strongest and most loyal alumni and it most certainly goes without saying that he and the state both have the heartiest congratulations of all the friends of the University.

Judge Powers is a member of the Delta Psi fraternity.

Mrs. Mabel Nelson Jacobs, 1899

Mrs. Mabel Nelson Jacobs, 1899, wife of Professor Elbridge Churchill Jacobs, was the elder daughter of Henry J. Nelson and Adela Augusta Fitch, born 27 August, 1878 in Burlington. She was educated in the public schools of the city, getting her preparation for college under S. W. Landon, 1874. At her graduation she was awarded membership in  $\Phi$ . B. K., and had a place among the speakers at commencement. For a year she remained in residence as a post-graduate student, and afterward taught in the high schools of Barre, and Nashua, N. H. In 1905 she was married to Professor Jacobs. Her interest in academic themes and university life never left her. She was an active participant in the discussions of the Fortnightly Club, studied Shakespere with keen relish, and derived much enjoyment from French literature. Her ideals were high, and the gains she had made were generously put to use in the service of humanity. She died at St. Luke's hospital in New York City, 19 July, 1913, after an operation for acute gastritis. She and her husband had been attending lectures in the summer school of Columbia University. Besides her husband she left her mother and a sister (a U. V. M. graduate of 1901) to lament her too early departure from the scenes in which she found and gave so great happiness. She was a grandniece of L. M. Fitch, 1826.

Prof. George Simeon Denison, 1871, Sc. D.

Prof. George Simeon Denison, 1871, Sc. D., died in Ann Arbor, Mich., 30 July, 1913, after a brief illness. His summers had usually been spent in Royalton, Vt., but he was not able to make the journey this year. He was born 12 July, 1849 in Gambier, Ohio, the son of Rev. George Denison and Janette Ralston. He got ready for college in the schools of Lockport, N. Y. He came to us from Norwich University, entering the sophomore class in 1868 as from Keokuk, Ia. At the end of junior year he was awarded the B. S. degree, the next year that of C. E., in 1874 the M. S. degree, and in 1907 that of Doctor of Science. He became instructor of engineering in the University of Michigan in 1872. In 1873 he was in charge of the U. S. surveying party in Idaho and Montana; in 1881 he was promoted to be assistant professor of mechanical drawing; in 1885 he was made professor of descriptive geometry and drawing, and at the time of his death was head of the department of mechanical drawing. He had membership in certain engineering clubs, and was a member of the Protestant Episcopal church. Hon. D. C. Denison, 1840, was his uncle.

LOCALS

William P. Smith, '13, has been at the Sigma Nu House for a few days on his way to Plymouth, N. H., where he has a position as athletic director and instructor in the Holderness school.

The marriage of Mr. Henry W. Blackburn, instructor in Mechanical drawing and Miss Mildred S. Peck, daughter of the late Cassius Peck superintendent of buildings and grounds, took place September 9 at the College Street Church parsonage. Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn took a short automobile trip through the White Mountains. They are now living at the Experiment Farm.

ALUMNI NOTES

1890. George H. Claffin, is connected with the Carnegie Institute of Washington. He has been appointed superintendent of the department of experimental evolution at the station in Cold Spring, Long Island, N. Y.

WILLIAMS GAME TODAY

Second Game for Each Team

On Saturday the Varsity meets Williams in football on Weston Field, Williamstown, for the first time in five years. The last game with Williams, in 1908, the sixth between the two colleges, resulted in a no-score tie.

Williams has met but one team this season, defeating R. P. I. last Saturday by a score of 14 to 0. The Purple's left halfback, Toolan, was the star of the game according to all the newspaper reports, for he made all the substantial gains. R. P. I. failed to stop him in his wide end plays. Toolan will also do all the kicking for Williams, according to Coach Daly's recent plans. The game showed up some weaknesses in one side of Williams' line and this week will be devoted to straightening this defect.

Williams played strong football last year, and the Varsity will go down with no bumps of overconfidence. With a strong line and a new kind of snap, they hope to make a good showing. The Middlebury game has shown where the strength and weakness of the Varsity lie, but the time does not allow Coach O'Brien any opportunity to make any extensive changes before today.

MILITARY DEPT. WILL HAVE FINE YEAR

The Organization--Many Improvements

The number of men enrolled in the military department is as follows, by units:

- Co. A, 52.
- Co. B, 48.
- Co. C, 47.
- Co. D, 51.
- Band 22.

THE ORGANIZATION

Cadet-major of the battalion, Adrian St. John, '14.

Co. A, captain, Robert W. Daniels, '15; 1st lieutenant, Ernest L. Gilbert, '15; 2nd lieutenant, W. A. Sturgis.

Co. B, captain, Daniel R. Grandy, '15; 1st lieutenant, Harrison H. Leffler, '15; 2nd lieutenant, Wilbur Y. Handy, '15.

CLASS CONTESTS AN EVEN SPLIT

1917 Takes Cane Rush—Soph's Win Tug-of-War

The annual cane rush and tug-of-war between the under classes occurred last Saturday, Sept. 27th, resulting in a tie—the freshmen taking the rush, 45 to 25, while '16 won the tug-of-war with two out of three pulls.

The events were pulled off before a big crowd. There was a minimum amount of bloodshed, and the only loss sustained was that of one finger nail.

The frosh, 100 strong, accompanied by about fifty juniors, formed at the Mill at 1 o'clock, and marched down to Miles & Perry's, accompanied by an exceedingly accomplished band, consisting of a brass drum, cymbals and a cornet—a la salvation army.

After receiving the canes and giving a few cheers in the crowded forum, they marched back up the hill like the men of the famous old Duke of York. At the Old Mill the freshmen gave up their canes and the sophomores took possession

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR CROSS-COUNTRY

Other Track Departments Booming—Class Meet Soon

Both Captain Hayden and Trainer Stone declare this year's chances in track to be very good. Several of the old men are back—Mayforth, Woodbury, Bolster and Gallagher in the sprints; Schoff, Whalen and Leighton, for the weights; Hayden, Buchanan, and Minckler for the mile and half mile; and Patterson for the quarter. Hayden, Buchanan and Minckler will also be out for cross-country. For relay candidates there will be Gallagher, Healy and Paulsen.

Naturally it is hard to estimate the new men, but some are showing up well and come with good records. Among these are Le Baron, of Goddard, who did the mile at last spring's interscholastic in 4-56; Shippy, of Rutland, who does the 440 in about 55; and Cintron, of Porto Rico, broad jump, 21 feet,

ADRIAN ST. JOHN ELECTED SENIOR PRESIDENT

Other Officers Chosen

The seniors elected the following class officers on Tuesday:

President, Adrian St. John of Matteawan, N. Y.

Vice-president, Miss Ruth M. Rogers of Burlington.

Secretary, Miss Ruth M. Durfee of Burlington.

Treasurer, Joseph E. Carrigan of Pittsford.

Athletic committee member, William E. Whalen of Northampton.

Executive committee, Louis W. Batchelder, George H. Seiple, Brigham McFarland, Miss Isabel Spofford and Miss Jeanette M. Sparrow.

St. John prepared for college at Matteawan High School and at National Preparatory School, West Point. He has taken an active interest in the military department of the college all four years and is now cadet major of the battalion. He has shown consistent development as a football man and is now at end on the Varsity. He managed the 1914 Ariel and is an assistant editor of "Ye Crabbe," and a Boulder man.

FIRST SMOKER WELL ATTENDED

Much Spirit Shown. Band Selections

A spirited smoker, the first of the year, was held on Tuesday night in the gymnasium. There were some good speeches. A number of selections by the newly organized college band, some strong cheering, and an entertainment by the freshmen. If anything was lacking it was a good song practice. President St. John presided.

President Benton, the first speaker, expressed his faith in the coach, captain, manager, and whole team. He advocated more class spirit. He expressed his pleasure that the college had completely renewed athletic relations with Middlebury.

Everitt, '15, will Edit "Ye Crabbe"

Isaac D. Everitt, '15, has been elected editor-in-chief of "Ye Crabbe" in the place of Donald Babbitt, '15, who will not return to college. Louis Dow, '15, has been elected to the board.

VERMONT TRIMS MIDDLEBURY

A Loose Punting Game Won, 10-7

Vermont opened its football season on Centennial Field by winning from Middlebury college 10 to 7. The game was interesting and very exciting. Just before the close of the final period the score stood 7 to 7, and by a series of terrific rushes and some clever open playing Vermont came within striking distance of Middlebury goal. Capt. Whalen dropped back and sent a perfect place kick over the bars from the 20 yard line which boosted Vermont's score to 10 and made possible the victory.

The game opened with Vermont kicking off to Middlebury. Triggs received the ball on the 45 yard line and carried it to the 37 yard line. Soon after Middlebury lost 10 yards and 3 yards in succession and punted to Currier on the 45 yard line. On the next play Vermont fumbled and Middlebury recovered the ball. Middlebury punted to Rawson on the 45 yard line. On a series of plays Vermont failed to gain the necessary ground and Whalen fell back for a punt shortly after the period closed without either side having scored a point.

In the second period, Middlebury punted and shortly after Vermont returned the punt to the 32 yard line. Middlebury gained 15 yards

AN ALL-VERMONT DEBATING ASSOCIATION

The last meeting of the 1915 Debating Club as a separate organization was held Monday night. It was there decided to dissolve the club and to form a University of Vermont Debating Association composed of members from all four classes. A mass meeting for that purpose will be held in Room A, South, in the "Old Mill," Monday evening, Oct. 6, at 7.30. Every man in college who is, or ought to be, interested in debate should be there. A constitution will be presented for consideration, and permanent officers will be elected in Co. C, captain, Charles C. Buchanan, '15; 1st lieutenant, Louis F. Dow, '15; 2nd lieutenant, Richard H. Ballard, '15.

Co. D, captain, Paul H. Gates, '15; 1st lieutenant, Jason S. Hunt, '15; 2nd lieutenant, Frederick W. Baker, '15.

Battalion adjutant, 1st. Lieutenant Merrill D. Powers, '15; battalion, quartermaster and commissary, 2nd Lieutenant Roderic M. Olzendam, '15.

NONCOMMISSIONED OFFICERS

Co. B, corporals, C. R. Carlton, '16; A. G. Levy, '16; C. M. Pike, '16; T. H. Ockels, '16; B. A. Thomas, '16; M. R. Wilcox, '16; E. W. Shedd, '16.

Co. C, corporals, H. D. Ashton, '16; W. E. Armstrong, '16; R. S. Ely, '16; C. S. Gates, '16; J. V. Piper, '16; C. C. Smith, '16; C. H. Styles, '16.

Co. D, corporals, B. R. Buchanan, '16; J. L. Cootey, '16; S. F. French, '16; W. S. Weeks, '16; H. A. Mack, '16; K. O. Hoh, '16; E. R. Holmes, '16.

The sergeants will be chosen as follows: each corporal will be assigned to a certain squad of which he will have charge during the entire year unless promoted. After a month or thereabouts, the corporal who has the best drilled squad will be made sergeant-major, and will be given a cup. The corporals having the best drilled squads in their respective companies will be made first sergeants of those companies, and will probably receive cups also. The other sergeants will be chosen from the best of the remaining corporals. This plan insures the selection of the best officers obtainable. To make the competition absolutely fair all freshmen and new students who have had previous military training will be assigned to the signal corps under Corporal Huntington and Mr. Rawson, who comes to us as a sophomore from Staunton Military Academy, Va.

Musicians seem to be much plentier than last year, and the band will be organized at once. A separate gray uniform trimmed with black braid will be provided for the band. The collar and the cap will be ornamented with a lyre and the letters "U. V. M.," in gilt. A handsome new baton has been presented to the drum major by Mr. Richold.

The General Howard civil war library has been loaned to the military department of the University by H. S. Howard, for reference purposes only. This is a loan which should be greatly appreciated, since the library contains much valuable material, including some works which could hardly be duplicated at any price.

The new assignment cards which are given to each newcomer as he enrolls answer all the questions—sensible and otherwise—which the average freshman can conjure up. The system of records now in use enables the officers to keep in remarkably close touch with their men, and a complete, up-to-date record of the work of any man in the department can be obtained at a moment's notice. The motto of the office seems to be: "A minimum of labor expended, and a maximum of results obtained."

The physical plant of the department has been entirely revamped, so much so in fact that one would scarcely recognize it. The shooting gallery has been walled in and divided into booths. The targets are handled by a system of wires and ropes, and the whole gallery has thus been made fireproof. The most important directions have been painted in large letters on the booths and affairs will proceed more smoothly in consequence.

With a man like Captain Reeves at its head, and with its present efficient and earnest body of student officers, the department seems about to enter upon the most successful and profitable year of its history.

VERMONT TRIMS MIDDLEBURY

by a Vermont man's holding. A series of line plays netted the visitors less than the required ground and a punt was attempted. Farr, Vermont's center, broke through and blocked the punt. As the ball struck the ground it bounded to Farr and he crossed the goal line for Vermont's touchdown. Capt. Whalen cleanly kicked the goal and the score was 7 to 0 in favor of Vermont.

Vermont kicked off to Middlebury's 20 yard line and Triggs carried the ball back to the 35 yard line. On a fumble Vermont recovered the ball but made no progress as time for the second period was up.

In the third quarter, Vermont kicked off to Middlebury's 35 yard line. Middlebury gained on skin tackle plays and were helped considerably by the penalties inflicted on Vermont for holding and off side. Vermont received Middlebury's punt and after a few line plunges attempted a forward pass which Middlebury interrupted. The quarter ended with the ball near the center of the field.

The final period opened with the ball in Middlebury's possession. A series of line plays resulted in Middlebury punting to Vermont. Vermont attempted a forward pass which Kron of Middlebury interrupted and raced 60 yards straight down the field for the visitor's touchdown. As the pass was made Vermont was penalized for an off side play but Middlebury refused the penalty. From directly in front of the goal posts, Jones of Middlebury, kicked the goal and tied the score. Vermont 7 and Middlebury 7.

With only three minutes remaining to win the game Vermont played some snappy football. The ball was worked to within striking distance of Middlebury goal and Whalen attempted a place kick which failed. Vermont on obtaining the ball again tried another place kick which the Green and Gold's captain cleanly kicked between the uprights.

The game on the whole was very well played. The teams were evenly matched and the open style of play was resorted to mostly. The score would undoubtedly have been larger in Vermont's favor had not the team been penalized so often. Fully 85 or 90 hard earned yards were taken away by holding or off side play and had it not been for this the score would not have been so close. Injuries continually halted the game but none of them were of a very serious nature.

Vermont's team showed up well in its first appearance of the year and great things are looked for in the future. The front line played an aggressive game and the backs carried the ball well. Vermont's ends appear stronger than in previous years. With a victory for a starter all confidence is placed in Coach O'Brien's team of 1913.

The line up:

An All-Vermont. Debating Association

order that real work may begin at the second meeting of the association. At the last meeting of the '15 club Prof. Tupper sized up the situation pretty accurately when he said, in substance: "Vermont's success in debate for the past ten or fifteen years has been intermittent and sporadic because it has been due to the occasional presence in college of a few brilliant debaters, and not to any large, general interest in debate or the backing of a strong college debating club. By the creation of such an interest and the formation of such a club we shall be enabled to put a team in the field every year. Then a debating tradition will be established and when this has once been done, a debating team will be as much a matter of course as a baseball team." The present club is designed to be inclusive and not exclusive, because debaters, unlike poets and musicians, can be made. In fact they must be made, though, as in other things, the quality of the finished product depends on the quality of the raw material, and the only place to make debaters is in a debating club. Then, too, a large membership is necessary in order to provide interesting programs without asking too much of a few.

There seems to be a larger general interest in debate at present than there has been in years. There is the largest entering class in Vermont's history. The faculty of the English department stands ready to aid in every way it can. There is a large nucleus of 1915 and '16 men to build on. It is up to every man to come out next Monday night and help build a debating club and a debating tradition worthy to take its place with the many others in which Vermont takes pride.

Coach J. J. O'Brien, told of the condition of his squad and asked for strong support in the cheering section. Manager Bartlett spoke concerning the football schedule, and said that it was a well rounded one. Captain Whalen spoke for the team and expressed confidence in its ability to win the Middlebury game. Editor Everitt and Manager Sykes put in a few good words for "Ye Crabbe," soliciting contributions and subscriptions.

Everitt and Olzendam tried out as cheer leaders. The freshmen furnished entertainment with a boxing match, rowing races, songs, and recitations. The band selections were much applauded.

CLASS CONTESTS AN EVEN SPLIT

of them. The advantage of holding the canes was given to the sophs in an attempt to offset the greater numbers of 1917.

It happened that one year of collegiate training had not sufficiently changed the bearing and physical characteristics of 1916, so that they would be at once recognized by their opponents in the heat of the battle. The freshmen, therefore, adorned their arms and backs with red paint. The sophs, meanwhile, withdrew to the Medical College and shortly came back, 60 strong, with similar sanguineous markings. This was a strong setback to the freshmen plans of organization.

The stage was set. The seniors stood at hand, somewhat self-conscious in their newly-found dignity. The juniors were there, spectators for the first time, feeling the weight of their recent advancement to upper classmen. The dear public, too, surged behind the ropes, as strong in numbers as we hope to see them at Centennial Field for the games. The day was crisp and perfect.

The 1916 contingent formed at the south end of the back campus. The freshmen lined up opposite. The last words of warnings, advice, and stratagem were uttered. The motion pictureman was ready. The songs and yells of derision were quieted. The opening gun was fired by Doctor Stone, and the rush began.

The rush was a heated scrap. The marshals on the side lines kept a large arena cleared. The heaving, struggling pile of caneholders was not preserved as in past years, but there were a number of open individual contests. The motion pictureman got many good views which will soon be exhibited at the World in Motion. The fierceness of the contest could be seen from the small scores, for most of the canes were broken. After seven minutes the pistol shot stopped hostilities. Disputed canes were adjudged and the count was made. Each whole cane counted two and each crook end with one foot of cane counted one. The freshmen scored 45 and the sophomores 25.

A few minutes intervened for choosing the tug-of-war teams, and after the holes were dug and all was prepared by Dr. Stone and the Boulder men, the first tug began. The freshmen pulled stronger and gained slowly but steadily a yard of rope from their opponents. This pull lasted two minutes. The second and third pulls were walkovers for the sophomores. They must have gained in skill while the frosh lost through overconfidence. Neither of the last two pulls went the whole period of two minutes. As soon as the first freshman was pulled over the line, Dr. Stone fired his gun and the victory was awarded to the sophs. Eight men formed each team. Motion pictures were made of this also.

The contests were spirited because of a few informal hostilities of former evenings. About half of the freshmen were ducked in the fountain on Thursday night, and so tackled the Saturday scraps with vim.

William E. Whalen was field marshal of the day.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR CROSS-COUNTRY

4:40, 54 seconds. Cintron is also a short distance man, and Shippy a half miler.

The biggest events this fall will be the cross-country runs, and Captain Hayden thinks this year's team will outclass last year's. Of this he is quite positive. Several men are already out, some of whom are showing up well. More are wanted.

The first meet will be held Wednesday, October 15; entries to close Saturday, October 11. It will be an interclass meet, and numerals will doubtless be awarded. It may as well be stated here that the track offers one of the best opportunities for winning numerals, a letter, prizes, etc., to be found in the University.

BISMAYA, THE ANCIENT CITY OF ADAB

Lecture by Dr. E. J. Banks, Archaeologist

On the evening of September 29, a large audience, completely filling William Science hall, listened to a very interesting illustrated lecture on exploration and excavations among the ruins of ancient Bismaya in Babylonia by Dr. E. J. Banks of the Chicago University.

Dr. Banks went out under the direction of Chicago University, and supported by a fund donated by John D. Rockefeller.

The route was via Beirut, Bagdad, and Babylon to the Tigris valley. The methods of transportation in the 30 day journey were carriage, camel, and goat skin rafts. Bismaya, the objective point, is in Mesopotamia.

The excavations were extensive. A native tribe was hired for the work. The process of the excavation was described in detail and shown in many slides. There were many important finds: well proportioned marble statues, pottery, and copper utensils,—all of great antiquity.

The lecture was exceedingly interesting and made archaeology seem a very live subject.

SATURDAY, OCT. 4, 1913.

It is gratifying to see the college year opening so auspiciously. The 1914 class president started things well when he called the senior class meeting fully ten days earlier than most years and allowed all the succeeding classes to elect officers without any delay. It is good to see activities well started instead of hanging fire. A good smoker and a football victory help to give us a feeling that we have begun right.

Vermont is a long way from being deservedly called "a singing college," yet in time we may win such a desirable title. Our singing has improved immensely within the three years that the present seniors have been here. A graduate of ten years ago returning to Vermont from a far country would have reason to be amazed at the change in the songs and the singing. That period of ten years has seen a new generation of songs composed and widely sung. "Grand Old Vermont," "Hail to Vermont," "The Old Mill Song," and others started the new songs. The last two years have seen the composition of "Hail, Green and Gold," and the adaptation of old tunes of rich harmony into "Old Vermont is E'er Victorious," and "Hurrah for the Green and the Gold." These songs are being sung better and more widely each year. The smokers have been more enjoyable on this account. One campus "hum" last spring was a pleasing event. At Centennial Field, however, there is much to be desired in the way of improved singing. If there is a strong wind blowing the length of the grand stand and some one on the leeward end starts a song, a verse is practically finished before those on the windward end are aware that anyone is singing. We ought to sing strongly enough to carry against the wind. We could use some good song leaders as well as cheer leaders, and there are several men now in college who could be developed into good song leaders.

The fraternity rushing season now practically closed has been marked by more sanity and conservatism than most rushing seasons of recent years. This is an encouraging sign. It may very possibly mean that a large majority of the fraternities will be ready to go several steps farther and unite in a rushing system for next fall. A fraternity which can say unreservedly that it is satisfied with the present rushing methods is making a dangerous admission. How can any one believe that a fraternity can size up a man or that a man can intelligently choose a fraternity on the snap judgments of the present conditions? These quick decisions contain elements of danger for fraternity and man alike, and at times result very unsatisfactorily for both. Fraternities must realize that they are temporarily lowering themselves from that stand of dignity which they would like to assume and which properly belongs to them as strong and perpetual organizations. Every one knows that the present way of showering attentions upon the freshman gives him a wrong viewpoint, an exaggerated opinion of his own importance, which is very deplorable.

A rushing system should be established. It should be entered into with open eyes, however. The present lack of system is very unsatisfactory, but a rushing system can not be perfect. Even if it accomplishes what most of its designers seek, there may still be some dissatisfaction. In the industrial world the competitive system does not please every one, but it seems the only practical way. In a rushing system we still have keen competition, robbed of most of its evils. Once established it will certainly work for fraternity dignity, and we believe that it will work for greater inter-fraternity harmony. We have yet to hear of any local conditions which would make it impracticable at Vermont.

University Senate Notice

The names of students who are to be commended for high standing in their studies shall be announced at chapel service and posted on the bulletin board at the beginning of the second half of freshman year, of the first half of junior year and be published in the catalogue; the names to be divided into two groups of which the first shall contain the names of those who have obtained "A" in all their studies (the same studies to count as in final honors,) and the second the names of those who are ineligible for the first group, but whose grades have fallen below "B". This does not apply to the college of medicine.

RHODES SCHOLARSHIP EXAMINATION SOON

Held at Northfield. Last Chance for Two Years

The Rhodes scholarship examinations for the State of Vermont will be held this year at Norwich University, October 14-15. The committee of selection in charge is composed of President Guy Potter Benton, chairman, of the University of Vermont; President John H. Thomas of Middlebury college; the Right Rev. A. C. A. Hall, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Vermont; President Charles H. Spooner of Norwich University; and Hon. J. A. DeBoer, president of the National Life Insurance Company of Montpelier. The place of holding the examinations will hereafter rotate among the three institutions of higher learning in the State.

The election of Rhodes scholars is held every three years and since the tenure of the scholarship is three years, two Vermonters are always in Oxford University. Elias Lyman Jr., U. V. M., '11, has been at Oxford two years and Wayne Bosworth, Middlebury, '11, leaves for there this fall. The successful candidate this year will go in 1914 to succeed Mr. Lyman.

The scholarships are valued at three hundred pounds, or fifteen hundred dollars a year. Written examinations must be passed by the candidates in arithmetic, algebra, Greek grammar, Latin grammar, and translation from Latin and Greek, and those passing such tests are required to meet the committee of selection in person before a choice is made. Full particulars may be obtained at Dr. Benton's office.

C. F. Robinson, orchestra leader, is already on the lookout for men, and desires all who are interested in the work to communicate with him. About ten of last year's glee club men have returned to college. Douglas Roberts is director. Seth Johnson has resigned from the managership, and his successor has not as yet been chosen.

CASSIUS PECK

The death of the Hon. Cassius Peck takes from among us a Vermonter of the old, rock-maple type. Shrewd, dryly humorous, big-hearted, straight as a string, with a New England conscience and a Yankee's inborn sagacity, he represented for years in the University of Vermont, that element of practical sagacity which is necessary even in an institution of higher learning. He knew Vermont farmers, because he was one of them. He knew Vermont legislators, because he had served three terms in the Vermont legislature, one in the senate and two in the house. He knew the University and was bound up heart and soul in its welfare, because he was for 23 years a member of its board of trustees, for 22 years a member of the board of control of the Experiment Station, and for 16 years superintendent of the Experiment Farm. His three sons Cassius R. Peck, ('02), Marcus R. Peck, ('06), and Arthur K. Peck, ('10), all graduated from the University and took an unusually active part in the undergraduate life. He was a man for whom Senator Proctor cherished a warm affection, and in whom our late President Buckham found a trusty and helpful advisor.

Cassius Peck had the gift of human wisdom, sometimes mistakenly called "horse sense," which singles men out without regard to education or condition and makes them great in council. President Buckham recognized in this man something of use to supplement his own fine powers and rare accomplishments. During some of the hard years when the late president was building up the University to its present independent position, insisting always on sound methods and farsighted plans, no man was closer in his counsels than this shrewd sensible son of our Green mountains. He knew little about the science of pedagogy, and philology did not interest him. But if a professor were to be added to the teaching staff President Buckham would call in Mr. Peck, and though he might not have much to say about the quality of the applicant's Greek, he could make some very pertinent guesses as to the character and quality of the man.

President Buckham loved to relate how on one occasion the whole faculty incensed at the circulation by an irresponsible fellow of untruthful and malicious stories about the University, had resolved themselves into a kind of indignation meeting. After one professor had advised writing to the newspapers and another had suggested an official statement refuting the lies and still another had avowed that the man deserved to be shown up somehow, he president said, "Mr. Peck, what would you do?" Mr. Peck gave the question a moment's consideration and then drawled out his reply: "You know, Mr. President, I never yet made much by kicking a skunk." The whole faculty ultimately decided that it would be the part of wisdom to accept Mr. Peck's suggestion.

Cassius Peck was a Vermonter among Vermonters. Wise without frills and good without pretentiousness, he was the rare kind of man who is always worth while in a community. When Vermont ceases to produce men of this kind, it will no longer be Vermont.

A consideration of Mr. Peck's life would be incomplete without some mention of his military record which was a splendid one. Mr. Peck enlisted from Brookfield as a private in Company F, First Regiment, U. S. Sharpshooters on September 11, 1861. He was made corporal on September 1, 1862, and sergeant on May 1, 1863. He mustered out of the U. S. service, September 12, 1864. He was in some 33 battles and combats including the Peninsular campaign of '62, and the battles of Antietam, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, the Wilderness campaign, and Petersburg. For distinguished gallantry in action at Blackford's Ford, Va. on September 19 and 20, '62, where he captured Rebel cannon and prisoners, he was awarded the congressional Medal of Honor. At Petersburg on June 16, 1864, Sergeant Peck showed great bravery in carrying haversacks of fresh ammunition across an open field to sharpshooters in the front. He was one of the bravest Vermont soldiers in the war for the Union. He was an unerring shot, a thorough gentleman, kind and considerate of his men, and especially interested in the care and comfort of his sick and wounded comrades in battle. He was very modest and reticent about himself and his service as a soldier. He was much beloved by his comrades.

ALUMNI NOTES

Ex-1865. Dr. Edwin W. Bartlett died at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Sept. 11, after a long period of ill health. He was born in Jericho, Dec. 10, 1839, and graduated from the medical department of the University in 1866. He studied in Europe for a few years and went to Milwaukee where he had a practise specializing in optics. He was professor of ophthalmology in the Milwaukee Medical College. He was a member of the Sigma Phi fraternity. A wife, three sons, and a daughter survive him, one brother, Joel B. Bartlett, of Shelburne.

1910. Prof. H. W. Beecher died at Madison, Wis., on Sept. 2 after an illness of six weeks. He had been teaching in the American International College before his death.

Miss Alta Grismer, '13, who is teaching in Enosburg Falls, spent the week end at her home in Burlington.

Miss Carol Hatch, '13, has been obliged to give up her position in the Bristol High School on account of ill health.

The Misses Amy Wilson, '10, Marion Dane, '09, and Lois Redmond, '11, are teaching in the Lyndon Institute.

Elias Lyman, Jr., '11, has sailed for England where he will begin his third year at Trinity College, Oxford, as Rhodes scholar.

Advocates Legal Reforms in Three Articles

George W. Alger, '92, of New York City is the author of a series of three articles in "The World's Work," entitled "Swift and Cheap Justice." The first paper appears in the October number, and is called "Organizing the Courts for Business."

His article gives several illustrations of the chaotic conditions existing in the courts of several of the states and large cities. In most states facts are not available for an intelligent or adequate criticism. The various cases which he cites show "an extraordinary condition of congestion and delay, due to an inadequate number of judges attempting to operate an archaic system."

His closing paragraph is as follows:

"The doing of justice is not business, but the organization of the machinery by which justice can be done efficiently is business. No higher service can be done by men skilled in organization than this work of, first, creating the necessary public demands for the business organization of the courts, and second, when that demand has taken concrete form and the way has been cleared, of establishing the courts upon a plan which is ordered, intelligent, and adequate."

Mr. Alger is a lawyer and publicist who has previously turned much of his attention to formulating reforms in our legal system. After getting his A. B. at the University in 1892, he took a law course at the University of the City of New York. He was admitted to the New York bar and since then has practiced in New York City.

WOMEN'S NOTES

Y. W. C. A. Reception

The annual reception given by the Y. W. C. A. for the young women of the entering class was held at Grassmount the first night of the college year, Wednesday, Sept. 24. Almost the entire body of women students was present. Miss Katherine Wilcox, '14, president of Y. W. C. A., Miss Terrill, Miss Marjorie Watson, '14, chairman of the social committee, and Miss Marshall received. A musical program and a conversation order of ten numbers was heartily entered into and enjoyed. Refreshments were served and the evening closed with the singing of Vermont songs.

A tea was given for the new home economics students Thursday afternoon, Sept. 25, by the Home Economics Club in the laboratory at Morrill Hall. Miss Terrill poured and the Misses Durfee, '14, Doten, '15, Kimball, '15, Sparrow, '14, and Shepardson, '14, served.

The first Y. W. C. A. meeting of the year was held at Grassmount Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. There was a large attendance of both old and new girls. Miss Katherine Wilcox, '14, president of the Y. W. C. A., gave an interesting and inspiring talk on the work and the extent of the association. Miss Terrill spoke concerning the college ideal. Miss Frances Tenney, '17, then rendered a solo in a very pleasing manner and the meeting was brought to a close.

The University has rented the house on the corner of Fletcher Place and Pearl Street, and has remodeled it for a new dormitory for women. The house has been newly painted, papered and furnished throughout, and it is thought it will prove much more satisfactory than the old dormitory, Lyman Hall.

The house, which is in charge of Mrs. Stetson, accommodates 17 women.

The Bacon Bat

After the cane rush Saturday, the women of the University tramped to Oak Ledge, just south of Burlington, where they held a bacon bat. A huge pile of brush was heaped upon the shore, and at dusk the fire was merrily crackling and the fragrant aroma from the gigantic coffee pot over which Miss Terrill presided was indeed most alluring. Each girl having fastened the required number of strips of bacon on her stick toasted it over the fire and made a delicious sandwich. When each had had her fill of bacon the marshmallows were opened and toasted. Half past seven saw every spark extinguished, every dish packed, the last burst of laughter died away, the stars came out and silence once more claimed her own.

Fall Baseball Practice

The University has started a rather new experiment this year in fall baseball practice. For a week now a good sized bunch of new men have been going through their paces on the back campus. Coach Winters, Captain Berry and Manager Donahue, together with several of the old men, are out every night, and the "sizing up" process has already begun.

Among the candidates are Spear who pitched for St. Albans last season, and was considered one of the best high school men in the state; Murnae from Brown; Kenney from Colgate; and Staunton from Cushing Academy. Lyons, who used to do some work at short, is also back in college.

Pi Beta Phi Gathering

The Pi Beta Phi fraternity rooms on Hickok Place were the scene of a very happy gathering last Saturday night when the patronesses of the chapter, Mrs. C. V. Grismer, Mrs. E. F. Gebhart, Miss Mina Walker, and Mrs. G. E. Partridge entertained the chapter and presented it with gifts which consisted of china, cut glass and silver; and the alumnae gave a beautiful china cabinet and linen. Mrs. C. V. Grismer made a very witty speech of presentation, while Miss Rowell, '01, spoke in behalf of the alumnae. Miss Jane McLaughlin, '14, expressed the gratitude of the active chapter. Refreshments were served. Among the alumnae present were Mrs. R. C. Drew, '01; Maud Chaffee, '08, Sylvia Warren, ex-'10, Mrs. R. P. Tuttle, '05; Bertha Coventy, '12; Alta Grismer, '13, Ruth Gregory, '11, Jennie Rowell, '09, Ruth Catlin, ex-'12, and Grace Sylvester, '10.

Football Topics

On account of the death of Half Back Belyea, who broke one of his vertebrae when tackled in the Holy Cross game, Norwich has cancelled the football schedule. This is the first football fatality of the year. May it be the only one. Harvard is now left without a game on October 25. The Carlisle Indians are said to be making overtures for this date.

Most of the big teams ran up against Tartars last Saturday. Colgate and Cornell played a no score tie, Yale scored but 10 on Holy Cross, and Princeton was held down by Rutgers with a 14 to 3 score. The teams on our schedule made the following scores:

Williams, 14	R. P. I., 0
Dartmouth, 13	Mass. A. C., 3
Bowdoin, 17	N. H. State, 0
Fordham, 27	St. Peters, 0
Brown, 0	Colby, 10
Tufts, 15	Bates, 7

Robinson's Singing Orchestra

The College Orchestra this year is no longer amateur but professional to the utmost degree and it is hoped that the college organizations will recognize this fact and patronize it. A college with an orchestra like U. V. M.'s could but be proud of it. With C. F. Robinson, leader of last year's instrumental club, as leader and "Dick" Gordon playing first violin, Lovejoy cornet and Ellis clarinet what more could be asked? Robinson has been playing all summer in a hotel at Kennebunk Beach, Maine, Gordon has been playing at the Lake Placid Club in the Adirondacks of New York, Lovejoy has been playing around Vermont with Ellis.

Last year the orchestra was in demand somewhat in college but mostly outside of the city. This year it should be used for all college events. When there is any money to be earned, why not pay it to our own U. V. M. men who are working for the good of the college? Other colleges do! There is more musical material in college than ever before, simply because of last year's advertising which the orchestra gave the college around the state. Many young musicians are coming this way with the hopes of "making" the orchestra and incidentally earning part of their expenses here in college.

With this understanding of the situation, it is hoped that whenever an orchestra is to be hired that the U. V. M. orchestra will be the choice, not only because of loyalty to the college but because of its quality which is not a bit less than any other in the city.

Write or see Carl F. Robinson, 60 North Willard Street, for dates or see any member of the orchestra.

NEW INTEREST IN DEBATING SHOWN

College Association Formed—Nearly Fifty Charter Members

That a new, general, and active interest in debate has arisen in the University of Vermont, an interest which will mean much to the University and its undergraduate body, collectively and individually, was evidenced by the meeting held in the "Old Mill" Monday evening, Oct. 6, for the formation of the University of Vermont Debating Association. Forty-six were present.

H. A. Bailey, ex-president of the 1915 Debating Club, opened the meeting and explained its aim with a statement of the action taken by the 1915 Debating Club at its last meeting of last year with a view to the formation of the new society, and also reviewed the work which had been done during the summer with the same purpose in view.

President Benton, who was present, was next called upon for an expression of his opinions concerning the formation of the new society, and proved to be enthusiastically in favor of it. During his talk he deplored the decadence of the spirit of oratory and debate which has taken place of late years despite the supremacy of the spoken over the written word, and its great power in the world. He advocated the revival of the old forensic or literary society and illustrated its surprising value to some of the foremost men of today. A motive idea was his suggestion of an international debate between McGill University and the University of Vermont. He

Blankets for Football Team

The committee appointed to raise money to obtain blankets for the men on the football team wishes to thank those who have responded, and to urge those who have not yet paid to do so as soon as possible. The sum of twenty-five cents is asked of each male student for this purpose. Fifty dollars has already been raised, but ten dollars more is necessary to pay for twelve blankets. The money may be handed to Henry C. Fisk, W. A. Sturgis or M. D. Fuller of the Key and Serpent Society.

TENNIS NEWS

Match with Ethan Allen Club—Fall Tournament

The University tennis team will play a team representing the Ethan Allen Club this morning on the club court. This contest will probably be the only one this fall and an exciting one, as the men are in excellent condition resulting from constant practice during the summer. Captain Dow and McFarland will probably represent the University.

The student tournament schedule was posted last Wednesday and the matches will be played off as soon as possible. The two weeks required for running this event off will give Captain Dow ample opportunity for looking over the material in the freshman class. He hopes to find some good stuff.

At a meeting of the athletic committee Captain Dow and Ex-Captain Brigham McFarland were awarded tennis sweaters.

—Williams Record

Inferiority on the offense and poor tackling were big factors in the defeat which was administered upon the Varsity by Williams at Williams-town last Saturday, when they rolled up a score of 20.

Vermont did not get the ball by her 40 yard line, and had little to offer when in possession of the ball. Toolan, the Williams half back was the star. He made many long runs, one time returning one of Whalen's strong punts 43 yards through the whole Vermont team. Vermont was handicapped in the loss of Putnam and Claffey and by the injury of Tomassi. Vinal, Hunnewell, and Walker did brilliant work for the Purple.

Williams scored a touchdown in each of the first three periods; the first as a result of a long run by Toolan and a series of plunges, the second on a kick blocked by Walker and recovered by Vinal, and the third Toolan's 43-yard runback of a punt and his twenty yard dash outside of left tackle.

JUNIORS ELECT OFFICERS

Dean Chosen President

The junior class met Wednesday, October 8, and after adopting a constitution elected the following officers: president, Leon Dean; vice-president, Miss Mabel Watts; secretary, Miss Irene Barrett; treasurer, Jerome Tennien; athletic committee-man, Harold Mayforth; executive committee, Leslie Kendall, Charles Morse, Walter Grein, Miss Bernadine Kimball, Miss Marie McMahon.

DARTMOUTH TODAY

Varsity Faces the Green at Hanover

Although Dartmouth has most of its old team back this year, it looks as though today's game will not be a repetition of last year's slaughter. Each team has played two games so far, Vermont defeating Middlebury 10-7, and losing to Williams 20-0, while Dartmouth has beaten M. A. C. 13-3 and Colby 53-0. Colby defeated Brown earlier in the season, but played the Dartmouth game with nine substitutes which may account for the Green's large score. Dartmouth Varsity defeated its freshmen by a 21-0 score. It is claimed that Dartmouth was weak at tackle and quarterback in this game.

With a much better team than last year's, and much tackling practice which last year's team did not have, the Vermont team, while there is no expectation of a victory, ought at least to keep the score down within conservative limits.

NO 1915 ARIEL

Class Votes it Down—Senior Class Book Substituted

The juniors voted in class meeting on Wednesday not to publish an "Ariel." Instead they will publish a class book during the senior year.

The "Ariel" as the college annual has held an important place in the college life for many years. Twenty-seven volumes have been published. The CYNIC of April 1, 1885 was the first on record to advocate a college annual. An editorial pointed out its value to the college and cited as examples all the other prominent colleges where such an annual had proved universally successful. The suggestion bore fruit and in December 1885 the CYNIC informs us that the first year-book was under way.

Student Council Meets

The student council met on Monday at the call of the former chairman, Hovey Jordan, '13. It was suggested at the time that some provision be made for continuing the former members in office wherever practicable and the question of two young women upon the council was also brought up. The suggestion of the council will be embodied in a letter from Dean Perkins to the classes.

NEW INTEREST IN DEBATING SHOWN

emphasized the immense project that could be gained from such an organization by all concerned and closed with the expression of the wish that the University of Vermont would make itself felt in the college world in this department of its activities. Professor Aiken followed with a short speech showing the opportunities and possibilities of the new society in an inspiring way, demonstrating the worth of debating experience and work.

A constitution was then presented by Dean, '15, chairman of the committee in charge of it, and it was adopted unanimously. The election of officers followed, with the following results:—president, Bailey, '15; vice-president, D. Howe, '14; recording secretary, Sanford, '15; corresponding secretary, Prindle, '15; and treasurer, Piper, '16.

Professor Andrews then laid before the meeting a proposition to enter a Twin-State Peace Association League with Dartmouth, New Hampshire State College and Middlebury. This aroused much interest and will probably be taken up. A report is to be made upon the subject at the next meeting.

President Bailey then discussed the question of a room for meetings, and the meeting was adjourned.

There was an undercurrent of expectancy and business-like energy about the meeting which augurs well for the future of the association. The new work is undertaken with a determination which cannot but succeed, and it behooves every man to go into it and make the most of it, for his own sake, and for that of the University.

NO 1915 ARIEL

The first "Ariel" was a sophomore annual published by the class of 1888 in February, 1885. The editor was John M. Cantwell, and he had three assistants. No one seems to have been designated as manager, the importance of that office not being realized perhaps. It was a modest volume with a paper cover. The cuts were all from pen and ink sketches, and half tones were absent. It contained many "grinds" and much wit and humor which was lacking in most of the more recent "Ariels," which have become more ornate and better illustrated. The "Ariel" did not appear in 1887. But in 1888 the class of '89, published the second number and it has remained a junior annual down to the present day. The same methods of recording the college events of the year have been followed with some amplification.

The reasons given for its discontinuance are first of all the financial burden upon the juniors and secondly the lack of change in the book from year to year. The last three numbers have been more expensive for the juniors than any previous volumes because the edict of the Merchants' Protective Association has practically removed all Burlington advertising. Class taxes from $8.00 to $15.00 have been necessary. Other classes, it is said, have not helped the juniors by purchasing "Ariels." Where once 600 copies used to be sold, but 250 copies are now printed, and very few are sold outside the class. College fraternities and societies have paid heavy prices for the space devoted to them. At the same time it must be said that the "Ariel" of the past few years does not appeal to the graduates so much as the old "Ariels." The literary and humorous departments have been so cut down that the book has lost much of its distinctive character. No real effort has been made to get much alumni support, and the very late appearance of the "Ariel" during the past few years has done much to reduce its sale.

The CYNIC thinks that a college annual has an important place at Vermont. We believe that its lack will be evident and its revival will come soon. It will need an editor who can revive the literary side and an exceptional manager who can get good support from other undergraduates and many alumni. It may be necessary to make a modest start by having fewer cuts, cheaper binding and more compact arrangement. We predict, however, that the "Ariel" will come back.

WILLIAMS SHOWS TOO MUCH SPEED

Hunnewell ran Whalen's kick-off in 20 yards to the 38 yard line, and Toolan immediately skirted left end for 35 yards on a delayed pass. After six straight rushes had carried the ball to the 8-yard mark, Toolan again circled left end and crossed the line for a touchdown. Walker kicked the goal. Carrier recovered Glidden's fumble of Walker's kick-off and returned the ball 30 yards to the 36-yard line. A penalty for holding and two successive losses drove Vermont back to her 12-yard line whereupon Whalen punted to midfield. Williams started down the field. A 25-yard run by Hunnewell featured the advance and brought the ball to the 16-yard line before time was called.

At the opening of the second period, Williams lost the ball on a forward pass which Dolphin secured two yards in front of his goal line. Walker, however, blocked Whalen's kick a moment later and Vinal fell on the ball for a touchdown. Walker missed the goal.

In the second half St. John returned the kick-off 16 yards to the 33-yard line and a moment later Whalen punted. Toolan caught the ball on Williams' 30 yard line and in a spectacular broken field run carried it 43 yards to Vermont's 27-yard line. A 5-yard gain by Hunnewell and a 22-yard dash outside of tackle by Toolan resulted in a third touchdown. Walker kicked the goal.

From this point on, Coach Daly sent many new men into the game, which served to weaken the Varsity. Pretty runs however by Payson and MacNamee for 10 and 15 yards respectively helped to keep the ball well in Vermont's territory.

The line-up follows:

Y. M. C. A. AND Y. W. C. A. HOLD RECEPTION

Freshmen Entertained. Pres. Benton and Hon. Robert Roberts Speak

The freshmen received their first glimpse of college social life through a reception given in their honor at the gymnasium, Thursday, October 2, by the college Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Notwithstanding the bad weather there were many there. The program for the evening was novel and decidedly interesting. Upon entering the newcomer was presented with a small card on which his name and numeral were written. This was pinned in some conspicuous place and furnished an easy means of identification. Each class had a different colored card which helped the freshmen in distinguishing upper classmen, and made acquaintance-ship easier.

Soon directions were given, and the men lined up on one side of the room and the girls on the other, and partners were chosen in a game where fate held the cards. This preliminary over, the grand march was started, Capt. and Mrs. Reeves leading. After this had broken up, committeemen hurried through the crowd pinning little slips of paper on everyone's back. The object of this game was for persons to guess what was written on the slips on their backs, being guided by the conversation and questions of those around. As soon as the riddle was solved the slip was removed and pinned in front.

President Guy Potter Benton then delivered a word of welcome, impressing on the minds of the freshmen, the advantage, help, and usefulness, of the two college Christian associations and urging all who could to join them. Ex-mayor Robert Roberts followed with a speech giving a few reminiscences of his life in U. V. M. many years ago. Refreshments of ice cream and wafers were served, which concluded the program of the evening, and the party gradually broke up.

The reception was directed by J. V. Piper, '16, and Miss Grace Nutting, '15, chairmen of the social committees of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. respectively. Others in charge were Prof. R. D. Thomson, Rodney Ellis, '14, M. H. Davis, '15, A. D. Seaver, '16, H. N. Hanson, '15, Miss Shepardson, '14, Miss Fauley, '16, Miss Mabel Watts, '15, Miss Gates, '15. Robinson's college orchestra furnished the music. The receiving line was composed of Allen Schoff, '14, president of the Y. M. C. A., Miss Wilcox, '14, president of the Y. W. C. A., President and Mrs. Benton, Dr. Barnes, and Miss Terrill.

THE BAND DANCE

First College Dance Largely Attended—Robinson's Orchestra Pleases

Last Friday evening in the "Gym" the first college dance of the season was held for the benefit of the military band. About sixty couples attended the affair which was a success in every way as the band will realize about thirty dollars for their new uniforms.

Robinson's singing orchestra was an innovation and furnished excellent music for the dancing. Their services were given free of charge, with the idea of giving the students an inkling of what they can do in the musical line when the occasion presents itself. If enough student dances are landed to warrant it, the orchestra will be enlarged.

The patronesses were Capt. and Mrs. Ira L. Reeves, Mrs. Lawrence W. Swan and Prof. R. D. Thomson.

TRACK PRACTICE

Twenty Candidates Out

Captain Hayden of the cross-country team and Dr. Stone report about twenty men out every night and all working hard. This is the largest squad ever out for fall track work in the history of the college. The cross-country material is especially promising, as there are out a large number of men of about equal ability who are pushing each other to the utmost for positions on the team. "Shep" is working every night and leads the practice in person. Much credit is due him and Trainer Stone for the interest shown this year in track work.

Although there are no matches arranged as yet in cross-country, Manager Thomas reports a favorable outlook as regards matches pending with Colgate and Middlebury. There will be an interclass track meet on Centennial Field on Oct. 15.

Saturday's Scores

The teams on our schedule made the following scores last Saturday:

Dartmouth, 53	Colby, 0
Bowdoin, 7	Wesleyan, 13
Fordham, 0	Princeton, 69
Tufts, 52	N. H. State, 0

The game between Brown and R. I. State was postponed.

1917 Nominations

The following nominations have been made for officers of the freshman class:

President, M. I. Kelly, Denning.
Vice-president, Miss Margaret Murphy, Miss Blanche Montgomery.
Treasurer, William Rutter, Philip Morey, Harold Batchelder.
Secretary, Miss Mary Loomis,

Miss Mabel Durway, Miss Madeline Murdock.

Executive board, (three men, two women), Allen Morgan, Raymond Bruya, Robert Nenno, Henry Way, "Kid" Brailey, Miss Young, Miss Sadie Norris, Miss Rubie Tuttle.

Classical Club

There will be a meeting of the Classical Club in the Classical Club rooms at 7:30 o'clock, Wednesday evening, October 15, 1913. All students of the University who have had one year of college Latin or more are cordially invited to attend.

Prize Essay Rules

Regulations for contestants for Philo Bennett and Robert D. Benedict prizes:

Contestants for these prizes are hereby notified that the essays should be presented to the committee on honors the first week in May, and that they should be ready to present themselves for examination upon the subject chosen at that time.

The pages should be typewritten, should be supplied with references to citations, and accompanied with a bibliography of books consulted. The name of the author should not be attached to the paper, but a pseudonym, and a sealed envelope containing the real name with pseudonym superscribed, should accompany the thesis.

Suitable subjects for essays, in the case of the Philo Bennett prize, will be furnished upon application to the committee.

By order of the committee on honors and advanced degrees.

Secretary

WOMEN'S NOTES

Miss Sarah Pomeroy, editor-in-chief of the official Pi Beta Phi publication, "The Arrow," is a guest of the Pi Beta Phi chapter. Thursday afternoon a tea was given in her honor, at which the alumnae and friends of the chapter were guests.

A Y. W. C. A. meeting was held Thursday afternoon, at which the Silver Bay delegates made their reports. The delegates were Miss Wilcox, '14, Miss Coulman, '14, Miss Dyke, '16, Miss Gifford, '14, Miss Ward, '16. The faculty ladies were guests at a tea, following the meeting.

1886 Daniel S. Cady and Mrs. Mary E. Wells were married Monday, Oct. 6, at 10.15 a. m. at the home of the bride in Burlington. Col. Tracy Jeffords of Washington, D. C., a classmate of Mr. Cady, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Cady will spend the winter in Paris, London and Italy, and will return to Burlington next spring.

Where is the training table? Two years ago when every man voluntarily raised his athletic tax $2.50 there was a general impression that it was for a training table. Contrary to expectations the relay and track teams were not thus provided for. Now when the athletic fee is fixed $2.50 higher we still have an impression that this increase was made to run a training table. If we have been deceiving ourselves all this time we should like to know it.

In recent years the whole college has usually taken one trip each year to see a Vermont team play at some other college. Football trips and baseball trips are usually taken in alternate years. Last year over 200 students accompanied the football team to Dartmouth. We hope that the baseball schedule may be arranged so that next spring the college may take such a trip either to Amherst or Williams or to Dartmouth.

The movement to revive debating at Vermont is starting with an enthusiasm which is encouraging. The debating club is part of our college life which should never be neglected. To dwell upon the advantages of debate is not necessary here, but it must be said that a debating club will confer upon its members more practical benefits than many of the other organizations that are now among us. The new organization was effected in as thorough a way as if some one had planned it all out two years ago. A modest beginning was made in the two class debating clubs of 1915 and 1916. With these organizations as a nucleus the new college debating club is pretty sure to live three years. If it fulfills its mission and trains up some new men it will live longer.

Owen Johnson, the author of "Stover at Yale," turned his attention to the social systems of the various colleges soon after the completion of his book two years ago. After considering the system at Yale he summed it up by saying that "it tended to make a man strong at the risk of making him narrow." That is, the keen competition for membership in the three senior societies caused each man to specialize overmuch in some one branch of college activities.

In our little University we are in no danger of this criticism. Numbers are small and college activities are many, so the competition is not keen. It is practically true here that a man can achieve whatever he goes after in earnest, if he has any natural aptitude. Football, dramatics, track, musical clubs, and the college papers, could all use more hard-working candidates. But there are no big cuts in the squad and few who try are left by the wayside. This lack of intense rivalry has its good points. It makes college affairs more easy-going, gives wide openings to men of ambition, and tends to make men broad and well-rounded. But it also works for inefficiency and tends to make some of our organizations run in a manner that is too slack and amateurish. This lack of competition may produce directly opposite results from the Yale system; it may make men too broad; they may have so many interests that they spread all their energy out too thin. One does not have to look far to see a few men who are trying to carry their studies and at the same time engaging in a large number of widely varying college activities. They are doing more than their share.

It is not the purpose of this editorial to advise some of these natural leaders to retire from some of their interests and to specialize on a smaller number of activities. It is doubtful whether their places could be capably filled by others at once. But there are too few leaders and too many followers. Too many men drift along and do not try out for any of the positions of honor and responsibility which are looking for more candidates. Why is it that for four or five years the Boulder Society has not found enough worthy men to fill up the ranks? Simply because there are too many followers. We must have a more general participation in college activities. Those who have hung back must push themselves forward and make a keener competition. Then the men who are at the same time engaged in football, track, musical clubs, and college papers, (perhaps these are exaggerated cases,) will willingly withdraw from some and specialize in others. Now they are scattering their fire. It is necessary that all should specialize to some extent, yet there is no need of becoming narrow on this account. Devote the best of your energies to a few lines, but be interested and keep posted and be willing to help all other deserving activities.

The present application of this plea for a greater but more specialized participation is this: candidates are now wanted for assistant managerships in football and track, for cheer leaders, and for the track team, and men will soon be asked to try out for places on the CYNIC. If conditions were normal there should be from four to fifteen candidates for each position. Conditions are not normal; there are few who are showing active ambition. If you are not satisfied that you are putting in your best efforts for Vermont, this is your chance.

COMMUNICATIONS

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CYNIC:—

It was quite evident at the recent college smoker that Vermont is not a "singing college." The writer submits, however, that now is a good time for a change. Within the past year several new songs have appeared and now we are requiring the freshmen to learn the songs. We have an attractive new song book.

Destructive criticism or "crabbing" only never carries far and the writer of this short note disavows any intention of being a "crabber." On the contrary here's a little suggestion you can have for just what it's worth. Couldn't we form a loose organization, call it the "Hum Club" and get the boys together occasionally for a good old hum of Vermont songs and college songs generally? If some one of the fraternities will invite the boys around for that purpose some evening and provide someone to "pound the box," I think we may start something.

A freshman remarked the other day that it was a little inconsistent for the sophomores to ask the freshmen to learn the songs they themselves did not know. Of course we "sat on" such presumption, but after all, wasn't there something in it?

Loyal Ethelbert Sherwin, 1893

Mr. Sherwin entered the University from Chester, in which town he was born 16 July, 1869, the son of Ransom Sherwin and Sylvia Marion Tarbell. He got ready for college in his home town. After receiving his first degree he taught a year in Mendon, Mass., two years in Walpole, N. H., and two or three years in Chester. For a brief period he was engaged as a book agent. He then turned to the study of the law, reading under the direction of George Fletcher of Chester and J. C. Enright of Windsor, and was admitted to the bar in May, 1902. In 1906-08 he represented Chester in the legislature; in 1908-10 he was State senator from Windsor County. He had membership with the Masons, Odd Fellows, the Grange, Sons of Veterans and Red Men; and was connected with the Episcopal church. His mother died several years ago; his father survives him.

Rev. Charles Cutler Torrey, 1849

Mr. Torrey was born in Salem, Mass., 4 January, 1827, the son of George and Eunice (Bowker) Torrey. His middle name is a reminder of his great-grandfather, Rev. Dr. Manasseh Cutler, of Hamilton, Mass., a prime promoter of New England emigration to the Northwest Territory, and practically author of the "Ordinance of 1787" which excluded slavery from that region. When he was seven years old his parents removed to Michigan Territory, leaving him behind to prepare in due time for the Christian ministry. The boy made the journey by stage from Salem to Burlington in three days, and was brought up in the family of Professor Joseph Torrey. He was prepared for college in the Burlington academy under George L. Lyman, and C. C. Parker, both of the class of 1841. His theological studies were taken at Andover, where he graduated in 1854. In September, 1855, he was ordained at Rutland as a foreign missionary, and at once started with his wife for the Indian Territory. He labored at first among the Choctaws, but his fellow laborers there were of such pronounced pro-slavery sentiments that he obtained a transfer to the Cherokee mission. Here he aided Dr. S. A. Worcester (class of 1819) in the translation of the New Testament into Cherokee and after his death in 1859, completed the work. The American Board discontinued this mission in 1861, and Mr. Torrey returned to New England just before the outbreak of the Civil War.

He served various churches in Vermont, — Georgia, Westford, Chester, West Randolph; he preached in Charlotte 1871-78; then in Island Pond, and in Chelmsford and Billerica, Mass.; in Chateaugay, N. Y., 1882-85; in Harvard, Mass., 1886-99. After two years at Andover he was pastor at Tamworth, N. H.; 1901-05. After the last date he made Andover his home, serving as deacon in the old South church, and frequently preaching up to the year before his death, which occurred in his 87th year. In his last years he took great satisfaction in reading his Hebrew Bible, and his Greek testament was on his bed almost to the last. He retained his intellectual vigor almost to the very end, which came in the morning of 14 August, 1913, and in the late afternoon of the 16th his body was laid beside that of his wife in the cemetery at Charlotte. Her maiden name was Adelaide L. Damon, of Reading, Mass. They were married just before setting out for the Choctaw mission. Four children survive him: Rev. D. T. Torrey, (U. V. M., 1881,) Dr. John P. Torrey of Andover, and two daughters, one of whom graduated in U. V. M. in 1889. C. C. Torrey was a man who could not compromise with wrong, a humble and sincere follower of his Master, firm as a rock on all questions of truth and righteousness. His anticipated departure from this life he spoke of as his "arrival."

Cornelius Wickware Morse, 1858

C. W. Morse was born in Burlington, 30 July, 1833, the son of James and Catherine (Hutchins) Morse. He obtained his preliminary education in the schools of the village, and received the A. B. degree in 1858. He read law with George F. Edmunds, gained admission to the bar in 1860, and began practice in Burlington. In September 1861, he enlisted as a private in the First Vermont Cavalry; was made sergeant in November, and 2nd lieutenant in July, 1862, and completed three years of service; being mustered out 19 November, 1864. Soon after leaving the army he went West, and became a merchant in Maintowoc, Wis., later he was a farmer and contractor.

In June, 1866, he married Cornelia White Vilas of Manitowoc. His death occurred at his home 5 September, 1913. He leaves besides his wife, two sons and a daughter, with two sisters residing in this city. Two years ago he revisited his early home after an absence of 25 years. He was among the veterans who rallied at Gettysburg, 3 July, 1913, and was then apparently in good health. He was a mason, a member of the Episcopal church, and of the G. A. R.

William Silas Bean, 1898

Mr. Bean was a native of North

Troy, born 6 April, 1877, oldest child and only son of Charles Tyler Bean and Lillian Agnes Rowell. He attended the Newport public schools until he entered the University in the fall of 1894. Here he became the leader of a musical club. At graduation he was one of the commencement speakers. He read law with Young and Young of Newport and attended the New York law school, gaining admission to the New York bar in 1901; to the Vermont bar in 1904. For nearly two years he had a position in the New York State department of excise. In 1904 he became the private secretary of Senator Redfield Proctor, and had charge of his voluminous correspondence until his death in 1908. He was also assistant clerk of the U. S. senate committee of agriculture and forestry. So efficient and capable was he in the discharge of the manifold duties of the post as to enjoy the implicit confidence of the senator. Subsequently he held the same relation to Senators Stewart and Page.

Two years ago he decided to enter on the practice of his profession, and with this intent returned to live in his Newport home. But he found his physical vigor impaired and could not hope to begin a business career before his health should have been reestablished. Four days before his death he was on the street, apparently in his usual health. Early the next morning he was suddenly stricken, and after two days severe illness passed away 3 July, 1913. Only at the last did the physicians recognize the symptoms of that insidious enemy, Bright's disease.

Mr. Bean had a liking for literary pursuits, and would have found congenial occupation as a journalist. He was naturally somewhat reserved, modest always, loyal in all relations, upright in character, and pure in act. His life was all too brief, but "in a short time he fulfilled a long time." His parents and two sisters survive him. He was a nephew of Col. E. H. Powell, ex-1861, and a grandson of A. J. Rowell, ex-1842.

James O'Halloran, 1843

James O'Halloran, 1843, who, since the passing of Hon. John A. Kasson, in 1910, has been our eldest brother, reckoning by years of graduation, entered into rest 1 June, 1913, at Cowansville, P. Q., which had long been his home. His last illness lasted about seven weeks, but his mental powers were undimmed, though he had nearly completed his 92nd year.

He first saw the light at Fermoy, county of Cork, Ireland, 21 September, 1821. He came with his parents to Canada in 1828, learned the printer's trade, and, according to his own statement, "fitted for college in C. Goodrich's printing office." For a year after graduation he edited the Burlington Sentinel; the next two years he was chief clerk in the commissary department of the U. S. army in Mexico, seeing service in some hard fought battles. Upon his return to Canada after the war, he studied law with Judge Marcus Doherty, his brother-in-law, and was admitted to the bar in 1852. For a time he was crown prosecutor; was created King's counsel in 1864; was for a term of years Batonnier or president of the Bedford section of the bar. From 1861 to 1867 he was a member of the Provincial Parliament, but declined to be a candidate after the confederation was accomplished. For many years he was a member of the Cowansville council, and for several terms its mayor; for a number of years he was chairman of the local school board. He was active in promoting the South Eastern Railway and for several years its president. When the road was transferred to the Canadian Pacific he became the solicitor of this company for the province of Quebec, and retained this position till he retired from practice a few years ago. For years he had the largest law practice in the district and was connected with all the leading cases in it. He possessed more than an ordinary share of legal acumen, and won deserved celebrity as a counsellor. In debate he showed a wonderful tact and sagacity, and was noted for his logical ability. He was deservedly popular in social life, albeit assiduously devoted to the duties of his profession. He always had the name of being a fair fighter, and was said to have many opponents but no enemies.

In 1851 he married Mary Ann, daughter of Edward Finlay, of Durham, P. Q., and their life together continued five years beyond the golden anniversary. At his decease he left behind him four daughters, three of whom are married, and three sons, one of whom is deputy minister of agriculture for the Dominion, and one is manager of the bank of commerce at Knowlton, P. Q. A member of no church, he was a stout believer in "the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man." The funeral services were held at his late residence and largely attended by business and professional men from Montreal and the district of Bedford.

A reception for the students was given at the Baptist church Wednesday evening.

Recent Bequests to the University

By the will of the late Charles D. Sias, of Boston, head of the Chase and Sanborn Company, the University will receive $15,000, as an unrestricted gift, to be paid on the death of his widow. This fund will be used for scholarships for students in good standing who need financial aid. Although long a resident of Boston, Mr. Sias was born in Vermont and his "deep regard for the methods employed and the quality of men turned out of the principal institutions of learning" in that state, to quote his own words, is responsible for the present bequest.

The heirs of Calvin Pease, a former president of the University, among whom are Mrs. Katherine Benedict and Mrs. James Wheeler, have given to the classical department of the University the sum of one thousand dollars, the interest on which is to be used in the purchase of books for the classical library. A bronze tablet to the memory of President Pease was also presented, and it has been mounted in the Latin alcove of the Billings library.

Post-registration Statistics

Since enrollment certain statistics have been compiled which show the following results: 182 is the total registration, breaking the 161 record of two years ago by 21. Of these 136 are men, 46 are women.

The largest increase is in the agricultural department, which enrolled 40 men to last year's 27. The college of arts and sciences has 72 men and 46 women. In the department of medicine are 15 freshmen with 22 medical preparatory students.

A geographic census shows that Porto Rico, Maine, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa, Illinois and New Jersey each sent 1; New Hampshire 2; China, Rhode Island and Connecticut 3; Massachusetts 8; New York 12; and Vermont, 142, or 79 per cent. Of the towns outside of Burlington, Pittsford holds first place with 9 representatives.

You fellows know what that means! We've been very successful in this regard with Fatima Cigarettes. By the way, these cigarettes were first sold in the college towns—and you agreed with us that they were good.

Then we put out for the big race, to make Fatimas of nation-wide reputation, and today more are sold than any other cigarette in this country.

No purer, or more carefully chosen tobacco grows than that in Fatimas. We purposely put them in a plain inexpensive wrapper—in this way we can afford quality tobacco, and twenty of the smokes for 15 cents.

Now your college crew is of utmost importance to you—so is a good cigarette, and it's your aim in life to keep Fatimas in the lead—right up to their good quality—right up to where you first found them, and will always find them.

Varsity Scores on Dartmouth

First Time in Fifteen Years
Score 33-7--Currier Nabs Forward Pass

On Saturday, October 11th, the Varsity played its annual game with Dartmouth at Hanover and succeeded in scoring, although suffering defeat, 33 to 7. "Ned" Currier was the man of the hour, running the length of the field after intercepting a forward pass on Vermont's goal line.

When Whalen went to kick goal, the whole team had difficulty in keeping their faces straight, for no Vermont team had seen Dartmouth lined up on its goal line for 15 years.

The game began by Captain Whalen's winning the toss. He chose to receive with the wind favorable to Vermont. On the kick-off Glidden received and ran the ball back for 15 yards. After two tries at Dartmouth's line the Varsity resorted to a fake punt which was fumbled, Dartmouth recovering the ball on Vermont's 35 yard line. Three line plays sufficed to carry the ball over for the first touchdown. Vermont received again. Currier running the ball back well after

FEELS FOR THE GIANTS

Professor Ogle Has Faced Plank's Fire

Professor M. B. Ogle realized something of what the Giants were up against last week. He, too, has faced the mighty Plank, who made McGraw's men seem weak indeed in the last game of the series, holding them down to two hits.

"It was in the season of 1902, just before Plank joined the Athletics. He was pitching for Gettysburg College. Gettysburg had a poor team aside from Plank, but when they came to play Johns Hopkins, they had little difficulty in defeating us. There was not a man of us who could stand up against his delivery. I was playing second on Hopkins that year. He had already developed his famous cross-fire, which looked very deadly. I believe we were able to scratch but one run in that game."

SECOND TEAM WINS FROM MIDDLEBURY

Score, 7-0

Saturday, while the Varsity was playing Dartmouth at Hanover, the second team, under the leadership of Coach Mayforth and Capt. Maiden, was winning from the second team of Middlebury College.

The game began with Vermont's kicking to their opponents, but nothing of importance occurred during the first half, the ball see-sawing back and forth.

In the second half Merriam received the kick off and ran it back 15 yards. On a fake punt the Vermont seconds brought the ball to the middle of the field where Middlebury held for downs. Leutze recovered the ball, when Vermont's punt was fumbled by the Middlebury back and placed it within striking distance of the goal line. After two unsuccessful tries at the line Buraige who had replaced Gilbert at fullback, plunged through for a touchdown, Maiden kicking the goal.

This was near the end of the 3rd quarter and nothing eventful followed.

PRESIDENT BENTON A DEFENDANT

Miami Doctor Sues—"Malicious Prosecution" Charged---$20,000 Asked

After numerous legal delays President Benton appeared in County Court in Burlington on Wednesday as defendant in a suit for alleged "malicious prosecution."

The plaintiff is Doctor Hugh H. Moore of Oxford, O., formerly medical director of Miami University. He charges President Benton with malice, alleging that as President of Miami University in 1910 Dr. Benton caused his removal because of an alleged sale of liquor to a Miami student. Judgment of $20,000 is asked. Judge Van Deman, a trustee of Miami, was the President's counsel. In the opening statement he stated that the action against President Benton savored of levying blackmail.

On Thursday the plaintiff asked for a continuance because he did not have at hand the proper records. It was therefore postponed again to the March term of court.

Dr. Moore was formerly medical director of Miami University, and it

"YE CRABBE" FOR OCTOBER

The Freshman Number --- More Cuts and a Larger Paper than Last Year

The October issue of "Ye Crabbe" will appear today unless something unforeseen occurs, and if subscriptions are to include this number they must be handed to Manager Sykes, '14, or dropped in the box marked "Ye Crabbe" in the hall of the Old Mill.

It will contain an editorial which no frosh can afford to miss, a scathing indictment of the bartender haircut, and a host of cuts that depict life in a big city from every angle. The latest song hits have a swing to their titles as well as to their cadence. A poet has taken advantage of this and embodied them all in a heterogeneous, conglomerate verse. A parody of "The Blessed Damsel" is among the features. Hashihousi Togo is revived. One other choice bit is entitled "A letter and a reply concerning certain in-

BOWDOIN TODAY

An Interesting Game Expected

Vermont kicks off to Bowdoin today at Centennial Field. Judging from the recent games played by the two institutions, the contest should be close and hard-fought. The status of the Vermont team up to last Saturday, when they scored on the heavy Dartmouth eleven, was more or less conjectural; but the result at Hanover Saturday shows that Vermont is represented by a formidable aggregation. The new men have been through a big game, and have undoubtedly gained confidence which will be a large factor in the remaining games. Last year Bowdoin won from Vermont at Brunswick, but today we hope to see Vermont turn the tables.

Bowdoin has practically a veteran team and is much stronger than last year. Saturday they held Trinity 0 to 0, while Trinity defeated them badly last year. The games have resulted as follows: Bowdoin 17, N. H. State 0; Wesleyan 13, Bowdoin 7; Bowdoin 0, Trinity 0.

The team has shown consistent improvement throughout this season.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETS

Bars "Ragging"---Grants Aggie Dance

"Ragging is barred for the present at gymnasium social functions," is the word that comes from the student and faculty council which met last Wednesday evening. The meeting was of those who composed the members of last year's council and their action will stand until a new board is elected.

The question of allowing, barring, or regulating the new dances has been widely discussed. The action taken by the council was harmonious to a marked degree. The college authorities preferred that the students should settle the question and so had referred it to the council for decision. Of the five professors and five students who at present compose the council, but one student voted in favor of allowing the new dances and he favored regulation as the most satisfactory method. No faculty ruling could have been more uncompromising on this point than the action of the council. The another unsuccessful attack on Dartmouth's line, Whalen punted. Llewellyn, Dartmouth's star quarterback, ran the ball back for 40 yards, and in line plays brought it to Vermont's 10 yard line. Here, after being held for two downs, a fake punt was resorted to and right end was circled for a touchdown. Both attempts at goal were unsuccessful.

Vermont then kicked to Dartmouth, Llewellyn running it back to the 40 yard line where, after three line plays, Vermont recovered a fumble. Dolphin then reeled off 30 yards on a skin tackle play. Vermont fumbled and an exchange of punts found the ball in Dartmouth's possession at mid-field. After carrying the ball by line plays to Vermont's 10 yard line, a forward pass netted the Green their next touchdown. Dartmouth kicked the goal.

After Rawson had run back the kick off to the 30 yard line more attempts at Dartmouth's heavier line were resorted to. The quarter ended after an exchange of punts in Vermont's possession on their 40 yard line.

Score, 19 to 0.

Whalen immediately punted out of bounds on Dartmouth's 30 yard line. After more line plays Llewellyn skirted left end for 30 yards. This was closely followed by a long forward pass to Loudon, Dartmouth's right end, scoring another touchdown which was followed by another goal kicked. The half ended with the ball in Dartmouth's possession on the Varsity's 30 yard line.

Score 26 to 0.

The second half opened with Vermont kicking to Dartmouth, Llewellyn running the ball back well. After consistent gain through the line another successful forward pass netted a touchdown. This goal was kicked. Vermont received the next kick off and after two unsuccessful forward passes punted. Dartmouth soon punted back, the quarter ending with the ball on Vermont's 25 yard line.

Score 30 to 0.

The fourth quarter began by Dartmouth's long forward pass to Vermont's 10 yard line. Here the Varsity showed their stamina by holding the grilling attack of their heavier opponents for three downs. On the fourth down, Currier intercepted a forward pass and ran to the 35 yard line. After several plays Vermont punted. Dartmouth punted back, Currier running through the Dartmouth team for 40 yards to a touchdown. Penalty was awarded Dartmouth for Little's holding, and the ball was brought back. Dartmouth carried the ball to Vermont's 5 yard line. Here Vermont held and Dartmouth tried another pass which Currier caught and, with Dolphin for interference, ran 95 yards to a second touchdown. Whalen kicked the goal and after Currier had received the kick off the whistle blew. Score 33 to 7.

Captain Hogsett and Quarterbacks Llewellyn and Ghee, starred for Dartmouth; while for Vermont, Currier played by far the best game of his career as quarterback. Besides running so well with the ball, he saved several touchdowns by splendid tackling and showed good generalship in running the team. Dolphin was Vermont's best ground gainer and made some beautiful tackles on the defense. Captain Whalen punted well, keeping the ball out of the hands of the Dartmouth backs. Tomassi was seriously injured in one of the first scrimmages and was replaced by St. John. Tomassi's injury was a blow in the kidneys which will keep him confined for some time. The team in general showed its ability to come back in the last part of the game and score on their stronger opponents.

PRESIDENT BENTON A DEFENDANT

was during the time he was in office that the circumstances arose which resulted in this case. The plaintiff claims that in 1910, President Benton caused a warrant to be served on him for selling liquor to a young man of Oxford named Norman Schweeting. Dr. Moore further claims that he went to trial on the charge and after the case had gone through the various courts it went to the Circuit Court, where he was acquitted. He claims the proceedings were malicious prosecution on the part of Dr. Benton, and that he was greatly damaged thereby.

The defense claims the young man named in the case bought some liquor at a drug store of which Dr. Moore was part owner and took it to the college dormitory. The result of this was that President Benton, acting for the trustees, made complaint against Dr. Moore for selling liquor in "dry" territory. The respondent was fined $50 and costs by A. F. Sloane, the mayor, acting as a police magistrate. Dr. Moore carried the case to the Court of Common Pleas, which sustained the lower court. The case was then carried to Circuit Court, where the decision was reversed, but by a technically, the defendant will claim.

The editors hope to secure more contributions from the student body than was the case last year and when elections to the board occur decisions will be influenced to a large extent by these. Freshmen wishing to try out for the board should hand their names to Isaac Everitt, '15, and secure assignments. Contributions to the November number are due now and should be dropped in the subscription box mentioned above.

A New University "Ariel"

Is the University of Vermont going to cease the publication of "The Ariel?" The question is answered with an emphatic "No." The present junior class has voted to discontinue "The Ariel" and to publish in its stead a yearbook. The reason for this action lies in the fact that in past years every junior class has been taxed very heavily, in fact, entirely too heavily in order to bear the expense of the publication.

Then again comes the question "Is the University of Vermont going to witness the discontinuation of "The Ariel?" and again the answer "No." Let the board which was elected to edit the 1915 "Ariel" lead in the endeavor to publish a new "Ariel," "The University Ariel" which shall be a book, not narrowed to the junior class, but which shall contain material of interest to the entire University. Let each class in the college contribute towards its success financially and materially.

We must not look to the past, but to the future. Because "The Ariel" has always been published by the junior class is no reason why we cannot change now and broaden into new and larger fields. In conclusion, let us not allow our "Ariel," which is so truly and purely a Vermont publication, to go out of existence, but let us put in its place a new "University Ariel."

Plans Under Way

Plans are under way for an informal dance to be held in the gymnasium under the auspices of the U. K. M. A. society. ## COLLEGE HOLIDAYS

COMPARED

Vermont Has About the Average Number

The following table shows the holidays given by most of the leading Eastern colleges. Vermont compares favorably with Dartmouth and Harvard, who have the least, and we have the same number as Yale.

Monday was a legal holiday, Columbus Day, and Burlington industries and schools took a holiday. College work, however, had not settled down to so hard a pace that the faculty saw fit to grant the students a respite from toil.

Most of the following table was computed by the "Yale Daily News:"

Colleges	Summer Vacation	Thanksgiving Recess	Christmas Recess	Easter Recess	Other Holidays	Total
Vermont	91	1	14	12	4	121
Dartmouth	84	1	14	14	4	117
Harvard	95	1	11	7	4	118

Senior Business Meeting

The seniors held a meeting Thursday on the first floor of the Science Hall. A letter was read by President St. John containing some suggestions from the student council.

Last year's method of selecting the student council was deemed satisfactory. It was therefore voted that the nominating board should make nominations for members from each of the colleges, and that the entire class should vote upon these. The suggested method, that each college elect its own member, was not accepted.

The class wished that the senior hats and canes be secured as soon as possible and voted that President St. John at once appoint a committee on class paraphernalia.

is published on Saturday of each week during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont. It will be mainly given over to news, while a literary supplement will, from time to time, be published.

Subscription price $2.00 per year;
10c. per copy.

SATURDAY, OCT. 18, 1913.

The college is open to suggestions as to a substitute for Proc night. The faculty abolished it, but would probably be willing that some fitting substitute should be devised. It seems necessary to have some sort of an organized contest to mark the official close of freshman-sophomore hostilities. The class football game is not a sufficient outlet for the surplus energy of all the members of both classes. The first week of college contained so much informal class scrapping that it seemed for a time as if the two classes would solve the problem themselves. All is quiet now between the two classes, but if the two classes are not eager to match strength once more before Nov. 15, we miss our guess.

Class finances are probably in better shape now than they have been in several years. In the regular order of things, how long will this last? First, the freshmen will give eight dollar sweaters to their football men. Some of the class will have to sign a note to pay the C. O. D. charges on these sweaters which should have been bought at wholesale prices for not more than six dollars. Then they will vote a class tax to meet the note, and in the course of a year the money will be raised. Some of the men who received sweaters from the class will hang back on their class taxes for two or three years and some of these delinquents will leave college during this period.

A second extravagance will be the hiring of a football coach for the freshman and the sophomore teams. The class will not vote him a salary, but the class manager and treasurer will proceed to pay him $25.00 for five afternoons' work, "because it has always been done." If a higher scale had not been set, any undergraduate would be pleased to get $10, for all the work involved in coaching a class team. Before the class football season closes, perhaps a slight tribute will be exacted by another high-priced man,—the referee of the class game. If some past years are any criterion, he will expect five dollars from each class for his valuable services.

Class baseball will mean another tax for sweaters. Class social functions under the present lack of system will always be in a danger of "doing things up brown" or allowing petty extravagances "because they have always been done." The committee on student finances will step in and supervise at times, but often after the harm has been done.

How shall these evils be remedied? Until there is more pride about prompt payment of class taxes, men who earn sweaters should be made to pay for them, and should receive credit for present and future taxes to that amount. The sweaters should be bought under the supervision of the treasurer at wholesale prices. Also, the treasurer should see to it that in no case does any delinquent taxpayer hold any class office or cast a vote in any class election. This takes backbone, but is worth while.

Then the executive committees of the various classes should wake up and do a great deal of execution. They should obtain possession of the treasurer's books of former classes, and from them learn how much to spend or not to spend on the regular class functions that recur from year to year. They should organize and meet early, examine the books, and make a budget of expenses for the whole year. Then a class tax may be levied in an intelligent manner with this budget as a basis. They should pass upon all expenditures made in the name of the class before the goods are ordered. Whether the items are decorations for the football hop or refreshments for the junior prom, they should be approved by the committee in advance. Such a plan of action would destroy practically all of the evils at their roots. The belated remedies of the past few years have never been effective.

Why have very few of these reforms been tried in earnest? The main reason is lack of interest on the part of the individuals who have to pay the taxes. There is slight realization of the fact that under the present methods one class football season costs the members from $1.50 to $2. The executive committees have become dead letters. The responsibility for giving them new power rests with the class president. He should organize the executive committees, get some old treasurer's books and start work.

The fine start which the college Y. M. C. A. has made this fall should be the sign of a very prosperous year. The Young Men's Christian Association at Vermont, in years past, while it has done a fine work, has not received the support of the student body to that extent which has made it a potent factor in the college life. It has been championed and carried on by a few enthusiastic men, and remained unpopular with the student body. This should not be. The Y. M. C. A., more than any other college organization perhaps, is distinctively the average man's opportunity. In every large college in the country, this organization stands for the strongest, the most uplifting side of college life. At both Harvard and Yale, the Y. M. C. A. stands in the forefront of the organizations, perhaps the strongest and most influential body that either college contains. When a man is wanted to do things in athletics, in social life, in literary life, in any branch of college activities, it is always in the Y. M. C. A. that he is sought. This Association represents strong, sterile character to the colleges of the country.

Shall Vermont be a back number in this branch of college life? We have the opportunity of years at this particular time. We have an active and enthusiastic board of officers, who are making their work felt in college circles, and Dr. Barnes has come to aid us in carrying out the work.

Again, the freshmen are showing a commendable spirit, and turning out well at the meetings. Will the upperclassmen take a back seat and let 1917 "put one over." It is up to the fellows to show the new men that the Y. M. C. A. is the place for them. This can be done only by allying with the Association and attending the meetings. There is work for everybody, a large field of opportunity. The Y. M. C. A. is not a small or weak man's organization, it is a big man's sphere, and only "big" men can reach its aims. When it is thus considered and treated, we shall see results in Vermont.

Dance Regulation Advocated

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CYNIC:—

Dear Sir,—We hear much nowadays about dancing and what a disgraceful thing the present dance has become. We hear people say again and again that the present dance is unfit for any self-respecting young man or young woman to participate in, that it is degrading the youth of America.

The old French adage occurs to me as I write: "Honi soit qui mal y pense," "Evil to him who evil thinks." To be sure I agree with the critics when they say that the present dance is disgraceful, it is on the Bowery of New York and in similar places, but one can dance the old-fashioned waltz or two-step and make it disgraceful. I am one of those who believe that these dances can be done by people of high ideals and high standards of morality and done in a graceful and pretty fashion, and I believe most college students belong to this class. If there are those who do not, then they need not appear at the dances. A great deal of the present onslaught comes from those who have seen these dances done improperly.

They can be danced and danced properly. All that is necessary is a little regulation. Don't let us go down in thought, but let us raise our standard of thinking, and when we raise our standard of thinking we shall raise our standard of physical life. Let the dances be regulated. Thanking you for the privilege of writing in your paper, I am

Very sincerely yours,
A Subscriber

CLASS FOOTBALL

Six Weeks' Practice Required

There has been no definite date set for the annual freshman-sophomore football game, but it will be well for all candidates for the class teams to remember that no sweater will be awarded to a man unless he has reported six weeks before the date of the class game. The sophomores are acquainted with this fact. It behooves those of the freshmen who are not aware of it to get into their football togs and work with the 2nd team squad each night.

Dr. Stone's Gym Plans

Classes in gymnasium work for the sophomores and freshmen will begin on Monday, November 10th. Sophomores will report on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, the freshmen on Monday and Wednesday afternoons. Instruction will be given in Swedish free arm movements, wand drills, Indian clubs and apparatus work.

Dr. Stone will devote the afternoons of Friday and Saturday to coaching the track teams.

Track Prospects

Doctor Stone is well pleased with the material available for track. From all indications Vermont may expect a successful season. We have a likely bunch of men from whom to develop a fast relay team. Patterson, Gallagher, Healy, and Bolster will be hard pressed by the new men, among whom are Cintron, Wilbur and Shippy.

The sprints and long distance runs have their quota of material in LeBarron, Bolster, Woodbury, Cintron, Wilbur, Shippy, Minckler and Hayden.

Captain Hayden reports fine prospects for cross-country. The squad is working into condition and will be ready for speed work in a few days.

Among the likely looking cross-country candidates are Minckler, Buchanan and Slayton of last year, and LeBarron, Best, Adams, and Shippy among the new men.

College Men's Service at St. Paul's, October 26th

On Sunday evening, October 26th at 7:30 there will be a collegiate service at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Special hymns will be sung and a sermon particularly for college men will be preached. All men and women in the University are urged to attend. There will be further notice of the service.

Track Meet

The interclass track meet which was to have been held Wednesday afternoon had to be postponed until Friday on account of the absence of Dr. Stone and the bad state of the weather. Full accounts of this meet will be published next week.

INTERESTING "MOVIES"

Moving pictures of the cane rush and tug-of-war were shown at the "World in Motion," the early part of last week. The pictures were clear and distinct, the rush of the sophomores being especially good. In the tug-of-war, Leader Whalen and Dr. Stone were in the limelight. The only regret one had on seeing them was that there was not more film.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETS

only consolation for those who wish to enjoy the new dances is the hope that the present ruling will not be sustained when the new council is organized.

Other matters were considered at the meeting. The faculty committee on student organizations no longer exists and the council will absorb most of its functions. The council will grant dates for social functions upon application. Acting in this capacity permission was granted to the Agricultural Club to hold a dance next Wednesday. The proceeds of this will go to send a fruit-judging team to Boston.

An application from the Ukma Society for a dance was not granted, as the time was not considered appropriate. Such a dance will undoubtedly be allowed at a later date.

The matter of a substitute for Proc Night was brought up. The Boulder Society has had charge of this event in the past and it was voted to let the Boulder men represent the student body when a substitute event was decided upon.

PRESS COMMENT

The student-faculty council of the University of Vermont at a meeting this evening put the lid down hard on the tango, turkey trot, grizzly, gaby glide and all variations of "rag dances." The waltz, however, and the two-step, Boston and minuet are to go merrily on. These latter were passed by the college board of censorship.

"We cannot discriminate as to the bad dances," said a student tonight, "so we have canned them all."

THE UNIVERSITY DEBATING SOCIETY

Very Interesting Meeting

The first regular meeting of the University Debating Society was held Monday evening, October 13.

Meeting was called to order by President Bailey at 7:20 o'clock and the necessary business taken up.

The question of joining the Intercollegiate Peace Association was thoroughly discussed and it was finally decided not to join. The reasons for this decision were: the excessive time which successful participation would necessitate, and the need of devoting the best efforts of every member of the society to strengthening the new organization.

It was voted to accept the proffered use of Room A, North College, as a permanent place of assembly. Following the business meeting came a short but interesting literary program:

Sturgis, '15, gave a brief of the world's current events. A paper on the Panama Canal prepared by Paul Gates, '15, was read by Wriston, '17. An interesting phase of lock construction was dealt with in a pleasing way.

An extemporaneous debate was held next, upon the proposition, Resolved, "That the University of Vermont should substitute fall baseball for football." Styles, '16, and Ellis, '14, were appointed to the affirmative, Howe, '14, and Hayden, '15, to the negative. The affirmative, though handicapped by the nature of the question, nevertheless offered arguments which brought out some spirited debating. The society as a whole, acting as judges, voted the victory to the negative by a large majority. There were twenty-six present at the meeting. A spirit prevailed that augurs well for the future of the society. Business was disposed of with dispatch. The members showed their willingness to participate in the activities which the literary program necessitates. It was altogether a successful start for the new University of Vermont Debating Society.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

At the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening, the 14th, the Rev. E. G. Guthrie, pastor of the First Congregational Church, spoke to the students. His talk was much appreciated by all, it being of a forceful and direct nature. Dr. Barnes, also, had a few words to say. There were about twenty-seven present, a good beginning, but not what the attendance should be later. F. S. Sykes, '14, presided at the meeting in the absence of Pres. Schoff and Vice-pres. Robinson.

The old Y. M. C. A. room on the second floor of the "Old Mill" has been fixed up and greatly improved. New paper, rugs, curtains, pictures, etc., all the gift of Mrs. Jessie Billings, widow of the late Frederick Billings, to whom the University is indebted for many improvements, have brought an added cheer and homelike feeling to this room. In thus giving the Young Men's Christian Association a more fitting place in which to hold its meetings, Mrs. Billings has done a great service to the University in general and to the Y. M. C. A. in particular. A gift of $100 to the Y. M. C. A. fund comes, likewise, from this source.

The Association is now in good working condition, and much is being done every day for the good of the student body, and for the students as individuals. The work of the Y. M. C. A. employment bureau has been exceptionally large during the past week, and other lines of the work have been equally active.

At present, a thorough canvass of the college is being made for the purpose of bringing in new members. This canvass is being carried on under the personal supervision of Davis, '14, and Downing, '14, with numerous assistants. The upperclassmen will be approached first, then the freshmen (probably the latter part of the week). Next week there will be a canvass among the medics. Everybody be ready to sign up when approached on the subject.

Meeting of Agricultural Club

About fifty members of the Agricultural Club passed a very pleasant and profitable evening at the first meeting of the year, held at Morrill hall, October the fifteenth. President Dana, '13, opened the meeting with an address of welcome to the freshmen. Dean Hills then made a few witty and well chosen remarks. He spoke of the history and future of the club, the new tendencies which were shaping its character, and its relation to the University. Mayo, '15, then gave a reading and Perry Aldrich, '15, read the Vermont Chronicle, edited by Aldrich and Flint. A selection read by Pike, '16, completed the literary program. A business meeting followed and the question of sending a corn judging team to Windsor and a fruit judging team to Boston was discussed. It was decided to send both of these teams, and a committee was appointed to arrange for a dance to help to defray the expenses of the trip. Refreshments of apples, pipes and tobacco, and coffee and doughnuts were then served.

FREE TUTORING AT DARTMOUTH

College a Pioneer in Effort to Assist Backward Students

Dartmouth is a pioneer among American colleges in starting a free tutoring bureau. "The Dartmouth Christian" devised the plan and it is under its auspices that those students of the college who are below in their work and cannot afford a private tutor will be taught with care in any subject in the curriculum.

A call brought from the undergraduate body a number of men who have voluntarily offered their services to the cause, and the new system will be put into effect as soon as the freshmen marks are filed at the dean's office.

In the past few years the stringent requirements of the faculty have been the cause of many men leaving at the end of the first semester and this innovation comes as an effort by the undergraduates to eradicate the usual losses.

THE ST. PAUL'S CLUB

The St. Paul's Club of the University will begin its meetings about the first of November. The meetings of the club are held once a month during the winter at the various fraternity houses. Subjects of interest to University men are discussed and speakers are chosen to address the club at its gatherings. Last season very interesting evenings were passed discussing socialism, commission government, the church and health and other subjects of vital interest to those who are studying to solve the present day problems.

More extensive plans have been laid for the coming year and the meetings promise to be of interest to everyone. Notices of the meetings will be posted on the bulletin boards and all men in the University are cordially invited to attend.

GLEE CLUB ELECTION

At a meeting of the Glee Club on Wednesday night of last week at the Sigma Nu house, Eugene W. Ellis, '14, was elected manager to replace Johnson, '14, who resigned. Manager Ellis is at present negotiating plans for a trip through central Massachusetts. All those interested in either the Instrumental or Glee clubs should watch the bulletin boards for notices of the rehearsals, etc.

Training Table Starts

The football training table, which has been somewhat delayed this fall, started on Thursday. This came as the result of an athletic committee meeting on Tuesday.

"Ye Crabbe" for October Tempest of Humor to Strike the Campus Today

Local forecasters today are flying all the storm signals and small craft warnings that they can lay their hands on for according to barometric predictions the storm center of the October "CRABBE" will reach the campus at 10 a. m. today. A wind is predicted of a velocity more than sufficient to snatch the whiskers from the physiognomy of a brazen primate and the only safe way to meet the emergency is to see the Buzz Mugger, Sykes, '14, and give him your subscription or drop a slip with your name and address and the date when you will have your mind made up to part with a dollar in the "Ye Crabbe" box in the Old Mill. ### WOMEN'S NOTES

Athletic Association Organized

The first meeting of the Girls' Athletic Association was held Tuesday evening in the Howard gymnasium. The following officers for the ensuing year were elected:

President, Clio Crandall, '14.

Vice-president, Irene Barret, '15.

Recording secretary, Gladys Fauley, '16.

Financial secretary, Leonora Styles, '16.

Treasurer, Dorothy Votey, '16.

Plans were made for the cross-country hare and hound chase to be held Thursday.

A committee was appointed as follows to have charge of the Hal-lowe'en party:

Chairman, Nina Shepardson, Bernicia Avery, Jane McLaughlin, Bernice White, Gladys Fauley, Marjorie Luce, Bernardine Kimball.

The first of the monthly meetings of all the girls of the University was held last Saturday night. Miss Terrill gave an illustrated talk in Howard gymnasium on "Three Weeks in Greece." The party later adjourned to Grassmount for a social hour. Refreshments were presided over by Misses Wilcox and O'Sullivan.

On Monday afternoon Miss Terrill met all of the girls of the University in the chapel and discussed with them various items of business. It was voted to have elected a student council to be composed of two senior girls and one each from the three other classes.

The weekly meeting of the Y. W. C. A. will be held Sunday, Oct. 19, in the Association room. Miss Kelsey, student volunteer secretary, will address the girls.

MEDIC NOTES

A. D. Finlayson, M. D., '10, has been visiting friends about college. Dr. Finlayson is now assistant superintendent of the Pennsylvania State Hospital for the Insane, located at Warren.

Dr. Francis E. Quigley, med. '10, and Miss Mary E. Moore, both of Rutland, were married October 15.

H. R. Baremore, Jr., M. D., '13, is serving as interne in St. John's Hospital, Yonkers, N. Y. Dr. Huntington, '12, is now house surgeon of this hospital.

M. D. Carey, '14, has returned to college from Westport, N. Y., where he spent the summer.

M. C. Claffey, '14, who injured his knee in the Middlebury game, is able to be about college.

Robert M. Deming, ex-'16, has reentered college.

"Chick" Fraser, the star second baseman of the 1912 Varsity team, has returned to college after a year's absence.

C. A. Van Cor, ex-'13, has entered the senior class.

Agricultural Club Dance

The Agricultural Club will hold a dance in the gymnasium Wednesday evening, Oct. 22. Music will be furnished by the Robinson singing orchestra. This is to be a benefit dance for the purpose of defraying the expenses of sending a corn judging team to Windsor and a fruit judging team to Boston to compete with the other New England colleges. Vermont should be represented at both of these contests and in order to make this possible the support of the entire student body is urgently requested.

Catholic Club

The Catholic Club of the University tendered its annual reception to the incoming freshmen at the Knights of Columbus rooms on Church Street Thursday evening, Oct. 9. Nearly a hundred were present to enjoy the various amusements. Gordon's orchestra furnished music and refreshments were served.

1904. William Mulheron, is now located in Springfield, Mass., with the Aetna Insurance Company in its accident department.

BOWDOIN SCORES TWICE ON VARSITY

Whalen Gets Field Goal

Ragged Play in the Pinches Loses Last Home Game

Bowdoin made its first appearance on Centennial Field on Saturday, put up a strong and consistent game and got away with a victory with the score 13 to 3. Vermont showed streaks of brilliancy on both offensive and defensive play. A few untimely fumbles and other errors lost the game together with the complete failure to work the forward pass. Bowdoin, although lighter, showed good team work, had a superior interference, worked several forward passes, and were not so unfortunate in flukes and fumbles. Stuart's punting was not equal to Whalen's, yet in running back punts the Bowdoin backs more than offset this disadvantage.

A blocked punt, a successful forward pass, and a 30 yard quarter back run gave Bowdoin her first score. A poor pass to Whalen for a punt gave them the ball on the 10 yard line and the last score was easy. Whalen's goal from placement was Vermont's only score and was the only score of the first half.

The game on the whole was an interesting one to watch. The attendance was larger than any foot-

STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTIONS

Senior and Medic Members

The seniors have elected the following student councilmen: George H. Seiple of Vergennes for engineering college; Fordyce S. Sykes of Richford for arts and sciences; Joseph E. Carrigan of Pittsfield for agricultural college.

The senior medical students have elected Mitchel D. Carey to the board, and James W. Bunce will represent the juniors.

At the last meeting of the junior class a new method of electing members to the student council was adopted for the present year. This provided that each college—the colleges of arts, agriculture and engineering—send up three nominees to be voted on by the class at large, one from each group being finally selected. As we go to press elections are pending.

ATHLETIC FINANCES

Trustees Assume Control

With an athletic tax of ten dollars per man there has been more or less candid wonderment as to just where the money goes, what the disbursements are. In the first place it must be understood that there is a University deficit of $3000. The income from taxes, gate receipts, and the Kake Walk amount to about $4000. This year the matter has been put into the hands of the trustees; all monies receivable to go to them, and all expenditures to be under their control until the debt is liquidated. Under the system devised there will be five budgets—$2150 going to the baseball team, $1450 to football, $300 to track, and $100 to tennis, hockey, basketball and the like. This makes a total of $4000, and is proportioned according to what the activities of the several teams seem to warrant. At the close of the football season it is expected that a detailed list of receipts and expenditures will be published.

PROF. GROAT SPEAKS AT CITY HALL

Commission Government Discussed

Several citizens of the city of Burlington and students from the University gathered last Friday evening in the city court room to hear Professor G. G. Groat of this University speak on the commission form of government, and take part in an informal discussion afterward.

Professor Groat at the outset announced his intention to speak not as an advocate, but as one inquiring into the nature of government by commission and relating the results of his investigation.

FORDHAM OUR OPPONENTS

Varsity Plays at New York Today

The football team left yesterday for New York City to play Fordham today. The team left in fairly good shape. Currier has been resting up, for he has worked so hard that he is danger of going stale. Fordham has won from St. Peter's, was swamped by Princeton 69-0, and last week won from Seton Hall 21-0. The only comparative test of its strength is the R. P. I. game, which was won 7 to 0. R. P. I., it will be remembered, was defeated by Williams 14 to 0.

AERO CLUB ORGANIZED

No Flying This Year But Aviation Will be Studied

A strikingly new organization has been started at the University in the formation of an Aero Club. The subject is one in which several colleges have already shown a decided interest as evidenced by the founding of similar clubs in such institutions as Tufts, Dartmouth, Harvard, Cornell, and M. I. T. Indeed, so much enthusiasm is being evinced in some places that the government has begun to lend a hand with an eye to the possibilities developing. Class credits are also being awarded for work done.

The purpose of the local club is to study the elemental principles upon which flight depend. Mathematics pertaining to the subject, the pitch of propellers, steam line bodies, gasoline engines of flight, et cetera, will be studied. The president and several professors of the engineering department are interested in the progress of the organization. Meetings are to be held every two weeks. Model machines will perhaps be used, and it is expected that two gliders will be at the club's service after Christmas. Mills, '15, is in charge.

BOWDOIN SCORES TWICE ON VARSITY

ball crowds in the last two years. It was a clean game with the exception of a small amount of holding. Bowdoin is a good sort of a rival for Vermont to have and we hope to see her regularly on the schedule in the future.

Captain Whalen opened the game by kicking off to Bowdoin. Captain Weatherill received the ball and carried it to her 30 yard line. Bowdoin then punted. Rawson received the punt for a 25 yard gain. Vermont was penalized 10 yards for having two men on the side line. Vermont gained eight yards on a line plunge. Bowdoin gained the ball on a fumble and made first down. By steady rushes Bowdoin took the ball down to Vermont's five yard line. Vermont regained the ball and took it to Bowdoin's territory on a long punt which was recovered by Putnam. Period ended with Vermont in possession of the ball on Bowdoin's 30 yard line.

In the next period, Captain Whalen made a fine field goal from the 30 yard line. Vermont then kicked off to Bowdoin. Stuart carried the ball back for 28 yards. Bowdoin then tried the double forward pass but failed to gain ground. Bowdoin was then forced to punt. Frank received the ball and ran it back 12 yards. Captain Whalen punted the ball 35 yards. Foster ran the ball back 12 yards. Period ended with Bowdoin in possession of the ball. Score 3-0.

In the first period of the second half Bowdoin kicked to Vermont's 40 yard line. Carrier received the ball and ran it back eight yards. Bowdoin got the ball on a fumble. Stuart took the ball through the center to Vermont's 40 yard line. Bowdoin was then penalized 15 yards for holding. Bowdoin was forced to punt again. Carrier received the ball on the 12 yard line, and ran it back six yards. Dolphin was seriously injured at this point of the game and Glidden took his place at left half. Carrier by a spectacular run carried the ball to Bowdoin's 45 yard line. Vermont then tried the forward pass but failed. Next Vermont punted but the ball struck the line and went high in the air and into Bowdoin's hands. Bowdoin was again penalized 10 yards for holding. By line plunges Bowdoin rushed the ball to Vermont's territory. Stuart by a long run made a touchdown,—the first score for Bowdoin. Stuart failed to make the goal for Bowdoin. Bowdoin kicked off to Vermont. Carrier received the ball and ran it back to Bowdoin's 40 yard line. Frank then gained five yards by running around left end. Period ended with Vermont on Bowdoin's 35 yard line. Score 6-3.

In the opening of the last period Bowdoin tried to buck the line for gains but failed. She then punted, and regained on a fumble. Bowdoin tried skin tackle but lost ground by the snappy resistance of Vermont's back field. Bowdoin next was penalized five yards for delaying the game unnecessarily. Vermont braced, held for downs on her 10 yard line, and by successive trick plays carried the ball slowly back. Stuart was then substituted for LaCasce. Vermont made first down. Here Farr made a poor pass over Captain Whalen's head for a much needed punt. Captain Whalen regained the ball on the five yard line, and tried a punt. Bowdoin recovered the ball, and by line plunges Foster took the ball over Vermont's goal line by a scant margin. Leadbetter then kicked goal for Bowdoin. Bowdoin then kicked off to Vermont's 35 yard line. Rawson ran the ball back two yards. The game ended with Vermont in possession of the ball. Final score 13-3.

The line-up:—

PROF. GROAT SPEAKS AT CITY HALL

The speaker analyzed the question as thoroughly as the limited time awarded him would permit. By tracing the question from its very beginning and by using concrete examples to make himself understood, Professor Groat presented to his audience a very clear analysis of the question of government by commission.

After the address by Professor Groat an interesting discussion was participated in by the chairman of the meeting, Mayor Burke, by ex-mayors Van Patten and Roberts, Professors Robinson, Daniels, and Jackman of this University. Professor Jackman was duly elected secretary of the meeting.

Corley Wins Robin Hood Cup

The silver loving cup awarded to Mr. Corley was offered by the Robin Hood Ammunition Company of Swanton. It bears the following inscription: "Presented by the Robin Hood Ammunition Company to F. P. Corley for Highest Score at University of Vermont Indoor Range in Robin Hood Match, 1913." Lieut. George W. Grandy, battalion adjutant in the First Infantry, V. N. G., was chief range officer and conducted the match. Vice-president Schoff, Captain Bell, chief chemist, and other representatives of the Ammunition Company, were present. The aggregate score of the five men standing highest was considerably ahead of the corresponding figure last year, and this although the men had had scarcely any opportunity for practice. The freshmen who competed showed up well and the prospects for a crack rifle team seem bright indeed. The scores of the other competitors follow: E. M. Washburn, '16, 188; R. R. Bogie, '16, 184; P. L. Slayton, '16, 183; R. W. Daniels, '15, and P. H. Gates, '15, 180; P. L. Ransom, '16, 178; J. J. Finnessey, '16, 177; C. Burleson, '17, 164; V. L. Durfee, '17, 162; E. A. Labrake, '17, 148.

drawn up by the committee consisting of the Misses O'Sullivan, Gifford Spofford, and Shepardson was read and adopted, and an emblem was decided upon also. The aim of the society is to work for the development of the highest type of college women and to further the best interests of the women's department and the University.

Le Cercle Francaise

Le Cercle Francaise of the University held its first meeting of the year Wednesday afternoon, October 15, in the Old Mill. Plans for the year were discussed and it was voted that the meetings should be held at 4:15. Professor Myrick said that his home would be open to the club at all times, and that they might hold some dances there if they wished.

DEBATING ASSOCIATION MEETING

Regular Program Attracts Interest

The Monday night meeting of the Debating Association was held this week in the new and permanent room, G. North College. Thirty were present. An unusually interesting string of current events was presented by Sanford, '15, in which popular fancy was at once caught by a short discussion of the "tango" situation in Cincinnati and Chicago. Way, '17, followed with a paper on Porto Rico, drawing some quaint statistical comparisons, and producing several facts and suggestions attractive because of their unfamiliarity. The program closed with an extempore debate on the question: "Resolved, That the University Should Support a Hockey Team this Coming Winter." The affirmative, upheld by Olzendam and Mudget, lost to Powers and Morrow of the negative. President Bailey suggested that the annual banquet be held earlier than usual this year.

Following up the introduction of the subject by Way's paper, the club will run a night on Porto Rico at the next meeting, Monday, the 27th. There will be a paper on the present government of Porto Rico; a set debate, "That Porto Rico Should at Once Be Admitted to the Union as a Sovereign State;" and, finally, a Porto Rican's own view of the question. A sophomore-freshman debate is soon to take place.

William H. Baldwin Prize

Attention is called to the fact that the National Municipal League is this year renewing its offer of $100 for the best essay on a subject connected with municipal government to undergraduate students registered in a regular course in any college or university in the United States offering direct instruction in municipal government. The topic this year is: "Is the Commission Form of Government a Permanent One?" Vermont men are eligible to compete, and should not fear to enter the contest. This and similar offers are well worth considering when we think of how comparatively few take them up.

Commons Club Headquarters

The large drawing room on the top floor of the Old Mill has been secured for the use of the Commons Club and is at present being outfitted for that purpose. The drawing tables and stools have been removed, and easy chairs, window seats and lounges will soon occupy their places. The walls are to be appropriately decorated, and everything done to make of it a comfortable meeting place.

Women's Athletic Association

The Women's Athletic Association met Monday afternoon, October 20, in the Howard gymnasium. Miss Clio Crandall, '14, the president of the association, presided. The constitution of the association was read for the benefit of the new members, and the reports of the secretary and treasurer of last year were read and approved. Plans for the Hallowe'en party were discussed. Gladys Gleason, '15, and Charlotte Sinclair, '16, were elected junior and sophomore members, respectively, of the executive committee. The member from the freshman class was left to be elected by the freshmen women, while the name of the member of the faculty needed to complete their committee was not proposed at this time, such a representative will be chosen very soon at a future meeting.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

A meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held Sunday afternoon at Grassmount, with Edith Coulman as leader. Miss Kelsey, secretary of student volunteer movement, gave an interesting talk on "Christian Responsibility."

An informal meeting was held Monday evening at Grassmount. The "History of the Student Volunteer Movement" was discussed by Miss Kelsey. She also spoke of the student volunteer convention to be held in Kansas City Dec. 31-Jan. 4.

Cross-country

Manager Thomas of the track team reports that in all probability there will be a cross-country run against Middlebury on the University course next week. There are now ten men on the cross-country squad. A meet is also pending with New Hampshire State.

Literary Number

The CYNIC will endeavor to publish a literary number in the near future. All contributions should be handed in as soon as possible. Our advice would be, "Don't be afraid to try." Although there must be literary ability in college, competition is so exceptionally low that he or she who wishes to try out has an unusually good opportunity. Stories, special articles, and poems are acceptable. Stories are particularly in demand, and may range from 100 to 2000 words. Articles should be dropped in the CYNIC box or handed to L. W. Dean, '15.

Entertainment Pending

An entertainment, "Alice in Wonderland," will be given by the women of Howard Hall and Grassmount on a Saturday about the middle of November at the Howard gymnasium for the purpose of re-furnishing and fitting up the sun parlor at Grassmount. Marjorie Watson, '14, has the affair in charge. There will probably be two performances, one in the afternoon for the benefit of the children, and one in the evening.

Hare and Hound Chase

Much enthusiasm was shown by the girls of the University Tuesday afternoon over the exciting hare and hound chase. The officers for the chase were as follows:

Huntsman, Gladys Fauley, '16; whippers-in, Gladys Gleason, '15; Dorothy Votey, '16. Hares, Charlotte Sinclair, '16; Hazel McCuen, '15.

The rules for the chase were that the hares should have ten minutes start and should scatter small pieces of paper on the route at intervals of 100 yards.

The course was from the Howard gymnasium across the back campus, over Colchester Avenue to Ira Allen school, through the grounds of Mount St. Mary's, and back to the gymnasium by Mansfield Avenue and the college green. Miss McCuen, '15, and Miss Sinclair, '16, were winners of the chase.

Deutscher Verein Initial Meeting

Last Friday evening the Deutscher Verein held the first meeting of the year. Prof. Appellmann called the meeting to order at 7:30 o'clock.

With the exception of a brief talk by Dr. Appellmann on the purpose of the club, the meeting was held for the election of officers only. The result of the election is as follows:

President, Paulson, '16; vice president, Miss Gifford, '14; secretary, Miss Gardener, '15; treasurer, election postponed; executive committee, chairman, Miss Beatrice Moore, other members to be appointed by the chairman.

The club will hold regular monthly meetings which every member will be required to attend. There will also be unofficial fortnightly meetings, at which attendance is optional.

Throughout the evening German was spoken almost entirely. The meeting closed with singing of German songs.

The Howard Hall Club met for the first time this year Tuesday night, October 21. Edith Coulman, '14, the vice president of last year, presided. New members were elected and a committee was appointed to make preparations for the initiation which will probably be held next week.

is published on Saturday of each week during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont. It will be mainly given over to news, while a literary supplement will, from time to time, be published.

Subscription price $2.00 per year;
10c. per copy.

SATURDAY, OCT. 25, 1913.

Very few worthy enterprises at Vermont have been tackled with as much energy or put through with as much dispatch as the football blanket campaign. Much credit is due to the Key and Serpent committee and all others concerned. Much discredit, however, is reflected upon most of those who still feel unconcerned. The number of men who "aren't financially able" to give a quarter for the blankets is astounding. There must be nearly a hundred men here who lead a very precarious hand to mouth existence. The blankets are here and in use although $8.00 more must be raised from these exponents of false economy. It seems as if after seeing them in use and realizing their necessity, these slow payers would be prompted to "shell out."

It looks as if the faculty-student council was entering on a career of larger usefulness and responsibility. It will undoubtedly find much legislative work that demands its attention from time to time. In taking over the functions of the committee on student organizations, it will have enough to keep it busy most of the year. It is necessary that the council proceed a little cautiously at first, until it finds its mission. A gradually increasing assumption of power and dignity will in the end produce big results. Like all representative government, there will be some practical difficulties. Caucuses and party lines will not be necessary for efficient business, it is hoped. But the student members will at all times need to remember that they represent the will of others, and perhaps at rare times may need to use their consciences in opposing the popular clamor.

In granting dates for all meetings and social functions, the council will have to meet often. This is advantageous, for frequent meetings will cause all matters of common good to be agitated. The stagnation which has been seen in some of our many organizations, which have few and irregular meetings will thus be removed. If the council proposes to carry all branches of this responsibility out, it will be flooded with work. Many applications will require immediate action; new organizations may require a charter from the council, and times of meeting may have to be fixed by the council so as not to interfere with the rest of the college calendar. In our opinion, applications for dates will come in so often that a special committee of two or three will have to be appointed to pass upon most of them.

The council will have enough to do in its own province after it has found out just what its province is. It will not need to interfere with any of the present functions of the class honorary societies. As we see it, the Boulder's function is to look after and supervise all college customs,—the freshman rules, the cane rush, the tug of war, proc night, and any other old or new customs which need to be established and controlled. Key and Serpent has found its place in the college, adding to its responsibilities from year to year. Its work can be summed up as being always on the lookout to "start things" in our undergraduate life, and seeing them finished if possible. Ukma has not thoroughly found itself, but in publishing freshman rules, and in drafting freshmen for work and entertainment is making its influence felt. The faculty-student council in its increasing legislative importance will not need to interfere with any of these functions.

COMMUNICATIONS

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CYNIC:—

The undersigned wishes to express his hearty approval of your editorial on student finances which appeared in the last issue of the CYNIC. Your suggestions are business-like and practical. Your advice will be found helpful to the class officers.

You say "the committee on student finances will step in and supervise at times, but often after the harm has been done." It may be helpful for the student body to realize that the committee on student finances always "steps in" after the harm has been done. Its service in advance can only be advisory and cautionary. Its advice is freely and willingly given but is seldom asked for. When advice is interjected, it is generally neglected. The neglect is not wilful but due largely to procrastination till the pressure of immediate needs compels hasty action.

The committee on student finances advises in all cases the assessment and collection of taxes before obligations are incurred. The committee insists that all obligations that are incurred must be honorably discharged.

It may not be superfluous to call your attention to the financial condition of the CYNIC. The manager needs the assistance of a larger number of collectors and subscription and advertising canvassers. He must have a more active, cordial support of the student body. Last year under the direction of five successive managers the net debt was reduced by about three hundred dollars. This year the printer will, with the approval of the committee, insist upon the payment of fifty dollars per issue before he sends the publications to the mail. This will often be a severe trial to the manager unless the students respond more liberally by subscribing and paying in advance. A much larger list of subscribers is needed to continue the CYNIC at the present cost of publication.

In calling your attention to the financial needs of the CYNIC, there is no desire to lessen the influence of your editorial on class finances. That editorial will probably make it unnecessary for the committee to "step in" in those matters this year. If your advice is properly heeded, it will certainly be unnecessary for them to do so.

Yours truly,
A. W. Slocum

Chairman of committee on finances.

Interclass Track Meet Goes to 1917

The freshmen with a total of thirty points won the interclass track meet last Friday afternoon. 1916 was a close second with twenty-three points to their credit. And the seniors were there with fifteen points. The juniors, owing to the fact that only two of their men competed, secured but three points.

A few men did remarkably well. Among these was Le Barron, '17, who did fast time in the mile, and won by almost half a lap.

The half mile was very closely contested between Shippey and Wilbur, both of 1917. The former won by a close decision.

All the old men showed up well, and with the distance runs filled, this year's prospects seem encouraging.

Ex-1914. Edward A. Pease, has been promoted to the "Hurry" department of the Vermont Marble Co., in Proctor.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

Elections—First Meeting

The men in the chemistry department met October fifteenth, and elected the following officers:

President, H. P. Gaylord, '14; vice president, R. E. Minckler, '15; secretary treasurer, M. H. Davis, '15; chairman of program committee, Prof. G. H. Burrows.

It was decided that meetings should henceforth be held the third Tuesday of each month. The first of these regular meetings was held last Tuesday night in the Science hall. Professor Williams gave a talk on an interesting piece of research work and a general discussion followed. Then came a social hour, with refreshments and cigars, during which Professor Merrill gave some reminiscences, in his inimitable way, of his experiences as a student in Germany.

For the November meeting, some original features in the form of "Alumni Advice" have been promised.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

At the regular Y. M. C. A. meeting Tuesday evening, Dean Perkins gave a most helpful talk on the subject, "Prayer." A plan to send several delegates to the National convention in Kansas City was considered.

The association is just now in a very flourishing condition. The employment bureau has thus far turned over fifty-two jobs to student applicants; and the chances seem pretty good for the association membership to reach the coveted two hundred mark.

Y. W. C. A. Bible Class

The Y. W. C. A. of the University have established a Bible Study class of thirty-two members at the First Church. The leader is Dr. Guthrie and the god-mother, Mrs. W. J. Van Patten. The class, called the "Steadfast Girls," met at Mrs. Van Patten's home on Monday evening, October 13, for the purpose of organizing. A constitution was drawn up and adopted, and the following officers were elected: president, Georgia Gifford, '14; vice president, Edith Gates, '15; secretary, Pearl Grandy, '17; treasurer, Lilla C. Montgomery, '15; chairman of the membership committee, Grace B. Nutting, '15; chairman of the social committee, Grace M. Scofield, '16; and chairman of the devotional committee, Edith R. Gates, '15.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

To Be Annual Affair

The women of the University were so encouraged by their success of last year that they have decided to make the Hallowe'en party an annual affair. The party which will take the form of a masquerade dance will be given in the college gymnasium on Friday evening, October 31. Besides the regular order of dances there will be a program of different fancy dances given in costume by the women. There will be no booths as of last year, but the tickets will include everything, Robinson's singing orchestra will furnish music. The tickets which are 75 cents per couple will be on sale at the college store. It might be said that masks are a matter of preference and are not required for admission.

Home Economics Club Elect

The Home Economics Club of the University met Monday evening, October 20, in Miss Terrill's room at Grassmount. Officers for the year were elected as follows: president, Lucy Swift, '16; vice president, Louisa Douglas, '15; and secretary and treasurer, Charlotte Peerpont, '17. It was voted that the vice president should be also the chairman of the program committee.

Meeting of Freshmen Women

The women of the freshman class met during chapel hour Tuesday morning, October 21, and elected Jessie Fiske, member of the executive committee of the Women's Athletic Association. Plans for baseball, basketball and volley ball teams were discussed.

MEDIC NOTES

The medical fraternities report the following men pledged:

Phi Chi—D. A. Atkinson, '15, Derby Junction, N. B.; H. A. Benson, '15, Alexander Bay, N. Y.; J. Ciminera, '16, Waterbury, Conn.; Flynn, '16; Gadle, Bishop, Lyons.

Alpha Kappa Kappa—Smith, '15; McDermot, '15; Frazer, '16; Riley, Becker, Alden.

Delta Mu—McKinley, Andrews, Morse, Shields, Cheney, O'Neil, Squares.

The Book and Skull met at the Alpha Kappa Kappa rooms last Monday evening.

WOMEN'S STUDENT COUNCIL

Will Balance Men's

In accordance with the action taken at a meeting of all the women of the University held Monday afternoon, October 13, that a student council for women should be established which should be composed of Miss Terrill, Miss Marshall and five members to be elected from the student body,—two seniors and one from each of the other three classes

—the women have met and elected the following members: seniors, Marjorie Watson and Edith Coulman; junior, Edith Gates; sophomore, Marjorie Hayden; freshman, Esther Ayer. It is hoped that this body organized to meet a long felt need will fulfill its purpose by proving itself as real and effective a factor in the women's department as a like body has in the men's.

Sigma Phi Initiation

The annual initiation and banquet of the Sigma Phi fraternity took place Friday night, October 17. The following men were initiated: Louis Fenner Dow, '15, Burlington; Francis Fellows Kellogg, Poultney; Ronald Packard Burrage, Leominster, Mass.; Albert William Rutter, Burlington; Clarence Morrill Collord, Buffalo, N. Y.; Kenneth Simon MacLeod, Bellows Falls. There were about 45 present including the following from out of town: John J. Allen, '62, Prof. James R. Wheeler, '80, of New York City; W. H. Peet, '11, of Chicago; A. O. Stebbins, Montpelier; C. S. Dow, '02, West Haven, Conn.; R. W. Wentworth, Pittsfield, Mass.; R. W. Simonds, '13, Putnamville; H. F. Pease, ex-'15, Rutland; Rev. Nelson Kellogg, '02, Poultney.

Gymnasium Work

Gymnasium classes for the sophomore and freshman women began Monday, October 20. The work will be entirely out of doors until November at least. There is basketball practice Monday and Thursday mornings at nine o'clock and Wednesday morning at ten; baseball practice Tuesdays and Thursdays at 4:20 p. m.; and volley ball practice Mondays and Wednesdays at 2:15 p. m. The women have all entered into the work with so much enthusiasm that Mrs. Stone hopes to have a very successful year. Plans for the indoor work have not yet been mapped out. As soon as the regular work is started Mrs. Stone will organize her classes in medical gymnastics and will if time permits, offer a course for the upperclassmen.

University Travel Club

The fifty-three women who have made application for membership in the University Travel Club will meet this afternoon at 4:30 at Grassmount where, under Mrs. Frederick Tupper's direction, they will organize and discuss plans for the society. It will probably be decided, at this time, whether or not the club will be divided into sections instead of meeting as a whole, since the number of members is so large.

Miss Bessie Thayer, '13, and Miss Theta Baker, '12, are spending the week end in town for the purpose of visiting the schools.

AGRICULTURAL DANCE

Successful Affair. Many Attend

The Agricultural Club held its dance in the gymnasium last Wednesday night and over sixty couples attended. Robinson's singing orchestra furnished the music for an enjoyable evening. In the receiving line stood Prof. and Mrs. G. P. Burns, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Burdick and Prof. and Mrs. M. B. Cummings. The proceeds of the dance will go towards sending a team to represent Vermont at the fruit judging contest at Boston and the corn judging contest at Windsor. The committee in charge of the dance was Mayforth, '15, Car-rigan, '14, Hayden, '15, Carlton, '16, LaBrake, '17.

Politics Club

The Politics Club is soon to resume activities. The club, which was formed last year as a rather exclusive organization, being limited to a membership of twenty, met with such success that those in charge have decided not to let it drop. Hovey Jordan, '13, has the matter in charge. At present there are several vacancies in membership left open by last year's seniors. Only seniors and juniors are eligible. All up-to-date political questions are treated by the club, and doubtless one or two good speakers will be secured for lectures this year. Professors G. G. Groat and W. T. Jackman will be actively connected with the society.

Activities of Medical Department Increasing

The University has established a free dispensary in connection with the college of medicine. Rooms have been provided by the Mary Fletcher hospital and have been equipped for this work.

The college of medicine has also made definite arrangements with the Mary Fletcher hospital for the free use of the clinical material which is available in the wards. For the past two years the college of medicine has been providing over two thousand cases for clinical study each year, and the organization of the dispensary and the free use of clinical material in the wards of the hospital will increase the amount of clinical material very decidedly.

The free maternity ward which has been established at the Mary Fletcher hospital in connection with the medical college is reported as meeting with the success it so fully deserves. The first patient was admitted the day the ward was opened. A service of inestimable value is being done the poor people of the State by establishing this free maternity ward where maternity patients can receive the best professional services and be cared for by trained nurses.

Prizes To Be Awarded in German

To arouse interest in the study of the German language, prizes will be awarded to the four best students in that department. The nature of the prizes will be as follows:—First prize, $15.00 and a diploma; second prize, a medal and a diploma; third prize, a large two volume German-English and English-German dictionary and a diploma; fourth prize, a diploma.

The first and second prize will be given by The German-American Alliance Branch, Burlington. For the third prize we are indebted to Prof. Appelman. It is possible that more prizes can be given.

These prizes will be awarded at commencement to those four students who rank highest in competitive examinations given for the purpose of determining the rank. Those students enrolled in any one of the several courses in German who have a mark of A at mid-years, and who do satisfactory work for the remainder of the year will be eligible to compete for these prizes. The exact date of the examinations will be announced later.

Alumni Smoker Plans

The Washington alumni are planning to hold a smoker about the 11th of November, when President Benton expects to be in Washington.

The New York alumni are planning for a smoker during the first week of December, to open up the winter season. The arrival of the team on Friday night before the Fordham game made a smoker on that evening impossible.

Miss Kelsey's Talk

All the young women of the University met in the lecture room of Science hall, Monday, October twentieth, to hear Miss Kelsey, student volunteer secretary, who was the guest of the University over Sunday. In her address she told of the great need of more Christian workers. She appealed to all college girls to make the most of their lives and advised many to go into missionary fields as doctors, nurses or teachers.

A Young Instructor's Position

The attitude of some instructors as they enter upon their work may be familiar. Their greatest horror is that of being considered "easy" by their students. Their attitude becomes one of discouragement rather than encouragement. The following illustrative anecdote is told in the Williams Alumni Review of December, 1909.

James H. Canfield, Williams, '68, Chancellor of the University of Nebraska, is the central figure of the incident. Toward the close of the college year a young tutor of mathematics who was completing his first year of service came into the Chancellor's office and asked whether he was to be reappointed for another year. The Chancellor said, "Well, what do you yourself think of your work? What have you done that you are proud of?" The young tutor answered, "Mr. Chancellor, I have just held such a stiff examination in my course that I have flunked sixty members of the freshman class. The Chancellor looked at him kindly and said, "Young man, suppose I gave you a herd of one hundred cattle to drive to Kansas City, or Omaha, and you came in to tell me that you had driven them so fast, and so hard, and had made such good time, that 60 per cent. of them had died on the way. Do you think that I should want you to drive any more cattle to the Missouri River?" "No sir," said the tutor, "Well, I do not think we will let you drive any more freshmen."

A New Vermont Publication

A beautifully illustrated pamphlet of 32 pages has recently been published under the direction of the trustees and the alumni, setting forth in concise terms the history, location, scope and aims of the University. The background of the college is given in an account of the State of Vermont and its people. Next comes a graphic picture of Burlington, the immediate setting, followed by a brief history of the institution, a description of its physical plant and of its library, herbarium and museum, and some idea of its rank among other colleges and universities. The next section is devoted to some very interesting alumni statistics. Of the future the pamphlet says: "The highest standards in education will be maintained, and the greater opportunities for more and better diversified service to the community life will be met. The University contemplates additional extension work in agriculture, engineering and medicine, provided that State appropriations or increased endowment make it possible.

"In the educational world, the small institution of merit continues to play an important part. Its contribution to national life may be far-reaching, if its ideals are high and are thoroughly instilled through the intimate communion between professor and student which the fewer numbers make possible. The natural field of the University comprises, Vermont, northern New York, northern New Hampshire and southern Canada, a region which affords a supply of virile, country-bred youth, and which needs the influence and contribution of an institution dedicated to the best service that the modern university can give."

ALUMNI NOTES

1898. Albert L. Clark, chemist, has been spending several years in the interior of Mexico, where he has established an assay business. The revolution, however, put the mining business in that locality completely out of operation, so all the people in the town found it necessary to make haste to escape with their lives. Mr. Clark sent his family North to the States in March and he himself left in April. To do so, it was necessary to drive over 100 miles to get to a railroad and then travel 2,000 miles by rail and water through Mexico City to get what was only a few hundred miles across country to where his family was located in Texas. Mr. Clark has been spending his summer with friends in New England and is now making preparations to locate in business again.

1902. Don M. Rice, who has been employed by the New York Telephone Company for some years, has been obliged to give up his work on account of ill health and go to the country for an indefinite period. Mr. Rice is secretary of the New York Alumni Association.

1903. Miss Helen Hodge, is spending the winter at her home in Burlington.

1903 Harriet Hodge, is teaching in the Ely school for girls at Greenwich, Conn.

1909 Mrs. Robert Paquette, (Nellie Lee) and son, Lee Francis, who have been visiting Miss Cora Miles of Burlington have returned to their home in Peterboro, N. H.

1910. Grace Sylvester, who spent the summer in town, left last week for her school in New York.

1911. Announcement has been made of the marriage of Arthur Day Welch, to Ethel E. Weston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis E. Weston of New York City. At home at 87 Beechwood Road, Summit, N. J.

1911. Ray Allen, has a position with the Never-Never-Land Farm, Shelter Island, Heights, N. Y.

1911. William H. Peet, of Constantinople has joined the Western Electric Co., in Chicago.

1913. Miss Katherine Graves, is going to assist in the chemistry laboratory this year.

1913 Miss Cora A. Parkhurst, '13, is engaged in social settlement work in Boston preparatory to her entrance at Radcliffe as a post graduate student.

NEW STUDENT COUNCIL MEETS

All Classes Have Chosen Representatives—Dances Limited at First Meeting

The newly elected student faculty council held its first meeting this week. The council as now constituted is as follows:

Dean G. H. Perkins, chairman, Dean H. C. Tinkham, Professors J. F. Messenger, W. T. Jackman, Evan Thomas, M. B. Cummings and Hovey Jordan.

George H. Seiple, Fordyce S. Sykes, Joseph E. Carrigan, Mitchell D. Carey from 1914.

Edward A. Currier, Robert Daniels, Harold A. Mayforth, James W. Bunce from 1915.

Charles Baldwin and Carl Bloomer from 1916.

This makes the full council consist of 17 members, 10 students and seven faculty men. The council as originally constituted had 15 members.

At the meeting rules concerning the holding of college dances were passed.

Those organizations wishing to hold dances must submit a request in writing to some member of the council two weeks in advance of the proposed date. It was voted to request each student organization to limit its number of dances to two annually. This will be done in order to overcome the possibility of anyone thinking that Vermont has too large a number of dances.

Hereafter the council will meet on the first and third Fridays of each month at 4:30 p. m.

The council is particularly anxious to secure the student point of view and attitude, in order to be of the most value to the college body. It seeks any suggestions or criticisms and will carefully consider all that are submitted.

"Coney Island"

A joint committee of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. agreed Wednesday night to hold a huge fair in the gymnasium (in two weeks) to be comparable in every respect to that great pleasure resort, Coney Island. Watch for developments.

FORDHAM GAME CANCELLED

Rain Spoils Chances for Good Game

Fordham cancelled the game which was scheduled with the Varsity to be played on Fordham field in New York last Saturday. A heavy rain had made the field a sea of mud and the conditions were not favorable for good football. Cancelling the game was a great disappointment to the Varsity who hoped to pull down a victory. What the outcome of the game would have been is very problematical, for wet fields were partly responsible for some of the big surprises in Saturday's score.

RECENT ACTIVITIES IN MILITARY DEPARTMENT

First Battalion Parade—Military Ball Comes Dec. 11 Rifle Club Elections

The battalion parade which was held at the regular military period last Friday was a decided success and proved a source of much satisfaction to the commandant as well as to the officers in charge. Never before in the history of the University has battalion parade been held so early in the year. The success of the event proves the interest on the part of the new men and the faithful service on the part of those who are instructing them.

The military band has recently been reorganized and appointments have been made as follows: drum major, Frank Griffin; 1st lieutenant, R. B. Smith; sergeant, R. B. Gordon; chief musician, V. C. Taplin; principal musician, H. K. Thompson. Other promotions will be made shortly.

Plans are under way for a military tournament to be held some time in January.

The annual military ball will be held on Thursday evening, Dec. 11. This date has been chosen in view

No Game for Second Team

The game between Montpelier Seminary and the second team was cancelled on account of rain. The next game which is scheduled for the Varsity seconds is with Troy Conference Academy at Poultney on November 8.

VARSITY PLAYS BROWN TODAY AT PROVIDENCE

Brunonians have Struck Their Form

Vermont plays Brown University at Providence today. Brown showed that they had struck their gait last Saturday when they defeated the fast Springfield Y. M. C. A. team 26 to 6. A wet field favored Brown, who are heavy, and handicapped their opponents, who rely largely on the open game. Brown gained mostly on line plays and used their famous wing shift with great effectiveness. This week they have been training their regulars against the second team which has been coached in the Min-

ALL-MEDIC DANCE

Pre-Medics Invited to Attend

The all-medic dance, the event of the year, in the College of Medicine, was held on the evening of Thursday, Oct. 30, in the Masonic Temple. Halloween decorations graced the hall and Robinson's singing orchestra of five pieces furnished music. For the first time in the history of Old Vermont, pre-medics were present at this affair, whereas the attendance has been purely medic before this.

TRACK NEWS

No Cross-Country this Fall

The interclass meet which was to have been held on Wednesday afternoon had to be cancelled on account of Captain Hayden and three others of the team being unable to run.

The arrangements for the proposed cross-country run against Middlebury on the University course have fallen through, as well as the meet with New Hampshire State. There will be no cross-country run this fall. Manager Thomas is working hard to arrange a good schedule for spring.

Captain Hayden has the men in good condition and says that outdoor practice will continue as long as the weather permits after which they will use the indoor track in the gym. Every man who has ever done any running or thinks he would like to, should come out and try for the team.

PROC NIGHT SUBSTITUTE

Approved By Pres. Benton—Now Before Faculty

At a recent meeting of the Boulder Society a suitable substitute for "Proc Night" was discussed. A committee was appointed to draw up rules which were later submitted to Dr. Benton. The president gave his hearty approval and will in turn send the rules to the University senate which will take action upon them.

The new rules eliminate some of the undesirable features of the occasion and the Boulder men hope that the revision will be acceptable to both faculty and students.

Dormitory Football Today

As the result of the following challenge, the Converse Hall Giants have organized under Manager A. G. Levy and Captain T. C. Mitchell, Jr.

NOTICE

"The Old Mill Braves do hereby challenge the men of Converse Hall to a game of football on November first, nineteen hundred and thirteen. The rules governing this contest shall be:

1. That the contestants shall wear tennis shoes.

GLEE CLUB HOLDS FIRST REHEARSAL

Bright Prospects

The first rehearsal of the University of Vermont Glee Club was held at the Sigma Nu house, Thursday evening, October 23. The meeting was the finest opening meeting in the memory of the students and faculty present, and made a record attendance of 32. The club rehearsed under the direction of Leader Roberts, and the success of the first rehearsal is prophetic of a fine season.

No definite engagements have been secured, but Manager Ellis, '14, is considering an Easter trip through Massachusetts, including stops at Northampton, Mount Holyoke, and Springfield. This trip will probably be taken in addition to the shorter trips through Vermont. There is need of good material, especially tenors, and all interested are urged to come out to the next rehearsal.

2. That no man shall participate who has worn football clothes since he was in college.

3. Football clothes shall not be worn."

The coaches: Dolphin, Mayforth, Brown, and "Bill" Tennien. Trainer, "Slim" Beckwith.

The challenge has been answered, and with the hard practice which both sides have been putting in this week, Centennial Field should be the scene of a fast game.

VARSITY PLAYS BROWN TODAY AT PROVIDENCE

nesota shift in anticipation of that style of play by Vermont.

The Varsity until last Saturday has had some confidence of making an excellent showing against Brown. Brown has been defeated by Colby 10 to 0, while Colby trimmed Bowdoin 12 to 0 last week. Brown defeated Ursinus 6 to 0, and lost to Penn. 28 to 0. The game of last Saturday puts her into an entirely different rating. In defeating Springfield the Brown team showed strong superiority over a team that has trimmed Boston College, Union, and N. Y. University by large scores. The Vermont backfield is still handicapped. Dolphin is still out of the game. Carrier is now ineligible on account of conditions, and Frazer or St. John will go in as quarter. Tomassi is out of the game for the rest of the season. In view of Brown's recent brace, a victory is not to be expected.

RECENT ACTIVITIES IN MILITARY DEPT.

of the fact that it commemorates the twentieth anniversary of the day on which the commandant, Captain Ira L. Reeves, entered the service.

The meetings of the officers school which are held every Thursday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock are well attended by the officers and non-commissioned officers. The average attendance is from 30 to 35. Advance work is now being taken up. Map reading and saber and fencing exercises will soon begin.

In the regular weekly shoot of the two teams of the rifle club, held last week, the "Reds" under Capt. Washburn came out victorious by one point; the score being 896 to 895.

The rifle club met Monday afternoon and elected the following officers:—president, P. L. Ransom; secretary, Frank Corley; treasurer, C. H. Hayden; and R. W. Daniels as captain of the team. Paul Gates holds the official record.

RIFLE CLUB ORGANIZED

Weekly League Shoots—Band, Fife and Drum Corps, and Signal Corps Developing

Captain Robert W. Daniels, '15, has been elected captain of the rifle team. Upwards of sixty men have signed up as members of the Rifle Club, and the list is daily growing longer. All the members of the club have been divided into two leagues, the Reds and the Blues, and matches will be run off between the leagues every week until the intercollegiate matches begin in January. J. J. Finnessy and E. M. Washburn will head the leagues and each will pick his team from his own league. This is a good method of finding and developing material and should be productive of excellent results. Though the rifle team is an institution of only a year's standing at Vermont, it has already won an honorable place among our activities; and rightly as it seems. For this branch of sport has much to recommend it. It requires rather less time than football or baseball, it is inexpensive, it gives valuable training to those who take part in it, and lastly it does good service in advertising Vermont, since the scores of the intercollegiate matches are chronicled from coast to coast.

As far as can be judged thus early in the year, band prospects are the best ever. Many of the upperclassmen are playing in the band this year, and there is considerable musical ability in the incoming class. A fife and drum corps has been organized under the direction of R. B. Gordon, consisting of three fifers and three drummers. This will be called into play at dress parade, guard mountings, and at other times when the band cannot conveniently be gotten out.

The signal corps this year is composed of sixteen picked men, all of whom have had previous military experience. This will be the exhibition corps of the whole organization and will be called upon when something particularly good is required.

New Museum Tablets

Apropos of the lecture on the excavations at Bismaya in Mesopotamia which was delivered by Professor E. J. Banks some three weeks ago, it is interesting to note that we have in the museum several Babylonian "books" which were among Dr. Banks' "finds." These "books" are nothing but small clay tablets on which the cuneiform characters were imprinted while the clay was yet soft and which were then baked hard enough to withstand dampness and time. Tablets containing especially valuable records were often covered over with another layer of clay and baked again, the second layer of clay thus forming a binding or envelope, as it were. The tablets in the museum relate to contracts and temple offerings, but they have not been fully translated and a lady from the Hopkins Hall school at Rock Point, who is an Assyrian scholar, has kindly offered to translate them as soon as she has leisure.

Gift To Classical Department

Professor S. F. Emerson has recently presented the classical department with two large paintings, one of the Forum, the other of the Coliseum. These pictures formerly belonged to Mrs. Emerson, into whose possession they came by inheritance. The view of the Forum is especially interesting in that it shows the Forum before much excavation had been done and differs greatly from a more recent picture of the Forum which hangs on the other side of the Latin room.

Junior Student Council Elections

At the class meeting last Friday the juniors elected the following members to the student council:—Edward A. Currier, from the college of engineering; Robert Daniels, from the college of arts and sciences; Harold A. Mayforth, from the college of agriculture.

Commons Club Meetings

A meeting of the non-fraternity men's organization was held in the Science Hall last week. It was there decided to continue the club's work along the same lines as last year, but to go farther.

A meeting was scheduled for Thursday night in the new rooms on the top floor of the "Mill." Non-fraternity freshmen were admitted for the first time, as it has been the policy of the club to do no work among the freshmen, until the fraternities had finished making their pledges.

ENFORCEMENT OF TAX LAWS

Main Topic of Tax Conference—Professor Groat a Delegate

Professor Groat spent the last three days of last week at the National Tax Conference in Buffalo. Papers were read treating questions of local and state taxation. Most of the papers dealt with proper enforcement of present tax laws. After the papers were all read there was little time for discussion. As usual some single tax advocates were present. Twenty college representatives and tax officials of 29 states were present.

Boston Alumni Meeting

The Boston Alumni Association are planning to hold a reunion on Nov. 14. The place is not yet decided upon.

NEW DRAMATIC CLUB

To Develop Talent of the Young Women

Plans are being made for the formation of a dramatic club with the purpose of promoting the dramatic talent among the young women of the University. Only those who have had speaking parts in the plays will be eligible for membership. It is hoped that sufficient interest may be aroused to make this club a permanent organization of the University.

Sigma Phi Dance

The Sigma Phi fraternity held a house dance on Wednesday night. The chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Gates and Mr. C. L. Woodbury.

Special Service at St. Paul's

The special service at St. Paul's church, Sunday evening, October twenty-sixth, was largely attended by the students and faculty of the University. An excellent sermon was delivered by the Reverend Charles C. Wilson on "The Healing of the Leper by Elisha, the man of God." There was special music and an organ recital by Guy N. Hull. This is the first of a series of services planned especially for the University.

Lambda Iota Dance

Lambda Iota held a very successful dance in its new house, on the evening of Tuesday, the 28th. Barton's orchestra furnished music and the chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Brodie and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Middlebrook.

Aero Club Starts Successfully

At the meeting of those interested in aviation held last Thursday, the University of Vermont Aero Club was formed with the following officers: President, Mr. Blackburn, vice president, S. P. Mills, '15, secretary-treasurer, P. L. Slayton, '16, glider commissioners, Mr. Blackburn, E. M. Washburn '16, and P. H. Gates, '15. Twenty-one interested men were out, and the excellent start augurs well for the success of the organization.

Why Men Go to College

Dartmouth statistics drawn from interviews with every man in last year's entering class show that the influence of graduates and undergraduates brought 141, location brought 46, size of the college as midway between the small college and university, brought 12, influence of relatives 47, plan of admission 18, reputation and spirit 11, lower expense 10, Thayer school 13, Tuck school 11, athletics 5, miscellaneous and combined reasons 73.

Tennis Team Defeats the Officers

The University of Vermont tennis team defeated the officers team from Fort Ethan Allen with a score of four matches to two this week. The play was very close though very slightly in favor of Vermont, McFarland and Dow starring in both singles and doubles. Vermont won both double matches and the teams split even on the singles, each team taking two matches.

"SOCIAL SERVICE" IS CONSTRUCTIVE

Chapel Address by Prof. Groat

"Social Service" was the subject of Prof. Groat's address in chapel on Thursday. Social service, he said, is becoming popular throughout the land and is almost a fad in some communities. It is a term which needs no defining except to emphasize the broadness of its application. It is broader than lack of selfishness, broader than altruism.

Conditions of life are changing. The interrelations and interdependencies of the individuals which go to make up a society are becoming more complex. In no sense do we live unto ourselves.

He then considered what the good Samaritan would do today. He would build a hospital on the Jericho road and give expert care to the unfortunate traveler; he would start an agitation for better police protection on the road; he would go farther and investigate the influences which cause young men to become robbers.

Relief work is important, but constructive work is more important. We have at last passed laws prohibiting the use of dangerous phosphorous in match factories. A campaign is now on to stop poisoning of those engaged in the paint and other industries using lead. Such constructive work is true social service.

1916 Class Elections

The sophomores met on Wednesday and elected Charles Baldwin and Carl Bloomer to the student council. The executive committee was chosen as follows: W. R. Conroy, A. D. Seaver, H. A. Mack, F. P. Corley, G. L. Bean, Miss Charlotte Sinclair, Miss Scofield. Arthur G. Levy was chosen class cheer leader.

Freshman Party at Grassmount

On Monday evening several of the freshman girls were informally entertained by the girls of the sophomore class at Grassmount. Members of the faculty and of the senior class were present. The evening was spent in games, and several musical numbers were rendered by the freshmen girls. It is hoped that this may be made an annual affair.

SATURDAY, NOV. 1, 1913.

There has been little concerted protest against the condition of the college tennis courts this year. Now, at the close of the tennis season may be a fitting time to register a protest which will undoubtedly be endorsed by a very large portion of the student body, and which, it is hoped, will bear fruit next year. There ought to be three first-class college tennis courts. They should be kept up in good condition and marked out throughout the tennis season. Their need is self-evident. There is small likelihood of any such courts falling into disuse through lack of appreciation. On the contrary, they are sure to be occupied most of the time.

Tennis should be considered from a little different standpoint than our other college athletics. There is a natural tendency to attach an importance to our three major sports proportionate to the amount of fame which they bring to the college. Tennis is not likely to bring as much renown to the college as football, baseball, or track. Appropriations for tennis, however, should not be considered entirely on that basis. A small proportion of the funds for baseball and a still smaller amount of the track and football funds go to the upkeep of the athletic grounds. This is as it should be, for the diamond, the gridiron, and the track are used for a limited season and by a limited number of men. The college tennis courts are used by the whole college, and are popular for over six months of the year. More money should be spent on the courts. It does not seem entirely reasonable that the comparatively small amount raised by the student athletic fee should bear all the expenses of the upkeep of the courts any more than that it should cover all improvements and repairs in the gymnasium, the trophy room, or other extra curriculum equipment.

If neither the athletic committee or the buildings and grounds committee can bring itself to the state of mind or state of treasury where it can see the money for three good tennis courts and their upkeep, here is a plan which may solve the upkeep item. Put the tennis courts on the same basis as at Dartmouth; make them pay courts. Charge a moderate sum, say 10 cents an hour for their use to all students. Use the proceeds to pay a man to rake, roll, and mark out the courts. Assuming that the courts would be used five hours of the day (a conservative estimate) they would bring $1.50 a day. A clerk in the College Store could supervise collections. Most of his work would come in the afternoon when trade is not so busy. The system could be much simplified if a book could be kept at the College Store where players could sign up for the courts, reserving them either one day or two days in advance. If there ever were a dull season, there often are townspeople who would be pleased to play on the courts at 15 cents an hour.

We must have better tennis courts. The present courts have three good backnets, but otherwise are a disgrace to the institution and a cause of much dissatisfaction. If the committee will only bring itself to try a new policy and if the College Store can spare a clerk who is willing to put in part of his time and labor on such a good business venture, what practical objections are there to the pay court plan?

The financial stringency in the athletic department of the University this year is a serious handicap. No one who knows the facts will think that the complaint about lack of funds is any empty wail. The force of it is brought home to the student body in the small number of football home games and in the probable small number of baseball home games. The handicap will be further evident in the crying need for money to start Varsity hockey this winter. Every athletic interest is tremendously cramped, such as has been seen in no previous year for some time. The exigency of the case should stir the college to action, or that portion of the college which has originality and the ability to make money in a crisis.

Is there no way other than the Kake Walk in which the college can make money? Some of the same genius which used to turn out good "Peerades" and occasionally good college vaudeville is now keeping dormant at the movies. There is not much leeway for more college dances as money-making functions. If there were many more dances, the average attendance would probably be smaller. Some other way must be found for helping out athletics. It ought to be found soon, so as not to interfere with the Kake Walk. We venture to suggest a college vaudeville as a money-making scheme. Two years ago the Wig and Buskin gave such a performance in the gymnasium. A little haste in preparation and a weak and inadequate advertising campaign made this only mildly successful. In 1909, in the palmy days of Tom Mulcare, a vaudeville was worked in proper style. After two or three nights of performing to good houses, they ended up with a bargain matinee at which a seething mob of Burlington youngsters attended. This was held in the Y. M. C. A. hall. Judging from the craze of many Burlingtonians for vaudeville and the great ease with which they are satisfied, a clever college vaudeville should be a howling success. If any one is sure that there is not the talent for a good vaudeville show now in college, he ought to be ready with another suggestion for getting the much-needed money.

Book List Advocated

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CYNIC:—
Dear Sir:—

Would it be possible for you to devote a small space in your paper each week to print a list of all the books and periodicals that have been acquired during the preceding week by the different departments of the University and especially the library? I have seen this done in the papers of the German universities, and it appeals to me as a good plan, as it enables one to be well informed of the new books in all the different departments of learning.

I feel sure that all people in charge of these matters would willingly render you any necessary assistance.

(signed,) Anton H. Applemann

It has sometimes been the custom of the CYNIC to publish at long and irregular intervals the list of new books at the library. This was usually done when the week was not newsworthy. The long list was considered by the alumni and most students as the driest kind of "filler." A short up-to-date weekly list would probably have more interest. With the co-operation of those in charge we intend to follow your suggestion and thank you for it.—ED.

Hallowe'en Party at*First Church

The Young People's Society of the First Church gave a Hallowe'en party on Wednesday evening in the parish house for the freshmen of the University. There was a very good attendance. The evening was spent in games appropriate to the season, and refreshments were served. A feature of the entertainment was the presentation of "Pyramus and Thisbe," the interlude from "Midsummer Night's Dream," by members of the Steadfast Girls, the College Y. W. C. A. bible class of which Mr. Guthrie, pastor of the church, is teacher. The cast of characters follows:

Pyramus	Miss Gifford, '14
Thisbe	Miss Fletcher, '17
Wall	Miss Dudley, '16
Moon	Miss Nutting, '15
Lion	Miss Grandy, '17
Reader	Miss Gates, '15
Director	Miss Scofield, '16

New Junior Society

The young women of the junior class met Monday, Oct. 27, and elected the following officers for a women's junior organization:

Pres., Lilla Montgomery; vice-pres., Gladys Lawrence; sec. and treas., Marie McMahon; executive committee, chairman, Gladys Gleason, Almira Watts, Hazel Spinney. The aim and character of the organization are not definitely decided as yet.

Deutscher Verein

The first regular meeting of the Deutscher Verein will be held on Wednesday evening, Nov. 5, at eight o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. room in the Mill. At this meeting the honorary members of the Verein will be present. A musical program has been prepared and refreshments will be served. The Verein has added about thirty names to its membership roll, and much enthusiasm is displayed. Plans are maturing for a musical organization within the club, and it is hoped that some sort of a Christmas celebration will be possible.

Howard Hall Club

On Thursday evening, Oct. 23, the Howard Hall Club initiated two new members from the sophomore class, Clara Gardner of Fair Haven, and Katherine Dudley of Randolph. Five freshmen have also been received as members, Helen Chapin of Jericho, Marion MacFarland of Johnson, Frances Tenney of St. Albans, Marion Walker of Cabot, and Jennie Maxfield of Johnson.

English Class Entertained*by Prof. Aiken

On Thursday evening the members of the class in Elizabethan literature were guests of Prof. Aiken and Mrs. Aiken at their home on Loomis St. Prof. Aiken gave readings from the work of Alfred Noyes, who stands high in the list of contemporary English poets. The selections from Noyes' epic, "Drake," were particularly appreciated by the students, as were also the "Tales of the Mermaid Tavern." In these two works Noyes has succeeded in catching and transcribing much of the atmosphere of "the spacious times of great Elizabeth," and students of the literature of that period found them thoroughly enjoyable. Refreshments of sandwiches, coffee and ice cream were served by the hostess. The evening will be remembered with pleasure by the members of the class.

Dances were granted the medic for October 30, the Sigma Phi Society, for October 29, and the Lambda Iota Society, for October 28.

Debating Club Meeting

A lively debate was held on Monday evening. Davis, '15, and Piper, '16, upheld the affirmative of the question: "Resolved, That Porto Rico should be Admitted to the Union as a Sovereign State," and the negative was defended by Ellis, '13, and Prindle, '15. The decision was unanimous in favor of the negative.

Le Cercle Francais

Le Cercle Francais held its second meeting of the year Wednesday, October 29, at 4:15 p. m. in A South College. Professor Myrick suggested that the club take up a wider work than it has done heretofore, by applying for membership in "L'Alliance Francaise des Etats-Unis." This association would prove of great value to the club for it could then secure prominent men to deliver addresses. Professor Myrick then read several scenes from the farce, "Les Deux Sours" by Moinaux.

MEDIC NOTES

Dr. Joseph, former instructor in pathology and anatomy has severed his connection with the college of medicine and is now with Fordham University.

Dr. Benjamin D. Adams is replacing Dr. Woodruff, resigned in the department of surgery.

David P. Maloney, '14, George D. Van Dyke, '15, and John N. McCarty, '15, have entered Jefferson Medical College.

Chase of Jefferson Medical College entered the fourth year class here.

The college of medicine is entering upon a very prosperous year, practically all of the men of the upper three classes are back and we have a first year class of twenty men which is a very creditable showing as against ten last year.

THE ST. PAUL'S CLUB

There will be a meeting of the St. Paul's Club of the University on Monday evening, Nov. 3, at the Delta Psi House. The subject for discussion will be Winston Churchill's famous novel, "The Inside of the Cup." Roy D. Sawyer will lead the discussion. This is the first of a series of meetings which will be held during the year at the various fraternity houses and rooms. All male students in the University as well as members of the faculty are invited to attend these meetings. Monday evening, 7:30 p. m., Delta Psi house.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Dr. Barnes spoke at the Y. W. C. A. meeting last Friday on the subject "What the Christian Association Should Mean to the College Woman." Special music in the form of a duet was rendered by Miss Durfee and Miss Hazel Kimball, with Miss Moore, accompanist. At the close of the meeting the cabinet met with Dr. Barnes. Miss Gates, '15, chairman of the membership committee gave a report of the work done by that committee. Of the 109 girls in college who are eligible for membership in the association 103 are now members. At this meeting it was voted to unite with the Y. M. C. A. in sending delegates from Vermont to the great Student Volunteer convention at Kansas City during the Christmas vacation and steps will at once be taken to raise the required funds. Miss Gates, '15, and Miss Nutting '15, have been chosen as delegates from the Y. W. C. A.

The association meeting yesterday afternoon was led by Miss Gifford, '14, treasurer of the Y. W. C. A. The matter of the financial situation of the national organization and of the local association was taken up, and next Wednesday, November fifth, chosen as pay day for such members as have not already paid their annual dues.

At the Sunday evening meeting at the College Street church tomorrow four senior girls, Miss Coulman, Miss Durfee, Miss Gifford, and Miss Wilcox will speak on "The Y. W. C. A. Student Conference at Silver Bay."

The cost of producing meat or milk would be much less if it required less acres to produce the feed.

Both the quantity and quality of the feed improve when the right plant foods are used to supplement the manure and clover. They improve enough to yield a handsome profit on the expenditure.

The right plant food includes enough

in available form. Supplement the manure and phosphate with 50 to 100 pounds of Muriate of Potash, or 200 to 400 pounds of Kainit, per acre, and you will raise big corn and fine clover after the grain and at the same time improve the fertility of the soil.

Corley, '16, Sanford, '15, Crane, '16, and Sanford, '17, spent the week end in Hardwick, making the rip in Crane's auto.

F. E. Watts, '12, has returned from West Stewartstown, N. H., and resumed his work in the offices of McIntosh and Crandall.

Miss Beulah MacFarland of Johnson spent Sunday as the guest of her sister Miss Marion MacFarland, '17, at Howard Hall.

All students who play musical instruments of any kind are urged to try out for the Musical Club. Try-outs and practice will begin very soon.

Charles E. Mould, '17, who was operated on for appendicitis at the Mary Fletcher hospital Saturday, Oct. 25, is getting along nicely. The operation was entirely successful.

Dean J. L. Hills spoke at the weekly luncheon of the Burlington Merchants' Association on Thursday. His subject was "Rural Progress in Chittenden County."

We wish to state that the item which appeared in the CYNIC last week to the effect that Daniel R. Grandy, '15, had announced his engagement, was entirely unauthorized.

"Keeping in Front"

You fellows know what that means! We've been very successful in this regard with Fatima Cigarettes. By the way, these cigarettes were first sold in the college towns—and you agreed with us that they were good.

Then we put out for the big race, to make Fatimas of nation-wide reputation, and today more are sold than any other cigarette in this country.

No purer, or more carefully chosen tobacco grows than that in Fatimas. We purposely put them in a plain inexpensive wrapper—in this way we can afford quality tobacco, and twenty of the smokes for 15 cents.

Now your college crew is of utmost importance to you—so is a good cigarette, and it's your aim in life to keep Fatimas in the lead—right up to their good quality—right up to where you first found them, and will always find them.

Success fellows! You started this cigarette on its successful career—and you pull a strong oar all over this country.

To the Men of "Old Vermont"

Commons Hall is now under University management and it is the desire of the authorities to make the Hall serve the student body in the largest way possible. In order to do this, it is necessary to have every table full, for then only can the best food and service be given the patrons.

Those who can are asked to board at this institutional table and those who find that impossible are requested, for the sake of the University, to do what they can for the betterment of

BROWN CROSSES LINE THREE TIMES

Vermont Loses 19-0. Bru- nonians Profit on Two Fumbles

The Varsity was beaten at Providence, November 1, by the strong Brown team in a game marred by many fumbles. Vermont was the worst offender in this, and two touchdowns came as the direct result of fumbles. The feature of the game was in the first period when Bean, Brown's right half, tore off a clean 40 yard run around Vermont's right end and was not downed until he had reached the four yard line. Casey failed at centre and fumbled, the ball rolling over the line to be captured by Brown's centre for the first score. McLaughlin failed to kick the goal. In the second period Brown scored a touchdown in a very fluky manner. On the first play Bean punted over St. John's head. Several men were after it but it bounced from one man to another as they tried to fall on it, until it crossed the line, where Staff managed to hold it until the referee blew his whistle. The last touchdown was scored in the third period by straight line rushes after Brown had secured the ball on a fumble by Vermont. Brown played a hard game and were often penalized for off side play due to too much eagerness while Vermont, severely handicapped by the absence of Currier and Dolphin, was unable to work the forward pass successfully, or to gain through Brown's line.

NEW YORK ALUMNAE MEETING

New Officers Elected

The New York alumnae of the University of Vermont met October 25th at the Hotel Woodstock for a luncheon and business meeting. The proposed constitution was adopted and the temporary officers chosen last spring were elected for next year. These were: president, Mrs. M. N. Baker, of Montclair; vice president, Mrs. W. H. Manchee, of Newark; secretary-treasurer, Ruth B. Fisher, New York City; executive committee, Anna Clark, Mrs. E. H. Keeler and Adelaide Marshall, all of New York.

A CHANGE IN THE FACULTY

An Instructor Added to the Chemistry Department

Dr. Barnes, instructor in mathematics has resigned from his position because of the excessive strain of the work. He will still retain his position of director of religious work. The vacancy left by Dr. Barnes has been filled by Charles E. Norwood, a graduate of Boston University, 1909, and of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Mr. Norwood has been engaged in civil engineering for three years and comes to us with knowledge gained from practical experience.

The unusually large freshman class this year has necessitated an addition to the chemistry force. Maurice E. Hammond, B. S., graduate of Cornell in 1909, has been chosen to assist the department as an instructor.

MEETING OF NEW ENGLAND COLLEGES

Prominent Educators Coming to Burlington

On Tuesday and Wednesday, November 18th and 19th the Association of the Colleges of New England will meet with the University of Vermont. The presidents of the leading colleges of America as well as many of the deans and professors will be present to take part in the discussion of the subjects which are given below. This meeting should prove one of the greatest and most interesting that Burlington has seen for many years. The University of Vermont will suggest several subjects for discussion and these will appear in the next issue of the CYNIC.

Colleges are represented as follows: Harvard University, President, Abbott Lawrence Lowell.

Yale University, Dean Frederick

Recesses

Dates for Thanksgiving and Christmas recesses were set as follows: Thanksgiving from Wednesday noon, Nov. 26th, to Friday noon, Nov. 28th; Christmas from the evening of Dec. 22nd, to the morning of Tuesday, Jan. 6th.

UNDERCLASS NIGHT NEXT FRIDAY

Three Events Outlined

Closes at Midnight--Paste Rush New Feature

Underclass night will mark the close of underclass hostilities in place of the old proc night. Most of the objections to the old event are removed by the new program.

The new event comes on Friday, November 14. All except football men in the two lower classes will enter. The rules were formulated by the Boulder Society which will supervise the event. They were passed upon by faculty-student council and senate who left it with the two lower classes to decide whether the scraps should take place by daylight or darkness. Night was favored by a vote of 120 to 31.

Underclass night will open at 4:10 p. m. and will be over at midnight. The dummy rush and wrestling matches are somewhat on the old plan. The paste rush is new and should prove a thriller. The proclamation or posters will be printed under direction of the Boulder Society.

The neutral period shall end at 4:10 Friday afternoon and all hostilities shall end promptly at 12 p. m.

There shall be no men harbored in fraternity houses nor dormitories after 8 p. m.

The last scrap of the year shall consist of three main contests, viz: dummy rush, wrestling matches and paste rush.

Points will be distributed in the following manner, viz: dummy rush, 40 points, wrestling matches 20 points, paste rush, 40 points. All men who may be in captivity shall be released at 11:30 p. m.

DUMMY RUSH

Student Council Notes

At a meeting of the student council Monday, Nov. 4th, permission was granted for the holding of the following dances: Kappa Sigma, Nov. 15; Football Hop, Nov. 17; Phi Delta Theta, Nov. 21; Key and Serpent Society, Nov. 25; U. K. M. A., Dec. 5.

VERMONT VS. TUFTS TODAY

Interesting Game at Medford

This afternoon, the Varsity will line up against the heavy Tufts eleven on the latter's field, and one of the hardest games of the season may be expected. Tufts is putting up the best variety of football this season that she has shown in years, and promises to rank well among the Eastern colleges at the close of the season. She won from Bates 13 to 7; from New Hampshire State, 52 to 0; from Wesleyan, 13 to 0; and, finally, won from Maine 19 to 6, just after that college had played Yale to a 0-0 score. In these five games, Tufts has reached a score of 99 points to her opponents 13. Her

"CONEY ISLAND"

Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Com- bine Efforts

On Wednesday evening, November twelfth, the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. will give ambitious students an opportunity to "do" Coney Island. The "chutes," the "Trip to the Moon," and "The Rocky Road to Dublin," will all be there. Other stunts and scenic attractions without number are in process of construction. Special features will be: "Our Aunt Robertina," a ridiculous one act farce in which several former college play stars will appear, and a new thing in baby shows.

A matinee will be held Wednesday afternoon to which members of the faculty and their families are especially invited.

CLASS FOOTBALL

Very Promising Outlook

Both class teams have begun active preparation for the class game, November 15. "Ned" Currier, '15, has been secured to coach the 1916 aggregation and is confident of the success of his team. A good sized squad has appeared as candidates and signal practice has been going on for several nights. Several of last year's team will be missed from this line-up, either because they did not return or are playing on the Varsity. The freshmen are something of an unknown quantity,

LOCATION BROUGHT GREATEST NUMBER

1917 Members Tell Why They Came to Vermont

Recently themes were required in the various freshman English classes in which the writer was to give his reasons for choosing the University of Vermont as his college. The results obtained are decidedly interesting. By comparing them we can readily see what characteristics in the college appear most attractive to the sub-freshman. We can as readily see that other attractions which should have a powerful influence in bringing new students to the University, have been scarcely, if at all mentioned. That being the case it is distinctly "up to us" as loyal to our college to do our best in making these attractions, real, live arguments for U. V. M.

The following table gives a complete summary of the reasons given for entering U. V. M. While answers were not received from the entire class, such a large majority did answer that the table may be taken as a fairly accurate standard for the class.

UNDERCLASS NIGHT NEXT FRIDAY

8 p. m. by a member of the Boulder Society.

At 8:30, 9:00 9:30, 10, the class holding the dummy on campus for at least five minutes shall be awarded 10 points. If at these times the dummy is not on the campus, 10 points will go to the class defending the campus. No metallic substance to be used on the dummy and it shall not be taken 10 feet above the ground nor buried.

Failure to observe these rules will mean forfeiture of the 10 points to the opposing class.

WRESTLING MATCHES

II—Wrestling matches. — The matches will start promptly at 10:10 p. m. There will be two main bouts; 1—Light weight, under 150 pounds. 2—Heavy weight above 150 pounds. Each class must make entries for these matches five days in advance to the committee. Two out three falls will decide the winner in each case.

PASTE RUSH

III—Paste rush.—Each class shall hand to the committee material for their posters five days before the rush. At 11:40 each class being at equal distance from the baseball cage on opposite sides, will be given 50 posters and at the sound of the shot will paste them on the cage. The class having the largest number of posters remaining after 20 minutes will be declared the winner of this event.

The class losing this event shall be required to eradicate all traces of the posters from the building.

There will be no promiscuous posting of proclamations about the city as has been customary in recent years, all activities of this nature being confined to this one event.

Only sophomore posters on the sophomore side will count for sophomores, and the same applies to freshmen.

Each complete poster will count two points and one half or over will count one point.

A COLLEGE HUM

After the paste rush a large bonfire will be started on the back campus and the whole University shall unite in a "Hum."

Y. M. C. A.

Prof. Thomson Speaks. "The Worth of a Man"

At the Y. M. C. A. meeting on November 4th, a number of new men were present, showing that interest in the work is increasing. Professor R. D. Thomson gave a most novel and inspiring talk on "The Worth of a Man," illustrating by means of a chart showing man's ten fundamental relations, and the three graded steps which he might follow to attain or reject them. Such a clever presentation of these ideas has rarely been presented. Those who stay away from these meetings little realize what they are losing.

The president, A. E. Schoff, '14, who was called home by the serious illness of his mother, feels that in his necessarily long absence, a president pro tem should be appointed, and at his suggestion, a business session for this purpose was held immediately after the regular meeting. C. F. Robinson, '16, the vice president, feeling that his heavy schedule necessitated his resignation, asked to be relieved of his duties, and as a result the following two men were chosen: President pro tem, A. B. Taylor, '15, vice president, A. D. Seaver, '16.

MEETING OF STATE UNIVERSITIES

At Washington, D. C.

The meeting of the National Association of State Universities will take place at the New Willard Hotel, Washington, D. C., Nov. 11th and 12th. This association is composed of 42 state universities and President Benton has been secretary of the organization since 1910. There will be five sessions, at which will be discussed problems peculiar to state universities. R. D. Sawyer, '12, the president's secretary, will accompany Dr. Benton.

MEETING OF NEW ENGLAND COLLEGES

Schletz Jones, Professor Alfred Kindred Merritt, President Hadley may possibly be present.

Brown, Dean Otis Everitt Randall, Professor William Carey Poland.

Dartmouth College, President Ernest Fox Nichols, Professor George Dana Lord.

University of Vermont, President Guy Potter Benton, Professor Samuel Eliot Bassett.

Williams College, President Harry Augustus Garfield, Dean Frederick Carlos Ferry.

Amherst College, President Alexander Meiklejohn, Professor Arthur L. Kimball.

Middlebury College, President John Martin Thomas, Dean Charles Baker Wright.

Trinity College, President Flavel Sweeten Luther, Professor Arthur Adams.

Wesleyan University, President William Arnold Shanklin, Professor Frank Walter Nicolson.

Tufts College, Dean Frank George Wren.

Boston University, President Lemuel Herbert Murlin, Dean William Marshal Warren.

Clark University, Professor William Edward Story.

Clark College, Professor Edmund Clark Sanford.

Bowdoin, Professor James Lukens McConaughy.

The subjects proposed for discussions are as follows:

1. The function of the college as preparing for advanced university work in science. Suggested by Clark University.

2. To what extent do institutions here represented require higher grades for preliminary than for final examinations? Suggested by Williams College.

3. How do the institutions here represented interpret the provision of the new requirement in Latin governing the quantity of prepared reading? Suggested by Williams College.

4. Issuance of statements of honorable dismissal and record. Suggested by Williams College.

5. Should a high grade entitle a student to excuse from final examination in college or school? Suggested by Williams.

6. In order that the calculus may be studied earlier, the following is proposed as the regular course in mathematics for freshmen and sophomores, trigonometry, algebra, analytic geometry and calculus: is this plan superior to one which includes solid geometry as a required subject in college or for admission? Suggested by Middlebury.

7. Should the college teach elementary French or German? Middlebury College.

8. To what extent should the New England Colleges endeavor to serve the general public after the manner of the western state universities, and in what ways can this service best be rendered? Suggested by Clark College.

9. What are the proper relations of an alumni secretary to the administrative officers of the college? Suggested by Amherst.

10. The attitude of college authorities towards interruptions of college work caused by football games and other student activities. Suggested by Tufts College.

11. Cooperation between the appointment bureaus of the New England colleges. Class of '88, suggested by Wesleyan.

12. Is the rating of subjects for admission to college as formulated by the Carnegie Foundation fair and equitable? Suggested by Trinity College.

13. How can we secure a graded list of colleges from which we receive applicants for advanced standing? Suggested by Yale University.

14. The best method of selecting from an incoming class men to receive financial assistance. Suggested by Harvard.

15. The proper definition of majors and minors. Suggested by Bowdoin.

16. Can the preparatory training of students who enter college without Latin, be made equal in consistency and continuity with the training of those who enter with Latin? Suggested by Dartmouth.

17. Could not college entrance requirements be well restricted to ancient and modern languages, English, and mathematics—with additional points to be made up from any other subjects offered by the candidate? Suggested by Amherst.

18. What policy should be pursued in order to raise the standard of college newspapers and magazines? Suggested by Wesleyan.

19. To what extent does there prevail in our colleges, the tendency to "dilettanteism and mental flabbiness" and what is the cure thereof? Suggested by Wesleyan.

VERMONT VS. TUFTS TODAY

team is heavy and, at the same time, fast. The average is about 180 pounds. She has developed the forward pass to a science and her back-field men are all highly trained in receiving.

It may be of interest to know that her centre, Richardson, is a former Goddard man, well known in the vicinity for his football and basketball abilities. He is considered one of Tufts' most reliable men, being light for the position, but exceptionally quick. He is the central figure in several intricate plays.

With the present state of our own team, with so many of the regulars still out of the game, we can hardly expect to make much headway against so strong a team, but the game will be hard fought, and a great effort will be made to hold Tufts to a small score. During the past twelve years, we have lined up against this college but twice in football; in 1901 we won from them by a score of 6 to 5, and in 1904, played them a tie game 6 to 6. The team will do its best to keep the record clean.

though several have been making a very favorable impression with the second team.

They have been very fortunate in having such a good coach available in the person of "Pete" Lawlor, medic, '17, who was elected captain of Trinity for this year. With his wide experience in college football he should prove most successful in developing a strong freshman team. This will be the second year that Varsity men have been barred from participating in the class game. This was expected to have a bad effect on the contest, but all who witnessed last year's game agreed that it surpassed many Varsity games in open play and really fast football. Accordingly, we may expect this year's game to be fiercely contested and marked by open play.

MASQUERADE IN GYMNASIUM

A Pleasant Affair

The masquerade dance given by the members of the Girls' Athletic Association on Hallowe'en was a very pretty affair. The hall was appropriately decorated and the refreshment room was especially attractive. Most of the young ladies appeared in costume and there were many quaint and charming gowns. "Doc" Meyers as an African savage was the hit of the evening. The three special dances were all very well done. The green and gold screen dance was gracefully executed by six girls in colonial costume. Miss Shepardson's doll dance was clever enough to deceive almost anyone into believing her a huge French doll. The Spanish dance by Miss Kimball was very beautiful and full of grace. Music was furnished by Robinson's singing orchestra. The balcony was well filled with spectators, but the floor showed the lack of patronage by the men. The proceeds of the dance will not, it is feared, go very far toward the remodeling of the Howard gymnasium.

SATURDAY, NOV. 8, 1913.

The failure to secure a cross-country schedule this year has been unfortunate, to say the least. Since, however, it was all due to a resigned managership, a mix-up of temporary managers, and a belated attempt to secure dates, it is impossible to fix the blame. But we fail to see why the inter-class cross-country run should be postponed or given up simply because Middlebury cancelled her date. This it seems is a glaring example of a great fault in our present system of track management. The defect is this: inter-class track is not considered as having any virtue in itself but as simply a preliminary to some intercollegiate event. Inter-class track should be used to bring out and develop candidates for Varsity, but it also has some value for its own sake. At present there is not enough encouragement for "dark horses" to come out and try their ability, when there are undoubtedly men in college who could earn their letters if they trained properly for a year or so. Of course the encouragement will be much stronger when the athletic management see fit to devote more money to track and track equipment. Yet more encouragement could be offered if more was made of inter-class track which has been grossly neglected for the last three years.

The outdoor inter-class meets at present are announced by a slip of paper on the bulletin board. Usually it is announced that numerals will be awarded to the winners and usually the athletic committee fails to keep this promise by saying that such an announcement was unauthorized. The meet is postponed on slight excuse. If it is finally held those who report it are sometimes asked not to compute the class scores for "it wasn't really a class meet but just a competition meet to size up the material." So the meet fizzles, and is little more than a competitive track practice of mild interest. Now we might have some inter-class meets which are real college events. First, they should be well advertised. Second, there should be a real incentive for men to enter. This can be furnished by an appeal to class spirit, telling each class manager and captain what was expected of him and his class. It could also be done by granting numerals to the winners of first and second places. The success of this plan might not be immediate and there might be the danger that the first attempts would give some numerals which were too easily won. This could be obviated by making a definite announcement before the meets that numerals would be given if the ability shown in each event was enough to justify numerals. A list of standard times and distances could then be published before the meet, and a man could know that if he did the hundred in 10 3 5 or the mile 5 minutes or better and if he won first or second in the event, he would get his numerals. With carefully fixed standards in every event the system could be introduced.

Vermont should have more inter-class and inter-mural athletics. Their advantages need not be cited here at any length. The doctrine of "the greatest good to the greatest number" applies to athletics. Inter-mural athletics furnish sport for many, and class athletics strengthen class spirit. In baseball, basketball, hockey, and track, we should have more inter-class contests.

All the seniors are anxious that underclass night shall go through without any marring features. If personal or college pride can not prevent them, juniors and underclassmen who wish to keep the night time event will find it to their interest to cause no disturbance. Proctor night was on trial last year and failed. Even more is underclass night on trial.

Are we going to have hockey this winter? This question is occasionally asked even now. Owing to finances we probably will not have a full-fledged Varsity team with a good schedule this year. A modest start in class hockey was made last year and this year should be made a year of development. If we do nothing more than to have a class schedule and then play St. Michael's and Norwich, there will be something gained and with little expense. A good rink must come first. Some work must be done on the rink within the next two weeks, before the ground freezes. Will such work be done? If not, why not?

Police and Social Workers See Modern Dances and O. K. Them

Major M. C. F. Funkhouser, 2nd deputy superintendent of police and Chicago's morals censor, yesterday put his official O. K. on the modern dances. He declared the tango, one step, maxixe, and other syncopated steps were perfectly moral if danced properly.

He visited a dancing studio and saw them properly danced. "That's fine," said the major. "There's nothing objectionable in those dances and now our women police know how the tango should be danced and have something on which to base their criticism of the steps they see at the dance halls."

The social workers and the police-women echoed the remarks of the major.—Chicago Tribune

Many people who have the most decided opinions against the modern dance get their scanty information upon the subject from Sunday newspapers or mere hearsay. One of their favorite remarks in this: "It is scandalous that those dances should be allowed in high society which are not even allowed in the cheap public dance halls." This argument lacks force. Of course more regulation is necessary in public dance halls where all sorts of people attend. Abuse is more likely to occur. (The fads and excesses of the nouveaux riches are not covered in this statement.) The above news item shows the attitude of conservative Chicago officials after investigating. The new dances are approved and will be danced even in the dance halls, where restriction is most necessary.

This question like others should be decided upon facts and not upon hearsay. The method of the Chicago officials should be followed at Vermont. It would be well if all could rid themselves of the prejudices which the names of former dances of the barnyard and backwoods variety have caused. The "turkey," "bunny," and "grizzly" are not the issue. The one step will last as long as the two step and waltz. The tango and other complex stage dances are pretty but are too difficult to be lastingly popular. We think that college dances do not need such strict rules as the Chicago dance halls.

THE RUMOR IS TRUE

That the management has to pay $50 each week before the CYNIC appears. This pays present expenses and applies on an old debt to the printer.

Freshmen will get one more number without signing up, but must sign the blanks now if they wish the paper to continue.

Old subscribers, money paid now is doubly welcome. If you delay payment, we don't know what will happen. So cut off the coupon and enclose two dollars. If you don't find a coupon, any triangular or oblong piece of paper will serve equally well.

DEBATING SOCIETY MEETING

Interesting Discussion

The weekly meeting of the Debating Society was held in A South in the Old Mill Monday evening. Mack, '16, read an interesting and instructive article about Ex President Diaz of Mexico. The debate followed with Hunt, '15, and Styles, '16, supporting the affirmative of the question: "Resolved, That the United States Should Make Immediate Armed Intervention in Mexico." The negative, was upheld by Morrow, '14, and Taylor, '15. The judges, Professors Tupper and Gifford and Leffler, '15, rendered a decision in favor of the affirmative. A business session next ensued, in which a letter from Middlebury requesting support in forming a debating league among the three Vermont colleges was read. President H. Albin Bailey was delegated to make arrangements for a triangular debate this year which if successful will result in a permanent league.

DESPERATE GRIDIRON BATTLE

Converse Tigers Vanquish Old Mill Braves

Many followers of the pigskin sport witnessed the annual encounter between the Old Mill Braves and the Converse Tigers which took place Saturday on Centennial Field. The Tigers turned the tables on their ancient rivals who were the victors in last year's contest and decisively defeated them by the score of 13-7. Many thrilling runs and reckless tackles marked the game. A desperate zeal inspired both elevens to superhuman effort and victory seemingly imminent was repeatedly wrested away by splendid defensive work. Tennien scored the Old Mill Braves' only touchdown by a spectacular open field run of 50 yards. Ex-captain Bodine described this in such glowing terms interspersed by emphatic expletives that "Ted" Coy would have turned green with envy. To his further glory he booted the ball over the bar for a goal.

In the second quarter, "Smokey Joe" Wood the powerful fullback for the "Dormites" scored a touchdown by terrific line plunging. "Shep" Hayden clinched the victory for his team by a long run around left end. Though successful the Tigers sadly missed the abilities of "Joe" Levy whose famous playing of both ends featured last year's contest. "Joe" was compelled to give up active play because of low standing and had to be content with managing the team. Captain "Tom" Mitchell and Coach Corley are to be congratulated on the success of their aggregation against such a formidable team. The vanquished tendered the customary banquet to the victors at the Boston Lunch where plans for the game next year were discussed.

First Aid to the Injured

At the regular lecture hour on Monday, Nov. 3, Dr. Clark of the medical faculty gave an interesting lecture to the military science class on the subject "First Aid to the Injured." He spoke of the objects of "First Aid" and said that information about this subject is as essential to the citizen as to the soldier. The methods of bandaging wounds and temporarily setting broken limbs was illustrated and the use of antiseptics described. Dr. Clark emphasized the evil results of over-zealous treatment and gave a number of first aid "don'ts" which a soldier should always bear in mind when going into battle.

Don't forget the first aid package.
Don't touch a wound with your fingers.

Don't wash a wound.

Don't do too much.

"In Japan," Dr. Clark said, "the soldier bathes before going into battle." A wound in a clean body is much less dangerous than a wound in an unclean body. In other words, the soldier should be one of those who bathed to keep clean not to get clean.

The main object of "First Aid to the Injured," as set forth, is to stop the flow of blood to prevent further injury to broken bones, to eliminate infection and then to have the skilled physician do the rest.

THE ST. PAUL'S CLUB

Dr. Carol Aronovici One of the Speakers at Meeting

The St. Paul's Club held a very successful meeting at the Delta Psi house last evening. President Olzendam in his opening address outlined the work of the club for the year. Dr. Lyman Allen spoke of the work at St. John's University in Shanghai, where a former president of the club, Randall Norton, is now working as the representative of St. Paul's parish. Dr. Carol Aronovici of Philadelphia gave a stimulating speech on a proposed social survey of Burlington. The speaker has given his life to the constructive work of social reform and his faith, judgment and ability made a marked impression.

Roy D. Sawyer gave a synopsis and exposition of Mr. Churchill's novel. "The Inside of the Cup." This was carefully done and the subject was presented in such a manner as to carry conviction. The real point of the book is the necessity for social reform. The theology of the book, whether true or false, is not central in the novel. Prof. F. Tupper, Dr. F. W. Sears, Prof. A. F. Hawes and Dr. F. W. Stone also spoke.

The next meeting of the club will be held Monday, December 1, at the Sigma Nu house.

At the freshman class meeting held recently, Horace H. Powers was elected class football manager, and Philip Morey was elected cheer leader. A class tax of $1.00 was voted.

Cross-Country

The development of a cross-country team has met with discouraging difficulties. Cross-country has been successful in the past few years because of the individual effort and ability of those who composed the team. As a whole, we students have shown a regrettable lack of interest in this branch of athletics. There are but a small number of candidates for the team. Other colleges of our own size have a squad of twenty to fifty working out under efficient coaching. Competition and interest makes leaders out of those who are most capable. Without doubt a fairly good team can be built around Capt. Hayden this year. With such a nucleus to a team it is to be regretted that no meets could be arranged by the manager for this fall. Men learn to run races by running them. Lack of real training will be a serious handicap to the team which it is hoped will be developed next spring.

Oswego Co-eds Rebel

Oswego, N. Y.—Denied the privilege of remaining out later than 7:30 o'clock in the evening, chewing gum or munching chestnuts in the street, one hundred "co-eds" of the Oswego Normal School have threatened to revolt and leave the school dormitory.

Rules and regulations to go into effect next Monday were posted. They prohibit the girls from accepting invitations from young men to eat ice cream, to accept rides to and from school in autos or farm rigs, to stroll on Ontario's shores without a member of the faculty, to go without hats in Bridge street, to wear slit skirts or to go without an umbrella when it rains.—N. Y. Tribune

Alumni Meeting

The next annual meeting of the Eastern New York Alumni Association will be held at Troy, N. Y., on Tuesday, Feb. 3rd, at the Rensselaer Inn.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was not held yesterday because of the meeting of the Musical Club, but will be held at four o'clock Sunday in the Y. M. C. A. room. The leader will be Ruth Durfee, '14. She will speak on the World's Week of Prayer and present the plans for its observance. It is hoped that all will make an effort to be present.

The Week of Prayer will be observed from Nov. 10 to 14 in daily prayer meetings at chapel time in the Y. W. C. A. room. All members are urged to come on the days when they do not have chapel and help make these meetings a success. The last meeting will be held Friday afternoon, as usual, and will be addressed by President Benton.

The delegates from the Y. W. C. A. to Kansas City Student Volunteer Convention have been chosen and are Edith Gates, '15, and Grace Nutting, '15.

Delta Psi Initiates

The Delta Psi fraternity held its annual initiation of members in the chapter house at 85 South Prospect Street Saturday evening. After the ceremony of initiation, a banquet was served. Chief Justice George M. Powers acted as toastmaster. Among those present were Professor J. E. Goodrich, Professor G. H. Perkins, Professor S. F. Emerson, Mason S. Stone, J. H. Macomber, Don A. Stone, Robert Roberts, Max L. Powell, Merritt D. Chittenden, J. W. Leach, James Campbell of St. Johnsbury, John O. Baxendale of Bristol, the Rev. C. C. Wilson and L. P. Smith. The initiates were: Harold Whitcomb Batchelder of Hardwick, Zenas Horace Ellis of Poultney, John Allen Hitchcock of Pittsford, Maurice Leslie Kelley of Morrisville, Harris Harland Metcalf of Essex Junction, Carroll Goddard Page of Hyde Park and Horace Henry Powers, Jr., of Morrisville.

PRE-MEDIC CLUB ORGANIZED

New Organization in the University

The pre-medic students have formed an organization during the past week.

Officers elected:—Howe, president; Johnson, vice president; Holmes, secretary; Wright, treasurer.

The following committee was appointed to draw up a constitution and by-laws: Howe, Johnson, Sargent and Wright. The committee has met and drawn up a constitution and by-laws which are now awaiting the approval of the club. Those eligible for membership must be men taking the pre-medic course. If taking one year academic they are eligible at once, but if taking a three year course they will not be eligible until their last year on the academic side. This organization should prove a good addition to the clubs of the University.

Initiation and Banquet of Phi Delta Theta

Vermont Alpha of Phi Delta Theta held their annual initiation last night with the banquet following at the Van Ness House. The following men were initiated: Douglass G. Clark of Burlington, Frank E. Griffin of Troy, N. Y., Allen Morgan of Burlington, Samuel B. Tuttle of Plattsburgh, N. Y., Reginald G. Hawley of Jericho, Fred J. Carpenter of Morrisville, Herbert A. Durfee of Burlington, Edward Mudgett of Essex Junction, Albert A. Marr of Barre and Charles E. Mould of Morrisville.

Among those present at the banquet were President Guy Potter Benton, Miami, '90, G. P. Burns, Ohio Wesleyan, '98, Carl A. Foss, Ohio University, '13, E. C. Mower, '92, Charles Orton, '92, C. H. Mower, '94, R. L. Patrick, '98, H. E. Gray, '03, H. C. Comings, '10, Stafford Boardman, '10, Dwight Harris, '10, H. F. Barton, '08, and R. P. Shaw, '12.

AGRICULTURAL CLUB

Unusual Interest Shown

The Agricultural Club's meeting on November fourth was snappy in every sense of the word. Readings were given as follows: "Out West," Wilson, '14, "The Untamed Philosopher," "Slim" Beckwith, '17, and "Buy a Farm," Seaver, '16. The debate "Resolved, That the Tank Method of Conserving Wine is Superior to the Absorption Method" was hotly contested, Dana, '14, and Fitzpatrick, '14, upholding the negative and Thomas, '14, and Wheelock, '14, the affirmative. In due course of time the judges, Johnson, '14, Venable, '15, and Albrow, '15, awarded the verdict to the affirmative. After the officers' reports the company adjourned to a "feed."

Outside of the club's members themselves, very little is known or recognized of the value of the club to the college as a whole. Music, a most important feature of the meetings of similar organizations has, on the account of the location of the the place of meeting, been entirely lacking. In order to bring the attention of the University to the grand good work of the club and to make the meetings more spicy by the addition of music, it was decided to hold the next regular session at the new Owl House.

T. C. A. Circle

The T. C. A. Circle met on Thursday night at the home of Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Durfee. There are several new members and the club is in a flourishing condition with a membership of nearly thirty. Officers for the year were elected and other business considered. After the business meeting, refreshments were served and an hour given to discussing the "old times."

DR. ARONOVICI ADDRESSES*Points Out to College Men the Road to Social Service

Dr. Carol Aronovici spoke in chapel on Wednesday and Thursday. His first address was a plea for college men to enter public life. The New York City elections, he said, should encourage them.

The second was concerning the social significance of a profession. The farmer, the doctor, the engineer, and the teacher were each considered in their wider social relations. Both addresses were inspiring. The speaker gave many addresses before Burlington audiences this week.

VERMONT LOSES LAST GAME

Weakened Team Outplayed and Outweighed

Tufts and Vermont both closed their football season last Saturday, November 8, on the Tufts Oval when Tufts won a 34-0 victory over the University of Vermont team. The backfield of Vermont was weakened by the loss of Currier and Putnam, and the team had small chance to score, being outplayed and outweighed by their opponents. They made first down only once and this was by a narrow margin while the heavy Tufts backfield ripped immense gaps in the green and gold line for gains of from five to forty yards.

The Tufts "Big Four" backfield was at its best, Angell and Hadley starring in some effective line bucking while Parks and Westcott made long gains on end runs. Tufts worked a forward pass play very suc-

GOOD TRACK MATERIAL

Dr. Stone Has Something Up His Sleeve

Some time ago Captain Hayden declared that he had one of the best cross-country teams that has been seen on the Vermont course for several years, that he had three or four men pressing him hard although he himself was in much better condition than last year. We wonder what the management end of the track was doing that no meets were scheduled. There are about fifteen men out for relay, and if men like Brown, Abell, Schoff Whalen, and Leighton will turn out for winter work we will have a rare weight aggregation. To speak candidly the prospects are bright, and Dr. Stone expects to put the matter before the class organizations soon. He has some excellent plans which deserve careful and serious consideration. Our football team is always at a disadvantage, but it does seem as though we might put a winning track squad on the field to supplement the work of the baseball men. There is $300 left for track, and we would like to see the management schedule some good spring meets.

MILITARY CAMP HERE NEXT SUMMER

Several Hundred College Stu- dents To Camp At Burlington

The military camp conducted by the U. S. War Department for students from all the colleges with military departments will be held in Burlington next summer. The camp will be located east and south of the U. S. Weather Bureau. It comes as the result of much earnest effort by Captain Reeves and a few Burlingtonians.

THE END OF THE FOOTBALL SEASON

A Summary--Many Difficulties Encountered--A Few Bright Spots

Vermont's football season came to a close with last Saturday's game at Medford. The season has not been very successful as far as winning games is concerned; the game with Middlebury proved to be the first, last and only victory for the wearers of the green and gold. As a matter of fact, Vermont was one of the few small colleges (Small college in comparison with the "Big Four") that did not turn out a good, or an extraordinarily good, team this fall. Our schedule called for games with most of the best small colleges in this section which is a credit to Mgr. Bartlett. Williams, Brown, Bowdoin and Dartmouth were each represented with strong teams on the gridiron, and Tufts boasts of the best team in its history. Vermont with an inferior team against such combinations could not be expected to do much better than it did.

A lack of material greatly handicapped.

BOSTON ALUMNI REUNION

Fall Dinner Last Night

The members of the Boston Alumni Association held a dinner Friday evening, Nov. 14, at the Hotel Westminster, Boston. It is the plan of this local association to have a dinner in the fall and one in the spring, neither of which will interfere with the big mid winter dinner of the New England Association.

College Y. M. and Y. W. Make a Hit in the Gym

Far famed "Coney Island" was gaily reproduced last Wednesday evening in the gymnasium. Booths were everywhere. To the right at the entrance was a highly entertaining novelty, "Witching Waves," which afforded about twenty minutes of entertainment for a very nominal

WIG AND BUSKIN WILL GIVE PLAY

Dec. 17 the Date--Choice of Play Soon

The Wig and Buskin Society held its first meeting of the year at Delta Psi House Monday at 4.30. Various plans were made for the season, and it was decided to follow the custom of last year in giving two productions during the year. The first of these will be given about

Y. M. C. A. TABLET UNVEILED

At the regular Tuesday evening meeting of the Y. M. C. A., Professor G. H. Perkins gave a most helpful talk on the life of the late Frederick Billings, '90, a man most vitally interested in the association work, both while in college and after his graduation. Through the kindness of Mrs. Billings, the meeting room has been refurnished throughout, and as a slight token of appreciation of the generosity of the Billings, the entire service was devoted to them. A memorial tablet having the following inscription on it, was dedicated: "In Memory of Frederick Billings, '90, Loyal Member and Generous Friend of this Association. This Upper Room Furnished by his Wife, 1913."

Underclass Night

As we go to press the plans and strategies for underclass night, Nov. 14, are filling the college atmosphere. The hostilities lasted from 4.10 p. m. to midnight. The time was not finally decided upon until Tuesday. The faculty-student council, following the votes of the two lower classes, then decided that the scraps should be held at night.

1916 VERSUS 1917 IN ANNUAL FOOTBALL CLASH

Teams Well Trained and Evenly Matched for Today's Game

Football talk again! The two lower classes are once more to meet in bloody conflict. The air is full of comments and predictions, each team having its formidable array of staunch supporters, and each supporter displaying his ready money or extolling high the merits of his favorite team. But in the midst of all this hubbub, many a dignified upper-classman or alumnus looks just a little bit wistful, and finally turns away to tell a friend some reminiscence of the great contest long ago when he was sophomore or freshman.

Just to bring back the "good old days," the writer has tabulated below the results of the class football games since the memorable fight between '00, and '01, in 1898.

'00 vs. '01; tie score;	24-24
'01 " '02; 1901 (sophomores) victorious;	17-0
'02 " '03; 1902 (sophomores)	16-0
'03 " '04; 1903	5-0
'04 " '05; 1905 (freshmen)	12-0
'05 " '06; 1905 (sophomores)	11-0
'06 " '07; 1906	17-0
'07 " '08; 1908 (freshmen)	22-6
'08 " '09; 1909	17-0
'09 " '10; tie score;	5-5
'10 " '11; 1910 (sophomores)	11-0
'11 " '12; 1912 (freshmen)	5-0
'12 " '13; 1912 (sophomores)	11-6
'13 " '14; Tie score;	0-0
'14 " '15; 1915 (freshmen)	3-0
'15 " '16; 1915 (sophomores)	22-0

The above scores show how well matched the class teams usually are, the margin by which '15, defeated '16, last year being the largest since 1898. That means a mighty good game every year. "Go to it."

Football Hop

The annual football hop will be held in the gymnasium Monday evening, Nov. 17. The following committees have been appointed, the first named being, in each case, the chairman of the committee: music and dance order, Marjorie Luce, '16, Mary Loomis, '17, and Marjorie Fletcher, '17; refreshment, Lucy Swift, '16, Zilpah Ranney, '16, Pearl Grandy, '17, and Elizabeth Baker, '17; decoration, Bernice White, '16.

THE END OF THE FOOTBALL SEASON

capped Coach O'Brien in turning out a winner. The backfield was woefully weak the entire season. Because of injuries and other causes the positions were never settled and there was a continual shifting around of players to present a backfield at all. This unfortunate predicament made a smooth running backfield impossible. The front line was worthy of praise. Composed of heavy men it withstood the wear and tear of the entire season and played grand football. The ends also played a hard and steady game. With every one in the pink of condition for the first game Vermont opened its season on Centennial Field by winning from Middlebury 10 to 7. Handicapped by the loss of Putnam, Claffey and Tomassi, the team lost to Williams at Williamstown next by a 20 to 0 score. At Dartmouth the score was 33 to 7 against Vermont, but when Dartmouth's strength is considered we wonder at the seven points. This year's team was the first to score on Dartmouth in fifteen years, which is surely a redeeming feature. The splendid playing of Currier was responsible for this. Bowdoin played our last home game and won 13 to 3. Capt. Whalen's field goal was the only feature. The Fordham-Vermont game was cancelled on account of wetness. Vermont went to Providence with Currier, Putnam and Dolphin out of the line-up and lost 19 to 0. Last Saturday again before a superior team Vermont lost 34 to 0 to Tufts. In Capt. Whalen Vermont had a good leader, a hard and steady worker. His punting was a big asset to the team. Little, on the opposite side of the line, played a wonderful game throughout, and proved the "find" of the season. Flynn and Farr of last year's team played their usual strong game and in combination with the above mentioned Denning, Abel and Tennien made a very good front line. Claffey, last year's end, started the season in good form but an injury in the first game deprived the team of his services. St. John, Taylor, Fraser and Tomassi did well at the end positions, Tomassi especially playing good football until his injury and retirement after the Dartmouth game. Dick Farr was moved from center to end, and filled it with no little success. Currier at quarterback was in a class by himself. He was steady at all times and could always be depended on to carry the ball for gains. His absence after the Bowdoin game gave the team its hardest setback. St. John took up Currier's position in the final games and did well considering the time he had to accustom himself to so important a position.

In the backfield Glidden was the only man who was in good condition before each game. The wear and tear of the game placed Rawson, Dolphin, Frank and Lovejoy on the injured list at a time when they were most needed. Putnam's injuries and withdrawal from college handicapped the team greatly. Paulsen did not finish the season with the squad. Gallagher joined the team for the last few games and helped out materially in a time of need. Injury after injury made impossible a good backfield although the men worked persistently and the spirit shown by them is justly praiseworthy. Perfect physical condition is essential for a fast and aggressive backfield, and injuries alone made this impossible at Vermont.

Summing up the season we believe the men did their best and with more material at hand we believe Coach O'Brien would have presented a much stronger team. Even with so many defeats it is gratifying to know this year's team scored on Dartmouth and also defeated the only Vermont college it played.

The scores:

Vermont 10, Middlebury 7
Vermont 0, Williams 20
Vermont 7, Dartmouth 33
Vermont 3, Bowdoin 13
Vermont-Fordham cancelled
Vermont 0, Brown 19
Vermont 0, Tufts 34

cessfully, Angell making long throws to the right end, Bennett.

Capt. Whalen's wonderful punting for Vermont staved off a much larger score. The game was fast and hard though marred by a great number of penalties, Tufts, the chief offender, losing many yards at critical moments. Once they were penalized forty yards for illegal substitution but their consistent team work regained them the lost ground immediately.

Tufts scored in the first five minutes of play, and with almost mechanical precision went through Vermont's line for five touchdowns. Park kicked three of the goals and Bennett one. Vermont played a hard game throughout and was often able to pierce Tufts' best plays with a loss.

Dolphin, right half back of Vermont, was carried from the field severely injured and it was thought that a hip bone had been broken. It proved, however, to be a muscle pulled from its place, the same injury received by him in the Bowdoin game. Frank was also forced to retire when he received further injury to a rib, broken earlier in the season. The summary:

Dec. 17, and it will be primarily to get an idea of the material available for the junior work play. Copies are on the way, and try-outs will begin next week. Every one who is interested in dramatics is urged to be on hand when notice is given in order to make this mid-year play a bigger success than ever.

Classical Club

The Classical Club will hold a meeting next Wednesday evening in the classical rooms to which all students are invited, particularly the freshmen. Professor Emerson will speak on the subject: "The Importance of the Classics in our Modern Life." This is a much mooted question, and should prove of unusual interest when so ably handled. The time is 7:20.

THE AGE OF THE

"The moving picture has come to be a habit among us. If there were no better proof of its vogue, the popular term 'movies' would be evidence sufficient. People go to the movies; they go often; and everyone goes. The picturehouses are everywhere, upstairs, down cellar, in music halls, stores, warehouses, churches, schools and what not. In the better districts of Paris, electric signs give warning of their presence, while in out of the way quarters huge cloth streamers or glaring placards serve as signs for the moving pictures of the poor. They are open every day, and part of the night. Everything changes, everything ceases, all is finite; but no matter what the season, no matter what the government, at times when Paris is deserted but for them, you find there the moving picture and its henchmen. All over the world operators are busy providing them with films. In every latitude and under every sky occurs a succession of events, ceremonies, accidents, and incidents of divers natures and they are no sooner fact than film. Few indeed are the things either in heaven above, or in the earth beneath, or in the water under the earth, that fail at sometime or other to be food for films. And what is true of Paris is also true of France and of foreign lands. Here it is that frontiers sink down, that confusion of tongues is done away, and that the brotherhood of nations becomes a fact instead of a dream."

The films used every year if placed end to end would twice encircle the globe and there would then be seven thousand miles to spare. Paris has two hundred picturehouses, London, four hundred; New York, four hundred seventy. The total receipts of the American picture theatres amount to more than fifty million dollars a year. Clearly, then, it is a condition and not a theory that confronts us. The moving picture is here to stay. Its vogue is enormous and its influence must be correspondingly great. What is the character of this influence? What is the relation of the moving picture to the drama, properly so called? To answer these questions we must first consider the nature of the films actually presented and the scope and limitations of the moving picture. The average program of the Parisian picturehouse falls into three divisions, educational material, presentation of current events, and the moving picture drama. The films of the first class deal with the marvels of science and invention, the beautiful scenery and buildings of the world, and with strange peoples and strange customs. The education given in this way must by the very nature of its medium be fragmentary, fleeting and shallow. To those who are so well educated as to have no real need of it, it is of undoubted value, for they have a background of fact on which to hang the pictures, they have well ordered mental cubby holes to which they may assign these ill assorted images, and most important of all, they have that power of correlation and synthesis which renders almost any fact valuable when viewed in its relation to others, no matter how trivial it may seem in itself. But how many of those that go to the movies have these three things? True, the education thus acquired is better than none, but how much? In the portrayal of current events the moving picture has no rival, though for the interpretation of these events we must still go to the printed word. The moving picture gives to hundreds of thousands an idea of current events which they would not otherwise obtain, and by bringing public men before the people, it breeds confidence and good feeling. In the sphere of drama the moving picture has essayed almost everything. The question of its success or failure is too large to take up here, but a guiding principle in criticism may be stated. The moving picture by its nature must have a drama of physical action, and the perfect moving picture drama is one in which perpetual motion is the inevitable result of the exigencies of the plot. A fourth branch with which the moving picture is busy today is the presentation on the screen of the world's great literature, and in doing so it seems that it fails to recognize its limitations. For the greatness of great literature is largely internal and not external, permanent and not evanescent. It lies not in the cut of a coat, but in the human emotions of the wearer.

The general effects of the moving picture may now be summed up very briefly. It causes the physical deterioration of the race by depriving it of light, air, and exercise. It educates, but the character of the education we have seen. It causes mental atrophy because it requires no mental effort. Last and worst, it gives thinking and reading another shove towards the land of long ago.

What is the relation of the moving picture to the theatre, which it is threatening to displace? What are some of the advantages which the moving picture has in its war with the theatre proper? The moving picture is cheap, the theatre is ever more expensive; the one gives a continuous performance, the other does not; the one lets you come when you will and go when you get ready, the other, not; then, too, no intelligence is required in the moving picture. Everything is understood at once and if not, why, you have not missed anything. The theatre is an old story, a thing of the past; the moving picture is of the present and the future. The moving picture is scientific and hence appeals to a scientific age. The theatre is national because of the barrier of language; the moving picture is universal because it knows no such barrier. Four weak spots in the theatre which it must repair are these. It is often tiresome, being devoid of imagination and fancy, while the pictures amuse. It is often absurd, showing lack of observation and shallowness of psychology, which the pictures give the appearance of the real. It is monotonous in plot, while the moving picture offers infinite variety. Its moral influence is questionable while that of the moving picture, thanks to the institution of censorship, is on the whole good. The great mistake of the theatre today lies in turning up its nose at real literary merit. In the presentation of physical action and the externals of life as it is, the moving picture is vastly superior. Hence the theatre must concern itself, as in the past, with the deep lying and permanent things of life and their vivid, forceful and artistic expression through the medium of words. If the theatre wishes to live there is but one way open to it, and that is to make clear the essential difference between itself and the moving picture, which is the theatre of the unlettered.

LOCAL COLOR

I was returning to town a few weeks ago, from a place some thirty miles distant from this city. The train was an hour late,—no rare thing on this line—and I was philosophically doing my best to kill time with the very limited means at my disposal. I sat in the station reading a very stale paper for a time, until a couple of schoolgirls in charge of a very energetic baby flumped down next me. The child amused itself and destroyed my peace of mind at one and the same time. The girls made some feeble attempts to keep it quiet. "Shet up, I tell you, or the man will cut your ears off." "The man" was very willing to try the extreme measure,—I would have dissected the brat into a thousand fragments if I could have been at all sure that it would have remained quiet even then. I am rather rabid on the subject of children.

The entrance of a rather remarkable trio diverted my attention from these "bluggy" meditations. The air was a little cool that day but it was going to exercise no ill effects on the old lady of the three if she could help it. She was swathed, in the first place, in a thick cloth coat, surmounted by endless wrappings of gray shawl. Her face was half con-

is published on Saturday of each week during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont. It will be mainly given over to news, while a literary supplement will, from time to time, be published.

SATURDAY, NOV. 15, 1913

We shall publish next week some interesting figures about the finances of the class of 1913. The total taxes of this class amounted to $35 per member, and there were but 57 taxpayers. How much was accomplished with this money may prove of interest to the present classes in college.

The football season just completed was certainly unsuccessful, and as far as figures show one of the poorest seasons in recent years. The natural question is: was it an off year or was a poor system responsible? In our opinion there was a great deal of both. Since, however, we cannot put our finger on the weak points of the system and since we cannot make any practical suggestions for improvement beyond asking the athletic authorities to consider the saving and efficiency which a good graduate athletic manager might produce, we are inclined to deal with the other side of the problem. Letters from students and alumni which give any constructive suggestions for bettering the system will be gratefully received.

Two great reasons for the poor showing were lack of first-class material and extensive injuries. The lack of material was noticeable in the backfield where injuries were numerous. It was noticeable throughout the team in the small number of veterans who were on the squad this season. There were not enough strong substitutes in either backfield or line, although the line suffered less from this handicap. The injuries were numerous and were particularly unfortunate since strong subs were so few. The third reason for the poor showing consists of two notable defects in offensive play,—inability at the forward pass and a poor interference. On the whole the season was not so big a disappointment as last year's season, mainly because hopes were not so high. There has been a little talk on the part of students to the effect that football is not a paying proposition and should be given up, while we center our efforts on baseball. This is not to the point. We do not play football merely to win. This would be a step backward. Yale does not talk of dropping the crew because of unsatisfactory results in recent years. Instead they are starting an agitation for a new coaching system. It is a good thing not to be satisfied always with things as they are. There is too much of a tendency here, however, to withdraw all support from enterprises which are not now successful as in the case of the Ariel, and to tear things out root and branch. Much more can be accomplished by finding the defects, remedying them, and devoting more energy to the project.

This was a season of financial retrenchment; it would be comforting if it were a season of development of material. This encouragement is not open to us, unless the freshman-sophomore game this afternoon brings out some material which shows great promise for the future. We are not assured of the presence of many of our Varsity men next year, with at least six of the Varsity squad leaving college. So there are several discouraging aspects to the football situation, and it behooves every one of us to do his best to help matters. If one could but persuade a few Burlingtonians that the home games are worth seeing, we would get a larger patronage at the games, and this would be a good beginning for better things.

Some of the new readers of the CYNIC will not understand the reason for the appearance of literary material in this number of the paper. An apology is hardly necessary for it, but those who are unfamiliar with the history of the CYNIC may be glad of an explanation. The CYNIC was founded in 1883 as a literary magazine, and for many years it appeared every three weeks. News was at first confined to personal items, but even in its tri-weekly form the news columns became increasingly important from year to year. Within the last few years it became a weekly newspaper, keeping a literary number which appeared at first monthly, then quarterly, and then irregularly. As the news side has increased in importance, the literary side has decreased. In this we are not different from most college publications. It is hard to serve two masters, and very few other college papers try to do it. In Dartmouth there is the "Bema" and in Brown the "Brunonian", literary magazines that are not allied with the college newspaper. An overwhelming majority of the alumni and of the students would be found to say that they are more interested in the college news than in the college literature. Still we believe that the literary side is very important. It some of our readers will go to the Vermont room of the library, and read the old CYNICS, they will think so too. If there is no chance for literary ability to find expression, it is likely to prove as injurious to the college as if there were no chance for football ability to show itself.

This literary number is somewhat of an experiment. We earnestly solicit literary contributions for the next number, stories, poems, and essays. The quality of our literary numbers will necessarily be fixed by the nature of the material submitted; the quantity will have to be greatly limited by the state of the paper's finances.

In the present literary issue the editors have aimed to test the college attitude toward such endeavors. Its purpose was two-fold—to place in the hands of subscribers a number which might prove of interest because of the stories, poems, special articles, sketches, etc., written by local pens; and, secondly, to offer some medium of expression for the literary ability in college. Finances at the present time seem to give no very rosy promise that a purely literary publication could long stay with the game; therefore, this attempt of the CYNIC to, in a measure, fill the need. Whether the attempt has proved successful enough to warrant another is the question. Several manuscripts have been submitted, but mostly from former contributors. It is the new material we would like to see developing, and with the nucleus at hand considerable might be attained. Any communications on the subject addressed to the CYNIC will be welcome.

FOR THE COLLEGE

Hollister staggered across the line twenty yards behind the third man in the two-mile run, then rolled over on the grass, panting hard. Someone brought him a blanket, said a few encouraging words, and went away again. Hollister rolled him self in the blanket and lay still, his face hidden in the hollow of his arm. While his body was inactive, his mind was intensely active.

His thoughts were melancholy, almost bitter. He had come to college with the idea that he could run, having been for two years captain of track and the star two-miler of his preparatory school. Now, in the very first race in which he participated, he found himself fourth, and a poor fourth at that. It was the fall try-out, run off at the end of two weeks' training, and he had hoped to show some "stuff," thus to make the team in the spring. His hopes of defeating Captain Chadwick were small, but he had hoped to give Stanley and Bower, the two juniors, a run for their money. He had followed them well until the last quarter, then as he started to make the final sprint, he found his legs heavy and dull, as if weighted down, and a sudden fear came over him, such as he had never before known on the track. What chance had he, a despised freshman, against those more experienced men? Such was the thought that flashed through his mind, and he yielded to it. Instead of making his customary sprint, he lost his stride entirely and finished miserably, as we have seen.

Now, as he lay on the grass, with his eyes closed, he seemed to feel antagonism in the very atmosphere. He seemed to hear the sarcastic voice of the coach saying, as he had crossed the tape, quitter; yellow streak! no good!"

What was the use? Nobody cared for a freshman, nobody believed in him. Was it not better to stop there instead of going on to suffer further defeat? It seemed that way. Hollister got up, wrapped his blanket more closely about him, and slunk from the field.

He did not show up for practice the next two nights, and, as nothing was said, he decided that he was not missed.

On the third afternoon, just before practice, Elliot, a sophomore quarter-miler, hailed Hollister, as the latter was lying on the back campus.

"Haven't seen you at practice for a night or two. Anything the matter?"

"I'm not going out anymore, that's all," replied the freshman.

"Not going out," echoed Elliot, "what does that mean?"

"Oh, simply that it doesn't pay. I haven't got a chance with those experienced men."

"Now, see here, old chap. That's not the viewpoint to take. Of course, you haven't had their training, but there's only one way to get that, and that is to keep everlastingly at it. You've got the goods. Now the thing to learn is how to deliver them properly and at all times. Get on your suit and come on!"

Hollister obeyed, and after an hour's hard work, he felt better.

During the next three weeks, Elliot called around for the freshman every night at practice time.

"If you don't care enough to do it for your own good, get a little college spirit and do it for the college in general," he would say to Hollister, when the latter objected to being taken out for practice.

A strong friendship soon grew up between the two boys, and then an incident occurred which cemented that friendship into a lasting bond.

Everybody at Stanton college was looking forward to the annual fall track meet with Glenworth, an old rival. The latter college had won the meet for two successive years, and it was the fond hope of the Stantonians that the tables might be turned this season.

Since his utter defeat in the try-outs, Hollister had received very little attention from the coach, but had trained consistently, as that official had directed. It was only by the use of his most eloquent persuasive powers, however, that Elliot managed to get his friend into a running suit on the day of the meet.

"I don't see any use in it. The coach wouldn't use me in a race even if I were the last hope in college." This was Hollister's argument.

"You don't know the coach," responded Elliot. "He watches every man, even when he shows no outward signs of doing so. He gives every man a fair show, and you'll get your chance. When it comes, you want to be ready for it. Besides, we need every man who has any ability, to work for Stanton in this meet. Remember it is for the college that you are going out." So Hollister went, "for the college."

The meet was contested closely from the first crack of the pistol. Every point was well earned. There were no "walk overs." Stanton seemed to be outdoing her old rival by a small margin, and the Stantonians were in the best of spirits, when a great blow descended upon them. Captain Chadwick, warming up for the low hurdles, slipped and turned his ankle, so that the medical examiner pronounced him unfit for further work that day. On account of this misfortune, Stanton had to yield first and second places in the hurdles, thus tying the points. This was a dash of cold water on the Stantonian spirits, and what brought greater consternation was the fact that only the two-mile run and the pole vault remained, in which to retrieve the lost ground. It was conceded beyond a doubt that Slocum of Glenworth would take first place in the pole vault, while Stanton would probably get second and third. This meant that, in order to win the meet, Stanton must take first place in the two mile. With Captain Chadwick out of the race, affairs were in a bad state. The coach held a council of war with the captain and manager.

Suddenly, Hollister, nervously watching events from the side, heard his name called. Looking up, he saw the coach beckoning to him. With a sudden perception, he understood that he was to go into the two-mile. His heart beat faster as he walked toward the coach. That individual scrutinized him closely as he came up.

"Feeling in good form?" he asked. "Yes, sir," answered the freshman.

"Think you can run a fast mile and a half?"

"I think so, sir."

"Well, go in and do it. Remember, you are to run the first mile and a half at as stiff a pace as you can command. Then you can drop behind, or drop out entirely. Never mind about the rest of it. Your work is to lead on Freeman and Stowell of Glenworth, setting a stiff pace for the mile, and making the next half as fast as you can. Our men, Stanley and Bower, understand the game, and will set their own pace. You run that mile and a half as fast as you can leg it, then leave the race to them. Understand?"

Hollister understood. So this was what they wanted of him, simply to use as a bait for Glenworth. This was what he got for his consistent practice. Bitter thoughts swelled up within him. His was a thankless task, to run a part of the race, and then drop out to leave the honors of victory to his companions, while he himself would be treated with contempt by his associates for his lack of head work. He rebelled at the thought of it and was about to tell the coach that he was not a go-between of that kind, when the last words of Elliot recurred to his mind: "Remember, it is for the college," Hollister knelt down and began to put on his running shoes.

At the crack of the pistol, six brown, active figures leapt forward as one. Hollister took the lead and settled into a long swinging stride, which carried him well in advance. At first, the men from Glenworth seemed to pay no attention to him, but were content to set their own pace. But when, at the first quarter, the freshman changed to a short, quick step, thus increasing his speed, his opponents showed signs of surprise and some anxiety. Stowell and a man named Carter, both of Glenworth, began to increase their speed, but Freeman stuck doggedly to Stanley and Bower of Stanton, who were taking a smooth, easy pace.

At the half, Stowell and Carter had gained somewhat on Hollister. By the time they had encircled the track twice more, and the mile was reached, the three men were almost side by side. Then the freshman let himself loose, as if sprinting for the last quarter. He was closely followed by Stowell and Carter. Another encircling of the track, however, gave him a five yard lead. Thinking that he was then on his last quarter, Hollister put in his best efforts, with the result that he was nearly fifteen yards in the lead at the end of the mile and a half. He was also, nearly at the end of his resources, and was only waiting for a sign from the coach to drop out.

Instead of receiving such a sign, he was much surprised when that official motioned him on, as he passed the mile and a half mark, while the crowd which had seemed to understand his motive and had been silent up to this time, began to call his name and cheer him on.

Hollister was perplexed. He failed to understand it, until Elliot, at the side of the track, shouted at him.

"Hang to it, Holly, old boy. You've got to win. It's all up to you now."

Looking ahead, Hollister saw Stanley and Bower half a lap behind, and they were running alone, putting in their best efforts. At the same time, he heard steps approaching from the rear. A moment later, a blue jersey ranged itself on a level with his red one, and he recognized the tall, thin form of Freeman, Glenworth's star man. Then he realized the situation, and a terrible rage filled him. Put into the race to bait on his opponents, he had outdistanced the men whom Stanton was depending upon to win the race, and they were unable to regain the lost ground. Freeman had left them completely in the rear, and now, Stanton was looking to its go between to win the race and save the day.

Rage at the injustice of this situation was the chief element in Hollister's brain. If he had only been able to have saved himself a little at the beginning, instead of being obliged to exert every muscle at the start; if they had only given him a fair show, a chance to run his own race, then he might have won. These thoughts flashed through his mind, like lightning.

Such was his rage that he felt like giving up the race in sheer spite. Why should he not give it up? His orders were to run only a mile and a half; he had done that and more. He had performed his duty why should he not stop now and leave the race to chance, as he had been told to do? His temples were throbbing now like a thousand hammers beating at his skull on the inside. His legs were like lead, and weighted down terribly when he lifted them. It seemed as though every step must be his last, but, mechanically, he kept up his stride.

He had now completed another circuit of the track. As in a haze, he saw two blue jerseys lying on the grass, just outside the running course, and he knew that Carter and Stowell were out of it. Why should he not stop, also? That would leave second and third places for Stanton. Why should he kill himself for these ungrateful people? What was there to call him further?

As if in answer to these thoughts which kept surging through his brain, he suddenly caught sight of Elliot once more. That individual was waving his arms and shouting. Hollister caught the words, "Must have first place * * * For the college."

Ah! that was it. That was why he was still keeping his stride, when every step was misery. It was "for the college." His mind was clear now. He saw his duty plainly. It was not a duty, it was a privilege to put one's best into work for the college. What mattered it if the crowd was doing him an injustice? What mattered it if he had been used as a go-between. It was all "for the college;" that was sufficient.

"One lap more for the college," he repeated to himself, and the idea penetrated his wearied brain until it seemed to be a stimulus for aching limbs. During the preceding lap, Freeman had gained a couple of yards. Now Hollister set about retrieving his loss. Every nerve was concentrated, every fiber as tight as the strings of a violin.

The freshman fixed his eyes upon the back of that blue jersey and kept them focused upon a point between the shoulder blades of his opponent. Slowly but surely he gained.

Suddenly, out over the field rang the college yell, springing from the throats of three hundred loyal Stantonians, and then "Hollister, Hollister, Hollister!" It put new life into his wearied body. They were with him, they stood behind him, these men whose voices he heard. What could he not do with such a spirit behind him? The blue jersey draws nearer, three feet away, two feet, eighteen inches; now he could reach out and touch it (easily).

Cheer after cheer rolls over the field, as the red overtakes the blue. Now they seem to blend colors and Stanton college, rising from the grand stand, surges down upon the side lines of the track, yelling wildly.

The last quarter is half covered. The red and the blue run side by side. Hollister's eyes are starting from his head, his hands are clenched tight, his nostrils are extended like those of a cavalry horse which scents the smoke of battle. Freeman also shows signs of exhaustion. His strides are growing weaker, his breath coming in gasps.

A hundred yards from the tape, Hollister stumbles, falls back a step, and the earth swims before his eyes. There is one awful moment of suspense in the ranks of the Stantonians, and a dead silence prevails. Can it be that his strength will fail at the last moment, after such a rally? Ah, but they have underestimated their man. "For the college," he murmurs to himself, and makes the last effort. In a second, he has regained his position on a level with the blue. In another he shoots ahead, and a moment later, falls senseless across the tape.

IN PHILOSOPHY II

Four forms of proposition
In logic we may find;
By letters, A. E. I., and O.,
We designate each kind.

"All men are mortal," said the prof,
"What form is that, I pray?"
The student well his lesson knew,
And answered "That is A."

"This man must work," he stated next,
And waited a reply:
The student bowed his head in grief,
And sadly said, "That's I."

THE OLD LOVE SONG

FROM ITALY

A dark eyed boy with a noble brow,
In a lonely room up near the sky,
To the fickle shadows passing by,
On a quaint old viol played.

To the living wood he pressed his cheek,
With eyes innocent, pure,

Bending his dark head to lure
Sweet song, and waiting stood.

And a sweet and tender prelude,
As he lovingly drew his bow,
Flooded the night to return and grow,

In color, warmth and melody.

His slender frame to the rhythm swayed,

The singing viol leading,
In tones far reaching, vaguely pleading,

In harmony sweet and long.

Then gladly conscious of its charm,
Leaped and laughed and higher rose,
And the sad-eyed boy forgot his woes,

In the music's wondrous spell.

Then wand'ring in pathetic chords,
It trembled to a sad refrain,
And sobbed and wept the passionate strain,

The Old Love Song from Italy.

It sang of loves that might have been,
Of loves that may not be,
Loves lost to all but memory,
Forgotten loves and dead.

Soft in quivering threads of music
The dreamy, silver plaint,
In far off ecstasies, clear but faint,
Wooded the twilight's listening breeze.

Like some wonderful old time psalm,
Richly mellow, tender, true,
The weeping song yet sadder grew,
A melancholy carol.

Then, sobbing out its lonely heart,
The old sweet pensive air,
To a mild crescendo rare,
Rose in exquisite pathos.

To a solemn recitation,
Softly down it sighed,
And in long drawn accents died,
The Old Love Song from Italy.

ADVICE TO YOUNG AUTHORS

There many are who feel the star
Of poesy attends them,
And yet they find the average mind
But scant attention lends them.

Two faults I see in them to be
The cause of all their trouble;
If they could learn those two to to spurn,
Their fame would surely double.

They rime too well; thus all can tell
The form of verse and meter
They speak too plain; logician's brain
Ne'er framed a thot completer.

There's naught abstruse in Mother Goose;

A child could understand it;
Her rime is true, her meter too,
She's most exactly planned it.

Browning's sublime, for half the time

No one can comprehend him;
Stanzas unique and many a freak
Of riming mystery lend him.

A poet of worth's above the earth,
In hazy wonders moving;
Odd things he says in odder ways,
And that's why he's "improving."

To authors dense leave common sense,

Let whimsy vague command you;
We'll crown your name with wide-spread fame

If we can't understand you.

THE CAMERA FIEND

He Almost Makes a Bull

I dabble in photography, to begin with. Moreover, I like it. I even believe that I have developed an artistic sense of some little value. And now any camera fiend can tell you how this sense, when once cultivated, will give you no rest till you have found a perfect picture. In my search for such a picture, my

"near-successes" have been many. One of them, a rather dramatic one, comes to my mind at this moment.

I was strolling along in a pasture one bright afternoon, tripod and camera over my shoulder. I was thinking what an ideal landscape would include; a herd of "nice" gentle cows, black and white, feeding contentedly along a shaded brook,—Heavens! What a terrible roar! I became suddenly aware of the sound of hoofs about twenty paces behind me. Camera and tripod fell by the wayside unheeded and I moved into the nearest tree. From its crotch I beheld an enraged bull, with head lowered, pawing the ground. Suddenly he stopped, threw up his head and, with rather stive eye, looked at my red sweater. I had never seen an animal so st some as he. His nostrils were ilated; every muscle was hard and—there was my picture.

data came rushing through my mind. June, 4:30 p. m.; sun showing through treetops; stop at F/7; Cramer non-halation plate; exposure, 1/4 second; background, beautiful, and all colors in harmony. Oh! How I wished someone else have been in the tree in my place and that I could have been over there with that abandoned camera! "Of all the sad words of tongue or pen,

The saddest are these: "It might have been."

But it might have been worse.

That bull might have caught me before I got to the tree.

The graduate council of Wellesley has introduced a department of vocational training which will include giving to students expert advice regarding vocations other than teaching and the placing of Wellesley girls in remunerative positions.

The Yale News report that 17 captains of prominent preparatory school teams are to matriculate at New Haven next fall. Harvard comes second with 8, and Princeton third with 4. These include leaders of baseball, football, track, hockey and crew. Four of the football captains are going to Harvard, three to Yale, and one to Princeton.

Local Color

cealed by the red fascinator which she wore. The fascinator awoke memories within me, I had not seen one of these truly charming hoods since I visited a maiden aunt some twenty years before. The old lady was plainly director of the aggregation. Her meek old husband followed behind, tugging a package stained through with red. A loutish boy of fifteen brought up the rear. She waddled up to the ticket window. "Say, young man, what time's the next train to Burlington?"

"Six twenty-five, ma'am."

"Six twenty-five! We got to wait here another hour." "Joe," to the old man, "don't you forget that. Six twenty-five."

"The old man meekly murmured, 'Six twenty-five.'"

"They started back to their seats, the gawky boy at the tail of the procession, all muttering at regular intervals, 'Six twenty-five.' Once settled in their seats again—a process requiring some time—they set themselves to the difficult task of learning the magic formula 'Six twenty-five.' As I had confidently expected they soon became hopelessly mixed. The boy was sullenly asserting that it was five twenty-six, his mother was equally sure that it was six fifty-two. The old man did not presume to advance an opinion. Finally they caught sight of me. The old lady bent forward, laid a firm hand on my knee, and said, 'Say, little boy, what time is that next train?'"

I did not particularly relish her salutation. I consider five feet four a respectable height for a man, and whatever my friends or enemies—may say, I am not stout. But let that pass. I gave her the clue again; and the three resumed their chant.

Presently the familiar cry arose, "Train for Burlington on the fourth track!" My trio arose precipitately. My knee was clutched again, "Say little boy, what did that feller say?" I repeated obediently.

The old lady courageously led the way, and I could hear her counting each rail as she went over it, while the old man mumbled "Six twenty-five," and the boy growled "Six twenty-five." She finally arrived at what she judged the proper track, which was occupied in lonely state by a single engine and tender. The prospect puzzled her. "This ain't the train to Burlington. It can't be. What time's that train, Joe?" And Joe obediently mumbled "Six twenty-five." I volunteered my services here, and finally got them installed in the proper car. I took a seat opposite.

The trio was absorbed for a while in the panorama that flitted by them, but hunger began to gnaw the boy. He gave his father a gentle punch.

"Say, Pa, lemme have that salmon," Pa brought out the mysterious package, which he had clutched firmly through all their vicissitudes, unwrapped it, and disclosed a noble salt salmon. Pa's big jackknife was the next article in requisition, and the three sat and devoured big wedges of the stuff, while I sat in mute amaze and kept a precautionary eye on the water cooler. Their salty feast did not apparently inconvenience them, but the station stops always flurried them, and every victim within their reach was seized by the knee or shoulder and forced to assure them that that particular place was not Burlington.

I saw them safely disembarked and left the old lady engaged in a battle-royal with a hackman over what she considered his outlandish prices. I had not the time to wait for the issue but that it resulted in a victory for my old lady, I am very willing to bet.

Alpha Tau Omega Initiation

The annual initiation banquet of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity was held at the chapter house, 216 South Prospect Street, Friday evening, November 7, at nine o'clock.

The following men were initiated: Harold Bragg Wallis, Waitsfield; Edward Taylor Wood, Burlington; Raymond Albert Bruya, Middlebury; Ray Clyde Sanders, Brattleboro; Arthur Charles Lewis, Poultney; James Irving Dodds, South Hero; Francis Raymond Churchill, South Londonderry. Fordyce Sykes, presided as toastmaster; and the following responded to toasts: F. Tupper, University of Charleston, '90; G. M. Page, '90; H. P. Gaylord, '14; P. C. Howes, W. P. I., '14; H. H. Hagar, '96; C. H. Hagar, ex-'98; E. S. Staples, Brown, '15; R. A. Healy, '15; A. H. Holt, '12; R. R. Bogie, '16; M. Warren, Colby '14; F. R. Churchill, '17; N. F. Merrill, M. I. T., '70.

Among other alumni present were G. W. Bailey, '00; W. B. Johnson, ex-'12; H. W. Smith, '99; F. P. Wadleigh, '98; F. O. Lee, '12; H. Jordan, '13; and V. F. Babcock, ex-'16.

READING FOR PLEASURE

Prof. Tupper Speaks in Chapel

"General reading is reading undertaken spontaneously for one's own pleasure under no compulsion or at the dictates of no task," so said Professor Tupper in a chapel talk on "General Reading" last Thursday.

During the course of the talk the professor deplored the tendency of the average student to ignore books to such an extent that one who does read is as actually conspicuous. Criticizing the omnivorous and "business" reader he advised to read by selection the best books, books of breadth, worth proved by time, and potentiality. One should be able to talk something aside from shop, and books are his only teacher.

University Alumnae Club

Miss Terrill entertained the Alumnae Club of the University at Grassmount Tuesday evening, Nov. 11. Dr. Perkins spoke about the women in the different lands where he had travelled. Two musical numbers were enjoyed, a piano solo by Miss Beckwith, '14, and a violin solo by Miss Lewitus, '17. The Misses Clara Gardner, '16, Ethel Jackson, '15, and Marjorie Luce, '16, served refreshments.

Glee Club

At a meeting of the Glee Club, at the Sigma Nu Lodge, Monday evening, Manager Ellis announced that a three days' trip would be made before the Christmas vacation, if the permission could be obtained from the faculty. This trip will probably take in the northern part of the state.

Debating Society Notes

On Monday evening was held the regular meeting of the Debating Society, in Room A., North College. Leffler, '15, spoke very interestingly on the topic "Why Corporations Hire Chemists." To Edgerton, '15, was assigned "Current Events," and Mills, '15, spoke on the subject, "The History of American Aviation." The extempore fell to Sanford, '15, with the subject, "Smugglers' Notch." Howe, '14, in his speech on "Journalism," told briefly of some of the more interesting phases of a reporter's life, and described the workings of a large newspaper establishment, and the advantages of the Associated Press.

LOCALS

A. B. Schoff, '14, has returned to college from a several weeks' absence home.

Louis Dow and B. W. McFarland are in the finals for the tennis championship.

Miss Alta Grismer, '13, of Rouses Point spent Sunday at her home in Burlington.

Classes in indoor gymnasium work for the women of the two lower classes have begun.

Mrs. C. M. Byington has been the guest of her daughter, Merle Byington, '16, for a few days.

The 1916 football team played a no score tie with St. Michael's College on Centennial Field Saturday.

Group Photographs Taken

A group picture of the medical students was taken Monday morning and one of the academics Tuesday morning. A panorama view of the city and lake valley was taken from the Old Mill tower. The pictures are about 10x36. They will be on sale in about a week and sell for about a dollar. That they will serve as a good advertising medium goes without saying and the college authorities granted their permission much more readily than in many similar institutions.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB FORMING

Men of Other Nationalities To Organize

Plans are under way for the formation of a Cosmopolitan Club at the University and the first meeting will be to-night at 7:30 in Converse Hall. All foreigners will be members. The objects of the club will be to make the foreign students better acquainted, to help all to adapt themselves to this country, and to make plans for each man to advertise Vermont when he returns home. The scope and membership of the club may be widened later. Professor Applemann and Hin Ting Wong are active in its formation. Its main object will not be to have a large number of regular meetings, for it is felt that there are too many such organizations already. There will be very few meetings during the year.

Deutscher Verein Meeting

The Deutscher Verein held its weekly meeting last Thursday evening in the club rooms. The meeting was called to order by the president, Paulsen, who gave a short talk on the benefits of the club and outlined work for the year.

Several musical selections were rendered during the evening. Among the entertainers were: Miss Beckwith, Miss Moore, Miss Lewitus, and Miss Sparrow.

Dr. Applemann talked on the German Corps, which is the most fashionable fraternity in Germany, having chapters in most all of the German universities.

The matter of affiliating the Vermont Deutscher Verein with the Vereins of the larger universities was discussed.

By a unanimous vote of the club Prof. Applemann was chosen permanent honorary president.

After partaking of refreshments, for which the members of the club are indebted to Miss Beatrice Moore, the meeting adjourned.

Many honorary members from the city were present.

Second Hare and Hound

The second hare and hound chase was held Tuesday, November 4. Confetti was used for the scent. The distance covered was about three miles. Starting from the Howard gymnasium, the course led out Summit St. where the scent was lost. It was taken up again on Cliff St. and was followed over South Willard, through the fields and woods, across Cannon's estate to South Prospect St. just below the main entrance to Holt's, and thence out South Prospect and Summit Sts., to the gymnasium.

Hares: Ida Holden, '15, and Lucy Swift, '16.

Master of hounds: Mary Conway, '17.

Whippers in: Catherine Wilcox, '14, Marjorie Luce, '16.

The hares were not caught; they covered the course in thirty-four minutes while the first hounds in, Mary Conway, '17, and Mildred Dutton, '17, made the distance in thirty-eight minutes.

Y. W. C. A. Bible Class Officers

Mrs. M. H. Buckham entertained the members of the Y. W. C. A. Bible Class of the College St. Church at a picnic supper Friday night, November 7. At that time the following officers were elected: president, Bernadine Kimball, '15; vice president, Mary Emerson; secretary, Katherine Wilcox, '14; treasurer, Ethel Ward, '15; and chairman of the membership committee, Helen Rutter, '16.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The Y. W. C. A. meeting was held on Sunday of this week instead of at the regular Friday night hour. The leader was Miss Clara Gardner, and the subject had to do with the world's week of prayer for students. A letter was also read from Miss Catlin, a former student, who is now teaching in the Euphrates college.

Musical Clubs

The first meeting of the Women's Musical Club was held on Friday afternoon, Nov. 7, at the home of Mrs. J. W. Votey. About thirty members were present. A very pleasing musical program was rendered.

The Instrumental and Glee Clubs have combined this year to form the Musical Club. Two choruses of seventeen girls each have been formed with the Misses Ruth Durfee, '14, and Frances Tenney, '17, as their respective chairmen. Dorothy Votey, '16, is leading the instrumental department. It is the purpose of the club to make a study of the different composers and their works. The next meeting of the club will be held Friday, Dec. 5.

The Misses Dorothy and Constance Votey, '16, entertained the members of the Kappa Alpha Theta fraternity at a picnic supper given at their home Monday evening, Nov. 10, in honor of their guest, Miss Studor of Maine.

fee. This was very liberally patronized. Next in line was the "Crystal Palace," the lair of the freaks and nature's poor unfortunates. This attraction was endorsed as among the most popular. Then came the popcorn and peanut stand, which it is needless to state did a large business. A see-saw in a tent called "Life" was extremely popular among the children. The candy booth which was run by the home economics girls, did as much to swell the coffers of the Y. M. and Y. W. as anything else on the midway. The girls who attended to this booth were attired in immaculate white caps and aprons, and they and their candy were praised highly by all.

In order to cut the high cost of living the management opened a physical culture restaurant. Here three meals were served for five cents.

The scenic railway and African dodger lived up to their old reputation for popularity, but had it not been for an accident the scenic would have done much better. "Slim" Beckwith, the dodger, stated that his head was a trifle sore, but that he enjoyed the work.

A sea trip thru "Coney" was appreciated by all. The craft in which the trip was made was well manned.

One paramount feature was the lunch parlors, which were crowded all of the time. On the menu were hot dogs, coffee and doughnuts, and ice cream. The tables were prettily decorated with fancy paper napkins. Candles furnished the light.

Mills, '15, exhibited a model aeroplane, which was constructed by himself. Mr. Mills demonstrated the machine and explained its more prominent features.

The Y. M. C. A. orchestra, aided by Miss Lewitus, furnished fine music throughout the evening, and for dancing after half past ten.

Pictures of the faculty babies were exhibited, and a vote was taken to determine which of them was the most beautiful. The highest honors went to Dr. H. F. Perkins.

Early in the evening the college quartet rendered several selections, most of which were Vermont songs. This was quickly followed by a comedy-farce, "Aunt Robertina," played by the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. dramatic club, which proved one of the most clever affairs of the evening.

It is impossible to estimate the exact amount cleared by this performance, which, as a whole, was a burlesque on the country's most widely known seashore resort, but the gross receipts were undoubtedly in the very near vicinity of two hundred dollars, and as the outlay was comparatively small, the profit will be about that amount.

Travel Club in Italy

The four different groups of the Travel Club met with their respective leaders Saturday afternoon, November 8. Mrs. Tupper who is in charge of the whole has divided the girls into groups, and has asked Mrs. Slocum, Miss Whiting, and Miss Anna Benedict each to conduct a group. At the last meeting, the principal cities of Italy and their works of art were discussed. At the next meeting to be held November 22, all the groups will meet together to hear Dr. Emerson speak of Rome and Florence.

Samuel Bull Gordon, 1847

It has just been ascertained that Mr. Gordon died in Los Angeles, Cal., 10 April, 1900. He came to college from Potsdam, N. Y.; was born there 3 February, 1823, the son of Richard and Rachel Gordon. While an undergraduate at the University he was known as Samuel Gordon Bull. After graduation he studied law at the Ballston, N. Y., Law School, and gained admission to the bar in December, 1850. He practiced in Potsdam until 1877, when he removed to St. Louis, Mo. How long he resided there is not known, but he certainly had a law office in Los Angeles in 1899. He married Jane Anne Clark, daughter of State Senator Zenas Clark, 12 September, 1851, and their union was blessed with two sons and four daughters, of whom one son and two daughters are still living. William K. Gordon, 1852, was his brother. The family name seems to have been changed in 1849 or '50.

FRESHMEN WIN UNDERCLASS NIGHT

Take Everything Except Wrestling Matches

Underclass night which took place Friday, November 14, this year's substitution for the old proc night, was won by the freshmen with the score of 70 points to 30. This event marks the laying aside of the little green caps and ends all hostilities between the two underclasses. This is the first time in several years that the freshmen have been victorious, but this year, although the sophomores had the advantage of one year's experience and were well organized, still they were not able to cope with the overwhelming numbers of the class of 1917. The freshmen began strong by winning the first event, the dummy rush by a score of 30 points to 10. The sophomores, however, made a clean sweep of both wrestling matches, thus winning 20 additional points. In the paste rush freshmen numbers overcame sophomore strategy, the freshmen scoring a complete victory.

Hostilities between the two classes began at 4.10 in the afternoon. Lest straggling men be captured as they came out of the classroom all members of both classes cut the final period, and assembled, the freshmen in front of the Mary Fletcher hospital, and the sophomores in the basement of the Williams Science hall, at three o'clock in the afternoon. The sophomores had but 34 men present who could enter the scrap, and wishing to save their strength as much as possible, remain-

The Wig and Buskin Society are disappointed in their first selection for a Christmas play. "Raffles" can not be staged in a theatre of the Majestic's limitations. The female parts, also, are not adapted to college actors. The resignation of H. A. Gardyne as president makes it impossible to announce what the new plans of the society will be.

Brigham McFarland won the college championship in tennis, the fall tournament, and a handsome cup by defeating Louis F. Dow in three straight sets last Tuesday.

FOOTBALL HOP

Pleasant Function in the Gym

On Monday evening, Nov. 17, the annual football hop under the auspices of the two lower classes took place in the gymnasium. The patrons and patronesses were Prof. and Mrs. W. H. Freedman, Prof. and Mrs. J. F. Messenger.

In the receiving line were Prof. and Mrs. Freedman, President J. R. Berry and Vice-president Miss Rutter of the sophomore class, President M. L. Kelly and Vice-president Miss Murphy of the freshman class.

The gym was very handsomely decorated. The fraternities and Commons Club all had very artistic booths which showed the result of much labor by those in charge. Dance programs decorated in green and gold announced eighteen dances which were enjoyed by about 100 couples after the grand march. The music was excellently rendered by Robinson's orchestra.

SUMMER CAMP WILL BRING 2000

A BOOM FOR VERMONT

Many Features Included—Offers Much To Vermont Students

The city of Burlington, and the University of Vermont in particular, is to be congratulated on obtaining one of the four student encampments which are to be held in the United States during the summer months of 1914, thanks to the alertness and persistency of Captain Reeves, Congressman Greene, and a few other loyal Vermonters.

Not only will this mean unprecedented advertisement for the University, and a record attendance at the summer school, but also an unusual opportunity for undergraduate and graduate to enjoy summer school and a vacation at the same time. Also it will afford the state a splendid opportunity to demonstrate its adequacy as a summer resort. However, the student encampment has a large meaning for the U. V. M. man if he but knows it. The encampment will offer an opportunity for meeting men from all over the northeast, from Maine to Virginia, from Massachusetts to Ohio, and will be primarily a college man's gathering. It will offer an opportunity to do summer school work and receive

NEW DANCES ADVOCATED

Student Council Urged to Allow Them With Regulations

The senior and junior classes both met this week and voted to instruct their student council members to allow the new dances in regulated form at the college functions. The sophomores accomplished the same purpose by circulating a petition which was signed by practically every man in the class.

The early edict of the council, prohibiting all new dances seemed arbitrary to many and caused dissatisfaction. Some of the present councilmen were in doubt as to the majority sentiment on the question, and meetings were called to find out the student sentiment. The matter will probably be taken up at the next meeting of the student-faculty council.

1915 ARIEL ASSURED

Former Vote Against Book Rescinded

The juniors will publish an Ariel this year, according to the vote in last Wednesday's meeting. The class rescinded the former vote and levied a tax of $5 to meet expenses. The class will meet soon to elect a new editor-in-chief in place of H. A. Gardyne, who has left college. Glynn's place as photographer will also have to be filled.

N. E. COLLEGE EDUCATORS MEET AT VERMONT

Presidents and Professors of Fifteen Colleges Confer

The Association of N. E. Colleges met at the University on Nov. 18 and 19. Fifteen colleges were represented at the meeting which discussed topics of educational and administrative policy which had been proposed by the various colleges. President Benton presided and Professor S. E. Bassett was secretary. The proceedings were not given out, but members of the faculty were admitted to the meeting.

The sessions were held in the Marsh room of the library on Tuesday afternoon and evening and on Wednesday morning.

On Tuesday President and Mrs. Benton received at their home from four until six o'clock. Besides the delegates to the conference, the members of the academic faculty and their wives were present. Among the guests were: President Abbott L. Lowell, Dean Hurlburt and Secretary William Phillips of Harvard University, President Lemuel H. Murlin, Dean William M. Warren and Prof. D. Cameron of Boston University, President Ernest F. Nichols and Prof. George D. Lord of Dartmouth College, Dean Otis E. Ran-

Key and Serpent Meeting

FRESHMEN WIN UNDERCLASS NIGHT

ed where they assembled until a short time before the first event. On the other hand, the freshmen, 90 strong, marched down town and ate supper at the different restaurants. At 7.30 both classes began to make preparations for the dummy rush, which was the first event. The freshmen marched up College street, and congregated in front of the Medical building, and the sophomores took their position near the city reservoir.

The dummy rush started at eight o'clock. Since the class of 1916 was the smaller they were given the dummy. Each half hour from eight until ten, they were required to rush it on the campus and hold it there for five minutes. Each time they succeeded in doing this, it counted 10 points for them and failure to do it counted the same for the freshmen. During the first half hour period, the sophomores by a clever ruse won the 10 points. At the crack of the pistol they rushed onto the campus at the south end, and using one of their smaller men for a dummy, tackled and surrounded him. The freshmen came rushing up, and a lively tussle ensued but no dummy was found, the reason being that in the mean time a sophomore had carried the dummy around to the other end of the campus, and unobserved had tossed it into the bushes. During this scrap a considerable portion of the sophomore class were tied up and carried off by portions of the countless hordes of freshmen who were everywhere in evidence. Since this stunt of strategy had worked so well once, the sophomores tried it a second time but alas, some keen-eyed freshman or more probably, junior spied the unlucky dummy, and the freshmen soon had it in their possession. During the third period the sophomores, weakened by their loss of men, were unable to recapture the dummy, and the freshmen were again victorious. The fourth period resulted in the same manner, and closed the event with the score 30 points to 10 in favor of the freshmen.

But although the freshmen showed great strength of numbers in this event, yet in the wrestling matches, the tables were turned, the sophomores making a clean sweep of both the heavy and light weight classes and tying the score. In the light weight wrestling, Bolster, '16 in a closely contested match threw Avery '17, in the best two out of three falls. In the heavy weight class, Shedd, '16, easily threw Stanley, '17, in two short bouts.

The paste rush followed after a short intermission. As this was a new feature this year, and the score was now tied, much excitement prevailed, not only among the contestants, but also the large crowd of on-looking upperclassmen and townspeople. Each side was given an equal portion of the baseball cage on which to paste their procs. The class which had the most procs left on their portion of the cage at the end of twenty minutes won 40 points. To win the scrap, each class not only had to paste their own procs, but also prevent the enemy from pasting theirs. To accomplish this, each class divided into two portions; the larger men doing the fighting, while the smaller ones pasted the procs. At the crack of the pistol, both factions rushed at the cage at full speed. Several sophomores beat the freshmen to their own "hunting ground" and tipped over several pails of paste as the freshmen rushed up. Nevertheless paste was plentiful and the '17 procs were pasted thick and fast. Meanwhile the sophomores, who were to paste their procs were having a hard time. They had relied upon the use of a long ladder to place the procs beyond the reach of "Kid Brailey" and the other freshmen, but the ladder was soon destroyed, and the sophomores, overwhelmed by the greater numbers of the freshmen, saw their procs torn down as fast as pasted. The freshmen had the advantage throughout the fight, and their victory was complete. Some of the sophomores put up scrappy fights but in vain, for they soon lay on their backs with anywhere from one to five freshmen on top. When the pistol crack marked the end of the contest, the freshmen had about thirty procs still on the cage, but the sophomore side was bare.

A large bonfire on the back campus closed the program of the evening and was useful in drying the paste on the clothes of the underclassmen. A few songs were sung and the crowd dispersed. The whole affair was carried through in a very satisfactory manner and "underclass night" proved to be superior in many respects to the old proe night.

Singing at Commons Hall

During the past week a piano has been placed in Commons Hall and there will be music at dinner and supper. E. W. Ellis, '14 and A. D. Seaver, '16, are playing alternate weeks. There is a plan under way which, if successful, will result in the singing of one verse of a Vermont song before dinner each day. It is hoped that the men will cooperate and join heartily in the singing, so that when spring and baseball comes around we may be prepared to sing the Vermont songs with sureness and enthusiasm.

The Classical Club held an enjoyable meeting on Wednesday sor Appleman who outlined the purpose of the organization and the plans for the ensuing year.

Professor Appleman stated that the purpose was not to form a new club to be added to the already increasing list of college clubs, but rather to help the foreigners to get acquainted with each other in a friendly way and with the help of the American students to become more familiar with American institutions. In this way they may learn to like them and in turn, catch the true college spirit and enthusiasm which is born into all Americans but which has to be incorporated into the foreigner.

The membership is expected to reach fifteen or twenty among which there will probably be eight or nine foreign languages. The next meeting is to be held this evening when there will be the election of officers for the coming year and the framing of a constitution.

SUMMER CAMP WILL BRING 2000

credits for make-ups or advance work. It will afford an unequalled opportunity for a vacation at little expense.

Few people realize its significance. The object of the camp is to give a short course in military training to college men in order that they may be better fitted to discharge their military duty to their country should it ever stand in need of their service. However, there is an additional gain to the student. He enjoys the active, healthful, outdoor life of a military camp, the broadening influence derived from meeting and being intimately associated with students of other well known institutions, and the opportunity afforded for athletic training and contests, as well as the novelty of the experience itself, all contributing variety and interest to the program.

In connection with the matter of athletic training it may be interesting to note that practically all the big colleges in this district are planning to send their athletes here to the encampment to keep them in training, thus preventing the usual break caused by the summer vacation.

The encampment will be located east and south of the weather bureau, and is to last six weeks, beginning probably July 7, and will probably have an attendance of 2,000. This seems an extremely low estimate when it is known that the district includes 101 colleges, with an attendance of male students to the number of 88,215, and a mean distance from Burlington of 265 miles. One New England college already has 200 men booked. The applicants for permission to attend must be students in good standing of a first-class university or college, or in the graduating class at high or preparatory schools. Also recent university or college graduates may attend. However, all applicants must be citizens of the United States or have declared their intention of so becoming; 18 to 30 years, of age, inclusive; of good moral character, and physically qualified.

The expenses will be very low. Students will be required to pay their traveling expenses to and from camp, to pay for their meals at the rate of $3.50 per week, and to provide themselves with a specified uniform costing from $5 to $10, when not already so provided. Coats, blankets, tentage, rifle, and all other articles included in a complete infantry equipment will be furnished by the government. Everything tending to the health and comfort of those attending, which can lawfully be furnished by the war department, will be provided.

The military course will require four hours a day, confined as far as practicable to the morning, leaving the afternoons and evenings, with due regard to proper supervision, at the disposal of the student for rest, athletic sports, recreation, or study. The course will include the theoretical principles of tactics accompanied by practical applications in the field cavalry and field artillery instruction if practicable, military map making and road sketching, the use of the rifle, target practice, physical drill, marching, camping, field cooking, camp sanitation, first aid to the injured, personal hygiene, and many other subjects. There will be informal talks by selected officers on field fortifications; military bridge building, use of explosives, field telephone, and radio-telegraphic apparatus; signal flags, heliographs, and other signal corps apparatus; the psychology of war; the true military history of our country; our military policy, and other allied subjects. Also there will be practice marches under actual campaign conditions as far as possible. A diploma will be granted by the war department, in the way of a certificate, to those who finish the prescribed course of instruction at the camp successfully.

The social side of the encampment is by no means to be neglected. It is expected that a weekly hop will be held in the gymnasium; numerous excursions upon the lake are to be held by the Champlain Transportation Co., and in every way possible the students will be made to feel comfortable and happy during their stay in Burlington. It is likely that the encampment will wind up with a trip over the "Long Trail," a trip which every one would enjoy, affording as it would, a splendid opportunity to see Vermont's beautiful hills, lakes, and mountains. In addition to dances, excursions, and "hikes," there will be such athletic contests, baseball games, track contests, etc., as probably Centennial Field has never seen before.

The students attending camp during the summer of 1913 formed an organization for which they adopted the name "The Society of the National Reserve Corps of the United States." The following college presidents have consented to act as advisory committee of the student organization.

J. G. Hibben of Princeton University, A. L. Lowell of Harvard University, A. T. Hadley of Yale, G. H. Denney of the University of Alabama, H. B. Hutchins of the University of Michigan, E. W. Nichols of Virginia Military Institute, I. H. Finley of the College of the City of New York, H. S. Drinkwater of Lehigh University.

An executive committee was appointed also. The fact of this organization shows the good comradeship and enthusiasm of the students, and proves an additional inducement.

The student encampment is an opportunity which rarely comes to our state, and the biggest boom that "the bigger and better Vermont" has ever had, and a most unusual opportunity for U. V. M. men. Hence it behooves every Vermont man with any state loyalty, any college loyalty, or any self loyalty, to see to it, as far as in him lies, that the encampment is a success. And if it is a success there is some reason to believe that the student encampment may become a permanent institution here.

A Conditional Gift

The economics department has received a donation of $50 from an anonymous giver for the purchase of books on economic subjects. The gift is conditioned upon the University's donating an equal amount for this purpose. The authorities have not acted as yet.

Agricultural Club

An enthusiastic and well attended meeting of the Agricultural Club was held at the Lambda Iota fraternity house last Tuesday evening. The following program was rendered with much snap and spirit: Reading by Schoff, '14; reading of Vermont Chronicle, edited by Mayo, '15, and Handy, '15; vocal duet by Currier, '15, and Gallagher, '16; a debate. Tennien, '15, then gave an interesting account of the trip of the fruit judging team, which consisted of himself, Hanson, '15, and Mann, '15, to Boston. A reading by Piper closed the literary program. In the business meeting which followed it was voted to place the cup which the team won at Windsor and also those which were won by the stock judging team last year in the case which Dean Hills offered to have made in Morrill Hall. Plans for procuring a pin for members of the club were discussed and a committee appointed to get designs. Refreshments of cocoa and cookies were served and the club broke up with a vote of thanks to the Lambda Iota fraternity for their hospitality.

Pres. and Mrs. Benton Receive

President and Mrs. Benton were at home on Tuesday afternoon to members of the faculty and their wives in honor of the delegates of the various New England colleges who were in town for the conference. Mrs. Frederick Tupper and Miss Shattuck presided in the dining room and the following young ladies assisted in serving, Miss Watson, Miss Shepardson, Miss Beckwith, Miss Bernardine Kimball, Miss Gates, Miss Mabel Watts, Miss Rutter, Miss Hayden, Miss Ayer and Miss Chapin.

SATURDAY, NOV. 22, 1913

The college and the community are much indebted to Captain Reeves again. This time it is on account of the summer military camp, which comes to Burlington next summer, largely as the result of his efforts. All that the encampment means to us cannot be realized at once. But it gradually grows upon one that this is one of the biggest things that have happened to build up and advertise the college in recent years. A catalog of all the benefits which the college and the students will get from such a camp would be too long to give here and would be necessarily incomplete. The first thought that must occur to everyone is the need of preparation for the many guests of the city and the college next summer. The next thought is the great advantage which is open for Vermont students. A splendid five weeks' training is offered at a cost of but $17.50 plus the cost of a suitable uniform. One can not help speculating as to what this will do for the summer school, which heretofore has not been the drawing card that it should. Further speculations could be made over the possibility of locating a large military school in this beautiful locality. Should the camp remain permanent, it would be a tremendous asset to the University in many ways.

Although it is a doubtful policy for a paper to publish editorials critical of those whom it most desire to please, yet the CYNIC in its unique mission as a college paper would like to call attention to a phase of college spirit quite generally neglected—the support of college publications.

The attitude of some students is discouraging. There are those who accept student publications as a matter of course and are quite content to read their neighbor's papers. They are conscientiously economical in this respect. They do not realize that student publications need as lively support as football or baseball. No one would think of accepting their neighbor's account of the game as being a more economical course than seeing the game themselves.

There are few who know if a student is showing the right spirit by supporting the college literature but the duty is just as imperative if less obvious. Nothing reflects the thought of our institution like our publications, its peculiar individuality is in no other way brought so forcibly to the attention of the public. Students take pride in their "spirit." Then they should regard it highly important to do all in their power to keep that spirit from decreasing because of non-expression.

The letter in this issue in regard to the Ariel would have been more timely last week, if we had had space for it. As it contains some constructive suggestions, we print it this week. The junior class is to be congratulated for its about-face on the Ariel question. There is still plenty of time to get out a good Ariel in good season. This timely action is much better than vain regrets after it was too late. The agitation has been beneficial. There are many institutions which are not appreciated until we are in danger of losing them. The Ariel is in this class, and now that the situation has been thoroughly thrashed out, alumni and students in general who have felt the importance of the yearbook will be brought to patronize it. Moreover, the numerous suggestions for improvements of present conditions on the annual will be of great assistance to the board.

Underclass night passed off as a thoroughly creditable event and in the eyes of most people justified its existence. The only drawback was the inability of the sophomores to muster enough men to make an interesting scrap. With rare exceptions the sophomores have always had smaller numbers in the class scraps, and this year no amount of organization could offset this disadvantage. This inequality is likely to continue as long as the pre-medics can scrap with the freshmen during their first year here, but must watch from the side-lines their second year at Vermont. All their sympathies are with the sophomores. A man who enters after one year at another college is supposed to enter the sophomore scraps. It would equalize the opposing forces if the pre-medics were allowed to scrap with the sophomores when they have become freshmen medics. This would even up both the cane rush and underclass night, and would doubtless be welcome to the pre-medics. The cane rush would often be a closer contest if the rules debarring football men were not so rigid. The physical danger is small, and the desired end would be gained if no underclassmen were barred except those on the Varsity squad, who could be kept out at the coach's request.

Many students rightly feel that they have derived little benefit or little pleasure from the money which they have paid as an athletic fee this first half year. The small number of home games is largely responsible for this feeling. But the fact remains that if more home games had been granted there would have been necessary a further economy for coaching and equipment. Each home game is an expensive proposition because of a lack of Burlington patronage. Cuts must be made this year on account of past extravagances, and the athletic committee is simply without the funds to give us more home games.

There is, however, one way in which the athletic committee could give the college much enjoyment with the expenditure of a very few athletic fees. A rink on Centennial Field, north of the running oval, could be given to the students for use this winter. There is a good-sized area there that is never used except in occasional spring batting practices. A large rink could be constructed, and a portion of it could be used for interclass and inter-dormitory hockey. If the rink is kept up at all and if we have a real winter, it is safe to prophesy that there will be so much enthusiasm by the closing weeks of the hockey season that we can arrange some good games with outside teams nearby.

Vermont can not afford to go to sleep on the hockey question, even if the athletic committee can not afford to spend very much for the advancement of the sport this winter. A hockey rink on Centennial Field is not an expensive proposition, but would be a big start for something which is surely worth while.

The Recession of the Vulgar Dance

Nobody will contend that the one-step is a graceful dance. It lacks the rhythmic qualities that makes the waltz beautiful. But as it is generally danced today it is free from the reproach of indecency. Certain individuals of low disposition invest it with suggestiveness, but they are members of a division of mankind beyond hope of redemption from the wallow in which they dwell.

The fact is that a wholesome reform has accompanied the great and growing interest in dancing. Those contortions and wiggings that aroused the disgust of the clean minded have been eliminated from polite society. Public opinion has compelled their recession to the quarters which are their natural habitation. Foresighted dancing teachers have contributed to their suppression. A year ago their restraint seemed next to impossible. Now they are seen no more.

Meanwhile there has been an increase in the number of steps which even the occasional ballroom dancer wishes to master. Some of them constitute very intricate measures which in their entirety only the most devoted students will attempt. These are, indeed, impracticable on a crowded floor, where the one-step, ugly but innocent, and the various adaptations of the waltz, equally unobjectionable and in some developments interesting, hold supremacy.

The problem of chaperons and dance committees is not now what it was a twelvemonth ago. The alarming tendencies then so evident have been checked. The coarse intruder existed when the old fashioned waltz was at the height of its popularity. His treatment is not difficult. He would be with us were dancing not indulged in to the amazing extent it now is. His efforts to reduce the standards of all to his own degraded plane have failed, and for that we may be sincerely thankful.—New York Sun

Could anything more or less than this be said on this subject?

Bible Study Class Entertained

The First Church Y. W. C. A. Bible study class spent a very delightful evening last Tuesday as the guests of Mrs. W. J. Van Patten, the class patroness, at her home on Pearl Street.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN MEETS

The Deutscher Verein held a regular meeting on Thursday evening, Nov. 13, in the Y. W. C. A. room in the Mill. The business of the meeting was carried on in German, according to the rule formulated at the previous meeting. The members of the Verein feel that only in this way can it justify its existence as a German club, and the plan promises to be very helpful to the members. Mr. Griffin gave a very interesting paper and the meeting closed with the singing of German songs, led by Prof. Applemann.

Y. M. C. A.

The subject for discussion Tuesday night was "The Parable of the Talents." The meeting proved to be the most interesting held thus far this year.

A course in mission study, to which one hour a week will be devoted, will be offered after the Thanksgiving recess. Information regarding the course may be had of Sheldon Miller, '14, or at the Y. M. C. A. office.

FIRE IN COLLEGE BARN

Incendiary Causes Excitement at Class Game

The University barn at Centennial Field which we used to hope would have shower baths and lockers for the athletic teams started to burn last Saturday between the halves of the class game. A volunteer squad of 150 or more soon put out the blaze with little damage.

The fire was evidently of incendiary origin, said the first arrivals upon the scene. A window in the back of the barn had been broken, the catch unlocked, and the fire-bug had started a merry blaze in a bunch of catnip and other rubbish in one corner. It was soon stamped out. The fire truck arrived about five minutes later.

The motive of the incendiary may have been to start some excitement, for a fire at any other time could have made way with the barn. It is stated that the barn has started to burn under suspicious circumstances at least three times lately. The unfortunate burning of the grand stand in the dead of winter last year was the first indication that some one in the vicinity of Centennial Field is a bit careless with their matches.

Le Cercle Francais

The regular meeting of Le Cercle Francais was held Wednesday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. room in the Mill. After a short business session, Mr. Griffin read a delightful little French story which was greatly enjoyed by all. The remainder of the meeting was given up to games and contests all of which were conducted in French. This plan was adopted for the purpose of increasing opportunities for conversation and has so far been very successful.

The club is very unfortunate in the loss of its president, Mr. Sykes, '14, who has been obliged to leave college temporarily. Mr. Sykes has contributed a great deal to the success of the club and it is hoped that he will be able to resume the office upon his return.

"V" Men

The men who won V's in football this fall for the first time were:

St. John, Abell, Glidden, Fraser, Dolphin and Little. Those who have previously been awarded the letter and won it again this year are: Whalen, Farr, Flynn, Frank, Currier and Putnam.

Glee Club

The Glee Club started its rehearsals with Mr. Wilder this week. It is vital that each rehearsal from now on is attended.

Kappa Sigma Initiation and Banquet

The Kappa Sigma fraternity held its annual initiation on Thursday evening at its rooms. The initiates were as follows: John Beach Sanford, '15, Hardwick; Jason Solon Hunt, '15, Johnson; Rupert Rugg King, '17, Fairfax; Fay Herrick Hunt, '17, Essex Junction; Frank Clifford Stewart, '17, Fairfax; Arthur Hall Sanford, '17, Hardwick; Luke Livingston Conner, '17, Randolph; Charles Carroll Gale, '17, Morrisville; Merton Hinsdale Arms, '17, Burlington; Gordon Ambrose Brooks, '17, Morrisville; Volney Leland Durfee, '17, Bristol.

The initiation banquet was held on Friday evening, Nov. 14, at the Hotel Vermont, at nine o'clock. B. F. Andrews, '13, presided as toastmaster, and the following responded to toasts: F. T. Severance, '13; S. F. French, '16; J. B. Johnson, '15; A. J. Grant, New Hampshire State; E. S. Hayden, '15; H. A. Black, M. A. C.; B. H. Campbell, Dartmouth; W. A. Sturgis, '15; F. M. Small, '96; E. T. Brackett, Brown; A. M. Pike, '16; P. J. Hurley, '14; F. H. Hunt, '17.

Kappa Sigma Initiation Dance

The annual initiation dance of the Kappa Sigma fraternity took place at nine o'clock Saturday evening, Nov. 15, at the Hotel Vermont roof garden. The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Samson of Grand Isle, and Earl R. Baker, '12. Robinson's orchestra furnished music.

WASHINGTON ALUMNI HOLD SMOKER

The Washington Alumni Association started off the year with a smoke at the University Club, Tuesday, November 11. About 20 were present. President Benton, who was attending the convention of the Association of Universities in Washington, was present and spoke as did State Commissioner of Agriculture E. S. Brigham of St. Albans. It was decided to hold the annual meeting of the association about the middle of February.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

The feature of the Chemistry Club meeting held last Tuesday evening was a lecture by Clarence Mickel, '14, assisted by Walter Howe, '14, on the "Metallurgy of Iron and Steel." The lecture, illustrated by blackboard diagrams and stereopticon slides, was a very good one. An informal discussion, interspersed with music and sandwiches, was later held in the organic laboratories. The entire club will take a trip in the near future to some chemical laboratories, metallurgical plant and pulp mills in eastern New York.

DELTA SIGMA BANQUET

The Delta Sigma fraternity held their initiation banquet at the Van Ness roof garden on Saturday night. The toasts were: "Welcome," F. J. Donahue, '14; "Vermont," R. H. ## The "Ariel." Why Give it Up?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CYNIC:—
Dear Sir:—

The decision of the 1915 class, not to publish the annual yearbook, the Ariel has aroused much interest in this particular matter. Not that anybody blames the class of 1915 for the stand that it has taken. It is generally conceded that the cost of publishing this book is more than any one class ought to take upon its shoulders. On the other hand nearly everybody is agreed that the Ariel should not be discontinued, and that some more practical way of getting it out can be found.

Let us sum up some of the reasons why it should not be discontinued. In the first place, it comes to us as an established custom of twenty years standing, a custom which, though it has been allowed to drift into a financial bug-bear, nevertheless is founded on an excellent principle. Such a custom should not be thrown aside, without making a concentrated effort to continue it by some means. Second, the Ariel is the history of the college for one year. It is the book that one takes as a reference when any event in the past history of the University is in question. Is it good policy to allow such a record of events, of the "doings" of the students, to be discontinued, even for a year? You may say that the CYNIC is record enough, but we do not think so. The college paper treats the college life in detail from week to week. The work of the Ariel is of an entirely different nature. The Ariel is a summary of the year in compact form, a complete account of all that has happened, which will be of interest to future as well as present friends of Vermont. It may be called a general catalogue of the students and their activities. Finally, the Ariel ought not to be discontinued on account of the reputation of the college itself. Vermont has always stood for quality in college life. In fact she has made up in quality what she has lacked in quantity, so that her rank has always been high among eastern colleges. Now, every college of any note, in the east, has a yearbook of some kind. Are we going to take a step backward and fall behind the line?

Granting that the Ariel should not be discontinued, the next step is a practical plan for its continuance. If it is continued, it must be made a paying proposition, or be a drag on the college pocketbook. There is one plan by which it would seem that this book could be made to pay expenses; that is, to sell enough Ariels. We suggest the following plan for the accomplishment of this end. Let a committee be elected from the four classes of the University, taking in every department of the college. The duty of this committee shall be publicity for the Ariel. A typewritten letter should be sent to every alumnus and friend of the University who can be reached, stating the Ariel situation and asking for subscriptions for the 1915 Ariel. The students should also be canvassed for subscriptions. In this way, the financial standing of the proposition could be ascertained very nearly before the book was published. There is every reason to believe that a canvass of this kind would be successful, for there are plenty of alumni and friends of the University who would be glad to buy the college yearbook, if they realized the state of its finances. There are, also, men in college who would buy the book if approached on the subject, but who do not take enough interest in the matter to purchase it on their own initiative. The great difficulty is that the matter is not agitated sufficiently. As soon as a fair number had signed up for the Ariel the remainder would follow the crowd. Thus the college yearbook would literally be "put on its feet."

In case the subscriptions of alumni and students did not quite pay for the publication of the book, we believe that all the classes of the University would be willing to contribute toward the remainder of the debt, as the Ariel really belongs to all the classes. Thus would this good custom continue under the direction of the junior class.

Very truly yours,

C.

COMMUNICATIONS

Utica, N. Y.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CYNIC:—

The writer has talked with several Vermont men located in Schenectady, Syracuse and a few around this city and we are wondering if there cannot be a game of football or baseball arranged with Syracuse, Colgate or Union at their respective towns?

The last game played around here was in 1911 with Syracuse at which time several Vermont men were present. Not only would this keep up the interest of the alumni in athletics at the University but it would be a means of advertising the college in such a way as to get men from this section of the State which at the present time is not producing the number it should.

We think that relations in football might be resumed with Syracuse if the proper steps were taken and the Vermont men throughout Central New York hope that such may be the case.

I hope that you will endeavor to give the men down this way an opportunity to see Vermont teams in action.

Senior Debate

The first senior debate of the year was held Thursday morning at 10:30. The question was, "Resolved, That the Roosevelt Recall of Judicial Decisions Should Be Adopted." The affirmative won, supported by Bailey and Emerson. The negative side was presented by Howe and McFarland. Professors Thomas, Groat and Gifford were judges.

ANNUAL CLASS GAME

The sophomores won the annual class game Saturday on Centennial Field by a score of 6-0. 1916 made her only score during the first three minutes of play, when Conroy, the sophomore quarterback, took the ball on a skin tackle play through the whole freshman team and ran fifty yards for a touchdown. Linnehan failed to kick the goal.

The game opened with '17 kicking off to '16. For the first four rushes the sophs gained steadily until they were forced to punt. DeCicco, '17, at once made ten yards, but fumbled when tackled on the fifty yard line. It was in the next play that the sophs made their touchdown. The sophs continued to be aggressive until Conroy was injured. After this the freshmen seemed to be more awake and played a much better game gaining consistently throughout the rest of the half. The half ended with the ball in the middle of the field.

The third period opened with 1916 kicking off to the thirty yard line, the frosh running it back about five yards. 1917 gained several yards by successive rushes, then the ball again came into '16's possession. Fumbling the sophs lost the ball, but in the third down it was recovered by Mack. The third quarter ended after DeCicco had gained 13 yards and placed the ball within 16 yards of the sophs' goal. Again the 1916 line proved its usefulness and the ball was punted out of danger. In the last ten seconds of play, the sophs fumbled and Tennien, picking up the ball, made 20 yards before he was downed on the sophomores' 15 yard line.

For the most part the freshmen used end runs and forward passes while the sophomores used the Minnesota shift a great deal. 1916's strength lay in their line which held '17 time and again. For the sophs Johnson, Linnehan, and Conroy played fine games and for the frosh MacLeod, Stillwell and DeCicco.

1913 CLASS FINANCES

Treasurer Has Instructive Report

A recent report of the treasurer of class of 1913 states that all bills are paid, and that a balance of $87.12 remains to be used in connection with the work of the permanent class organization.

The financing of the class of 1913 had several remarkable features, some of which could be followed with advantage by other classes, and some of which will not need to occur with the present interest in the matter of class taxes. The class taxes for the four years amounted to $35. During the latter part of the four years there were but 57 taxpayers. When all the facts are considered, it seems as if this money went as far as one could expect. Some of the facts are these:

The same treasurer held office the last two years. The management in this respect was more efficient and energetic than that of any class in our experience. The junior prom cost $363, not quite half of which came out of the class treasury. Economy was not the watchword of this function. The 1913 Ariel required $760 from class funds, and it was a volume of which the class was justly proud. Early expenditures for class sweaters were not on a scientific basis. By virtue of an unusually large attendance and able management the senior boatride last June neither took any money from the class funds nor put any in. Fortunately it just "broke even", according to the latest report of the treasurer.

The substantial balance for the permanent organization is certainly a cause for congratulation.

The report of the treasurer for the senior year is as follows:

GEORGE ADE AGAIN

"Just Out of College" To Be Given

The Wig and Buskin Society are to present George Ade's play, "Just Out of College" in the early part of January. "Raffles" was found to be too intricate in plot and action to be produced at this time.

Isaac D. Everitt, '15 was chosen president of the society in place of H. A. Gardyne, who has left college.

"Just Out of College" is in George Ade's typical rollicking style. Mr. Ade has equaled, if not surpassed his clever and fascinating story of "The College Widow", which delighted those who witnessed its presentation here last spring.

Rehearsals will begin this week as soon as copies of the play arrive. The date of the play has been set after Christmas on account of the delay in getting started.

It is probable that a trip will be taken during the spring vacation, either with this play, or as a try-out for the junior week play. The route of this trip has not yet been settled.

Davis, Editor of Ariel

M. H. Davis was chosen editor-in-chief of the Ariel at a junior meeting on Monday. C. A. Spencer was elected photographer. At the same meeting W. H. Smith was elected class basketball manager. The first Ariel board meeting was held on Tuesday.

ENTRANCE PRIZES AWARDED

The entrance examination prizes were given out in chapel on Wednesday morning. The Greek prize was awarded to Herbert A. Durfee who prepared at the Burlington High school. The Latin prize went to Earl F. Walbridge of Enosburgh Falls High school. The mathematics prize was divided between Richard W. Powers who prepared at Pittsford High school, and Luther T. Lougee of Tilton Seminary.

Honorable mention in Latin was awarded to Elizabeth Baker of Upper Montclair, N. J. George O. Smith of Corinth, N. Y., received honorable mention in mathematics.

The prizes are $20 each, and are given from a fund which was left by Mrs. Hannah T. Howard.

STUDENT ENCAMPMENT STARTS MANY PLANS

PREP SCHOOL FORECASTED

Burlington May Become Great Educational Center

As soon as it was officially announced that the summer military encampment had come to this city, an ambitious campaign was started by Burlington Commercial Club which if successful will make Burlington a great educational center of the Northeast.

It is the purpose of the city to make the camp so satisfactory that the United States government will designate it for a permanent camp. It is expected that this movement may culminate in the establishing of a military and naval preparatory school similar in nature to the Northwestern and the Culver schools.

Vermont Man Wins Three-Year Scholarship

James H. Wilson, '11, of Bethel, was chosen as Rhodes scholar from Vermont to succeed Elias Lyman, Jr., who graduates from Oxford next June. He was one of six candidates for the position. Rev. Charles C. Wilson, '07, a former Rhodes scholar, is his brother.

Mr. Wilson prepared for college at Whitcomb high school in Bethel, graduating in 1907 and entering Vermont that fall. While at the university he was a thorough student and a good tennis player, and made

NEW DANCES STILL BANNED

Joint Council Opposes--Important Dates Granted

At a student council meeting Monday, November 24th, the following business was transacted: Permission was granted the Athletic Association to give a college vaudeville at the Majestic Theatre on December 18th. A request for a dance on December 2nd. was granted the Delta Mu fraternity; permission was given the girls to present "Alice in Wonderland" at the High School Hall January 16th and 17th, 1914, and to the Glee Club to have their home concert in the same hall, December 10th, 1913.

The decision of the former student council barring the new dances was sustained by a joint meeting of the faculty-student council and the young women's council. The vote was 15 to 7.

Dean Perkins, the chairman, said afterwards: We were glad to get the students' opinion on this subject, but felt that in the best interests of the whole college we could not follow it. We think that the new dances may be perfectly decent, but many of the general public in Vermont do not yet approve of them.

THE FOOTBALL BANQUET

The Whole College To Join With The Football Team For The First Time

The annual football banquet will be held on the evening of December 1st, probably at the Van Ness House. The price will be $1.00 a plate. Captain William E. Whalen will act as toastmaster.

Formerly the football banquets were attended by members of the team only. This year it is planned to have all faculty members and college men present. The college needs a quickening of interest in football and this year's banquet is just the thing to do it. Every undergraduate should consider it a duty to be present.

VERMONT COLLEGE IN TRIANGULAR LEAGUE

Debates Planned With Middlebury and Norwich

The arrangements are nearly completed whereby the three Vermont colleges, Norwich, Middlebury and the University of Vermont, will have an opportunity to contend for the honors on the debating platform. President Bailey has completed such arrangements so far as can be done by correspondence. It now remains for delegates from each of the three colleges to meet and make the final plans. At the meeting of the society

Vaudeville for Athletics

A movement started by various members of the Boulder, Key and Serpent and Wig and Buskin Societies has resulted in the project of a vaudeville performance, the proceeds of which will be used this year for the benefit of athletics. Whatever is cleared is not to be used in paying debts but will be expended in developing hockey, basketball or increasing the baseball schedule. The entertainment will consist of all the usual features of a show of its character.

PLANS MADE BY 1913 PERMANENT ORGANIZATION

Last Year's Class Sets Precedent

Last spring, the class of 1913, feeling that their relations as a class ought not to die out after graduation, laid the foundation for a permanent class organization. The officers of this organization were elected as follows:—President, Fred C. Fiske; 1st vice president, H. R. Baremore, medic; 2nd vice president, Miss Cora Parkhurst; secretary, Hovey Jordan; treasurer, N. C. Peterson.

Under the active leadership of these officers, plans have been carefully made for the future of the class of 1913. A directory is now being prepared, which, when it is completed, will contain the name of every member of the class, his or her location and occupation. On account of the unsettled location of many of the members at the present time, this directory will not be published until next June. In the future, it is the plan to get out such a directory every two years. These are to be sent to each member of the class, and to such alumni organizations as desire them. Thus each member will be able to locate every one of his classmates in a short time.

The regular reunions of the class will be held on the 1st, 2nd, 5th, and 10th years after graduation, continuing thereafter at intervals of five years. A big reunion is being planned for next spring, at which every member of the class is urged to be present. Of course, every member is expected to return at commencement time every year if possible.

Another plan of this permanent class organization is to contribute a certain amount yearly to the endowment fund, thus proving themselves a practical as well as theoretical organization.

Taking it all in all, the class of 1913 seems to have made a good beginning in its permanent organization.

Student Encampment Starts Many Plans

President Benton will try to have the annual convention of Vermont teachers held in Burlington next year in order to secure their cooperation along educational lines. Captain Reeves hopes to get the help of the National Guard of Vermont by having the annual summer encampment here in Burlington instead of in the state of Maine.

An entertainment committee has been appointed to see that the camp does not fail, as did the Gettysburg camp, from want of opportunities for recreation and entertainment. With such active measures under way the success of the encampment is assured.

At the opening of the camp next summer it is estimated that two thousand students will be present. Already it is announced by authority that Columbia University will send two hundred, Yale one hundred and Harvard two hundred students. Bringing all these young college men into Vermont will be a great benefit to the state and to the city of Burlington especially, while the favorable way in which it will affect the University is not to be doubted. A larger summer school will be a logical result. Greater prestige and publicity will come to the college as a whole, with the natural consequences of a wider sphere of influence and more rapid growth.

The students of the University, individually have a rare advantage in the nearness of the camp. It will cost them less to make use of their opportunity to mingle with men from other colleges under conditions which will foster social and educational democracy and will exert a broadening influence.

A new stimulus is at work which when matured in action will bring prestige to the city of Burlington and growth to the State University. To those who were responsible for the originating of this stimulus and to those who are fostering it, the city and the college will have cause to be thankful in years to come.

Vaudeville for Athletics

acter. Though the project has been fostered by a few thus far, the management earnestly desires the support of all the students and especially those who have any talent whatever in this line.

This affords a new field for many who are desirous of aiding athletics and all should tender their assistance to Dr. Beecher, chairman of the athletic committee. The date has been fixed at Dec. 18 and it will take place at the Majestic.

Vermont Colleges in Triangular League

24, Professor Tupper and President Bailey were elected as delegates for the above purpose.

Try-outs for the debating team will be held in G. North College, Dec. 8th, at 7.20. Professors Tupper, Aiken and Gifford will act as judges. The question is: "Resolved, That the United States Should at Once Resort to Armed Intervention in Mexico."

Each man will be given five minutes to speak and may take either side of the question. At least three men and probably six will be picked. Candidates are limited to members of the Debating Association.

It is quite probable that two teams, of three men each, may be chosen, one to contend against Norwich, the other against Middlebury. In this case, the entire six men will be taken on both trips, thus getting the full benefit of the question. In this way the team which debates last will have the advantage gained from the first debate.

The last meeting of the Debating Society, on Monday evening, November 24, was called to order a little earlier than usual, on account of the smoker at the gymnasium. The secretary's report of the previous meeting was read and accepted. A short business meeting followed. After the business had been disposed of, Isham, '16, gave the current events. "The Sport," an exceedingly interesting story by Dean, '15, came next on the program. The debate which followed was upon the question, "Resolved, That the Judges of the State Courts Should Be Subject to Recall by Popular Vote." The affirmative was upheld by Hoyt, '17, and Gates, '15, the negative by Bailey, '15, and Ellis, '14. The time limit of each speaker was shortened somewhat in order that the meeting might be closed early. The judges, Dr. Barnes, Sanford, '15, and Piper, '16, awarded the decision to the negative by a two to one vote.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Vermont State Alumni Association held Nov. 21 in Burlington, arrangements were made for holding the annual banquet in Burlington this year, the date to be announced later.

BOSTON ALUMNI HAVE LARGE GATHERING

Rev. Alexander Manor Speaks

The fall dinner of the Boston Alumni Association of the University took place at the Hotel Westminster in Copley Square, Friday evening, November 14. This association is planning to have two dinners, one in the fall and the other in the late spring, each about three months apart from the big dinner of the larger New England Association held in mid-winter. The dinner the other night was emphatically a success, although the night was a stormy one.

The members of the Association assembled, by invitation of the Vermont Association of Boston, in the rooms of the latter on the second floor of the hotel, and gathered later in one of the smaller banquet halls of the hotel.

During the dinner college songs brought the old and young members to their feet many times, and three hours were spent most happily. The music was in charge of Frank Stinson, '80, and George P. Auld, '02, was cheer leader. The table was decorated with flowers of the college colors. On the wall opposite the entrance was a large green and gold Vermont pennant. George H. Randall, '91, president of the association was toastmaster. He reminded "the boys" of the truth of the affirmation made by the late President Buckingham that a man upon receiving his diploma should regard himself not as being graduated out of the University, but into it. "This dinner to-night" said the toastmaster, "is one of the proofs that our men realize this truth. We are here as members of a greater university, the college world".

A number of letters of regret and greeting were read by the secretary, Edward H. Lawton, '09.

The first speaker was George P. Auld, '02, paymaster at the U. S. Navy Yard in Charleston, who spoke of the Navy. He said in part: "The Navy is cheap insurance for the Nation when it spends only one-tenth of 1 percent. on itself to protect the country's $136,000,000,000 of wealth. "Some begrudge the expenditure for a Navy," he said. "The Navy, however, is always prepared for war. But the Navy does not want war, for it realizes the human suffering and the devastation of the business fabric if we became embroiled with some first-class Power.

"There may come a time of universal peace, however, but it will only come when men are so just, so virtuous and so unrestrained that we can leave our houses unlatched and dismiss our police force. Then great racial distinctions will not exist and we can give our battleships to the New Haven road."

Field Secretary Irving L. Rich, '02, of the Centennial Endowment Fund, made a strong plea for the acceptance of our privilege as alumni of a worthy alma mater in sharing in the upbuilding of her endowment. He drew a round of applause when he said that of the $1,000,000 endowment fund more than half is already subscribed. He urged a stronger alumni association and a greater backing of the university in its development among its 3000 graduates in New England.

The toastmaster in introducing the last of the stated speakers, spoke of his regret that Governor Foss, of the class of '80, who had hoped to be present, was obliged to be in another part of the Commonwealth on state business, and had asked him to express his regrets. He was able, however, to introduce a visitor of equal distinction though "not of the fold", in the person of Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann, rector of Trinity Church, Boston, a graduate of Hobart College, and a friend of the small college.

Dr. Mann spoke of "The Small College."

He said the smaller colleges had an advantage over the large universities by reason of the fact that the students of the former were brought into closer association with their professors. "There are no men more highly trained, highly devoted to their calling, than the men who make up the faculties of the small colleges," he said, "There is no comparison between them and the tutors of the larger colleges. They have a feeling for the boys that the professors in the big colleges can't have."

The speaker also declared that "it is hard to make people in Boston believe that there are other colleges beyond the Berkshires.

"But the smaller colleges have hundreds of graduates right here in the city—lawyers, doctors, business men and others—who are the equals of the best who ever graduated from a big university."

Other speakers were James D. Brennan, '03, national bank examiner, who urged greater support of the student athletes; Samuel S. Dennis, Jr., '01; A. E. Lewis, '97; Dr. F. C. Granger, '77, and Dr. S. M. Roberts, '63, of Nantucket.

Among those present were:

T. C. Hill, '93, Boston; F. C. Granger, '77, Randolph; S. M. Roberts, '63, Nantucket; A. B. Selian, '93, Boston; H. C. Beebe, '11, Boston; J. F. Quest, '06, Boston; Frank Stinson, '80, Malden; Edward W. Powers, '08, Cambridge; C. Parker Holt, '01, Cambridge; F. F. Kendall, '07, Cambridge; George H. Randall, '91, Boston; Irving L. Rich, '02, Boston; John C. Orcutt, '10, Boston; James D. Brennan, '03, Boston; S. S. Dennis Jr., '01, Boston; A. E. Lewis, '97, Boston; G. P. Auld, '02, Boston; C. R. Wilder, '03, Boston; C. A. Riley, '03, Allston; N. F. Rivières, '10, Boston; E. H. Lawton, '09, Boston, and Charles A. Keegan, Arlington.

WORDS OF PRAISE FOR CAPTAIN REEVES

Porto Ricans Appreciative

A recent editorial of "El Dia" which is generally considered to be the best newspaper in Porto Rico contains a long editorial of half a page concerning Captain I. L. Reeves' favorable comment on that country. The editor refers to some remarks made by Captain Reeves before the class in military science at the University a short time ago.

The article calls attention to the fact that the question of self-government is being considered not only by Porto Ricans themselves, but also by such important institutions as the University of Vermont, and by men of good judgment who speak from a clear knowledge of conditions. "His opinion carries weight" says the editor, "not because it is the opinion of the ordinary American citizen, but because it is the judgment of an officer in the American army who has spent some time in Porto Rico."

Miss Sara Holbrook of New Haven, Conn., will speak at Grassmount tonight at the November social evening.

SATURDAY, NOV. 29, 1913.

The bulletin boards are a little problem which should not prove so hard to solve, and we suggest that the student council take up the proposition. At times they appear in a state of hopeless chaos. Important announcements are crowded out by notices of lost books, drill suits for sale and rooms to rent. The official bulletin board does not discriminate between fresh notices and those many months old. The present system requires a keen observer to get much intelligence from the bulletins. The CYNIC recommends that rules be passed limiting the size of various notices, and the length of time which they may be posted. Anything of an official nature, whether passed by the student council or the faculty senate, any notice which records the action of any meeting should be preserved in some place where it can be referred to in case of any question. The bulletin boards should not become files for old notices, but the registrar's office could easily furnish a box or drawer where valuable notices could be preserved. The size of student notices could vary. Class meeting announcements can be contained on an 8x10 sheet. Other organizations can make their announcements on sheets of smaller specifications. A few sensible rules, properly enforced, could effect a great change. The faculty-student council would win some unalloyed praise and thanks, and the bulletin boards would at last serve their original purpose, i. e., to tell what is going on.

A college banquet and a college vaudeville are two big projects of the right sort. The first will be an enjoyable occasion which will call forth much college spirit,—spirit which has not had many opportunities for emphatic expression this year. The old engineering banquets were exceedingly worth while. They were, however, designed for one branch of the university, and men of the other departments did not appreciate them. The banquet of last year honoring Collins, Gardner and Gutterson was a pleasant affair, although many were there who were not college men. The coming football banquet as an all-university event, will be one of the features of the year. For the seniors it will be one of the high places of their college course, for there has been nothing just like it in the past. Although new and original, it is likely to fill a real need. It is especially fitting that a big college gathering of this kind should be called to celebrate a football season which was very disappointing. Victories receive celebration enough, but a string of defeats demands a little analysis, some potential suggestions, and an enthusiastic stand for policies which will bring real success next time. We trust that the real "come-back" spirit will be shown at the coming banquet.

The college vaudeville will furnish an opening for push and originality. It will be a worthy event in itself, and the athletic committee will be greatly aided by the proceeds. It will bring out some new talent. The public will be given entertainment of the real college variety, such as has been furnished only by the kake walk and by the peerades of yore. The idea of a college vaudeville has been considered every year, but has seldom been pushed through. A successful vaudeville is a pleasant thing to look forward to. Like "Coney Island" and every other successful display of originality in our college life, it will be an enjoyable event to look back upon.

When the smoker voted to stand behind the three college publications by voting an additional tax upon each man, an immense step in advance was taken. Such a plan was thought of long ago, but has never been adopted because it was not considered the ideal policy. The best way, of course, in both athletic and literary activities, would be to have voluntary contributions from every man, which would be adequate to meet the expenses. This has not been found practical, however, and a compulsory tax will solve the problem. The CYNIC, Crabbe, and Ariel have all been suffering on their financial sides, for various reasons. The managers have had thankless and seemingly impossible tasks. All three of these publications have been actually on the rocks because student support was so hard to secure and the securing of it required so much of the manager's time. The papers could hardly maintain an up-to-date or flourishing aspect when they were so weak financially. Now the manager can devote his time to the advertising problems and to the gaining of alumni subscriptions, which are lamentably few, and the whole board can be rid of that cramped and discouraged feeling. The way is now found in which the Ariel can be supported by the whole college without burdening one class. This measure is bound to put new life into the literary side of the college, and to give the publications an added sense of responsibility in feeling that they are in reality "published by the students of the University of Vermont".

Panoramic Pictures Taken

On Wednesday, November 12, representatives of the Thompson Photo Company visited the college and took several panoramic views. These include two of the entire student body and the faculty on the front campus, a very fine picture of the campus itself, a bird's-eye view of the city, taken from the "old mill" tower, and the freshman class, taken in front of the gymnasium. Since then, orders have been taken for the pictures, which sell at one dollar each, or two dollars and fifty cents for a set of three. A large number of the student body have taken advantage of this opportunity.

MUCH ENTHUSIASM SHOWN AT SMOKER

The purpose of the meeting was to bring the financial conditions of the college papers before the fellows, and to stir up a little more "pep" along this line as well as athletics.

Adrian St. John, '14, stated, upon opening the meeting, that the lack of spirit which has been shown lately can not be laid up against any one of the four classes, but that it was strictly "up to us" as individuals to show more "pep" and support athletics and the college publications.

J. W. Bartlett, '14, manager of football, spoke on the advisability of having a graduate manager who could give all his time to the work, and who could get in touch with the alumni to secure financial aid.

M. L. Kelley, '17, president of the freshman class, made a plea to the 1917 men to turn out for more college activities this winter, such as basket ball and the Glee Club.

In speaking of the CYNIC, K. A. Emerson, '14, said that every freshman should consider it his duty to subscribe for the college papers, just as much as the athletic fee or any other item on the term bills. D. W. Howe stated that the money does not come in fast enough to meet expenses. "The freshmen" he said, "do not realize their responsibility in this matter."

R. M. Olzendam, '15, next outlined the plan which, if carried through, will place the CYNIC, Ye Crabbe and the Ariel on a sound basis. The idea is to have the student body draw up a petition asking to have five dollars added to the term bills, said amount to be proportioned as follows: the CYNIC, two dollars; the Ariel two dollars; Ye Crabbe, one dollar. The cordial response to this appeal was shown in the fact that over two hundred men signed the petition before the close of the smoker. Although pecuniary circumstances may prevent a few from endorsing this extra item, the majority would hardly have hesitated to come to Vermont, had the general expenses been listed as $288.50 instead of $283.50, the present minimum expense. Unless this plan is carried through, the Ariel must return to supervision of the juniors, and the CYNIC and Ye Crabbe may have to be discontinued altogether.

President Benton who was unable to be present, sent word through his secretary, R. D. Sawyer, that he believes the subscriptions to these papers should be voluntary, but that he favors the proposition as a temporary expedient.

I. D. Everitt, '15, spoke a few words on behalf of Ye Crabbe which he termed, "the offspring of the CYNIC and Ariel".

President of the Debating Society, H. A. Bailey, '15, urged the cooperation of every fellow in the weekly meetings. Debates are now pending with Middlebury and Norwich, and the winter's schedule promises a bright outlook.

C. S. Ferrin, '15, said that permission had been granted by the faculty-student council to hold a college vaudeville sometime before Christmas.

H. A. Mayforth, '15, spoke in regard to the football banquet which will be held at the Van Ness December 1st. In contrast to former years, this banquet is open to the University at large, and everyone is urged to be present.

A short freshman entertainment was given. The band furnished music during the evening, and added much to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Henry Adams Curtis, ex-1863

Entered college from St. Albans in 1859. He was born in St. Albans, 26 January, 1841, son of Jasper and Melvina (Conroy) Curtis; was fitted for college at the village high school, then taught by William Richmond, U. V. M. 1858. He was a descendant of William Curtis, who came to Roxbury, Mass., in 1628; a descendant also of Miles Standish, whose granddaughter married a Curtis. Mr. Curtis served in the 1st Vermont Cavalry 1862-65, was a corporal in '62 and regimental quarter-master sergeant in April '65; became a clerk and auditor in the war department, and latter in the treasury department. His home was in Takoma Park, D. C. He died at a hospital in Washington 11 November, 1913, after a surgical operation performed on the 7th.

He resigned his government position several years ago, and had been travelling abroad with his wife from December, 1912 to October 12. He was twice married: his second wife, married 1 July, 1895, was Mrs. Fanny (Clapp) Fassett of St. Albans, who, with one sister, survives him. He was a member of the Episcopal church.

Raymond L. Grismer, '16, and W. C. Gilbert of Dartmouth passed the qualifying examinations last month, and so will be eligible for appointment until they become 25 years old. The other eligible men are: J. Randall Norton, '13, Robert W. Daniels, '15, and F. H. Touseley, John E. C. Voss, and Evans T. Kidder of Middlebury. Messrs. Norton and Kidder did not appear before the committee.

The committee on selection consists of Pres. G. P. Benton, chairman, Rt. Rev. A. C. A. Hall, Hon. J. A. DeBoer, and Presidents J. M. Thomas and C. H. Spooner.

Y. M. C. A. Conference Next Week

The State Y. M. C. A. will hold a student conference at the University on December 6 and 7.

On Saturday, December 6, a supper will be given at Commons Hall. Prof. H. F. Perkins will be toastmaster.

The Sunday program will include a service at the Y. M. C. A. room at 9:30, sectional conferences at 3, a student mass meeting at 4:30 and a closing meeting at 7:30 p. m.

Travel Club

The Travel Club of the University held its monthly meeting at Grassmount, Saturday, Nov. 22. At the meeting the three sections came together as one, and listened with much pleasure to a talk on Ancient, Medieval and Modern Rome by Prof. Emerson. Prof. Emerson spoke from the viewpoint of a spectator, and illustrated his talk with some fine views of Rome.

The Pan Hellenic Reception

The Pan-Hellenic reception was held Saturday evening at Grassmount and was well attended by both students and alumnae. In the receiving line were Miss Terrill, Miss Watson, Miss McLaughlin and Miss Rogers. Miss Spofford and Miss Durfee were in charge of the dining room. Music was furnished during the evening by Miss Moore, '14, Miss Levitus, '17, and Miss Shepardson, '14.

On Friday afternoon Miss Terrill held a tea at Grassmount in honor of Miss Klink, the welfare worker, who has been spending several days in the city. Here the girl students and the ladies of the faculty were given an opportunity to meet, and talk with her. Miss Terrill and Miss Klink received, and refreshments were served by Miss McLaughlin, '14, and Miss Coulman, '14, Miss Watson, '14, and Miss Rogers, '14, assisted by Miss Miller, Miss Byington, Miss O'Sullivan, Miss France, Miss Stuart, Miss Helen Dewey, Miss Maxfield, Miss Coulman and Miss Sherburn.

COMMONS CLUB

The Commons Club held a business meeting and social hour Thursday night. Various committees were elected, among them were: a kake walk "stunt committee," Davis, '15, chairman; a committee to promote the scholastic standing of the members, Bodine, '14, chairman; a committee to arrange Commons Club booths at college dances, etc., Lovell '14 chairman; a "pin, seal and motto committee, Levy, '16, chairman. The club elected as the freshman member of their "board of seven", William A. Tennien of Pittsford.

The Commons Club freshmen later held a caucus and voted to support an indoor baseball team. Shippy '17, was elected manager. The freshmen elected Le Barron Joyce, and Bristol as their representatives on the class nominating board.

Every freshman was pledged by the Student Activity Committee to go out for some college activity, either for some branch of athletics, the college plays, the musical clubs, prize speaking, debating teams, Ye Crabbe or the CYNIC.

The Commons Club basketball team is to take on a heavy schedule this winter and will play some of the best teams in the State.

A COLLEGE DIRECTORY

Secretary Lawrence W. Swan will soon publish a directory containing all the students and faculty. The list of names will be alphabetical without regard to classes; correct addresses and telephone numbers will be given. It will fold up into a handy booklet form which will be convenient to carry. The need for a directory of this kind has long been felt.

MILITARY NOTES

Battalion Parade, Lectures, etc.

The military battalion was presented with a flag by the Loyal Legion on Friday, November 21st. The battalion paraded and passed in review before Cadet Major St. John and was watched by people of Burlington, including several veterans and military men of distinction. After dress parade the battalion marched to the flagstaff on the front campus and stood at attention while a detachment from Co. D, Captain Gates, raised the flag.

Captain Reeves was at Montpelier on Saturday night, Nov. 22nd, where he assisted Capt. Mygatt, U. S. Army, in his duties as instructor of the officers of the Vermont National Guard.

Captain L. J. Mygatt lectured to the sophomore class in military science on the "Initial Training of a Volunteer Regiment." In his lecture he emphasized the vital necessity of well trained officers and gave the fundamental characteristics which distinguish a successful leader—self reliance, initiative aggressiveness and a conception of team work. The subject of marching was treated at length and numerous practical points of value to the inexperienced campaigner were brought out. And to sum up, he said, the ability to march determines to a great extent the worth of a volunteer regiment.

Phi Delta Theta Dance

The Phi Delta Theta Fraternity held a dance and banquet at the Hotel Vermont Friday, Nov. 21. The chaperons were President Guy Potter Benton, national head of the fraternity, and Mrs. Benton and Dr. George M. Sabin and Mrs. Sabin. Barton's orchestra furnished music for the dancing which was taken part in until eleven o'clock when the banquet began. About forty couples were in attendance.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The Y. W. C. A. meeting held on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 23, was addressed by President Benton. His talk was very practical and inspiring and was listened to by a good number of girls.

The meeting for Nov. 28 will be omitted because many of the girls will be away.

Coffee and doughnuts sales have been held several times in the Y. W. C. A. room, the proceeds going to the Kansas City fund. This week they will be omitted on account of the holidays but will be resumed next week. Miss Nutting, '15, and Miss Shepardson, '14, are conducting these sales.

The Y. W. C. A. wishes to announce that anyone who cares for home made candy of any kind will be supplied gladly. Orders will be taken by Ruth Durfee, '14, telephone 168, Bernicia Avery, '15, telephone 775, and Helen Rutter, '16, telephone 1138-W.

STUDENT MORTALITY

Result of Cynic Investigation

Last year the faculty published statistics to the effect that only 40 per cent. of those entering Vermont remain long enough to graduate, the report stating natural incapacity, too much "college life" and poverty, as the important factors in class shrinkage. Following this report the CYNIC investigated the causes of student mortality and finds the important factors to be poor health, poverty, good business opportunities and dullness.

By student mortality is meant the large percentage of students who drop out of college before graduation, not the large number who daily succumb to mumps, measles, overstudy, and St. Vitus' dance. The faculty committee, while quoting no figures, reported in detail the following causes as important in class shrinkage: mental ineptitude, extra-curriculum college activities, inferior preparation, poverty and prolonged "horsing" of freshmen; in the case of women, poverty and ill health.

Following the report of the faculty committee, the CYNIC started a supplementary investigation "on its own hook". Letters containing the following questions were sent to every ex-member of 1912-1913, to ascertain any general reason for this loss between entering and graduation:—

1. While in prep school did you expect to go to college?
2. When entering did you intend to stay four years?
3. At what period of your college course did you drop out?
4. Did you leave because of finances?
5. Did you leave because of poor health?
6. Did you leave because of immediate business opening?
7. Did you leave because of failure in studies? If so, do you lay your failure to (a) a poor choice of course, (b) too many college activities, or (c) any other reason?
8. If neither questions 4, 5, 6, or 7 cover the general reasons in your case, to what do you assign your departure?

Owing to inaccuracy in the addresses and other reasons, answers were not received from all the men. The various reasons classified according to percentage are as follows: failure in studies, 32 per cent. poor health, 32 per cent. finances, 16 per cent. good business openings, 15 per cent. bad choice of fraternity associates, 5.

Of the 32 per cent. who attributed their leaving college to "failure in studies" 8 per cent. gave as a reason for this, poor preparation; 8 per cent. assigned the reason as poor choice of course; 4 per cent. gave the reason as outside activities; and the remaining 12 per cent. gave no explanation for failure in studies. Hence this last 12 per. cent may be assigned to the classification of mental ineptitude, given in the faculty report, although perhaps this is taking too much for granted.

Following is a list of results from the faculty and CYNIC investigations for purposes of comparison, giving the faculty list in order of importance:

FACULTY	CYNIC
1. Dullness	12 per cent.
2. Extra curriculum college activities
3. Interior preparation	8 per cent.
4. Poverty	16 per cent.
5. "Horsing" of freshmen by sophomores
	32 per cent. Poor health
	15 per cent. Good business openings
	5 per cent. Bad choice of fraternity associates
	4 per cent. Extra college activities
	8 per cent. Poor choice of course

Among these replies is one in which the writer claims that Vermont is not doing the best for her students in that she has not adopted the honor system. He further intimates that his own dismission would never have occurred, had this system been in vogue.

The following facts are noticeable in the CYNIC results: (1) Not one reply was received in which the student attributed his failure to graduate to overburdensome college activities. (2) Many hints, as in the above mentioned letter, come from the men who are most concerned about the effect of present institutions and practices. (3) Poor health, a reason not emphasized by the faculty report, is the most weighty reason given in the CYNIC report. (4) Only 5 per cent. is due to fraternities, and that is due rather to bad judgment on the part of the student than to any fault of the fraternities. (5) As much importance is ascribed to a poor choice of course as to inferior preparation.

In spite of the fact that not enough ground has been covered by the investigation of the CYNIC to render it authoritative and the basis for a generalization, nevertheless the figures have some significance and afford material for thought.

Football Elections

C. S. Ferrin and W. A. Sturgis are candidates for the football managership in the election on Monday. The slate for assistant manager has not been decided, since several of the candidates have conditions.

The Thanksgiving recess began on Wednesday noon, Nov. 26, and lasted until Friday noon, Nov. 28.

Cosmopolitan Club Elects

The first regular meeting of the Cosmopolitan Club was held last Saturday night.

Nine countries were represented, viz.: China, United States, France, Germany, Italy, Denmark, Sweden, Portugal and Porto Rico. The following officers of the club were elected: President, Hinting Wong of Canton, China; vice-president, Frank Cintron of Porto Rico; secretary, Henry Way of Burlington; treasurer, Otto Johnson of Proctor. Any person in the State of Vermont who is interested in this cosmopolitan movement may join the club. The next meeting of the club will be held some time during the first week of December.

LOCALS

The Home Economics Club has decided to observe Dec. 4 as home economics day.

The new library in the Medical College will be opened and ready for use in a few days.

The Boulder Society were President Benton's guests at a dinner at the Ethan Allen Club on Wednesday night, Nov. 19.

About 25 couples were present at an informal dance at the Sigma Phi house on Wednesday night. Among the party were a number of students who were unable to go home for Thanksgiving. The dance was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Stearns and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Woodbury. Barton's orchestra furnished music.

COLLEGE HONORS FOOTBALL TEAM

Big Crowd, Good Speeches, Fine Spirit--Flynn Captain--Sturgis Manager

The college banquet held at the Van Ness House last Monday night in honor of the 1913 football team was largely attended by the students. There were many inspiring speeches and a splendid display of college spirit was shown by all those present.

President Benton acted as toastmaster. He opened by saying in substance that college spirit is the result of college atmosphere which in turn is the result of a college consciousness. Gatherings of this sort he said unify the University. He referred to the lack of victories which the team had won this year, but said that, while he was president football would not be given up at the University when we were losing. "We must not be quitters!" He advocated the game for the manly qualities which it develops.

A GRADUATE MANAGER

Capt. William E. Whalen was the first speaker of the evening, and made two very good suggestions for a better football system for next year. He advocated a resident coach who, under contract of two or three years, would have an interest at the close of the season. A graduate manager, he said, is also needed to talk to alumni and to prep school men and interest them in the university.

Manager John Bartlett spoke of the financial problems that confront a manager. He suggested that games in large neutral towns would be a great financial help, such as playing Maine or Bowdoin in one of the large New Hampshire towns, or meeting Williams or Amherst in Pittsfield, Mass., under the instruction of the Pittsfield board of trade. More prep school teams he thought should come to Vermont and play the second team.

A "THOUSAND CLUB"

Adrian St. John, president of the senior class, paid a high tribute to Coach Jere O'Brien. He told how the lack of material had made impossible a strong team. "The team

NO COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Petition Turned Down by Committee--Rink Rumored

The athletic committee rejected the proposal of inter-collegiate basketball which was embodied in a petition recently signed by a number of students. The petitioners planned to have it re-instated without expense to the athletic treasury. The athletic committee were of the opinion that it would be an additional burden upon students to support another team, even if the athletic treasury was not directly affected. In addition, a new inter-collegiate sport could not be started here without a favorable action of the trustees, acting on the athletic committee's recommendation. Inter-class basketball, however, will be encouraged as far as possible. The basketball floor in the gym will be enlarged to regulation size.

The city authorities are reported to be starting preparations for a large rink on Centennial Field.

ST. PAUL'S CLUB

"College Fellowship" Discussed--Inter-fraternity Council Favored

The St. Paul's Club held another successful meeting at the Sigma Nu house Tuesday evening, December 2. The subject under discussion was, "College Fellowship". Seth Johnson read an excellent and carefully prepared paper, in which he put up a strong plea for the subordination of fraternity to university interests. The discussion was continued on similar lines by Professor Hawes, Professor Appelman, who gave an interesting account of the relations between secret societies and the university authorities in Germany, R. D. Sawyer and other members of the club. The Rev. C. C. Wilson spoke strongly on the subject of a larger and better Commons Hall, as a rallying point of the students, drawing illustrations and conclusions from life at the big English universities.

The club voted to respectfully call the attention of the Boulder Society to the manifold advantage of an inter-fraternity council.

The next meeting will be held at Sigma Phi Place, January 12 to discuss "Amusements and Recreations

SUMMER SCHOOL PLANS FOR 1914

Entertainments--Excursions--Auditorium

The summer school of next year will be enlarged to correspond with the general progress about the University. The military camp will bring a large number of students to the campus and no doubt many of them will want to take advantage of the opportunity to make a credit or two during the summer. One of the advantages of Burlington which was appreciated by the war department was the summer school. The drill exercises will occupy but four hours a day and the program of the summer school will be so arranged that those courses which are most likely to be wanted by college students will come at a time when there is no drill. The special courses for teachers and those not likely to be wanted by college students will be given when the military drills are on.

VAUDEVILLE UNDER WAY

Baseball Benefit Will Have Many Features

The college vaudeville which the athletic committee will give in the Majestic on Dec. 18 promises to have many features. Stunts will be put on by the college quartet and Instrumental Club, the band will play between the acts. The musical side of the program will be strong and varied. Several sketches are being worked up, one by Carr, '15. "Slippery Steve" will produce some new ones. The bill will have several other original numbers which thus far have been kept dark by the committee in charge.

WHAT ARE WE COMING TO?

Anonymous Writer Opposed To Ball and College Spirit--A Lost Cause

Upon reading in Free Press headlines that last Monday was devoted to football interests at the University, a "prominent citizen" of ---ville hastened to clip the report of the football banquet. With it he sent the following letter unsigned and without heading to the Free Press.

What are we coming to or what have we come to already at the present rate it will be but a short time before there will be no Book learning nothing but Ball Ball Ball it is no wonder that the graduating can't pass half of an examination a Boy can't play a good game of Ball unless his mind is on it during the week but I suppose there is no use saying anything about the argument is let the Boy play Ball what do we care we have got the old Fathers Money and that is just all they care about to bad to bad

N. Y. Alumni Hold Smoker

A smoker was held by the New York alumni, Dec. 3, at the Chemists' Club in New York City. Professor Tupper of the University and Commissioner Chadwick of the New York board of water supply spoke. Numerous other speakers followed and Vermont songs were sung. The committee in charge were H. B. Oatley, '00, W. C. Flanders, '90, and Dana F. Woodman, '06. A full account of the smoker will be published soon.

of Students." Another college service will be held at St. Paul's Sunday evening, January 18, and it is hoped that there will be an even larger attendance than at the first very successful service a few weeks ago.

SUMMER SCHOOL

The faculty for the summer session has not yet been made up but announcements will be made soon, giving courses and instructors. A number of prominent lecturers have already been secured and others will be secured before announcements are made. There will also be a number of theatrical and musical entertainments of a high class. Among these will be the Coburn Players who gave an outdoor performance last summer which was greatly appreciated by those who saw it.

The large number of people who will be here and the frequent entertainments will make it necessary to have a summer auditorium which will accommodate between two and three thousand people. This is one of the problems that is now occupying the attention of the summer school management.

Excursions on the lake and to the mountains have formed in previous years an important part of the summer session and this feature will be developed more than ever before.

In previous years the parlors of Grassmount have been adequate for social purposes but we have outgrown them and the gymnasium will be used next summer. The cool climate of a Vermont summer will make dancing and other social amusements pleasurable and the large gymnasium will serve the purpose well. In fact, the University equipment will be complete if a satisfactory auditorium can be secured.

ASSISTANT MANAGERS

E. R. Holmes--H. A. Mack

E. R. Holmes and H. A. Mack have been elected assistant managers of football. At the banquet Monday evening a special plea was issued for more candidates to come out for the different managerships. It is up to the sophomores.

Home Economics Day

Home Economics Day, December 3, was opened by the Home Economics Department of the University with appropriate exercises held at Morrill Hall Wednesday afternoon from four to six. All the women interested in Home Economics were invited to attend; about one hundred and fifty were present.

A literary program was carried out as follows: The First Home Economist, Miss Luce, '16; Count Rumford, Miss Douglass, '15; A Pioneer in Home Economics, Miss Nichols, '16; Mrs. Ellen H. Richards, Miss Terrill; The Home Economics Movement, Miss Pierpont, '17; National Movements for Home Betterment, Miss Cobb, '17. After the exercises the laboratories were thrown open for inspection. Refreshments were served in the laboratory by the girls of the Home Economics Department. Miss Douglas, '15, and Miss Swift, '16, poured.

German Club

Deutscher Verien held a business meeting Monday evening at which it was decided to enter into negotiations with the national society of German clubs. At the next meeting, Wednesday night, a play will be presented entitled, "Der Knopf." On the entertainment program are also violin solos, piano solos, readings, refreshments, et cetera.

Hon. H. W. Hill on Waterways

Hon. Henry W. Hill, '76, the president of the New York State Waterways Association, was a speaker at the National Rivers and Harbors Congress in Washington, Wednesday, Dec. 3. His subject was "The Great Lakes and Connecting Waterways."

Musical Clubs

Musical Director Karl F. Robinson reports that the string instrumental clubs are progressing with promising rapidity. During the past week about fifteen men have attended rehearsals held every night. This division will be a part of the University of Vermont Mandolin and Glee Clubs under the name of the Mandolin Symphony Club. Mr. Robinson urges all men with any or no talent to present themselves for inspection so this important feature of the Glee Club may make a good showing at the home concert.

Delta Mu Dance

Delta Mu fraternity gave a dance at the fraternity rooms last Tuesday evening. Dr. and Mrs. Stone, and Dr. and Mrs. Beecher acted as chaperons. Robinson's orchestra furnished the music. About twenty-five couples were present.

U. K. M. A.'s First Dance

Last Wednesday night occurred the first dance given by the U. K. M. A. society. The affair, which took place at the gymnasium, was very successful. Robinson's singing orchestra, consisting of five pieces, furnished the music. The dance was well attended, about 25 couples being present. Prof. and Mrs. H. Blackburn acted in the capacity of patrons.

N. Y. Alumni Start

Active Publicity Work

Action in regard to publicity work for the University is being taken by the N. Y. alumni which could well be taken up by other alumni organizations. A committee consisting of A. B. Gilbert, F. F. Lincoln and Paul Gulick has been appointed to supply the papers with any items of interest both in regard to the alumni and the University. Paul Gulick, 1270 Broadway, New York City, is taking care of the active work of the committee. If this movement is successful, it should result in great good to the University.

November Crabbe Appears

The November issue of Ye Crabbe, dedicated to football, is now on sale. It contains some clever cuts and poems, and an assorted line of humor. "Methods of Capturing the Skunk," a continued story, is here concluded. A "colored insert" of Paul Chabas' famous picture is one of the important features. The cover is attractive.

A UNIVERSITY DIRECTORY

Handy Little Roster Published

A complete and accurate college directory has been published by Laurence W. Swan, secretary of the University, and chairman of the committee on University Press. Copies may be obtained at his office. It is in a convenient folder form, and contains the trustees, faculties, officers, employees, and students of the University. The faculty list gives the college, department and rank, local address, official and personal phone, and the class room and building of each man. The student list contains the college, class, home address, and city address and phone of each student. The list and location of the fraternity houses are also given. With the increasing number of students and faculty and with the strong tendency for students to live remote from the campus, the need for such a directory has been much felt. It will soon prove indispensable. The booklet is published as number 2 of Vol. XI of the University bulletin.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

There was no Y. W. C. A. meeting yesterday. The next meeting, which will be a freshman meeting, will be held tomorrow at Grassmount at four o'clock. The subject has not yet been announced.

Any girls who wish may take the association exams to be held Dec. 11. Topics for study have been posted in the rooms.

met big teams and suffered defeats, yet it is gratifying to see the whole University supporting them so strongly," he said. He brought forward a plan suggested by Captain Reeves of a "Thousand Club" at the University. The students with some good system and plans, should organize with the aim of bringing 1,000 students to the University.

President Benton in reply quoted Dean Votey as saying that Vermont is the only New England university which did not show a falling off in this year's entering class. A thousand students is an excellent goal, and the idea of it will no longer cause a gasp of surprise.

A VAUDEVILLE FOR ATHLETICS

Dr. Beecher, chairman of the athletic council, congratulated the spirit of the team. He endorsed the suggestions made in previous speeches being greatly in favor of a graduate manager in athletics. He told of the financial stringency in athletics this year. In a survey of the baseball season he said a small number of home games was the inevitable outcome unless money was raised. A college vaudeville for the benefit of athletics will be put on at the Majestic Theatre on the night of Dec. 18th. The baseball team and the Burlington public who appreciate home games will be very dependent upon the outcome of this vaudeville which must be successful.

Dean G. H. Perkins "the oldest man in the University's service but the youngest on the campus" defined college spirit. "It means," he said, "that we carry an ideal in our mind to which we give such unselfish devotion that we allow all our personal and minor interests to sink into the larger college interests." He illustrated magnificently his speech with a picture of the most beautiful sight in Burlington—snowy Mount Mansfield at sunset. The mountain is a mass of cold rock, forbidding; the snow is cold and repelling. The sunlight comes and warms it, and thrills those who look upon it. The college is not the campus, buildings, athletics, social life. It is all. It is the men who are here and those who are graduated. The college spirit bathes all in its glowing light.

Dr. Stone, physical director, told of Coach O'Brien's devoted service, speaking of how well the men had taken their defeats and how gamely they had stood up under severe punishment.

EXCELLENT BASEBALL PROSPECTS

Stanley Berry, captain of baseball, covered many points relating to the coming season. The outlook for baseball was never better. There are men to take and fill the places of those who graduated. He said: "We have enough college spirit but must concentrate it, direct it in the right way. We must have more men out for the assistant managerships. The team needs more persistent candidates." Commons Hall, he declared, needed a more devoted patronage from the students.

J. Howard Moore, manager of baseball, thanked the Key and Serpent society who arranged the banquet. He gave a detailed plan for the coming schedule which included a southern trip. He appealed to the students by their support of the vaudeville and other projects to help remove the financial limitations which now loomed so big in the way of a good home schedule and a southern trip.

Captain Reeves, head of the military department, said that he saw an enormous awakening among the students. There is evident an undertone of good feeling and push. In two years it is possible to have 1,000 students and, counting the coming summer school, it is probable that we will have 1,000 this year. "Vermont has the reputation of not being demonstrative but Vermonters think and act. Let's take the advantage of the era of good feeling and push everything forward."

The football team then elected as next year's captain Edward A. Flynn, medic, '15, of Buffalo, N. Y. He spoke briefly for next year's team and pledged his best efforts.

Manager-elect of football, Wesley A. Sturgis, '15, asked for the enthusiastic support of the student body expressing a hope for more and better material for next fall's squad.

President Benton observed that the Vermont men were splendid losers, in sports and in college elections. His mention of the names of E. A. Currier and C. S. Ferrin in this connection brought forth great applause.

Songs were sung between the courses of the banquet and much college spirit was in evidence. Each speaker was cheered heartily. I. D. Everitt, '15, and R. M. Olzendam, '15, led the cheering.

'89 ACTIVE IN PLANS FOR 25 ANNIVERSARY

The class of 1889 is making vigorous efforts to bring out the entire class for its twenty-fifth anniversary next commencement. The matter is in charge of A. B. Gilbert, '89, of the Engineering Record and he is making strenuous efforts to have all present. A letter just received from Sho Nemoto of Tokio, Japan brings the pleasant news that he is planning to be present. Nemoto has been in Parliament for sixteen years and has made good in every way.

Commons Club Meeting

The Commons Club met in the club rooms last Saturday night. Several members spoke on college spirit and urged the members to attend the football banquet. Several Vermont songs and yells were tried. Then a social hour was enjoyed.

Cosmopolitan Club

The executive committee of the Cosmopolitan Club met last Friday evening with Professor Appleman to set a date and outline the work for the next meeting. The date decided upon was Tuesday, December 9.

Howard Hall Club Initiates

The annual initiation of the Howard Hall Club was held at Howard Hall, Wednesday evening, Dec. 3. The initiates were the Misses Marion Walker, Marion McFarland, Frances Tenney, Jennie Maxfield, Helen Chapin, all of the freshman class. Refreshments were served.

Y. W. C. A. Notes

The Y. W. C. A. conducted a coffee and doughnut sale in the Y. W. rooms last Tuesday morning which netted the association $2.50. All money now being raised by the two associations will be used to defray the Kansas City expenses.

SATURDAY, DEC. 6, 1913

Intercollegiate debating is about to be resumed after a lapse of several years. This means much hard work and planning on the part of the debating enthusiasts. Debating has been slowly introduced and carefully built up. This year all who realize the benefits to be derived have been invited to join. Debating is not so thrilling now as in former days. It is not so much the display of wit and oratory that wins nowadays, as the exhaustive investigation and familiarity with authorities. While not so spectacular to the audience debates of the present are profitable for the debater because of the careful preparation which is involved. The try-outs for the team next Monday should bring out a number of contestants for the positions.

The football banquet was a marked success. It furnished food for thought and springs for action. It promoted an era of good feeling and a wholesome discussion of some of our college problems. It would seem as if its effect must be lasting and must be seen in some tangible results. The Key and Serpent Society have set a precedent which ought to be followed in years to come. From President Benton's opening address, all through the speeches full of level-headed suggestions, in Dean Perkins eloquent address and up to the last cheer, the keynote was that of concentrated and effective college spirit. There are two suggestions of the speakers which need to be talked up until they are adopted, and one announcement which should immediately concern every student. The two suggestions are those for a graduate manager of athletics and for a "Thousand Club." The announcement was that of the financial situation of the baseball team and the need of a successful vaudeville to meet the expenses of the home games.

The subject of a graduate manager for athletics has been thought of before, but it has never been talked up so convincingly or enthusiastically as now. It means placing the largest responsibilities in athletic management in the hands of an expert, which is unquestionably the right policy. It is expected that a graduate manager could interest students to come to Vermont, could secure good alumni cooperation, could apply foresight and system to the athletic situation, could introduce consistent policies, and could be responsible for seeing that such policies were carried out. It is an attractive proposition, viewed from every standpoint. We hope that the authorities will see fit to take it up at once.

The Thousand Club which was proposed is an excellent idea. To secure a proper growth we must have organized effort. The Bring One Association was the first step in this direction. It served its purpose well. There is, however, room for more organization and more energy in the cause of getting more men to the University. It may be pointed out that as firm believers in the small college idea we are doing our best to become a large college. Hon. Robert Roberts, '69, has been heard to remark jocosely on this prevailing tendency of small colleges. For years we have been a small college in a small and conservative state. If our highest aim is to become a typical state university, we will sooner or later be forced to grow beyond our traditional size. If we live by our motto of "Studiis Et Rebus Honestis" and if we cling to our other traditions and keep the same type of men, who will be so reactionary as not to welcome and strive for a college of a thousand?

As a result of the banquet the financial limitations of the coming baseball season should be familiar to every student. Instead of distributing the burden of a large athletic deficit over two or three years, the trustees have seen fit to make this year's athletics meet the entire deficit, and so will take over every cent of gate receipts this year. This makes every home game a dead loss to the athletic treasury. It is a policy which is not calculated to secure a respectable number of home games. That the athletic authorities are not mildly submitting to this trying state of affairs is seen in the plans for a vaudeville on Dec. 18. This must prove successful, that the baseball team may be given a chance to be successful in their season.

It has occurred to the editors of the CYNIC that a very good method of advertising the University would be through the medium of a weekly bulletin such as is issued by Yale, and may be seen at any time in the library. Such a bulletin could be produced at comparatively little cost, and would prove more effective than some of the methods now employed because it would reach the notice of more people. Hung weekly in libraries and other public buildings about the state, forwarded to preparatory schools and colleges, it could not but attract considerable attention, the more because of little competition, for the plan does not seem to be pushed by many institutions. Handbooks have their place, but are not as conspicuous, and are not repeatedly before one's attention as a weekly bulletin would be. The bulletin would contain a complete schedule forecast of the week, including time and place, of all student activities. When a person wished to find out what was going on a certain night at the University of Vermont, or what game was going to be played on Saturday he would simply drop into his town library and glance at the bulletin. Moreover, it would create more order and work in the various clubs and organizations. Meetings in order to be included would necessarily be thought out further ahead, a more systematic arrangement would tend to be the result and the creation of a greater interest. The faculty would know what the students were doing, and the students would know what the faculty were doing, for meetings of both bodies would be scheduled. The writer heard of a faculty member who was criticising because he had not heard of last Monday night's banquet until the day of its occurrence. One must admit that it was not advertised sufficiently to reach the eyes of those not haunting the halls. A bulletin such as advocated would eliminate all like oversights. If the matter were taken up it would of course have to be at the hands of the University advertising management.

Social Service Lectures

At the regular Y. M. C. A. meeting Tuesday night "The Square Man" was discussed. The four corners of the subject were treated by Buchanan, Johnson, Beckwith, and Aldrich. Announcement was made of the conference of delegates from Middlebury, Norwich and Montpelier Seminary, to be held Saturday and Sunday. It was further announced that the course of lectures on "Social Service," for which a good sized class has been organized, would be held within a short time.

Annual Winter Courses

The winter short courses of the department of agriculture will be held this year from Dec. 29 to Feb. 27, inclusive. They will include a four weeks' course in creamery management, a five weeks' course in farm dairying and general agriculture, and farmers' week. Nine instructors will be regularly employed. The subjects treated will be a complete course in creamery work, dairy management and feeding, vegetable gardening and fruit growing, breeds and breeding, diseases of animals, forestry, soils and soil management, farm crops, etc. Tuition is free to Vermonters. Circulars of information may be obtained from Dean Hills.

GRASSMOUNT LECTURE

Miss Holbrook on Child Education

The women of the University and several members of the faculty met together at Grassmount Saturday evening, November 29, for the regular monthly social evening. Miss Sara Holbrook, who was the speaker of the evening, told in a very entertaining way, something of her work as visiting teacher in Henry Barnard school of Hartford, Conn. For instance, she has charge of one school district in the worst part of the slums of Hartford; which has about 1800 pupils, representatives of almost every nation in the world, Jews, Greeks, Italians, Irish, French, Germans, Poles, Swedes, Japanese, American and others. Her work is one of cooperation between home and school, and, out of the four thousand visits which she has made to the homes of the children, she claims that only twice has she been received in any but a cordial manner, on both occasions by American families who resented what they deemed interference in their private affairs.

In the school, besides the department for foreign speaking children where they may learn English, there are departments for the backward, for the defective and for the object minded children. A laboratory is conducted at the school by the professors of psychology in the university who are making a special study of the child mind. Evening clubs have been formed where the boys and girls may go for study and healthy amusement.

Miss Holbrook said in closing that some one had prophesied that that city would be the greatest, which did the most for its children and she thought that Hartford was doing a great deal and accomplishing wonderful results. A very pleasing musical program was rendered by the Misses Shepardson, '14, Lewitus, '17, and Beckwith, '14.

MILITARY NOTES

Richold Medal Contest; Choice of Sergeants; Military Ball

The first competition of the year for the Richold and Reeves medals will take place Wednesday, December 10th. The medals are rather prettier than those given last year. The design consists of a U. V. M. seal on a plain metal background, surmounted by the American eagle. The medal bears the following legend: "For Military Drill". The standing of the men in this contest will be taken into account in the choice of sergeants.

The examination for the choice of sergeants will be held Friday, December 12th. Each corporal will drill his own squad separately. The best squads in the four companies will be selected, and these will be drilled against each other to determine the best squad in college. All the men in this squad and perhaps all those in the best squads of the several companies will receive additional credits on their military work.

About thirty national guard officers will meet at the University gymnasium Dec. 13th and 14th for revolver practice on the indoor range. The University obtains this gathering on account of the superior quality of its range, and this is another piece of testimony to the value of a good physical plant.

The military ball will probably be the first college event after the holidays. At that time the commissions and the warrants for the non-commissioned officers, which have been delayed by work in connection with the student military encampment, will be presented. The military tournament will probably be held soon after mid-years.

Plans for the military encampment are progressing rapidly and its success is assured, at least in so far as the military department can assure it. This encampment means much to Vermont, and every student who can possibly do so should plan to stay in Burlington next summer, and help in creating in the minds of the visitors such a pleasant impression of Vermont that they will all want to come back next summer, and will start all their relatives in this direction. One good thing follows another. Once get a thing started there is no telling where it will stop.

Debate Try-outs

Because of the football banquet there was no meeting of the Debating Association last Monday evening. At the meeting next Monday night the intercollegiate try-outs will be held on the question: "Resolved, That the United States Should Immediately Resort to Armed Intervention in Mexico." Professors Groat Tupper and Gifford will act as judges. Six men will probably be picked.

The Commons Club freshmen met Tuesday evening and elected captains and managers for two indoor baseball teams.

Engineers Hear Mr. Harry Barker

On Friday evening November 28, Mr. Harry Barker, '04, associate editor of the Engineering Record, gave a lecture on, "The Study of Engineering Success." Mr. Barker's talk covered practically every field of engineering. The recent advances in civil, electrical, mechanical mining and sanitary engineering were cited. Mr. Barker emphasized the engineers need of a broad education while in college, laying special stress on the study of English and public speaking. He also spoke of the absolute need of keeping up engineering study after graduation. Mr. Barker advised the use of engineering journals for keeping in touch with the recent inventions and discoveries. He pointed out that the bound copies of a reliable engineering paper made a large addition to the library of anyone and especially to that of a beginner.

He mentioned the fact that a humanitarian sentiment is influencing the minds of present day engineers, leading them to regulate labor conditions, and to make greater allowances for public health and safety. His final point was that a successful engineer must of necessity have clean personal habits and a good moral character.

VERMONT MAN'S NEW PROCESS FOR STOPPING PAIN

Dr. William H. Fitzgerald, a graduate of the Medical College in the class of 1895, has recently improved a process by which the necessity of administering ether or like drugs to produce anaesthesia seems to be obviated. In the presence of 24 prominent surgeons in Hartford, Conn., Dr. Fitzgerald successfully demonstrated his process on several patients. By pressing on various nerve centers, he renders different parts of the body insensible to pain. Among others, he performed an operation on the eardrum of a patient, usually one of the most painful of operations, without causing the patient to feel the slightest pain. The advantages of this method of reflex anaesthesia are important. Producing anaesthesia by means of ether is even after the many years it has been in use, still very dangerous and many deaths which are said to result from an operation are really traceable to the method of anaesthetizing. Dr. Fitzgerald's process entirely does away with this and many other drawbacks resulting from the use of ether.

Dr. Fitzgerald is a native of the town of Middletown, Conn., and is recognized as one of the leading eye and ear specialists in the state.

ECONOMIC ESSAY PRIZES

Hart Schaffner and Marx 1913 Prizes Awarded

Prizes amounting to two thousand dollars have been awarded to winners of the Hart Schaffner & Marx essay contests for 1913. The first prize of one thousand dollars was won by Arthur E. Suffern, a graduate student of the Columbia University, for a paper entitled, "Conciliation and Arbitration in the Coal Industry in the United States."

The competition is divided into two classes, graduates and undergraduates. The second prize in the graduate contest was given to G. P. Watkins, formerly a graduate student of Cornell University, now of the Public Service Commission, New York City. He produced a paper entitled, "Welfare as an Economic Quantity," and received a prize of five hundred dollars for it.

In the contest among undergraduates, the first prize of three hundred dollars went to Jenss Waldo Myers, Cornell University, for a paper entitled "Unemployment."

The second prize for undergraduates, amounting to two hundred dollars, was given to Fred W. Eckert of Northwestern University, who wrote an essay on "Government Regulation of Public Utility Securities."

As usual after a considerable lapse of time, some of the students are becoming uneasy concerning the money raised toward the grand stand fund. We are stating on good authority that this money has been placed in the bank and is now drawing interest. Although it is expected that the alumni will soon begin to increase the amount, they are unable to move at present because of the athletic debt.

LOCALS

H. A. Gardyne, ex-'15, recently visited friends in town.

Robinson's singing orchestra played in Morrisville last week at the Thanksgiving ball.

Prof. Edward Robinson has been in Philadelphia this week.

B. M. Parmelee, '17, entertained his brother of St. Albans over Sunday.

Why Not a Park?

TO THE CYNIC EDITOR:

When seen from the "Old Mill" windows, at sunrise or sunset, the grove south of Converse hall is a thing of beauty indeed, but the nearer view proves it to be only a whited sepulchre, full of tin cans, coal ashes, and all manner of corruption. It serves no useful or ornamental purpose except that of a refuge for lurking sophomores or freshmen and of a convenient battleground for U. V. M.'s armies. It is unsightly and, worse than that, it is scarcely sanitary. A thousand dollars would go a long way toward cleaning it up, putting in walks and drives, seats, flowers, shrubbery, and all the other appliances of a really modern park. Surely, if some loyal alumnus were to give but half or three-quarters of the required sum, the project could be carried out successfully. A beautiful campus is always an asset, and especially here and now, with the student encampment in project. It seems that we can afford to have anything in reason and honor to make this encampment a permanent institution, and this is an improvement that would give much pleasure to our visitors, and incidentally, to ourselves.

COLLEGE Y. M. C. A.'S OF STATE CONFER

SEC'Y RINDGE SPEAKS

"Industrial Service" the Key-note

The third annual conference of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Vermont colleges was held at the University on Saturday and Sunday. The meetings were well attended by those interested in Y. M. C. A. work at the University. The conference opened at 6.30 Saturday evening with a supper at Commons Hall, Prof. H. F. Perkins acting as toastmaster.

SATURDAY EVENING PROGRAM

The evening program commenced at 7.15 when A. E. Schoff, '14, president of the local College Y. M. C. A., gave a brief address of welcome to the delegates and visitors, recalling the pleasant occasions of the conference last year at Middlebury, and emphasizing the value of the inspiration derived from such meetings. At the request of the chairman responses were made in

L. FRENCH, '16, WINS RICHOLD MEDAL

First Drill Down of Year

The first contest of the year in proficiency in the manual of arms in competition for the Richold and Reeves medals took place on Wednesday afternoon. The Richold medal was won by Lindol French, '16, of St. Johnsbury. The Reeves medals for second and third places went to C. C. Smith, '16, of Port Henry, N. Y., and to Douglass Clark, '16, of Burlington. The competition was witnessed by a number of spectators.

This is the second year of this contest. There will be two more competitions during the current college year, and the man who shows the greatest proficiency in two out of three drill downs will be given the Richold medal permanently, and the winners of second and third places in two out of three contests will keep the Reeves medals.

The judges of the first contest were Captains W. D. Davis, J. E. McCoy, and J. K. Partelle, Fifth Infantry, U. S. A.

Teaching English to Immigrants Demonstrated

Mr. Rindge demonstrated the teaching of English to foreign immigrants on Monday evening. A class of local Italians was secured, and their progress after a one hour lesson was astonishing. Several students who were interested in taking up such social service during their college course were present at the meeting.

THREE COLLEGES EF- FECT DEBATING LEAGUE

U. V. M. TEAM PARTLY CHOSEN

Debates in March with Middlebury and Norwich

Representatives of the three Vermont colleges met on Tuesday afternoon and voted to form a triangular debating league, and effected a simple organization with Guy B. Horton of this city chairman and J. J. Floyd of Middlebury secretary.

Each institution will have two teams which will meet their opponents in simultaneous debates at Burlington, Northfield and Middlebury upon some question of present-day importance to the people of the state. The subject will be the same for each and the team of each college will take different sides in each place. The contest will occur about the end of March.

The colleges were represented as follows: Vermont, Prof. W. E. Aiken, H. A. Bailey, L. M. Prindle; Norwich, Prof. K. A. B. Flint, C. A. Foster; Middlebury, Guy B. Horton, J. James Floyd.

According to later arrangements the Vermont team will debate at Middlebury and will meet Norwich in Burlington.

The debating team which will represent Vermont in the intercollegiate contest will consist of H. A. Bailey, '15, L. W. Dean, '15, L. M. Prindle, '15, and E. L. Chatterton, '17. The first try-outs for the team were held on Tuesday night when the above four were picked by the judges, Professors Tupper, Aiken, and Gifford. The question debated was "Resolved, That the U. S. Should at Once Resort to Armed Intervention in Mexico." Each debater could take either side

HOME CONCERT OF MUSICAL CLUBS

University Musicians Show Much Talent--Many Encores

The first home concert of the combined Musical Clubs of the University was a very successful performance. It was held in the hall of the high school on Wednesday, Dec. 10 and brought out a good crowd, which was very appreciative, calling for many encores. A chaperoned dance followed the musical program which lasted about two hours.

The Glee Club under the leadership of D. J. Roberts and the training of George L. Wilder proved a strong and well balanced aggregation. The orchestra showed much talent, and as a result of consistent practicing under the efficient leadership of C. F. Robinson, were able to score several hits. The individual talent of the musical organizations was also displayed in smaller units, the mandolin quintette, the college quartette, and the string quartette. The bass solo of D. J. Roberts, the violin solo by V. C. Taplin, and readings by S. P. Johnson were pleasing features of the program. The ensemble work at the opening and closing, when all clubs joined in "Grand Old Vermont" and "The Old Mill Song" were decided hits. The dance program of 11 dances followed, Prof. and Mrs. Messenger and Prof. and Mrs. Freedman chaperoning and Robinson's Singing Orchestra furnishing music.

The musical clubs will have a chance to give the college some good advertising when they take the trips which have been arranged by

Hon. Horace Henry Powers, 1855

Judge Powers suffered a stroke of apoplexy in the evening of Dec. 7, 1913, and passed away in the evening of the 8th, his wife and his son, Chief Justice George M. Powers, being with him when the end came. He was born in Morristown, 29 May, 1835, the son of Horace Powers and Love E. Gilman. He traced his descent from Walker Powers, who came to America early in the 17th century. From the

Fifteen Day Vacation

The Christmas vacation will occupy 15 days, beginning Monday night, Dec. 22, and ending Tuesday night, Jan. 6.

COLLEGE VAUDEVILLE IN TWELVE SPARKLING ACTS

Baseball Benefit Show At Majes- tic Next Thursday

Laughable, pathetic, melodious, mystifying and novel will be the vaudeville entertainment given by the University of Vermont at the Majestic, Thursday evening, Dec. 18, 1913, at 8 o'clock. It has been years since we have had a good college vaudeville. So there will be a spontaneous effervescence of long suppressed genius, talent, wit, humor—call it what you will—which will burst into expression on this joyous occasion. A round dozen of acts have been selected, which will show college versatility at its best. Hilarious and awe-inspiring acts are scheduled which will cause the "tired business man" as well as the jaded student to sit up and take notice. And it is all for a noble cause, the baseball season. The Majestic management will show moving pictures between the acts and the Majestic orchestra will render selections. The following program has been arranged:

- 1 Illuminated Club Swinging — Wright, '17.
- 2 Sketch, "Driftwood"—Carr, '15, and Meyers, '15.
- 3 German Gutter Band—Leader, Gardyne, '15.
- 4 Sketch—Powers, '15, Dow, '15, Jerry, '15, Johnson, '14.
- 5 Blackface Sketch—Gardyne, '15, and Stetson, '15.
- 6 Forbidden Fruit, a skit—U. A. Woodbury, '17, and A. W. Rutter, '17.
- 7 Juggling and Sleight of Hand Performance, Leffler, '15, and Wheelock, '14.
- 8 U. V. M. String Quartette—Gordon, '16, Paulson, '16, Grismer, '16, Daniels, '15.
- 9 Reading, Selected—Seth Johnson, '14.
- 10 Violin Solo—V. C. Taplin, '16.
- 11 Vocal Quartette—Swett, Lovejoy, Roberts, Johnson.
- 12 Sketch—"Ike" Everitt, '15, and Co.

N. Y. ALUMNI HAVE ROUSING SMOKER

SIXTY ARE PRESENT

Prof. Tupper Speaks—N. Y. Club-house and Scholarship Discussed

The first gathering of Vermont alumni for this season was held at the Chemists' Club, 52 East 41st St., New York City, on the evening of December 3rd, 1913. This turned out to be the best smoker ever held by Vermont men in New York, as might be expected when it is considered that Harry B. Oatley was chairman of the smoker committee, and that his associates were Walter C. Flanders and Dana F. Woodman.

About sixty loyal sons of Vermont sat down to the splendid dinner and joined lustily in the singing and cheering. The postprandial exercises were opened by the toastmaster, Harry B. Oatley, that famous "south paw" of earlier days. Harry showed that he had lost nothing of the art of delivery and put something over the plates that set every one fanning in an effort to get next to it.

He welcomed the boys appropriately and cordially. He noted that many of them had had hair cuts during the summer vacation, giving them the appearance of the advance agents of prosperity. He speculated as to the other benefits which might have accrued during the summer vacation. All in all, the tenor of his remarks was well calculated to stimulate, encourage, and re-assure his hearers.

ALUMNI CLUB HOUSE PLANS

The next speaker was E. J. Armstrong, who reported for the committee on a club house. He told of the efforts of the New York alumni of the smaller colleges to get a club house for the use of their respective alumni associations. He also spoke of the possibility that the New England society would unite with the alumni of smaller New England colleges in promoting the club house idea.

Then "Bill" Dodge started something by suggesting that the constitution be amended to provide for the posting of the names of the delinquent members in the Brooklyn Eagle. At once Horatio Drury rushed to the rescue of the Brooklyn members against whom he detected, in this amendment, a hidden slur. But this point was soon lost sight of when Jesse Tobey suggested that the constitution could not be amended because the president, "Mert" Robbins had lost it. This tragic announcement led to an effort to impeach the president but it was finally discovered that there had never been any constitution, and all hearts melted in the plea of the president, and he was allowed to remain in office.

The members then had the privilege of listening to a fine talk on the "Catskill Aqueduct" by Commissioner Chadwick of the New York Board of Water Supply. This address was most interesting and was warmly applauded.

PROF. TUPPER WELCOMED

Then Prof. Tupper was called upon, and the sixty sons of Vermont present arose as one in a royal ovation to their beloved friend and teacher. In his happy vein, Dr. Tupper drew word pictures of events at home, bringing a message from Pres. Benton.

The speaker observed that the college teachers' feeling of wistful regret at the passing of each senior class is allayed by the realization that the graduates have only seemingly gone forth from the University and are still, in reality, a part and parcel of its being. The teacher's life would lose its highest recompense, if he did not follow with the keenest pride and pleasure the careers of these members of the University, "What is Thompson doing, what has Johnson done?" is a common query on every campus. The speaker dwelt upon many phases of life at Vermont. He found reasons for gratulation in the present healthy growth, and rejoiced that the college seemed in little danger of that dropsical swelling which often works such havoc to academic tissues. He discussed the cordial relations now existing between the student bodies of the colleges of the state. He referred to the newly aroused interest in debate, and he commented briefly upon the athletic situation. The second half of the address was devoted to a consideration of the typical student of the modern college, his gains and losses. Our higher institutions make capable and practical men, who, if not yet efficient, have within them the potentiality of high efficiency. Let it be also the aim of our universities to make cultured gentlemen. And culture abides only with those who know books, who know themselves, and who can give form to their thought.

Prof. Jacobs, who is spending his sabbatical year in study at Columbia, was the next speaker. He was warmly welcomed, and his words of greeting touched responsive chords.

A fine welcome was then given Manager Moore of the University baseball team, who made a most favorable impression upon the audience, and spoke very encouragingly about the coming season.

NEW YORK ALUMNI SCHOLARSHIP PROPOSED

The last speaker was the popular president, "Mert" Robbins. His progressive mind evolved the idea that the alumni in New York should found a scholarship at the University for the use of some boy from New York City. This plan was warmly applauded and the president was authorized to appoint a committee to carry the plan out.

Among those present were the following: Prof. Tupper, Prof. Jacobs, Dr. Samuel Lloyd, Dr. McPhee, W. C. Flanders, E. J. Armstrong, T. R. Powell, John Wheeler, H. O. Wheeler, Jr., William Whalen, Percy Byington, F. F. Lincoln, Philip Ross, A. H. Valiquette, William J. Dodge, Leon R. Whitcomb, Henry Clement, Dana Woodman, Paul Gulick, Harry E. Wood, Walton Kingsley, Charles Lamb, Merton Robbins, Harry B. Oatley, Dr. A. S. Bean, F. R. Lord, A. E. Lovett, W. W. Mack, E. H. Adams, G. S. Brand, R. F. Chapin, Henry W. Clark, P. M. J. Corey, E. W. Donahue, H. N. Drury, C. S. Grow, C. E. Hall, H. W. Heath, J. P. Helyar, Thomas Kelley, J. C. Kirley, W. B. Leavens, W. W. Mack, E. E. Miller, J. H. Moore, 1914, D. Percy Morgan, R. B. Morton, H. R. Murdock, Thomas R. Powell, L. E. Raymond, Sereno S. Pratt, L. M. Phelps, F. C. Rice, Herman E. Smith, J. W. Tobey, S. F. Weston, W. E. Weston, W. H. Washburn and Clarence White.

of the question and was allowed five minutes in which to speak.

The judges expressed satisfaction at the showing made. There is yet room for two more on the team. These will be picked at future try-outs.

Travel Club

The different divisions of the Travel Club met with their respective hostesses Saturday afternoon, Dec. 6. The subject for discussion was "The Cathedrals of Florence."

Girls' Athletic Association

The members of the Girls' Athletic Association entertained the girls of the University Tuesday evening, Dec. 9, at a dance held in the Howard gymnasium. The patronesses were Mrs. Stone, Miss Terrill, Miss Marshall, Mrs. Stetson and Mrs. Reeves.

Tri Delts Entertain

Eta Chapter of Delta Delta Delta entertained the freshman girls at an informal tea Friday, Dec. 5, at the Klifa Club on Pearl Street. Mrs. Tinkham, Mrs. Fulton, Miss Rogers, '14, and Miss Spofford, '14, received. Miss Spinney, '15, and Miss Ranney, '15, poured.

COLLEGE Y. M. C. A.'S OF STATE CONFER

the form of reports of the past year's work in the different associations represented. Prof. Raymond McFarland of Middlebury College was the first to respond and his report showed a prosperous year for the Middlebury College Y. M. C. A., with many students engaged in social work. This was followed by Prof. Carl Woodbury of Norwich whose report was less favorable, he being the only member of the Y. M. C. A. in that college. Other reports were made by E. M. Jeffords of Montpelier Seminary, C. B. Coleman of Randolph Agricultural School, and G. C. Sleeper of Dartmouth. Dr. S. G. Barnes, director of religious work at the University of Vermont, then gave a report of the work of the local association which showed a decided increase of interest on the part of the students. He closed with a few brief remarks on the importance of giving and working. Prof. Perkins and Dr. Barnes then made a joint appeal to all present, to attend the student conference at Northfield next year.

The principal speaker of the evening was Fred H. Rindge, Jr., international secretary of the international committee. His theme was "College Men in Service." He stated that the idea of social service is old, but the idea of men engaging in such work as volunteer service is new. He brought reports from other colleges such as Yale, Harvard, and Cornell where several hundred men had responded to the call to services. He stated the fact that more than ninety per cent. of these volunteer workers are engineering students who, in spite of a full course, find time for social work. In closing, Mr. Rindge quoted from Bryan, "People are great in proportion to what they give and not what they receive." Mr. Rindge has an optimistic nature and a frank and straightforward way of speaking which cannot help but appeal to a young man. The program for the evening closed by an informal discussion of the methods for social service.

SUNDAY MEETINGS

The program for Sunday opened with a quiet hour service at the Y. M. C. A. room at 9.30 a. m. where Mr. Rindge spoke on "Seeking Men and Finding God." It was an interesting address dealing with the real reward of those engaged in volunteer service. Sectional conferences were held at three o'clock. At the Y. M. C. A. room the topics were—"Industrial Service," "Membership and Finance," led by Mr. Rindge; and at the Y. M. C. A. office the topics were—"Religious Meetings," "Bible and Mission Study," led by Mr. Sleeper of Dartmouth.

A students mass meeting was held at the University chapel at 4.30, Rev. S. G. Barnes presiding. This service consisted of hymns, music, prayer by President Benton, scripture reading by Prof. A. A. Borland, and an address on "College Men and the Industrial Worker" by Mr. Rindge, in which he explained how the attitude of the average American toward the foreigner is gradually changing. His chief subject was the work of the Y. M. C. A. among the immigrants.

THE CLOSING MEETING

The last meeting of the conference was held in the Y. M. C. A. room Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock. The devotional service was led by M. H. Davis, secretary of the local association, followed by an address on "How One Association Found Itself," by Mr. Sleeper. This address consisted principally of a discussion to determine the most profitable plan for meetings; whether the meetings should be purely religious, or whether they should deal with popular subjects. Mr. Sleeper spoke from the experience of the Dartmouth Y. M. C. A. where both types have been tried, and where the popular subjects have been found so much more satisfactory that they are used very largely now. The closing service of the evening was conducted by Rev. S. G. Barnes.

The delegates who attended the conference were—Prof. Raymond McFarland, C. T. Day, L. E. Bicknell, J. J. Floyd, R. P. Shedd, D. E. Salisbury, and E. E. Grant of Middlebury College; Prof. Carl Woodbury of Norwich University; C. B. Coleman and H. H. Lathe of Randolph Agricultural School; E. M. Jeffords, Earle Sweet, Tracy Slack, Saleem Saleeby, Maurice Walbridge, Earle Welch, Everett Pattril, Donald Hendrick, Harold Eastman, Harry Houghaboom, and Prof. Roger Tatem of Montpelier Seminary; G. C. Sleeper and W. P. Ross of Dartmouth College. Byron N. Clark, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was present at the conference and took an active part in the discussions relative to the bettering of the existing associations and the founding of new ones.

The University will have cause to be much indebted to the Y. M. C. A. Conference and to Mr. Rindge if they have produced a spiritual awakening of some extent and duration. If the awakened energy is to be directed into channels of social service, it is an additional source of gratification. The spiritual side of our college for years has not been as strong as it should have been, but increased activity in the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., and St. Paul's Club indicate a wholesome change. Mr. Rindge's chapel addresses were convincing as well as appealing. In his work of strengthening the Y. M. C. A. at Vermont he was unique in looking over the situation in Burlington and Winooski and in being able to tell just where social service was needed. We hope that the results of his visit will be permanent.

The subject of class shrinkage or student mortality, so-called, could be and should be more thoroughly investigated by using different methods than those pursued by the faculty and the CYNIC investigations. Each started with certain preconceptions and each relied for its information upon authorities which do not see all sides of the question. For instance, there are few students who think that we have too many college activities outside the curriculum, and few of the faculty but are convinced of it. The investigation of the faculty committee, we understand, was based upon the general opinions of the professors. The CYNIC investigation was based upon the opinions of the non-graduates of 1912 and 1913 who could be reached with the shamefully inaccurate and inadequate address list at hand, and who saw fit to reply, giving us the reasons for their departure without a diploma. Our investigation was disappointing in not eliciting more replies. It did not cover enough ground, and depended upon each man's judgment in his own case,—a judgment which is likely to be warped.

The number of students who drop out before completing their courses is too large and constitutes one of the University's important problems. It represents an economic waste. It often means a loss of time and money on the part of the students as well as a waste of energy of the teaching staff, and is always a reflection upon the institution. It is a situation which should be thoroughly looked into and remedied as far as possible, and it could be studied out now as well as after the mid-year examinations. An excellent suggestion which has come to us is that the registrar's office keep a record of each student who drops out during the year. He could find out from most of the students as they leave the important reasons for so doing. In the case of many individuals a few questions put to them as they leave college could be supplemented by a little information from his instructors. We could then get more valuable data and less theorizing. There is great doubt if the CYNIC report of two weeks ago can be given much credence because such a large proportion of those consulted chose to explain away all their troubles under the two inclusive heads of poverty and ill health. Had each student and his instructor been consulted as he left college, other reasons might have been attributed. If each man had been asked his permanent address and been handed a blank postal upon which he could enter any change in his address, the address list of the non-graduates would be much more complete.

It is the opinion of the CYNIC that there are many who leave for a complication of reasons. There are such a large number who go to college without beginning to realize all that it involves in the way of preparation in studies or in finances. They start poorly in learning the groundwork of their subjects in prep school and if an opportunity comes to go to college, they take it, supposing that it is the line of least resistance. Others fail to realize the financial burdens which are involved. Some come with wrong ideas as to the importance of the curriculum. All these causes contribute to the number of students who drop out or are dropped. A number of those who are not thoroughly equipped for a four years' stay can be saved. The employment committee can and does help them financially. The system of keeping closer record of the rank and attendance will save many who need constant reminder of their deficiency. In the case of freshmen, especially, such warning notices could well be sent more frequently and regularly. A system of senior or faculty advisors might be tried here as at other colleges in order to keep freshmen from getting discouraged and losing their grip. The suggestion that the registrar's office make inquiries of all students who drop out could be followed at once, and could bring to light some interesting data.

Senior Canes Ordered

The senior cane committee of which Brigham McFarland is chairman, has selected the canes for the senior class. The canes have been approved by the class and the majority have already ordered them. The cane is a plain red-brown stick with crook and with no adornments except for two silver bands.

Further orders for canes can be made at the college store.

Agricultural Club

A meeting of the Agricultural Club was held at Morrill Hall, Tuesday evening, Dec. 9. The program consisted of an interesting talk by Prof. Jenks on the "Opportunities of the Agricultural Graduate," a reading by Churchill, '17, a reading by Abell, '16, the reading of the Vermont Chronicle by Johnson, '14, and a weight guessing contest. In this Abell, '16, and Handy, '15, tied for first place. After the literary program a business session was held, at the close of which refreshments of cocoa and doughnuts were served.

THE NORTHFIELD STUDENT CONFERENCE

Vermont Delegate Tells of His Stay

The Eastern Students' Conference held from June twentieth to June twenty-ninth at East Northfield, Mass., was attended by two delegates from the University of Vermont Young Men's Christian Association, Sheldon Miller, '14, and P. W. Everts, '15. Nearly one hundred and sixty colleges and preparatory schools of the Eastern United States and Canada were represented by one thousand delegates.

Believing an account of the trip might be of interest to Vermont men, I have asked the CYNIC to print the following narrative.

At the close of a long hot day I came to the end of a tedious railroad journey, full of vexatious delays, and pulled into Northfield. A good supper refreshed me somewhat, and shortly after I was with the crowd which strolled across the campus to "Little Round Top." Not that I was in the mood to hear "preaching" or be mentally enlightened on any point, but I was a "delegate" and it was my duty to assimilate as much as possible to be brought back with me this fall. But it was here that my immediate view of life changed. Here the cool breezes watted away my petty troubles, here the speakers, by their zest for their work, made me forget my own discomfort and meditate on the poor and despised, the weak and degenerate, the fallen and downtrodden "brother."

As to the general atmosphere of this renowned "Little Round Top," I will refer to my notes. "On the west side of the hill lies the remains of Dwight L. Moody and his wife Betsy Moody." What inspiring recollections hover about those names! On the northwest, overlooking the broad, fertile valley of the Connecticut, resplendent in the glow of the setting sun, are held each evening the famous Round Top meetings. Here many have heard the call of Christ to His work. Here missionaries, preachers, and social workers from all lands, come to address the meetings, and the audiences, perhaps six or seven hundred young men, representing the spiritual leadership of their respective colleges and schools. On such occasions, no one can tell what may be the inspiration acquired. What these evening talks have meant to me, I can not express.

At 8 o'clock, another meeting was held in the beautiful auditorium. Another speaker of prominence was heard and another phase of our social problems here or our missionary problems abroad was presented.

At 11 o'clock the next morning was another similar opportunity to hear of the great work being carried on in the name of Christ.

And who were the speakers? One night, at Round Top, we heard C. K. Cooper, head of the Y. M. C. A. at Washington D. C., discuss the work there, also Mr. Edwards, employed in professional social service tell us of the low wages paid to laborers, of child labor as it exists today, of prostitutes, and of wage earning women. In the auditorium we may hear John R. Mott, or perhaps Bishop Brent. One evening we heard Mr. Waller speak of the Y. M. C. A. work in England and Ireland, and Pastor Le Seur told of the conditions in Berlin. Buron Nicoli, of Russia, Mr. Carter, of Calcutta, India; Mr. Maurey, of France; President Dellurgus, of the University of Switzerland; Mr. Voipia, of Finland; Mr. Conatchu, of Spain; Mr. Hitia, of Peru college, Syria; Caesar Gay, of Italy; Mr. Fildias, of Austria; and Dr. Ruall of Buenos Ayres,—each told of the work of the organization in their native country, of the problems encountered and the difficulties overcome.

Besides these lectures there were each morning, two hours of class work, one devoted to mission study and the other to the study of the Bible. During the mission study hour various instructors offered different courses of study pertaining to particular fields of some missionary problem. The Bible study classes offered many intensely interesting courses.

For recreation many took short tramps to places of interest in the vicinity or went swimming in the Connecticut. No classes or lectures were held in the afternoon. Besides a tennis tournament among teams from the various delegations a baseball tournament was held. Thursday afternoon many participated in a regular country field meet.

In the evening all the large delegations, attired in some kind of fancy garb or bedecked with streamers of crepe paper representing their college colors, marched into the auditorium to the tune of their college song, taking their places under their college pennants. After many cheers, Mr. Mott, chairman, arose and led a short but very impressive service. Each delegation gave its college yell and it over ten in number, gave its song and perhaps a stunt of some kind. After each college and preparatory school had been heard from, John Barrett, a native of Vermont, and now president of the Pan-American Federation, gave the address of the evening. At the close, a huge bonfire was enjoyed by the singing of songs in honor of other delegations. The singing of "The Old Mill Song," by the Phillips Exeter boys was particularly pleasing.

During the last three days the spiritual fervor run high. Some of us thought more there of the vital question of a life work than ever before.

The Student Y. M. C. A. Conference at Northfield affords an opportunity for an individual to spend ten days away from the hum drum cares of his own life, where he may ponder the social problems of the lower class or be awakened to the missionary need in foreign lands. It affords an opportunity for a vacation during which one may invigorate himself physically and raise his spiritual self to the higher realms of contemplative thought.

Next spring the call will be issued for men to attend this students conference. Sophomores and freshmen, be ready. Remember the sooner you go in your college course the more profitable you will find the experience. As for you juniors it is your last chance; improve it. Vermont, as a New England College, is well known through the wonderful work of her baseball teams and "Al" Guttersen. You will need no introduction. Go!

MEDIC NOTES

John Tuttle, ex-'16, medic, called on friends in college recently.

The Phi Chi fraternity has leased the house at 19 School Street of George Jarvis to be used for a fraternity house.

The initiation of the Phi Chi fraternity was held at their rooms on Thursday night, Dec. 4. Eight candidates were initiated. Refreshments were served.

Dr. Pierce, '06, who has been taking a post graduate course in Boston, stopped with friends in the city over Sunday, while on his way to his home in Swanton.

Dr. Munsell, '12, was in town for a short stay recently.

Chemistry Club

There will be a Chemistry Club meeting next Tuesday evening, Dec. 16, at 8 o'clock. Reports from department alumni will be given followed by a social hour and refreshments.

German Club

The meeting of the Deutscher Verein was held on Thursday. An interesting and instructive program was presented. The feature of the evening was the reading of "Ein Knopf," a bright little German comedy. Refreshments were served.

Soccer football is increasing in popularity. Both Williams and Amherst have recently started soccer teams.

Pi Beta Phi Dance

Vermont Beta of Pi Beta Phi gave their annual dance on Friday evening, Dec. 5, in the Van Ness roof garden. About thirty couples were present. The decorations consisted of tiny Christmas trees bearing gifts in the form of favors for the guests. Prof. and Mrs. Messenger and Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Gebhardt chaperoned. In addition to the girls of the active chapter several of the alumnae were present, as were also representatives of Kappa Alpha Theta and Delta Delta Delta. Two Middlebury girls, Miss Florence Aseltine and Miss Gladys Chalmers, represented the Pi Beta Phi chapter in that college.

MILITARY NOTES

Monthly Inspection — Summer Camp—National Guard School

At the monthly inspection, Dec. 3, the best appearing man in each company received two "cuts" and the best man in the battalion a week's leave of absence from military work. The lucky four were: Bloomer, '16, Co. A; Dolphin, '17, Co. B; Ames, '17, Co. C; Wright, '17, Co. D. Of these four Captain Reeves and Major St. John chose Bloomer for first honor in the battalion.

Captain Reeves announces that there is an opportunity for twenty-five or thirty men to work at the summer encampment this year. By waiting on table they may pay all their expenses for the six weeks. All those desiring work during the encampment should report to Captain Reeves at once.

The National Guard have been invited to hold their officers' school at the U. V. M. armory. This officers' school is directed by Captain L. G. Mygatt, U. S. A., U. S. inspector, instructor for the National Guard of Vermont. He also conducts a similar school at Rutland. The general impression has been that the National Guard uses our armory only to practice revolver shooting, whereas, it will also be used for the officers' schools of the Vermont National Guard in this vicinity.

DER FUNFFUSSIGE IAMBUS

By Anton H. Appellmann, Ph. D.

The introduction outlines the history of iambic pentameter, and the importance of the work is well expressed in the author's own words in the opening chapter: "Iambic pentameter is not handed down to us from antiquity, nor has it been derived from an ancient meter, but is of modern origin and its home is France." The verse was used in Italy, England and Germany. Italy influenced England; England, so far as the drama is concerned, influenced Germany. Blank verse was introduced into Germany during the second half of the eighteenth century, when English literature was gradually supplanting French literature as the model which the Germans followed. The important pioneers in Germany who used blank verse were Schlegel, Wieland, Klopstock, Herder and Lessing. Most of the earlier specimens of blank verse in German were translations or adaptations of English works by Congreve, Lowe, Thomson, Young, Shakespeare and Milton. Goethe in a letter to Riese in 1765 expressed his intention of writing a drama in blank verse; Herder, in the second edition of his "Fragmente," in 1768, recommended the verse. The "Fragmente," it will be remembered, marked the very beginning of the Storm and Stress period. Lessing's "Nathan der Weise" (1779) was the first truly important German drama to appear in iambic pentameter.

This meter is then fully treated in the poetry of Otto Ludwig (1813-1865). Tables are shown which compare carefully, line by line, the variations in the different German editions. Of special interest are the collections of works in the history of the world's literature on famous subjects such as Agnes Bernauer, Marino Falieri and the Gracchus dramas.

ALUMNI NOTES

Ex-1865 Lieut. Byron C. Ward, a lawyer in Iowa since 1876, and a resident of Des Moines since 1892, is a prominent candidate for department commander of the G. A. R. in Iowa. His Memorial Day addresses are among the best given in the state.

1897 Mr. Duncan Stuart who for nearly two years has been employed by the Kansas Agricultural College at Manhattan, Kan., has resigned this position to accept a position in the dairy division of the department of agriculture at Washington, D. C.

1904 H. O. Wheeler Jr., attorney, of Los Angeles, Cal., is now visiting his brother, Dr. John Wheeler, in New York, while undergoing treatment for an injury which he recently suffered in California. Mr. Wheeler dove from a springboard into tide-water without realizing that the tide was low. As a result his neck was badly hurt, though he is now recovering satisfactorily.

The seniors met on Thursday to discuss class finances. The condition of last year's books was not approved by the executive committee. The president was empowered to appoint a special auditing committee.

March 14, 1914, English Town and Country.

April 11, "A Visit to English Literary Shrines", Professor Tupper.

April 25, "Life in England", Mrs. Slocum.

May 9, 1914, Final Meeting.

People's Academy of Morrisville he came to the University in 1851 and graduated in 1855 with Phi Beta Kappa rank.

For two years he taught school, in Huntingdon, P. Q. and in Hyde Park, at the same time reading law with Thomas Gleed, and gaining admission to the bar in 1858. After practicing law for four years in Hyde Park, he removed to Morrisville and formed a partnership with P. K. Gleed which continued till 1874.

In 1858 he represented Hyde Park in the house, and was the youngest member of that body. He was state's attorney for Lamoille county in 1861 and '62; member of the council of congress in 1869 and of the constitutional convention of 1870, in which he acted as chairman of the committee of the whole, and wielded no little influence upon their deliberations. In 1872 he was senator from Lamoille county. In the legislature of 1874 he represented Morristown, and was made speaker of the house; was also elected a judge of the supreme court, which position he occupied for sixteen years, or till his election to congress from the first district in 1890, a post to which he was four times re-elected. He was chairman of the Vermont delegation to the republican convention which nominated Harrison for president.

For 27 years from 1883 he was a trustee of the University. In 1899 he delivered the Founder's Day address. After retiring from congress he was for many years chief counsel for the Rutland railroad. In 1896 he received from Norwich University the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

In every position he occupied, as judge, legislator, advocate, trustee, citizen, he always deserved well of the commonwealth and of his fellowmen. He was an orator of no mean ability, weighty and impressive; a sagacious counselor; equally trusted and trustworthy whether on the bench, or seeking justice for a client.

In October, 1858, he married Caroline E. Waterman of Morristown. They were blessed with two children, Caroline and George M., U. V. M. 1882. His death was the first to break the family circle.

The funeral services of Judge H. H. Powers were attended in the afternoon of the 10th December in the Universalist church of Morrisville by the three local pastors, Rev. R. D. Cramer of the Universalist church, Rev. W. E. Baker of the Congregational church, and Rev. N. M. Hardy of the Methodist church. The building was crowded with the townspeople and members of the bar from all parts of the state. The singing was by the male quartette of the Mystic Lodge of Stowe. Among the multitude assembled to honor the memory of the deceased jurist and legislator were Dean George H. Perkins and Henry B. Shaw representing the University, and five members of the Delta Psi fraternity. The burial service at Pleasant View Cemetery was both impressive and appropriate.

VERMONT'S HIGH MEDICAL RANK

Surpasses Harvard and Columbia

Following is the standing of graduates of 1912 of some of the well known medical schools, based on the percentage of failures in state board examinations taken during 1912 and published by the "Journal of the American Medical Association."

Graduates of the University of Vermont College of Medicine—percentage of failures, 3 per cent.

Graduates of Rush (University of Chicago)—percentage of failures, 2.2 per cent.

Graduates of Johns Hopkins—percentage of failures, 3.1 per cent.

Graduates of the University of Pennsylvania—percentage of failures, 4.2 per cent.

Graduates of Jefferson—percentage of failures, 4.6 per cent.

Graduates of Tufts (Boston) percentage of failures, 4.9 per cent.

Graduates of University and Bellevue Hospital Medical College—6.5 per cent.

Graduates of Columbia—percentage of failures, 8.8 per cent.

Graduates of Baltimore Medical—percentage of failures, 9.1 per cent.

Graduates of Harvard—percentage of failures, 9.7 per cent.

Graduates of Dartmouth—percentage of failures, 12.5 per cent.

Graduates of Medico Chirurgical College (Philadelphia)—percentage of failures, 15 per cent.

Graduates of Syracuse—percentage of failures, 15.4 per cent.

Graduates of Long Island—percentage of failures 23.7 per cent.

Graduates of the University of Buffalo—percentage of failures, 25.8 per cent.

The fact that the graduates of the University of Vermont rank higher in these examinations before state boards is prima facie evidence that the character of the teaching of the University of Vermont College of Medicine is of a high grade, and that the standard of education is as high or higher than the standard maintained by medical schools like Harvard and Columbia.

A SMOKER RIFE WITH SUGGESTIONS

Baseball Schedule Outlined—Football System to be Reformed—A University Press

Vermont's third college smoker of the year in the gymnasium last Tuesday evening was characterized by the snap and enthusiasm with which the program was carried out. "Loyalty to the baseball team by the support of the college vaudeville," was the keynote of the evening. The success of this latter event Thursday night at the Majestic is sufficient evidence that the smoker accomplished its purpose. Plans for the new baseball schedule, revised methods in the football system, and the possibility of a university print shop under student management, were among the topics of importance. The meeting was called to order by President St. John.

William E. Whalen, '14, the first speaker of the evening, impressed on the students the need of supporting the college vaudeville. Manager Moore of the baseball team briefly outlined the baseball schedule for the coming season. This includes, besides a carefully planned southern trip, dates with Yale and Harvard at a time when Vermont's team should be in good trim. To complete the list, there is a goodly number of home games.

President Benton laid emphasis on the college vaudeville which he said should receive the hearty cooperation of the entire University. After reading the program for Thursday evening, Dr. Beecher laid before the students his plans for the organization of freshman and sophomore football teams next fall. Its purpose is threefold, to bring out all the football material in both classes, to provide for two teams with separate signals and coaching to meet the Varsity in practice, and to arrange schedules with Vermont prep schools. Next season's coaching will be done by graduates of no mean ability under the direct supervision of one good head coach. Dr. Beecher said that Captain William E. Whalen, '14, and two or three alumni have promised to assist in the coaching.

Captain of baseball, Stanley F. Berry, '14, called the attention of all to our duty towards this branch of

SECOND ANNUAL MILITARY BALL

Captain and Mrs. Reeves Will Give It On Jan. 9

The annual military ball of the University of Vermont will be held in the gymnasium on Friday evening, January 9. This ball is given to the University battalion by Captain and Mrs. Reeves. This year, the feature of the affair will be the presentation to the battalion of a large silk flag, given by the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States. Other ceremonies will be the presentation of cups to the winners of the rifle club matches, which are soon to come off, and the presentation of warrants and commissions to the officers.

SUMMER ENCAMPMENT WELL PLANNED OUT

Chances for Student Waiters—The Application Form

Captain Reeves has received word from the office at Washington stating that the plans for the construction of the camp, as well as the other plans which the captain has made for the summer camp, are entirely satisfactory. The work is progressing well, considering the many details which are connected with so extensive a movement, and every thing points toward a successful and enthusiastic encampment.

The following application blank is a copy of the blank to be filled out by those who desire to enter the student summer camp next spring. There will be many opportunities to wait on table at the encampment, and these will be open first to the students of this University, thus giving them an opportunity to earn their expenses at the camp. Those wishing to take advantage of this opportunity should apply for one of these blanks at once, fill it out, and return to Captain Reeves.

AUDIENCE PLEASED

College Produces Original Entertainment—Proceeds for Baseball

Sparkling, witty, unique, the college vaudeville will go down in history as a successful and enjoyable event.

A long program of great variety was witnessed by a crowd of a size that promises well for the baseball fund. The numbers varying from gymnastic stunts to drama in miniature were rendered in a manner very creditable to the performers. Wright, '17, swung the illuminated Indian clubs very skillfully. The two part pantomime sketch "What Every Man Knows" and "What Every Woman Knows" made a decided hit, as produced by H. H. Powers, '17. "The German Gutter Band" with Gardyne, '15, as leader, took the stage next, and entertained the audience with mirth and music. The next number was a close harmony rendition by the college vocal quartet composed of Swett, '15, Lovejoy, '14, Roberts, '16, and Johnson, '14. The number was heartily encored. Then Carr, '15, and Meyers, '15, engaged the audience's attention with a very clever and dramatic one act playlet called "Driftwood." Ellis, '14, Jack of All Trades in music, put on a good stunt which was followed by a clever blackface sketch, "Dunciver D. Dunn" in which Stetson, '15, Gardyne, '15, and Leutze, '16, were the whole company and each a leading star. Next A. W. Rutter, '17, and his fair partner U. A. Woodbury, '17, danced the Maurice tango and

Rev. Evan Thomas a Ranking Professor

Rev. Evan Thomas, B. S., was promoted to the rank of professor of mechanics and mathematics in the college of engineering at a recent meeting of the executive committee of the board of trustees. He formerly held the position of associate professor of mathematics. Professor Thomas is a graduate of Denison University, class of '76.

BASEBALL SCHEDULE TO BE OUT SOON

Awaits Only Approval of Athletic Committee

The baseball schedule is ready for publication as soon as the athletic committee approves it. It will contain about 30 games including a southern trip. Harvard will be played about the middle of May and Yale will be played in the first week of June. Formerly managers were able to secure games with these two teams only at the beginning of the season, before the Vermont nine was well trained and developed. Financial straits have hindered the management somewhat, since the entire maintenance of the team must come from student athletic fees and out of town guarantees. It has been found, however, that the original estimate of the student athletic fees was conservative. The vaudeville, also, was of much assistance to the treasury.

"JUST OUT OF COLLEGE"

Rehearsals Progressing

The play "Just Out of College" is being rehearsed by the cast selected by Prof. Andrews. Progress has been rapid and indications at present predict a very successful preformance.

The plot in brief, involves a young chap just out of college, named Swinger played by McFarland, '14. He, as young men of his age are wont to do, falls in love with Caroline, the beautiful daughter of Pickering, the wealthy pickle manufacturer. The latter to test the character of the aspirant for his daughter's hand, gives him $20,000 to start in business with, on condition that he have no communication with Caroline for three months. Swinger becomes the silent partner of a Miss Jones, a rival pickle producer, and meets with such success that Pickering is forced to absorb them to retain control of the pickle market. When he attempts the purchase of the rival industry he learns the identity of the silent partner and compromises with him by very gracefully consenting to the match.

The probable cast is:
Caroline, daughter of Pickering

CHICAGO ALUMNI DINE

A Most Successful Gathering

On the evening of Dec. 2, the Chicago Alumni Association of the University of Vermont held an informal dinner and meeting. Nineteen sat down at the table in a private dining room at Kuntz-Remmler's restaurant, 424 So. Wabash Ave. Considering that there are but between fifty and sixty Vermont men in the city proper, and that the arrangements for the dinner were made rather hurriedly, this was a strong showing. The following alumni were present and it is to be noted that the classes represented extend over the past fifty-one years—1862-1913:

Robert H. Fleming, '62, Albert C. Barnes, '76, Dr. R. W. Bishop, '77, Robert C. Sattley, '79, Horace Kent Tenney, '80, Harry A. Storrs, '82, F. G. Ward, '91, Frank D. Farr, '92, Dana E. Bicknell, '96, A. M. Taylor, '99, Robert D. Kellogg, '00, E. E. Bessette, ex-'00, Irving L. Rich, '02, Harry B. Macrae, ex-'03, Irvin Spear, '04, C. P. Valteau, '06, Chas. H. Burke, '08, Dana Ferrin, '08, C. N. Hitchcock, '13.

Immediately after the dinner the following officers were elected for the coming year: Mr. Taylor, '99, president; Mr. Tenney, '80, vice-president; Mr. Ferrin, '08, secretary and treasurer. Mr. Taylor became at once the presiding officer.

Mr. Rich, our progressive alumni secretary, gave an interesting account of what the administrative officers of the University are doing for the general good and advancement of the institution and an idea of their plans for the coming years. An item of interest is that the University of Vermont and Columbia University were the only two eastern institutions represented at a national meeting of the Association of University and College Alumni Secretaries held in Chicago the latter part of November. This meeting was attended by over fifty secretaries.

Several informal speeches were made in which there were amusing allusions to the "old days" and more serious expressions of affection and respect for U. V. M. and confidence in her future. Suggestions and plans for increasing the activity and influence of the association were offered and discussed with the result that it was decided to have at least three informal dinners during the coming winter and that every effort should be made through personal interviews and correspondence, to get the different Vermont men in Chicago acquainted with one another and in closer relationship with the University. One suggestion that met with general approval was that the association through a special committee should offer its assistance to the younger alumni in getting located and established in the city.

All present voted the gathering most successful and enjoyable.

hesitation waltz in a way that accredited a hitherto "forbidden fruit." Leffler, '15, and Wheelock, '14, as "Eccentric Entertainers" did a host of mysterious and baffling slight of hand performances. The U. V. M. string quartet, Gordon, '16, Paulson, '16, Daniels, '15, Grismer, '16, gave a new tone to the varied vaudeville values and were loudly applauded. Seth P. Johnson, '14, proved again a versatile reader of great power. His selections were happily chosen and delightfully rendered. "The Devil to Pay," of Kake Walk fame, as acted by Maiden, '15, Conroy, '16, and Durfee, '17, completely bewildered and astonished the audience. The Majestic orchestra played and so ended the vaudeville, amusing and interesting from start to finish.

athletics. He spoke of the time and interest, even to the extent of personal sacrifice, taken by President Benton in all student activities, and of the praise due Manager Moore and Dr. Beecher who are working night and day in preparation for the coming spring.

The last speaker, Captain Ira L. Reeves, was greeted with thunderous applause. He stated that he was in receipt of a letter from the war department at Washington which spoke in favorable terms of the University buildings as a place for the officers' schools of the state militia. The possibility of a university printing press was set forth in a very favorable light. Although it might not be adequate to publish the University catalogue, there is no doubt but what such a press could get out the college publications, posters for ball games, smokers, dances and the like, much cheaper than we are getting them done at the present time. Five or six students who are versed in the printer's trade or who would be willing to learn, might be given a chance to earn their way through the entire course. A committee is to be appointed by President St. John which shall look into this matter and report at a convenient date.

Cheer leaders, R. M. Olzendam, '15, and I. D. Everitt, '15, received hearty response to the familiar "Everybody up, now, the Old Vermont! Are you ready?" until the gym fairly shook from one end to the other. Tobacco for the occasion was furnished through the courtesy of the Hub.

Inter-Class Basketball

The Key and Serpent Society have decided upon a series of inter-class basketball games for the college championship. The athletic committee is to furnish all materials necessary and in return receive the receipts derived. The series will start about the last of January and will be played in three consecutive weeks, each week to have a double header on one evening. The final arrangement of the schedule has been designated to a committee consisting of Mayforth, Currier and Dow.

V. N. G. Officers Pleased to Use College Shooting Gallery

Last Saturday evening, Dec. 13, the officers of the National Guard, under the supervision of Captain L. J. Mygatt, U. S. A., met in the U. V. M. Armory for their regular school. They also did quite a bit of shooting on the range here, and were much pleased with the equipment throughout. It is quite probable that the meetings of this organization will be held in our armory, entirely, in the future. Captain Reeves has taken much interest in the work and has assisted Captain Mygatt on several occasions. The next meeting of this organization will be held on Thursday, Jan. 8.

CAPTAIN REEVES' NEW BOOK

Rifle, Revolver and Pistol Shooting

Captain Ira L. Reeves' new book the "A. B. C. of Rifle, Revolver, and Pistol Shooting," will be of value to range instructors and to those who are learning the art and science of shooting. The book is well arranged and handy in size. The text is supplemented by many cuts and full page photographs. The treatment is comprehensive without being technical. It is of a nature well adapted to a beginner, yet containing suggestions of use to an expert.

The author prefaces his book with the explanation that there are no end of theoretical manuals and texts of the science of shooting, but none suited to an amateur, unfamiliar with the complicated terms and methods of the rifle or pistol range. No originality is claimed by the writer for his work, but if simple, vigorous manner of treatment count for anything, then it may be truthfully called original.

In the first part of the book the danger of careless handling of fire arms is pointed out and definite rules are formulated for the safe manipulation of these weapons. The nomenclature of the rifle and revolver is next explained in a clear way. A long list of definitions of range terms is given. The firing positions are explained, sighting and holding described and the effects of wind, light and temperature are treated very simply and thoroughly. The last part of the book is devoted to explanations of the regulation targets, methods of scoring, the selection of ammunition, care of fire arms and other interesting miscellaneous facts. Altogether it is a handy, thorough and very readable little book.

THE ALL--AMERICAN ELEVEN

Walter Camp's Choice--Three Harvard Men--Two Westerners

Harvard's football supremacy in the season just completed received further recognition when Walter Camp put three Harvard men in the mythical eleven which is styled as the All-American. As he is acknowledged the leading authority in football, his choice for the All-American team always receives the highest recognition. His choice for the first eleven is as follows:

End	Hogsett, Dartmouth
Tackle	Ballin, Princeton
Guard	Pennock, Harvard
Center	DesJardien, Chicago
Guard	Brown, Navy
Tackle	Talbot, Yale
End	Merrilat, Army
Quarter	Huntington, Colgate
Half Back	Craig, Michigan
Half Back	Brickley, Harvard
Full Back	Mahan, Harvard

The Athletic Fallacy

(The Burlington Free Press)

Every activity and department of life has its own pet fallacy. About the most harmful instance of this is found in the field of education, and takes shape in the belief that most boys are determined in their choice of an institution of higher learning by reference to its standing in inter-collegiate athletics.

This fallacy is very well established and begins to have time-honored quality about it. Students invariably succumb to its plausibility. The argument is very simple. "What does a boy think so much about as of play and sports?" it runs and then,

"What but athletic prestige can, under the circumstances, determine his choice."

We remember hearing our good old coach, Dr. "Dud" Drake, gravely assure the students of the University of Vermont that the only reason in the world why Dartmouth was bigger than Vermont was that the Hanover institution had beaten Harvard successively and thereby earned a prominence which fairly swamped it with students. The good coach did not know about the rich and able Dartmouth alumni, most of whom grew up before the days of inter-collegiate athletics. He evidently was not acquainted with President Tucker, probably the most magnetic and inspiring of all the college presidents.

Pet fallacies are immune against attacks of logic. It did not even shake the foundations of this particular fallacy that Yale went on year after year beating Harvard in almost every conceivable line of sport, while Harvard went on year after year outstripping Yale in the number of its students. And if it was noticed that Columbia, where athletic activity is negligible, kept on growing until it reached the greatest enrollment of all American universities, the phenomenon was explained away on the ground that Columbia was located in a great city where there were greater numbers to draw from.

During the past few years the University of Vermont has hardly kept up to its own standards in the matter of athletics. The teams have been sportsmanlike but weak. Yet the enrollment of the institution has continued to increase. Apparently there is no important connection between the number of college victories and the number of students attracted.

Not long ago for the purpose of ascertaining definitely on this subject the students of the present freshman class, the largest in the history of the institution, were called upon to state what considerations had influenced them in their choice of a college. Of the whole one hundred and twenty-eight only two stated that the athletics of the institution had decided them in their choice, and only seven mentioned athletics as having had anything to do with the matter. This would look almost conclusive.

It is by no means an indictment of sports that they do not help most prominently in bringing members. All it means is that sports for sport's sake should be the motto. Athletics is important enough and good enough to stand on its own bottom.

THE VERMONT CYNIC

is published on Saturday of each week during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont. It will be mainly given over to news, while a literary supplement will, from time to time, be published.

Subscription price $2.00 per year;
10c. per copy.

SATURDAY, DEC. 20, 1913.

The CYNIC extends to its readers best wishes for a Merry Christmas, a Happy New Year, and a pleasant and profitable vacation. Each man has, no doubt, made plans for the way in which he is to spend his vacation. For most of us it will be the first opportunity since the opening of the college year to return to our home surroundings. For these it is the first opportunity to put in some good missionary work for the University. There are probably five or six hundred seniors in Vermont prep schools who are now pondering upon the college question. Some are considering whether to attend college or not and some are trying to decide upon which college they should enter. If each man in college would take it upon himself to see every prep school man who is entering college next fall and would tell him of the advantages of Vermont as he sees them, it would be an excellent start for a record class next year. It would be an admirable preliminary to any organized effort such as the proposed "Thousand Club." It is a work of individual loyalty, and upon such individual loyalty all organized effort must depend.

We are to have class basketball this year, even if college basketball can not be reinstated. If there is any hockey material in college or any interest in interclass hockey, it should be exhibited at once. A start was made in interclass hockey last year. According to location and every natural reason we should excel in hockey at Vermont. A modest start such as was made last year in the face of unusually discouraging weather conditions ought to lead to greater activity and interest this year. We hope to see the Key and Serpent Society take this up. If there is any class which would like the credit of starting such a movement this year and would like to bear some of the responsibility of putting it through, that class should elect a captain and manager of hockey and challenge some other class.

An arraignment of the present college system appears in the December Forum from the pen of J. A. Reed. Like Winston Churchill's criticism of the present condition of the church and of society in "The Inside of the Cup", this critical analysis of our college merits attention from the institutions against which it is directed and which it aims to correct. It is no empty wail against the attitude of that section of college students who pay too much attention to athletics and social attractions to the detriment of their studies. It attempts to prove and will prove to the satisfaction of many readers that American colleges are not giving a proper return for the money and time invested in them. The author hews close to the line and at all times tries to be fair in his estimate. We advise all who can to read the article, and we summarize it briefly here for the benefit of those who can not read it.

The author first gives the estimates of certain college authorities, of laymen observers, and of the students themselves. He declares that the natural results of a college course should be good judgment and a disciplined mind. He questions if the college does accomplish this object in a sufficient number of cases. The first cause of failure is that the colleges are receiving too many boys who should never have gone to college at all. This is due largely to two errors: improper motives for attending college and the character of the entrance requirements. He thinks that the colleges should be more carefully selective, laying emphasis upon the motives of the candidates for entrance.

The second cause of failure is to be found in the "diverting side shows." Among these are fraternity life, various forms of athletics, and dramatic and musical clubs. He pleads eloquently for higher ideals within the fraternities, for restrictive rules on pledging, for true scholarship, for proper supervision of fraternity houses by alumni. He inveighs against commercialism in athletics and thinks there is room for improvement in this branch. He dwells upon the character and responsibility of the college coach. In considering the methods of the ideal athletic coach in bringing out all the athletic material there is in the college, and developing all the latent athletic qualities in each man, he comes to the conclusion that such methods could obtain in other college departments.

The third cause of college failures is the lack of intellectual ideals. He inquires whether the members of the faculty are studying their problems and the men within their charge as the athletic coach studies his. He says that students should be studied and trained as individuals. A second criticism is that faculty, trustees, alumni, parents, students and the public are all vying with one another to allow mere numerical greatness to displace educational standards. He believes that scholarship rather than business ability should be required of governing boards. And fourth he believes that alumni deserve censure for having too much interest in athletics and fraternities and too little in intellectual pursuits.

The writer in closing states that the secondary schools turn out "uncooked beefsteaks" and the colleges turn out "dead game sports". He quotes President Wilson as prophesying that "the colleges of this country must be reconstructed from top to bottom, and I know that America is going to demand it".

Discounting Mr. Reed's indictment somewhat on the ground that everyone who is dissatisfied with the present condition of America begins with a strong knock at the educational systems, a reader of his article must admit nevertheless that he has made out a strong case. A good share of his criticism must apply to Vermont, since we occupy singular and no unique position in the educational sphere. How much it applies to us one could not state off-

EDITORIAL

hand, but we believe that it should provoke more introspection, which is needed in the University. It is so easy to drift along with the comfortable feeling that "what is, ought to be," occasionally finding fault in an aimless way. A vacation is an admirable time to withdraw at a little distance, to think things over, and to take an institutional inventory. The end of an old year and the beginning of a new one are occasions which are especially fitting for such an attitude of mind. If everyone in the University would read Mr. Reed's article thoughtfully, the CYNIC believes that the effect would be beneficial and noticeably so.

The report of inter-fraternity conditions at the University which the National Inter-Fraternity Conference makes is not what the best friends of the University would like to report. The fact remains that there is no inter-fraternity conference at Vermont and there is nothing in the nature of a rushing agreement between the fraternities. It is also patent that there is no good reason why we should not have such desirable conditions. The time is ripe for a healthy change. May next year's report of the national conference be more complimentary to the University and to the good sense of the fraternities within it.

Tuesday's smoker was rather an informal gathering with slight preparation for entertainment, music, or attractive advertising. It was none the less a pleasant and satisfactory affair. It is a pity that such informal events can not attract a larger crowd than was present at that smoker. A smoker should be a place to cherish college spirit and good fellowship, not an occasion at which one seeks entertainment. Every man should go prepared to contribute, not to receive. It is this sort of smoker alone which can produce lasting results. We should doubtless have college mass meetings oftener if less effort was expected from the smoker committee. A simple smoker like that of Tuesday could be held every three weeks. Frequent and well-attended smokers of just this character would be a big part of our undergraduate life.

There were at least two happy ideas expressed at the smoker which are worthy of much commendation. The changes in the football system ought to be beneficial, especially the plans for an adequate coaching system. The student printing plant has possibilities and is already starting much enthusiasm.

LOW COST OF LIVING

Boys of 1840 Had Slight College Expenses

An old friend of the college in looking over an 1840 University catalogue found that the necessary college expenses of that day amounted to $99 a year. This was before the day of inter-collegiate athletics, co-education, and student councils. But one fraternity, Lambda Iota, was then in existence. Chapel hour then was about six a. m. Oh, for the good old days!

An itemized account of the 1840 expenses follows:

Tuition (per annum)	$25.00
Incidentals, including ordinary repairs, library fires, and other expenses of room, say	5.00
Rooms in College	4.00
Board from $1.25 to $2.00 per week for, say 40 weeks	65.00

Total annual expenses $99.00

M. C. ROBBINS, '98, HONORED

President of New York Trade Press

Merton C. Robbins, '98, was recently chosen president of the New York Trade Press Association. A further tribute to his business success is found in a recent number of The Editor and Publisher and Journalist, and is re-printed here.

Merton C. Robbins, general manager of the David Williams Co., who was recently elected president of the New York Trade Press Association, has had a highly successful career in both the advertising and publishing ends of the trade press field.

After graduating from the University of Vermont with a science degree in 1898 Mr. Robbins saw service in the Spanish-American War and then took a short apprenticeship in the employ of an advertising agency. Later he became Western manager of the Engineering News remaining with that publication for eight years, during which time Mr. Robbins increased the business in his field more than 500 per cent.

Following this success he became vice-president of the company publishing the American Architect and Municipal Journal and Engineer and managed the Western office of those two publications for two years, resigning to become advertising manager of the Class Journal Co., New York, publisher of Automobile, Motor Age and other motoring periodicals.

Mr. Robbins came to the David Williams Co. in the fall of 1910 as manager of the Iron Age, and on Jan. 1, 1912, assumed the post of general manager of all of the publications of the company.

INTER-FRATERNITY CONFERENCE OPPOSES HIGH SCHOOL FRATERNITIES

National Body Recommends Drastic Rule Against Them

The annual meeting of the Inter-fraternity Conference in New York on November 29 went on record unanimously as opposed to high school fraternities. By a vote of 18 to 14 the conference passed a resolution recommending that the various fraternities pass rules which after due notice would prohibit the initiation of any man who has been a member of a high school fraternity.

This is a notable action. The conference went on the principle that the high school fraternities are a social excrescence and that no ignorant persons should put them in the same class with college fraternities, which meet a real need. If the proposed rules are adopted by a sufficient number of the strong fraternities; it is expected that it will materially affect the growth and prosperity of the present high school "frats."

The report of the committee on the subject of local inter-fraternity conferences was not very encouraging. Progress in this needed reform has been slow. About ten instances of violated agreements had been reported to the committee. A brief summary of the situation at 70 colleges was given. The report of the situation at the University of Vermont is as follows: "There is no inter-fraternity conference. Rushing agreements have been twice tried and failed. Tradition says this was due to one fraternity."

GREEN AND GOLD DEBATING SOCIETY

Team Chosen

On Tuesday evening, Dec. 16, were held the final try-outs for the vacant places on the Green and Gold debating teams, for the triangular debate with Middlebury and Norwich. M. D. Powers, '15, and J. S. Hunt, '15, were chosen as the other two members on the University teams, while J. V. Piper, '16, and P. H. Gates, '15, were chosen as alternates. These men, with those who were chosen last week, namely H. A. Bailey, '15, L. W. Dean, '15, L. M. Prindle, '15, and E. L. Chatterton, '17, complete the two teams which are to represent Vermont in the triangular debate.

L. M. Prindle, corresponding secretary for the Green and Gold society, is now in communication with the Norwich and Middlebury societies in regard to a question for the debates which are to take place some time in March. It is hoped that a question may be decided upon before the Christmas recess, so that immediate preparation may begin.

The men who have made the team should be impressed with the new responsibility placed upon them and should take hold of the work with a determination to build up winning teams. We have the material, the next point is to get it into shape. Vermont can have a debating team which will compare favorably with any in this part of the country. It is simply a matter of a little hard work by the men who have made the team.

The debating club held a short business meeting Monday night at which plans for the triangular debate were discussed, and several other matters of interest brought up.

AN INDUSTRIAL SERVICE COMMISSION

Largely through the inspiration and help of F. H. Rindge, Jr., the industrial service expert of the national Y. M. C. A., the industrial movement at Vermont is progressing swiftly and steadily toward some excellent results. A commission has been formed consisting of Byron Clark, the state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., W. E. McGovern, and Ray Collins (on the part of the city of Burlington) and the following men representing the University: Captain Reeves, W. H. Boardman, '14, Allen Schoff, '14, H. P. Gaylord, '14, Merle Davis, '15, and A. B. Taylor, '15. Two more men representing interests in the city will eventually be added to the committee.

About fifty men on the hill have thus far signed up for definite work, among them being applications for classes in English for aliens, instruction in gymnasium work and physical culture, Boy Scout supervision, deputation work, and classes for working men in first aid to the injured, mathematics, electricity, music, drawing, history, English literature and American citizenship. The latter branch is especially important and more men of some little ability are desired to teach this subject. Classes in preparation for naturalization will be a feature of this course.

Gaylord, '14, Clough, '15, and Leffler, '15, are already teaching English by the "Robert's system" twice a week in the basement of the Fletcher Library to a good sized and enthusiastic class of Italian workmen. A bunch of other classes will start after the Christmas recess to continue until May first.

The work is certainly a great one and deserves the hearty support it is receiving. The fellows are gaining some valuable experience, they are getting a whole lot of pleasure, and, best of all, they are helping to solve "the great American problem."

Aero Club Meets

The Vermont Aero Club held a business meeting Wednesday, Dec. 17, in the lecture room of the engineering building. Plans were submitted for the construction of an ice boat. The feature of this boat is that it is propelled similar to an aeroplane. It carries a 22 h. p. gasoline engine and has one 2 blade, 6 foot propeller. Professor Blackburn was in charge of the meeting.

Commons Club Meeting

A well attended business meeting of the Commons Club was held Friday evening in their rooms in the "Old Mill." Plans for refurnishing and decorating the rooms were discussed and the work is now well under way. It is hoped that the improvements will be finished by Jan. 1. After the business meeting refreshments were served.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The weekly meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was led last Friday by Miss Mabel Brownell. Miss Brownell took as her subject "Some Phases of the Girl Question" and gave a very helpful talk. Miss Brownell is experienced in the social work being done for girls in cities and able to speak out of her personal knowledge of the subject. A large number of girls were present. Miss Tenney, '17, sang "Oh Love Divine" and Miss Alma Holton, '15, played a violin solo, accompanied by Miss Grace Scofield, '16.

The Y. W. C. A. meeting will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. room. Prof. Thomson will speak on "The Changing Viewpoint."

The Y. W. C. A. is planning a series of special meetings to be held after the holidays. Mr. Guthrie will lead these meetings and the subject to be considered will be "The Christian Fundamentals."

Chemistry Club Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Chemistry Club was held Tuesday evening, Dec. 16. Short talks along scientific lines were given by Professors Williams and Burrows, and by Mr. Hammond. Letters from alumni chemists were read, dealing with the work which they are doing and with subjects of interest in the field of chemistry.

After the program had been carried out along that line, a light lunch was served. The next meeting of the club will occur on Tuesday evening, Jan. 20, 1914.

Sororities Entertain

The Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority held their annual reception to the freshmen last Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Ward on Main Street. Selections from "In a Persian Garden" were presented for entertainment, Miss Shepardson, '14, and Miss Bernardine Kimball, '15, dancing an Oriental dance, appropriate to the setting.

The annual reception of the Pi Beta Phi Fraternity to the freshman girls was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Gebhardt on College Street.

Howard Hall Club Meets

The Howard Hall Club met last Monday night for the purpose of electing officers for 1914. The following officers were elected:

Pres., Edith Coulman, '14.
Vice-pres., Alma Holton, '15.
Sec., Lucy Swift, '16.
Treas., Jennie Maxfield, '17.

Chairman executive committee, Georgia Gifford, '14.

Plans were made for a Christmas party to be held tonight. Committee in charge, Margery Luce, Lucy Swift, Ida Holden.

SENATE NOTES

The University senate announces that the Easter recess will begin on the evening of Thursday, March 26, extending to the morning of Wednesday, April 8.

From now on, the managers of each college organization shall file with the dean of each college in which a student in his organization is enrolled, a certificate from the registrar concerning the eligibility of the student, and shall secure from the dean his permission in writing before a student can be declared eligible.

In regard to credits in military science, one extra one will hereafter be given, one for lecture, and one for the combined drill periods.

The senate committee on employment and appointment has been doing very good work in securing positions for the students. Conditions here are more favorable than at most of the other colleges, and when we stop and consider that nearly all of the students seeking work are well employed, we should feel deeply grateful to this committee for their work in our behalf.

Y. M. C. A. MEETING

On account of various other attractions, the Y. M. C. A. meeting on Tuesday evening was poorly attended. Dr. Barnes gave a helpful talk on "The Beatitudes", which should have been listened to by a larger audience. With the finely appointed room which is at our service, more fellows should determine, after the Christmas recess to attend these meetings. No fellow who thus decides will be a loser thereby.

A. S. M. E. HEADED BY A VERMONT MAN

At the conference of the Society of American Mechanical Engineers, recently held at New York City, Mr. James Hartness of Springfield, was elected its president for the ensuing year. This University conferred the honorary degree of mechanical engineer on Mr. Hartness two years ago.

LOCALS

ELECTRICAL SOCIETY

Wishes to Unite in One Engineering Club

The Electrical Society held its regular meeting in the Science Hall, Wednesday night. Prof. Freedman spoke on the subject, "What Is Electricity?" It was a very interesting lecture, the speaker tracing the history of the observation of electrical phenomena, beginning about 600 B. C.

It was voted that the society join with the mechanical and civil engineering clubs into one large organization. Dean Votey was asked to call a meeting to effect such a union.

DEAN HILLS ON AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION

Tells of Work in Vermont at Chapel

Dean J. L. Hills of the College of Agriculture spoke in chapel on Wednesday and Thursday of agricultural extension work in Vermont. He said that it was the reaching out of the State University to get hold of those who can not come to it. In the farming communities it seeks to increase production and to cause more community spirit.

He illustrated the work by describing one phase of it, the county advisor. Five counties in Vermont have an advisor. They are young men, brought up on a farm, educated in agricultural colleges, of wide experience. Through them the State University, the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the farmers cooperate. The work of the advisor in Windsor county was cited. In eight months he visited 44 communities, traveled 6206 miles, conferred with over 500 farmers on every conceivable subject of agricultural interest. He has done much to weld the communities together and has given expert advice whenever consulted.

RIFLE CLUB COMPETITION

Low Score in Individual Matches

Individual matches, open to any member of the Rifle Club, were held at the University shooting gallery, Wednesday evening, Dec. 17. In these matches J. J. Finnessy, '16, and R. W. Daniels, '15, tied for first place, each having a score of 184. The scores of those finishing in the first five places are as follows:

J. J. Finnessy, 184; R. W. Daniels, 184; P. H. Gates, 182; F. P. Corley, 180; P. L. Ransom, 172.

The average score was unusually low, due to the fact that the men have not been keeping up practice recently. On the whole, the scores have been much better this fall than during the inter-collegiate contests last winter.

This individual match is the first of a series of three matches which are to be held, and the man making the highest individual score in these three matches, taken together, will receive a cup for individual marksmanship. Cups will also be given to the winning organizations in the other two matches.

These matches will be held as follows:—On Friday afternoon and evening, and up to 6 p. m., on Saturday, an inter-class match, seniors and sophomores against juniors and freshmen, will be held. In this match, the scores of the first ten men will be counted in. On Wednesday and Thursday, January 7 and 8, an inter-company match will be held, open to any military organization of the University, the best five men out of ten to count.

Enrollment figures for the University of Pennsylvania show a total of 6347, an increase of 1060.

LOCALS

The Alpha Tau Omega fraternity gave a dance on Friday night.

The Commons Club had a Christmas tree party on Friday night.

The faculty-student council met on Friday afternoon.

The December number of "Ye Crabbe" is expected before vacation.

Christmas vacation begins Monday night, Dec. 22, and ends Tuesday night, Jan. 6.

ALUMNI NOTES

1898 George C. Hubbard, who a year or more ago left the machinery business in New York to purchase a very fine farm in Dutchess county, New York, has recently gone in quite extensively for Holstein cattle. He has purchased nineteen pure bred Holsteins from Vermont. His orchard yielded over 1500 barrels of apples this year. His address is Red Hook, Dutchess County, New York.

1911 Ray Allen, who has been managing a dairy farm on Long Island, is in the city.

1912 H. R. Murdock, a former instructor in the University, is working for the United States Rubber Company in New York City.

1913 G. M. Nelson, who has resigned his position with the Beverly Stock Farms, North Beverly, Mass., was in Burlington for a few days before going home to East Barnet to manage his father's farm.

1913 Curtice Hitchcock was one of the promoters of the recent banquet held by the Chicago alumni.

"Midge" Welch, '10, E. D. Fuller, '10, and Frederick Sefton, ex-'13, have been visitor in town during the week.

MANY AT WINTER SHORT COURSES

Agricultural College Thus Reaches 40 Farmers

The first of the winter short courses in the Agricultural College opened on Dec. 29 with an enrollment of nearly 40. This is almost double the enrollment of last year. The courses are three in number: The first, from Dec. 29 to Jan. 24 takes up creamery work; the second, from Jan. 26 to Feb. 21 is a course in general agriculture; the courses close with Farmers' Week, Feb. 23 to 27.

The four weeks' course in creamery work gives instruction in butter, cheese, and ice-cream making, the pasteurization of milk and cream, the bottling of market milk, and milk testing. Lectures and recitations are held in the morning. In the afternoons is laboratory work in the working creamery in the basement of Morrill Hall. The methods practiced in this model creamery are most modern and up-to-date.

The general agricultural course gives instruction in the balancing of rations, milk production, horticultural work, forestry, veterinary science, soils, and farm management. Instruction embodies both theory and practice.

Throughout the eight weeks the hour from 11:30 a. m. to 12:20 p. m. will be devoted to addresses by various men who are prominent in their particular line of work. Some of these are regular instructors in the University and some are state officials. These addresses are designed to give the students a broad view of agricultural work.

Farmers' Week will be marked by many lectures by prominent agriculturists who will discuss topics pertinent to the farmer. These exercises are usually attended by 400 farmers in addition to those regularly enrolled in the short courses.

EASTERN N. Y. ALUMNI REUNION

To Be Held In Troy, Feb. 10

The annual reunion and dinner of the Eastern New York Alumni Association of the University of Vermont will be held at the Rensselaer Inn, Troy, New York, Tuesday night, Feb. 10th. Pres. Benton, Dean Tinkham, Prof. W. H. Freedman and others from the University are expected to be present.

RELAY PRACTICE OPENS

Nine Candidates in View

The relay team began its practice on Jan. 7 in preparation for the annual A. A. A. meet in February. There are nine likely candidates competing for the team. Six of these have worked out in former years and three are freshmen. The men are Healy, '15, Tennien, '15, Minckler, '15, Bolster, '16, Gallagher, '16, Patterson, '16, Cinton, '17, Wilbur, '17, Sanders, '17, and Dolphin, '17. This is the first cut in the squad of twenty-seven men. Vermont will probably again run Tufts at the meet. Last year the team was comprised of Gallagher, Patterson, Owens, and Aiken; and was defeated on the last few laps.

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION IN FULL OPERATION

Schools Well Started—Farmers Interested—A Work of Wide Scope

The extension service of the Department of Agriculture is engaged in much active work this winter. Extension schools for the farmers of the state have been started and are being held in different counties each week. Three of these schools have already been held. They were marked by much enthusiasm on the part of the farmers and were considered by all as a great success. Lessons and demonstrations are given in fundamental agricultural subjects.

In addition to these schools Mr. Thomas Bradlee, who is in charge of the extension work, plans to assist the farmers in many other ways. Exhibits have been placed in all the fairs in the state; boys' club work has been started; demonstration work is planned for the spring; a series of educational butter tests is being held; agricultural lecturers will be sent out by the College whenever a chain of lectures in a series of towns can be arranged for a single trip; informational circulars are planned which will deal with specific topics, limes, fertilizers, balancing of rations, mixingsprays, etc. The College is co-operating with any organization in the state that wishes assistance.

The extension schools which are now being held throughout the state

BASEBALL TEAM PLAYS 34 GAMES

Long Schedule Announced—A Southern Trip—Fine Material

With a wealth of old and new material, with a schedule of 34 games, one of the longest in years, and with George L. Winter as coach the coming baseball season bids fair to be a successful one. Working under handicaps of lack of time and lack of money Manager J. Howard Moore has turned out a schedule which is creditable in every way. The home games are not as good as in some years, but the policy of the trustees in taking over all gate receipts this year naturally accounts for this. Vacations and holidays have been utilized to such an extent that the team will be able to play this long schedule with a minimum amount of interference in studies.

The schedule is as follows:

March 26—Trinity at Durham, N. C.
March 27—North Carolina A. and M. at Raleigh, N. C.
March 28—University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, N. C.
March 30—Washington and Lee at Lexington, Va.
March 31—University of Virginia at Charlottesville, Va.
April 1—Georgetown at Washington.
April 2—Mt. St. Mary's at Emmitsburg, Md.
April 3—Washington Americans at Washington.
April 4—Catholic University at Washington.
April 24—Colby at Burlington.
April 25—Colby at Burlington.
April 29—Syracuse University at Burlington.
May 1—Georgetown at Burlington.
May 4—Penn. State at Burlington.
May 7—Dartmouth at Hanover.
May 9—Middlebury at Middlebury.
May 14—Harvard at Cambridge.
May 15—Amherst at Amherst.
May 16—Tufts at Burlington.
May 21—St. Lawrence University at Burlington.
May 23—Mass. Aggies at Burlington.
May 26—Colgate at Hamilton.
May 27—Cornell at Ithaca.

WINTER SPORTS IN FULL SWING

Good Rink at Centennial Field

As college opens winter sports in Burlington are going full blast. The toboggan slide and skating rink on Shelburne Street are better than ever before. These are under the management of the Winter Sports Club. A ticket costing one dollar will admit a man and lady throughout the season to all privileges of the rink and slide, which are open every afternoon and evening during good weather. Toboggans may be rented at the slide. There is good coasting on Maple Street several afternoons and evenings each week. Many are enjoying the tobogganing on Hospital Hill. Committees are appointed to start things in skiing, snowshoeing, hockey, and curling.

There is now at Centennial Field the best rink adjacent to the University that we have been able to secure in the last three years. It is about 90x180 feet, the ice is of excellent quality, and a little work on the part of hockey enthusiasts in putting up boards and goals will give us the hockey facilities which have been so much desired. If the college shows the proper interest in class hockey this year, Dr. Beecher believes that a start in inter-collegiate hockey can be made next winter, when the athletic treasury is in better shape.

POSTPONEMENT OF PLAY "Just Out of College" After Mid-Years

The Wig and Buskin have decided to postpone the presentation of George Ade's play, "Just Out of College," until after mid-years. It seemed especially appropriate that a play with such a title should follow close on the heels of the examinations. It will be presented in the Majestic about Feb. 12.

Several parts in the play are still open. There are several opportunities for men who wish to get some training in preparation for the junior week play.

MILITARY BALL HELD LAST NIGHT

The second annual military ball was held last night in the gymnasium. The entire University battalion with their ladies, the faculty and their wives and many other personal friends of Captain and Mrs. Reeves were invited. Several ceremonies took place. A complete report will be published next week.

BASEBALL TEAM PLAYS 34 GAMES

May 28—Fordham at New York.
May 30—Manhattan at Burlington.
June 1—Colgate at Burlington.
June 4—Holy Cross at Worcester.
June 5—Mass. Aggies at Amherst.
June 6—Yale at New Haven.
June 13—Middlebury at Burlington.
June 20—Dartmouth at Burlington.
June 22—Williams at Williams-town.
June 23—Chinese University of Hawaii at Burlington.
June 24—Alumni.

WELL PLANNED SOUTHERN TRIP

The southern trip is the best that has been arranged in years. It includes nine games, all of which will be played during Easter vacation. If the game with the Washington Americans proves a good drawing card, the trip will be a financial success. This game is to be a big feature of the trip. Should the Senators pitch Walter Johnson the management announce that they will make arrangements to send home in a special car any man that gets a hit. The team will leave Burlington for the southern trip on the noon of March 24, fifteen men taking the trip. After spending half a day in New York the team will leave on the afternoon of the 25th and make the big jump from New York to Durham, N. C. The next long jump of the trip, from North Carolina to Lexington, Va., will be taken on Sunday, March 29th. Here a game will be played with the University of Virginia. This fine old college was on our schedule in the whirlwind baseball season of '93, and it seems good to play them again after an interval of several years. The team will then make Washington its headquarters for five days. On April 5 the boys will land in New York and return to their respective homes for the remainder of the vacation. The southern trip will be the only opportunity for outdoor practice before the opening of the regular season. With short rail road jumps and nine games with teams of varying caliber this trip ought to put the men in fine shape for the remainder of the schedule.

In addition to the southern trip there are eight games on the schedule which come while college is not in session. Georgetown comes to Burlington on Founder's Day; returning to the schedule after several years' absence; St. Lawrence and Massachusetts Aggies play here during junior week; the Manhattan game is played on Memorial Day; the Dartmouth, Williams, Chinese University of Hawaii, and the Alumni games all come after college is out. This leaves but 17 games which are played during college.

INNOVATIONS IN THE SCHEDULE

The management was very fortunate in being able to secure games with Harvard and Yale at convenient positions on the schedule. Formerly we have played them early in the season before the Varsity could have the opportunity of rounding into form. This year the Yale game comes near the close of the season, on June 6. The Harvard game on May 14 is at a date which will be advantageous for the Vermont team.

Fordham was latter added to the schedule in order that a game might be played in New York for the alumni to see. The three games during commencement season will be appreciated by alumni and friends who can return at that time.

Cornell will not play in Burlington this year, because that college has omitted the New England trip of the past two years in which Yale, Dartmouth, Williams, and Vermont were played. Our home schedule is not up to the standard of recent years. As has been explained before, the trustees have seen fit to make this year's athletics meet all of the athletic debt which has been accruing for five or six years. Every cent of the gate receipts goes to the trustees to apply on the old debt, so every home game is a dead loss to the present athletic treasury. This policy of course makes it impossible to offer many big home games.

GOOD MATERIAL FOR COACH WINTER

The material for the team is very promising. There still remains of the old team, Captain Berry, Malcolm, (who will return to college at mid-years), Mayforth, Maiden, Gallagher, Frazer, Lyons, Linnehan, Fitzpatrick and Gilbert. There is an abundance of new material in the freshman class. Prospects are good for a heavy-hitting team. The outlook for a winning team was never better.

Every man who plans to try out for the team must give his name to Manager Moore at once. This is a faculty ruling.

George L. Winter will coach again this year. Winter has had a remarkable baseball career. He has been on two world champion teams, the Red Sox and Detroit. In his time he was one of the best twirlers in the game. He was especially in demand as a hard-luck pitcher. With a great head in a pinch he could always pull his team out of a bad hole. He has had considerable minor league experience, and is now much sought after by Tinker for the Federal League in Chicago. He did well with last year's team when good material was scarce. With the wealth of material at hand this year he should turn out a fine aggregation.

Cage practice opens on February 8. Winter has a new system of coaching which he will try out. He will be glad of help from any alumni who are in town during the days of practice and who will be willing to coach individuals in their positions.

Several men are planning to accompany the team on the southern trip. If any others wish to do so, they may give their names to Manager Moore and reservations will be made. The cost per man is about $75.

"FATHER AND SONS" MOVEMENT

Robert E. Lewis, '92, Chairman—
Started in Cleveland—Many Cities Take It Up

"The Father and Sons" movement was recently launched in Cleveland by a proclamation of the mayor on New Year's Day. Robert E. Lewis, '92, General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Cleveland, is chairman of the committee which inaugurated the movement. Mayor Newton D. Baker was asked by 21 citizens to issue a proclamation to the citizens of Cleveland, particularly to the fathers and sons, "urging that on New Year's and throughout the succeeding days, they give expression to the inherent desire for mutual companionship".

The mayor responded with a proclamation "directing the attention of the people with special force to those simple relationships and virtues upon which the soundness of all social organization must depend." His closing words were: "If we can begin the new year with the resolve that our sons shall be more our companions and our fathers more our comrades it will add both to the sweetness of our private life and to the value of our citizenship".

Mr. Lewis by way of explanation writes: "It is not our purpose to found any new organization or society, but to sensitize the father mind of great communities wherein the distractions of urban life have already and are increasingly likely to draw fathers and sons apart".

The idea is taking root in many cities. Mr. Lewis has received queries from many communities as far East as Bangor and as far West as Denver.

The Intercollegiate Debate

The following question has been chosen for the triangular debates between Vermont and Middlebury and Norwich. "Resolved: That Congress should pass a joint resolution definitely promising independence to the Philippines at a date not later than ten (10) years in the future." The exact date of the debates and other details will be announced as soon as they are arranged.

Agricultural Extension in Full Operation

form an important part of the work of the extension service. An Extension School is simply a school of instruction for the farmers,—more formal, more educative, more helpful, lasting longer than the farmers' institute. Farmers are regularly enrolled as students. The various subjects are handled as systematically as in a school. Lessons and demonstrations are given and whenever possible actual practice is done. The farmer-student is not only told how and shown how to prune a tree, or judge a cow, or test a soil for acidity; he himself, under direction, does these things. It is much like Farmers' Week at the University brought to the farmers' doors.

Each school lasts five days. There are five sessions daily, each an hour long. The following subjects are taught in practically all the schools: soils, dairy management, and feeds and feeding. In addition several general lectures are given on such subjects as poultry, fruit, forestry, etc. One school is held in each county, after a sufficient number of farmers have applied and enrolled for attendance. No school will be held in Orleans County, as not enough interest was shown.

The first school was held in South Barre, opening Dec. 1. It was an encouraging opening. The average daily attendance was 54. The farmers were deeply interested and it was evident that they were ready for that type of work. The second was held the following week in Thetford Center. At first this was not as encouraging, but interest grew during the week. The third was held in Jericho. Here much live interest was shown. These three schools have been attended with so much success that it seems evident that the agricultural extension service is soon to become one of the most important branches of work at the University.

The schools will be held in the future according to the following schedule:

St. Johnsbury,	Jan. 12-16;
Hartford,	Jan. 19-23;
Richford,	Jan. 26-30;
Newfane,	Feb. 2-6;
Bristol,	Feb. 9-13;
Pittsford,	Feb. 16-20;
Morrisville,	Feb. 23-27;
Some town in Bennington Co.,	Mar. 2-6;
Grand Isle,	Mar. 9-13.

UNIVERSITY AIDS MANY STUDENTS DIRECTLY

Employment Found—Summary of Scholarships and Aids

As most of its readers are probably aware, the CYNIC is conducting an investigation to determine how many of the students are wholly or partially self-supporting, or in other words, what are the chances for a poor student at Vermont. As a kind of preliminary to this investigation the CYNIC wrote to the chairman of the Student Employment Committee inquiring as to the actual number of students whom the committee has helped to secure employment; as to the relation between the supply of student labor and the demand for it; and as to any difficulties which the committee meets in its work. This is the substance of the reply.

Regular employment has been secured for about fifty men; of this number over half are waiters at Commons Hall or down town or are laboratory assistants. The others are employed at the Experiment Station and Farm and in caring for furnaces, sidewalks, etc. In addition to these regular positions about one hundred seventy-five odd jobs have been obtained for students who cannot do regular work or for whom it cannot be obtained. It is impossible to say just how many men have shared these 175 odd jobs.

About six men who have applied for work this year have been unable to obtain it and the supply of student labor is usually greater than the demand for it, except for short periods in the spring and fall when the case is reversed. There is the least call for work in the spring, although that is the time when there is the greatest amount available. A much larger percentage of young women have been secured employment than of young men, probably because there is much more indoor work available and the number of young women is much less. Agricultural students seem to find it easier to secure work than those of the other colleges, probably because their training fits them to do more kinds of work well.

The chief problems of the committee are two in number. First, it very often happens that those who want work are not free to do it just when it is offered. A few manage to keep their college work in such shape that they can go at almost any time but it is very difficult to do this and it requires good management and much foresight on the part of the student. In this connection it has been suggested that a man be employed by the University to turn his entire attention to the matter of student employment; also that some kind of industry be established on the campus which does not require skill-led or regular workers. A printing plant or a cement block factory are suggested. Another serious question is that of irresponsibility and efficiency on the part of students. Not much needs to be said on this point, but every student worker should realize that in failing to give satisfaction he injures not only himself but every other poor student who may subsequently wish outside work.

Prof. Cummings, the chairman of the committee, in his reply to the CYNIC questions wished to acknowledge the assistance which has been rendered by the college Y. M. C. A.

A summary of the other methods by which the University directly helps students might not be out of place here. The largest item is that of the 90 state scholarships at $80 per year. In addition to these there are 85 ordinary scholarships which give $50 per year. This makes a total of $11,450, which is given to students under the head of scholarships. A number of students are given work by the Buildings and Grounds Committee in laboratory work, assistance to the janitors, and clerical work. Last year $2481.15 was paid for this work at the regular rate of 15 cents an hour. In the military department $630 is annually given to the officers in the upper classes for their services. The chapel choir earn $30 per year. Thus it is seen that University authorities are busy in trying to aid students to support themselves in college, both by securing employment for them in and out of college buildings and by giving nearly $15,000 for student aid.

RAY COLLINS HOLDING OFF

Baseball Fraternity Awaits Action of Officials—Larry Gardner Has Signed

Ray Collins, '09, has not signed up with the Red Sox for the coming season. As a member and officer of the baseball players' fraternity he is awaiting action from the league officials in response to certain demands of the fraternity. This players' association is striving for better conditions for the big league players. Collins is one of four vice-presidents who constitute the advisory board of the fraternity.

Larry Gardner is not in the hold-out, since he signed last season for a term of years. Only three other Red Sox have signed. Reulbach, formerly of Vermont, is another member of the players' advisory board.

1908 Mr. and Mrs. Harold French (Lucy R. Bean) both of the class of 1908, have made their home at Ann Arbor, Mich., (1110 Prospect Street) Mr. French is an instructor in the engineering department of the University of Michigan.

SATURDAY, JAN. 10, 1914.

Winter sports should be considered as one of our best natural assets. It is time that the general public heard less about the rigors of a typical Vermont winter and more about the sport and health-giving enjoyment which our climate, lakes and hills have to offer. There is not a college in the country to our knowledge which has any better natural advantages for winter sports than Vermont. Dartmouth, in the same latitude, has started an Outing Club which has converted liabilities into assets and has made the winter one of the best seasons of the year and the winter sports and the annual winter carnival one of the big features of Dartmouth. As college begins again we find that without any effort on our part there are fine opportunities for tobogganing, coasting, and skating. A little work by the Key and Serpent would give us hockey on Centennial Field. None of the rinks and slides are as yet half appreciated by the Burlington public. It hardly seems necessary to have any college organization to promote winter sports, except that hockey needs organized effort behind it. Try out the winter sports yourself, and it will make winter the best season of the college year.

Mid-year examinations will soon be upon us. There is one pertinent question which is always asked concerning examinations at Vermont. It could better be asked before examinations than after. It is the natural inquiry as to why the results of the first half-year's college work are shrouded in mystery for so many days after the examinations are over. Instructors are forbidden to inform anxious students as to their standings. The reports of each student are not out for several weeks. Such delay may seem a small matter, and such it is with many students. It should be remembered, however, that only last year this long suspense caused one highly nervous student to lose his mind temporarily and to wander away in such a manner that his disappearance caused much alarm. His act came solely as the result of anxiety and brooding on his scholastic standing which had been long withheld from him. To an outsider there seems to be not a single good reason why every student should not be informed as to his standing within three or four days after the last examination.

The informal report of the faculty committee on student employment suggests three points which should be considered further. The first of these is that many opportunities for student employment in Burlington are undeveloped; the second is that "student irresponsibility" is no myth and must be seriously considered; the third is that a better employment bureau should be developed which should assist both students and graduates to positions.

The report says that the demand for student labor is seldom as large as the supply, that some students can not find jobs. It is evident that in a city the size of Burlington there should be a good market for student labor if it were properly developed. There must be a demand for manual workers at many Burlington residences where students are not now thought of. In addition there ought to be several scores of jobs where clerical work is required. Large merchants who take inventories, small merchants who send out monthly statements, doctors, dentists, and other professional men who need some bookkeeping work occasionally—all these and many more could furnish steady or periodic work for clear-headed and honest young men. The commercial courses which are so popular ought to be able to increase a student's earning power and give him occasional work at typewriting and bookkeeping in some establishments. Here is a host of opportunities which pay more than 15 cents an hour. A little consistent soliciting would soon create a larger demand for student workers in such positions, where the possibilities are not now realized by the Burlingtonians.

The second point is that any great display of "student irresponsibility" will kill many present and future opportunities. If a college develops irresponsibles, it is not wholly performing its mission. The motives of men who apply for work to any college authorities should be looked into. No man who is looking for soft snaps at odd hours to earn pin money should be helped; those who cause complaints should receive strict justice on all future applications. A student employment bureau should be a business-like organization.

It is furthermore evident that if we are to develop all the opportunities which are latent in Burlington, it is necessary that we have a more systematic and aggressive employment bureau. Such work could occupy most of the time of one man. When the undergraduate department is running smoothly, the employment bureau would find that a free agency would be of great service to the students as they graduate. Many teaching positions within the state could be offered by this bureau to Vermont graduates, saving them teachers' agency fees which are seldom small. Loyal alumni in various fields of work who are looking to employ the kind of men that this University turns out could inform the bureau. The bureau could in addition keep announcements of new civil service positions for the benefit of students who seek positions. But these are mere suggestions to show some of the advantages. The work of such a bureau cannot be completely outlined in advance. It will soon find its mission, and we believe it to be a large one.

Student Council

At the last meeting of the student council held just before the Christmas holidays very little was accomplished as a quorum was not present. Methods of regulating and restricting the use of the bulletin boards, however, were discussed; and a dance was granted Delta Sigma fraternity for January 16th.

The Faculty At Conventions

During the Christmas recess Prof. G. P. Burns attended the conventions of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the Botanical Society of America at Atlanta, Georgia. Prof. Burns read before the latter society a paper entitled "The Relation of Transpiration to Evaporation from Porus Atmospheres." Among the Vermont alumni present at this meeting were W. A. Orton, '97, now of the U. S. Department of Agriculture; C. L. Orton, '92, now of Pennsylvania State College; Perley Spaulding, '00, now of the U. S. Department of Agriculture; and W. J. Morse, '98, formerly an instructor at Vermont, now at the University of Maine. Prof. L. R. Jones of the University of Wisconsin and formerly professor of botany at Vermont was also present.

Professors Tupper, Ogle, Myrick and Appellmann attended the joint convention of the Modern Language Association and the American Philological Association, held at Boston, December 29th to 31st. Prof. Tupper read a paper before the former association entitled, "Chaucer and the Seven Deadly Sins." Among the Vermont alumni present were Prof. George W. Benedict, '93, of Brown University, and Prof. Kirby F. Smith, '84, professor of Latin at Johns Hopkins University.

Prof. S. E. Bassett attended the convention of the Archeological Institute of America, held at Montreal P. Q., Jan. 1st to 3rd. Prof. J. R. Wheeler of Columbia, class of '80, and formerly professor of Greek at Vermont also attended the convention and he and Mrs. Wheeler spent part of the Christmas recess in Burlington.

Prof. A. B. Gifford attended the convention of the American Philosophical Association, which met at Yale University, New Haven, Conn., Dec. 29th to 31st.

Dean G. H. Perkins attended the American Anthropological Association in New York and the American Society of Geologists in Princeton.

Prof. H. F. Perkins attended the meetings of the American Society of Naturalists and the Society of Zoologists in Philadelphia. He also conferred with the Bureau of Fisheries in Washington concerning his investigations in Lake Champlain.

NO. CALIFORNIA ALUMNI BANQUET

Encouraging Meeting — Officers Elected

The annual banquet of the Vermont alumni of Northern California was held on the evening of December thirteen at the Hotel Sutter, San Francisco. The number present was smaller than usual but warmed interest and loyalty characterized the gathering. President J. B. Stearns, '91, presided. The main feature of the evening was a graphic and cheering report of the present status and life of the University of Vermont given by Dr. Thomas W. Huntington, LL. D., '71, as he observed it at the last commencement season. Dr. Huntington spoke warmly of the work of President Benton, of the constantly gaining college spirit, of the increasing efficiency of the Medical Department, and of the encouraging outlook on all sides. Mr. S. S. Wabber of the class of 1865 and President W. H. Landon, '74, spoke in an optimistic vein. A letter was read from President Benton. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Prof. J. W. Buckham, '85; secretary, J. H. Brackett, '03.

MILITARY PROMOTION MADE

The following promotions in the University Infantry Battalion are announced, which became effective Dec. 26, 1913:

To be Battalion Sergeant Major, Lindol French.

To be Color Sergeants, Raymond S. Grismer, Robert Pease.

To be First Sergeants:

Co. A, Paul L. Ransom;

Co. B, Theodore H. Ockels;

Co. C, John V. Piper;

Co. D, Chauncey H. Hayden.

To be Company Quartermaster Sergeants:

Co. A, Neal R. Fosgate;

Co. B, Morris R. Wilcox;

Co. C, Clement C. Smith;

Co. D, John L. Cootey.

To be Sergeants:

Co. A, Wesley T. Abell, Robert R. Bogie, Walton H. Scott, W. E. Armstrong;

Co. B, Carroll M. Pike, McKendree Petty, John J. Finnessy;

Co. C, Cassius H. Styles, Chester R. Boyce, Chandler S. Gates;

Co. D, K. C. Hoh, Harold A. Mack, Walter S. Weeks.

Rifle Club Activities

The schedule for the intercollegiate rifle matches is as follows:

Jan. 8.	U. V. M. versus	Kansas.
" 15.	"	Cornell.
" 22.	"	Wisconsin.
" 29.	"	Dartmouth.
Feb. 5.	"	Wash. State.
" 12.	"	Oklahoma.
" 19.	"	Maine.
" 26.	"	Lehigh.
Mar. 5.	"	U. S. Naval Academy.
" 12.	"	Columbia.
" 19.	"	Clemson Aggies.

The interclass match was run off Dec. 19. There were supposed to be ten men on each side but as only three representatives of the sophomore and none of the senior class appeared, the match, which was determined by totals and not by averages, went by default, so to speak, to the juniors and freshmen. Some good shooting was done, however. The names of the contestants and their total scores follow:

J. J. Finnessy, '16, 186; F. Corley, '16, 176; P. L. Ransom, '16, 175; R. W. Daniels, '15, 94; (prone only); P. H. Gates, '15, 180; H. C. Fiske, '15, 158; R. J. Anderson, '15, 158; C. Burleson, '17, 157; F. W. Baker, '15, 152; J. S. Hunt, '15, 142; R. E. Minckler, '15, 133; E. M. Root, '17, 137; E. W. Mudgett, '17, 103. The intercompany match will be run off at some time in the near future. The best shot in the University will be determined by a comparison of the results of all three matches, the individual, the interclass, and the intercompany.

STUDENT ENCAMPMENT ARRANGEMENTS

The vacation has seen the completion of several of the arrangements for the student encampment. The city fathers met on the night of Dec. 31. The city mothers stayed at home and saw the old year out and wondered how long it would be before they could be alderwomen. The fathers after considerable discussion voted to guarantee for the proposed camp ground certain features in the way of water supply, sewer system, and electric lighting. They also instructed the various city departments to install light, water and sewer systems in accordance with specification of the War Department. Detailed blue prints of the camp have been made, permission has been received for use of all the land, and manoeuvre privileges have been secured on much adjoining land.

Some of the discussion of the meeting was edifying. Alderman Reynolds wanted to know "what would be the result of having 1500 or 2,000 students let loose in Burlington." Mayor James E. Burke said these students would be no worse than the students on the hill at the present time. Alderman Reynolds replied that Mayor Burke knew as well as he did that the whole garrison at Fort Ethan Allen couldn't keep 1500 students from upsetting the town if they took it into their heads to do so. Aldermen Walker and Buell objected to seeing people heading off things from coming to Burlington.

1899 Alvin M. Taylor, the newly elected president of the Chicago Alumni Association, is superintendent of the works of the General Chemical Company located at South Chicago. Following graduation, Mr. Taylor acted as assistant in the department of chemistry of the University of Vermont.

THE ADVERTISING SITUATION

Advertisers and the University

The use of newspapers and periodicals as means of advertising came about through the inherent advantages of these publications in economy of distribution over the trouble and expense of circular letters, etc. A great many possible patrons could be reached in this manner at a very reasonable expenditure. And at the same time the income of the publication was increased, a better paper could be put out, the subscription price could be lowered, and thus all parties concerned were benefited.

Newspaper advertising, like all other advertising and devices for attracting trade, is speculation. Although the number of persons whom the "ad" will reach may be known, it is impossible to tell how many will be attracted by it; or how many, attracted, will be directed to buy. And too many merchants of the present day are vexed by this speculative aspect and fail to make proper use of this opportunity. It is now an investment which, after years of trial, has become an important part of the running expenses of every successful merchant and business enterprise.

Although we believe that the merchants of this city do appreciate the general principle and advantages of advertising in general, we do not believe that they all take the proper attitude toward our college papers as a medium of advertising. We can appreciate the reasons for cutting out advertising in all publications except regular, second class periodicals, although it hits us pretty seriously in the case of the Ariel. But granting this as good policy, we are convinced that our college periodicals possess a distinct advantage over others in a number of respects.

First, they reach college students, college graduates, and people interested in college affairs and training whom we believe are first-class people to seek as patrons. Second, a recent vote of the student body to support, en masse, the student publications carries the "ad" to every student in the University besides many other subscribers among the faculty, alumni, etc. Third, these publications are not private money-making corporations; but they are the papers of and by the students. And thus interested in them, and prompted by the spirit of "help-those-who-help-you," every student will show due regard for the support of those who aid him directly or indirectly.

We feel that too many of our patrons give merely out of a spirit of reciprocity, when they should not consider it as such. And many others neither realize the value of our advertising nor have this reciprocity spirit. It is humiliating for us to ask or take on this basis. And although we appreciate such contributions, we feel that it is often an unfair attitude on the part of many of our patrons.

We hope to see in the near future the time the merchants will realize more fully what a valuable asset our University is to them, and in that capacity make use of it; and that students and business men alike will make proper use of cooperation and mutual help, and thus bring about the long-wished-for bigger, better, busier Burlington and a bigger, better, busier University.

LETTER FROM OUR OLDEST GRADUATE

Council Bluffs, Iowa,
Dec. 18, 1913

PROF. J. E. GOODRICH, U. V. M.
DEAR BROTHER:

It is a good while since I received your favor telling me that I am the senior living alumnus of our grand old University. God has been good to me in keeping me here so long and preserving so well my vital energies. But nothing is more certain than death, and the time of my departure cannot be far away. My wife departed this life Dec. 16, 1904. Though attended by affectionate children and grandchildren, I cannot but miss the one whose life was bound up with mine for more than half a century in the most sacred and tender of all human relations.

The past few months have been strenuous for one of my years. March 23 (Easter Sunday) was a pleasant day. I attended morning prayer-meeting and assisted in the morning service. In the afternoon attended our mission school. Had been at home but a few minutes when we were visited by a tornado that swept a path of destruction through the populous part of Omaha, the southern part of Council Bluffs, and much territory outside. Three of those killed were members of our church and had been my close friends for years. My house was left standing being just outside the twister, but the chimney was broken and two days later the house burnt down. I found a home with a daughter while rebuilding. I am now in my own study again, with a married granddaughter and her husband to care for me. I was little affected by the fire, but the cyclone with its desolation, sorrow and death still haunts me. My eyesight is getting dim, my hearing is good. My voice is strong so that I do some public speaking.

I love the old University. It is the same I left sixty-eight years ago, only it has grown and taken on changes to meet the changing world with its new demands. There is no other so fitting spot on the globe for a university as that occupied by the U. V. M. The Green Mountains on one side and the Lake on the other and the rich green fields, hills, and dales between. It must be a dull mind that is not inspired by such a scene to a nobler life and heroic doing.

God bless the U. V. M., those who bear its responsibilities and all who come under its influence!

With kind regards:

Yours truly,
(REV.) GEORGE GABY RICE
Class of 1845, born 22 Sept., 1819.

Three Vermont Men in Government Survey

Professor H. F. Perkins, '98, Hovey Jordan, '13, and F. S. Hoag, '11, spent the summer in a study of the food fishes of Lake Champlain under the joint auspices of the National Bureau of Fisheries and the Vermont fish and game commission. Several professional fishermen were also employed in this research. The inquiry was primarily for the purpose of finding out everything possible about the whitefish, with a view to establishing a commercial fishery. A large amount of equipment, including a powerful motor boat was called into requisition and a series of five camps have been established at different localities on the lake from Shelburne Bay on the south to the Canada line on the north. Some interesting observations have been made. For instance a considerable number of smelt have been taken, though this fish generally keeps out of sight in the summer time. Three sturgeons, a few billfish, and a twelve pound pickerel are also numbered among the summer's catch. Small fish were discovered in water as deep as 350 feet.

BELYEA ONLY FOOT-BALL VICTIM

But One Fatality In 1914 Season

Verner S. Belyea, the Norwich captain, who was fatally injured in the Holy Cross game, was the only man who died in 1914 as a direct result of college football. Such was the report of Physical Director George W. Ehler of the University of Wisconsin at the eighth annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association in New York on December 30.

In investigating football fatalities Mr. Ehler found that there were four deaths during the football season. Three of these did not come as the result of the game. Two men were injured and died weeks afterward from pneumonia, as the result of improper care. The third had spinal meningitis which was present before the game and which was the direct cause of his death.

Belyea's death could be traced directly to football, but was caused by unnecessary roughness in direct violation of the rules. Belyea, the report says, received the ball and ran down the side lines. A Holy Cross player tackled him and threw him out of bounds. While Belyea was trying to fall forward rather than backward, another Holy Cross player threw himself upon Belyea, who landed upon the back of his head with his face pressed against his chest, forcing his shoulders up over his head and fracturing the fifth and sixth vertebrae and completely crushing the spinal cord. Mr. Ehler was of the opinion that this accident was not due to the style or method of the game, but was due to the rough and unnecessary tackle from behind.

Do Fertilizers Pay?

The Government and Educational "Authorities" spend considerable public money in printing contradictory statements on this point.

Great fortunes have been made in manufacturing fertilizers. They evidently pay the makers.

Farmers continue to increase their fertilizer purchases, indicating that they are profitable to the farmer.

But are the kinds which the manufacturers prefer to sell the most profitable to the farmer? Do they give the greatest profit consistent with maintaining the productiveness of the soil? Or do they merely supply the element most needed at the moment and reduce the available supply of the other elements?

The average fertilizer contains 4 times as much phosphoric acid as Potash. The average crop takes from the soil 3 times as much Potash as phosphoric acid. You can guess the answer. Use more Potash, for

1914 FOOTBALL SCHEDULE READY

PLAY FOUR NEW TEAMS

Several Changes Next Fall— Strong Teams Added

Manager W. A. Sturges has announced the football schedule for 1914. The schedule contains nine games, two of them home games. It is as follows:

Sept. 30—Middlebury at Burlington
Oct. 3—Williams at Williamstown
Oct. 10—Maine at Manchester, N. H.

Oct. 17—Dartmouth at Hanover
Oct. 24—Colgate at Hamilton
Oct. 31—Brown at Providence
Nov. 7—New Hampshire State at Burlington

Nov. 14—Fordham at New York
Nov. 21—Class game

Nov. 26—Holy Cross at Worcester

There are six strong teams upon the schedule. Four new games appear. Maine returns to the schedule after an absence of two years. The last game with Maine in 1911 resulted in 17-0 Maine victory, after a scoreless tie in 1910. This past season the Maine team tied Yale and held Harvard to a low score. Maine will be played in a neutral city, Manchester, where football games are said to be scarce and popular.

Colgate is played at Hamilton. This is the first time in many years that this college appears on the football schedule. Colgate defeated Yale this year and played a close game with the Army.

New Hampshire State will be played at Burlington after being off the schedule four years. They were defeated in 1909 by a score of 11 to 0.

The Vermont-Holy Cross game at Worcester on Thanksgiving Day should prove quite a drawing card. A Holy Cross game has always been a close one. The last game in 1913 the Varsity lost 13 to 0.

Dartmouth and Brown remain on the schedule as always. The former comes one week later than usual.

Williams and Middlebury, who were played last fall after an absence of about five years each, will occupy the same places this year.

The class game is set forward one week, to the old date.

The schedule was arranged with

WILLIAM E. WHALEN KAKE WALK CHAIRMAN

Committee Appointed—the Big Event On Feb. 23

William E. Whalen is the chairman of the Kake Walk Committee which has been appointed by President St. John. The remainder of the committee is as follows: D. W. Howe, '14, R. B. Smith, '15, K. H. Emerson, '14, J. E. Rapuzzi, '15, E. S. Grace, '14, C. S. Ferrin, '15, L. W. Douglass, '14, I. D. Everitt, '15.

This committee is smaller than usual, since it is thought best that honor and work should go together, and most of the work of past committees has fallen upon a few of the members. This committee will be aided by one man from each fraternity. Each fraternity is expected to supply one assistant to the committee whenever needed. The work of arranging chairs in the gymnasium will require much help of this kind.

Since Washington's birthday comes on Sunday, the Kake Walk will be held on Monday, Feb. 23.

It is announced that no favoritism will be shown to anyone by the committee as to the first choice on seats. President Benton and the members of the athletic committee will alone be allowed to make reservations before the general ticket sale.

the purpose of pulling the athletic treasury out of the hole. It is not expected that the baseball gate receipts this year will quite meet the old debt, but the football season which follows should square it all up. This aim is responsible for the conservative financial policy which is seen upon a close examination of the schedule, and causes but two home games.

STATE FLAG GIVEN AT MILITARY HOP

Gift From Loyal Legion— Fitting Ceremonies—Captain and Mrs. Reeves Receive 600 Guests

The second annual military ball, which was given at the University gymnasium by Captain and Mrs. Ira L. Reeves last Friday night, Jan. 9, was pronounced even a greater success than that of last year. There were about 300 couples in attendance, including the members of the University battalion and their ladies, and the members of the faculty and their wives. Also as special guests, many of the second cavalry officers from Fort Ethan Allen and their wives, all the class officers, members of the Boulder Society, Key and Serpent Society, Student Council, and the cadet officers of last year, as well as many other friends of Captain and Mrs. Reeves were invited.

The reception commenced at eight and continued until nine o'clock. Those who made up the receiving line were Captain and Mrs. Ira L. Reeves, Mrs. Guy Potter Benton, General and Mrs. Crosby P. Miller, General and Mrs. Stephen P. Jocelyn, General and Mrs. Theodore S. Peck, Miss Theodora Peck, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Isham and Dr. and Mrs. Lyman Allen.

At nine o'clock the bugles sounded the "drill call," followed by the "assembly call," and the program was opened with a grand march, music being furnished by the military band. The program consisted of 12 dances. Music was rendered by Gordon's six piece orchestra. The band furnished music for two dances.

WARRANTS AND COMMISSIONS GIVEN

The principal ceremonies of the evening took place during the first intermission. As the bugles sounded the "officers' call" the officers and non-commissioned officers of the University infantry battalion formed in order of grade and marched into the gymnasium hall to receive their commissions and warrants, forming in three lines in front of the speaker's stand. General Stephen P. Jocelyn, with a few well-chosen words, made the presentation of the commissions and warrants to the officers and non-commissioned officers. At

TO FORM INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CYNIC:—

The Boulder Society is strongly in favor of an Inter-Fraternity Conference at Vermont, and would like to see a strong and active one started as soon as possible. Such an organization would better inter-fraternity relations and would establish a rushing agreement. The need for it is strongly felt.

We therefore recommend that each fraternity, academic and medical, send one representative to a meeting in the Marsh Room of the library on Monday, Feb. 9 at 4:20 p. m., where such a conference may be formed.

The Boulder Society.

UNIVERSITY SERVICE

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

Sunday Evening 7:30

Tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock the second in a series of University services will be held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Rev. C. C. Wilson, chaplain of the University battalion will preach a sermon of peculiar interest to college students. The new memorial organ, which is one of the finest in New England will be played during the service and a short recital will follow. Special and familiar hymns will be sung and the entire service will be for college people. At the first service in November over 450 students and faculty attended and it is hoped that tomorrow evening the church will be crowded. Everyone who is in any way connected with the University is cordially invited to attend.

ANOTHER BASEBALL

GAME ADDED

In addition to the baseball schedule which was published last week, a game with West Point has been secured for May 20. This makes 35 games. Schedules in handy pocket form will be issued as usual to CYNIC readers at a later date.

Engineering Banquet Feb. 21

The Engineering Banquet which has been almost an annual affair will be held on February 21 after being omitted for a year.

STATE FLAG GIVEN AT MILITARY HOP

the command from the senior officer the officers and non-commissioned officers then marched from the hall.

PRESENTATION OF STATE FLAG

The second ceremony consisted of the presentation of a beautiful hand-embroidered silk state flag to the battalion by the Vermont Commandery, Military Order of the Loyal Legion. The bugles sounded the "reveille," the "first call" and the "assembly". At the last call Color Sergeants Robert Pease and Raymond Grismer, the former carrying an empty flag sling and the latter the United States flag of the battalion accompanied by the color guard and a special guard composed of the captains and 1st sergeants of the four companies, marched to a position in front of the speaker's stand. The presentation speech was made by General Crosby P. Miller, U. S. A. (retired), the senior vice-commander of the Vermont Commandery.

The committee appointed by the Vermont Commandery to procure the flag consisted of ex-Gov. Woodbury, General Miller and General T. S. Peck, and these three gentlemen together with General Stephen P. Jocelyn U. S. A. (retired), comprised the presentation party. General Miller spoke as follows:—"To the President of the University and the University Battalion:—The Military Order of the Loyal Legion has for one of its most important objects to foster the cultivation of military and naval science and maintain national honor, union and independence. The Commandery of Vermont having had some fifty-five members either graduates of, or on duty with the University of Vermont, takes an especial interest in the University and in the training and development of its students.

"You young men, students of this University are fortunate in having as president a man who takes a deep interest in the military department. You are also fortunate in having as commandant an army officer of experience, both in the field and in camp, fitted for his work by long experience at other colleges, and finally—what counts greatly—takes a personal interest in every man under his instruction.

"You will have next summer at your University one of the student military camps. This is an opportunity all members of the battalion should take advantage of if possible.

"It has been noted by the Vermont Commandery that you have been taking an increased interest in your drills and military instructions.

"In recognition of your good work, and hoping to encourage you to increased effort in the future, the Vermont Commandery of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion takes pleasure in presenting the battalion of the University of Vermont this beautiful flag, the flag of our dear and honored State of Vermont, the flag under which thirty-five thousand of Vermont's best young men marched to the front in the Civil War to fight for the preservation of the union, of which five thousand never returned. No one knows when your turn will come, but when it does we know you will not be lacking in patriotism, and will be ready for any sacrifice. Now is the time for you, young men, to fit yourselves by learning the military art. I now present to you from the Vermont Commandery of the Loyal Legion the State flag of Vermont."

Roderic M. Olzendam, 1st lieutenant of Co. D., responded for the battalion in a few appropriate words. He thanked the Loyal Legion for their gift, dwelling upon the fitness of the gift of the State flag to the student battalion of the University, whose interests are so closely knit with the interests and welfare of the State.

"THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER"

After this speech of acceptance the lights were turned out and colored stereoptican views of scenes suggestive of the "Star Spangled Banner" were thrown upon the screen, the band playing the "Star Spangled Banner". After this ceremony the color sergeants placed the flags in places provided for them near the speaker's stand and the guards marched out.

After the presentation of the flag several were called upon for brief extemporaneous remarks. Ex-Governor Urban A. Woodbury spoke of the significance of the flag, saying,—"Old Glory has never been lowered for another power. Our State flag, too, is full of meaning to Vermonters who carried it before them in the Civil War."

General T. S. Peck, when called upon, said, "Few appreciate the magnitude of the coming student encampment. We must give the camp a royal welcome. We have here at Burlington two retired generals; we have Fort Ethan Allen near by. It is a fitting place for the University, and for the military department."

Captain Ira L. Reeves extended a few words of welcome to the Second Cavalry officers and dancing was resumed.

At the second intermission the bugles sounded the "mess call," and refreshments were served, Whalen & Co. acting as caterers. The last number on the dance program was followed by the bugle call, "taps".

The gymnasium hall was tastefully decorated in colors fitting for the occasion. Each company of the battalion had a section of the hall to decorate and the work was carried on under the direction of the respective captains. The decorations consisted in large part of the national colors, dozens of flags, as well as college banners and bunting. Rifles were stacked in a number of places, and everything possible was done to give the place a military air. All members of the cadet battalion appeared in full uniform.

ARIEL WORK PROGRESSING

Some Changes Planned—Fine Book Forecasted

The plans of the 1915 Ariel board are fast maturing, the financial success seems assured, and no stone will be left unturned to make it a record Ariel.

The general idea of the book is to make it more lively and of greater interest to the whole college rather than to one class. It will be larger than usual, containing about 300 pages and the arrangement will be more compact than that of recent Ariels. The whole book will be printed in dark green ink. Each page will have an artistic border in tint with a panoramic picture of the campus at the top. There will be more snapshots of college scenes than usual, and any good views which anyone in the college may have are solicited so that this department may be full and interesting.

The binding will be unusually handsome. The cover will be of blue ooze-leather. Some of the changes in the arrangement of the book are announced now. There will be pictures of the deans of the colleges. The fraternity chapter rolls will be omitted, and each fraternity will be given two pages. These will include pictures of the various chapters and small vignettes of the fraternity houses, instead of the larger cuts. The junior class section will have three juniors on each page. Each junior will have his picture, honors, "grind," and a characteristic pen and ink sketch in his space.

At present about 550 Ariels have been contracted for by students, instructors, and friends. Those who wish to be assured of a copy should apply to Manager Ballard at once. Owing to the expense, not many extra copies will be ordered from the printer. The advertising section of the book is being rapidly filled up, about 20 pages being so far secured.

The contract for printing the book has been awarded to the Tuttle Co. of Rutland. May 1 has been set as the date when the book will be placed on sale.

Senior and junior honor lists are desired at once. All organizations wishing to have their pictures appear in the book must make arrangements to secure them at once. All junior individual pictures are required by the last of the month.

"ALICE IN WONDERLAND"

"Alice in Wonderland" was presented by the girls of Howard Hall and Grassmount last evening in the High School Hall before a large and enthusiastic audience. The play is in three acts and is a dramatization of Lewis Carroll's famous book of the same name. Each of the characters interpreted her part very well, and the clever humor of the lines was thoroughly appreciated by the audience. The costumes, copied from the well-known illustrations of the book, added much to the effectiveness of the production.

A matinee performance will be given this afternoon at three o'clock. The proceeds of both performances will be used for refurbishing the sun-room at Grassmount.

A very large share of the success of the production is due to the work of Miss Marshall, of Prof. Andrews and of Margery Watson, '14, who had charge of the rehearsals. Miss Marshall also directed the designing and making of the costumes.

The cast of characters follows: Alice, Helen Chapin, '17; King of Hearts, Jennie Maxfield, '17; Queen of Hearts, Constance Votey, '16; White King, Esther Ayer, '17; White Queen, Lucy Swift, '16; White Knight, Katherine Dudley, '16; Duchess, Elizabeth Baker, '17; March Hare, Nina Shepardson, '14; Mad Hatter, Grace Nutting, '15; Knave of Hearts, Marion Walker, '17; Tweedledum, Elizabeth Gilmore, '16; Tweedledee, Marjorie Luce, '16; Cook, Almira Watts, '15; Dormouse, Edith Coulman, '14; Baby, by himself.

INDUSTRIAL SERVICE WORK ASSIGNED

At the meeting of the Industrial Service Commission Monday evening, Mr. Clark made a report of all his investigations and work done in behalf of the committee. According to the plan of Captain Reeves, the following men have been placed in full charge of the work at the several working centres: Boardman, '14, The Neighborhood House; Schoff, '14, The Home for Destitute Children on Shelburne Road; Gaylord, '14, all work in Winooski; Taylor, '15, the Lakeside district and Burlington Poor Farm; Leffler, '15, the Italian and Hebrew classes at the Fletcher Library.

There will be no attempt to co-operate with the labor unions for several weeks, until the work already started is well on its feet. A special drawer in the Y. M. C. A. offices, containing supplies, etc., will be accessible to any of the teachers at any time.

The senior class will hold a meeting this morning.

SOPHOMORE HOP VOTED

Committee Chosen—Managers Elected

The sophomores in a meeting on Tuesday voted to hold a hop. The following committee was appointed: Chairmen, P. A. Mack, W. F. Gallagher, W. P. Leutze.

At the same meeting P. L. Ransom was elected hockey manager and A. D. Seaver basketball manager.

Rifle News

The first match in class B of the Inter-Collegiate Shooting League was held January 8 between Vermont and Kansas Universities. Although the Vermont men shot a little below their average at the inter-class match a week ago the showing was creditable. The returns from Kansas have not been received as yet but it is hoped that Vermont made a strong start in this nation-wide contest. The Vermont men and their scores follow:—

E. M. Washburn	190
P. H. Gates	190
F. P. Corley	189
J. J. Finnessy	189
R. R. Bogie	185

The Inter-Company rifle match was won by Company A; Co. C came second.

Reception Tendered Dr. and Mrs. Benton and Daughter

From Oxford (Ohio) Forum

As an indication of the love and esteem in which Dr. Benton and his family are held in Oxford one had only to note the delight with which old friends and acquaintances greeted them Wednesday night. It was at a reception in their honor given in Bishop Hall and a continual stream of people filed into the building from eight o'clock until nearly ten—one would have thought that the village had given itself over en masse to this affair. The reception was given by the faculty of Miami University. After guests greeted Dr. and Mrs. Benton and daughters they were invited to the dining hall where Mrs. Kuhne and Miss Covington poured coffee and chocolate.

EDUCATIONAL BUTTER SCORING

Help For Vermont Dairymen

During 1914 the extension service of the Agricultural College plans to do educational butter scoring for Vermont dairymen and creamerymen, in much the same way that similar work has so successfully been done in New York, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Minnesota and other dairy states. It is believed that here as there it will help markedly to grade up the quality of dairy products.

Four times yearly shipments will be made to the extension service headquarters at Burlington by such dairymen and creamerymen as desire to take advantage of the opportunity. These shipments—preferably five pound packages—will be carefully judged and scored by a competent board consisting of Orrin Bent, for fifteen years the official scorer of the Vermont Dairymen's Association, H. W. Larsen, the U. S. Government creamery expert now assigned for Vermont service, A. A. Borland, professor of dairy husbandry at the State University and L. W. Ayers, State creamery inspector. Each shipment will be tested for its moisture and its salt contents. Each shipper will receive each time:

(1) A clear statement as to the scoring, and the reasons for failure to score perfect in any respect, together with such suggestions as seem pertinent as to his procedure.

(2) A statement of the water and salt contents of the butter.

(3) The proceeds in full of the sale of his butter, less only the carriage charges.

No prizes will be offered. It is not the object of the work to praise or to throw bouquets, but to criticise freely and frankly—all with a view of bettering the product. No contest, no exhibition, no publication of scores is contemplated, at any rate at present; simply educational work tending to improve the quality of Vermont butter.

Parties interested should write to Thomas Bradlee, director state extension service, Burlington, Vermont.

COLLEGE PLAY WELL UNDER WAY

The trying out for the different parts in the college play, which will be presented at the Majestic, Feb. 12, has been practically completed, and the real work has now begun. Rehearsals are being held every night, and with the cast which has been chosen a brilliant performance may be expected. Many of the stars of former years, as well as several promising new men will be among the actors. This week's work should show much development and rounding out of the various parts.

MISSION STUDY CLASS

A class in mission study has been organized under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. The first meeting which was held Sunday, January the eleventh, was fairly well attended by an enthusiastic band of Y. M. C. A. workers. A course of study on Fisk's book on missions has been arranged for the winter months. The class will meet each Sunday morning at nine o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

is published on Saturday of each week during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont. It will be mainly given over to news, while a literary supplement will, from time to time, be published.

SATURDAY, JAN. 17, 1914

It sometimes happens that a graduate or friend of the University has a modest amount of money which he wishes to give where its influence will be most felt. We see such gifts illustrated in the annual prizes of the Kingsley prize speaking, and more recently in the scholarship which various alumni in New York are proposing to give each year to some New York boy, and in the Briggs cup which in the last half dozen years has done so much to raise the level of competition in the fraternity Kake Walk stunts. Such gifts can produce tangible results each year. The CYNIC has in mind a new field where a comparatively small amount could make its good influence felt every year. It is in the realm of scholarship, the scholarship of fraternity men. A handsome cup could be offered for the fraternity which makes the best showing in scholarship.

That the fraternity influence is for poor scholarship is a frequent charge. Comparisons between the standings of fraternity men and non-fraternity men have usually, although not always, borne out this charge. To our knowledge there are no fraternities at Vermont whose alumni members do not take a keen interest in the scholarship of the active chapter. There is, however, no steady influence which acts as an incentive upon all the members of the fraternities. A cup which is offered each year for the fraternity whose members have the best scholarship records would soon come to be prized, and would tend to direct inter-fraternity rivalry into very healthy channels.

An inter-fraternity scholarship cup, we understand, is the object of much competition in so large a college as the University of California. Michigan and other colleges have taken up the custom of publishing the standings of the different fraternities. If the members do not all at once enter into the spirit of the competition, they at once try to keep their fraternity from being lowest in the list, and gradually there comes a good rivalry for the first place. There are several details which must be perfected before such a plan could go into operation. The donor would have to decide whether the cup should be given in February or in September of each year, since those are the only two times in the college year when the marks could be announced and the percentages figured. Some fairly accurate method would have to be designed for getting averages from the present marks which are not numerical. We can not see any real difficulties for the working of such a plan, and we believe that all who believe in true scholarship and all who are interested in the welfare of the fraternities would thank the donor of such a gift.

There is a method by which we could get more men from Vermont prep schools which would not require any new organization and but little expenditure. It could be taken up by the Key and Serpent society, the fraternities cooperating. We should arrange to entertain the prep school men who visit in Burlington. This has been done at the recent Kake Walks, at the inter-scholastic track meet, and at the time of games with the football second team, when finances allowed such games to be scheduled. It could be carried out more extensively if we arranged entertainment for the prep school teams which come here to play Burlington High School in football, basketball, and track. There must be 100 Vermont prep school athletes every year who are in Burlington for a day, and no attempt is made to bring them into close contact with the University, to entertain them, talk to them, or show them about the college. At all the basketball games which will be played here this winter there will be six to eight men who will be here all one afternoon and night. If the Key and Serpent could arrange for a meal and sometimes a lodging at a fraternity house for these men, it would bring results.

The Kake Walk is not so far off, as we are reminded by the appointment of the committee. The committee, fraternities and individual Kake walkers have little more than a month in which to prepare for this event which looms so big on the college calendar. It is distinctive with Vermont; it has a high standard which must be maintained. Preparations can not begin too early.

The letter from the alumnus which we print in this number makes recommendations which are very similar to those which have been recently heard at the banquet and at smokers. It takes the matter of a new football system up in considerable detail, and makes some valuable suggestions, as well as showing us the alumni viewpoint. In all the recent recommendations which have been made, however, there have been no names mentioned for a resident coach or graduate manager. This alumnus has one in mind for the former position, and as we turn his letter over to the athletic committee, we hope that the committee will write him and learn whom he suggests.

NOTED MEN ADDRESS AGRICULTURAL STUDENTS

The students of the agricultural course were given a rare treat last Saturday morning, January 10, when Prof. Hugh Van Pelt and Mr. Andrew Elliot addressed them upon agricultural subjects. Mr. Van Pelt the first speaker, held the undivided attention of the large and appreciative body of both short course regular agricultural students. Having formerly been a professor in the University of Iowa, and now editor of Kimball's Dairy Farmer, as the man who fed the prize winning ring of jerseys at the World's Fair at St. Louis, and who is recognized as the foremost judge of dairy cattle in the country, Prof. Van Pelt ranks high among the foremost agricultural leaders and authorities of the world.

He introduced his subject by some remarks concerning the coming change in agriculture for more scientific and businesslike methods. He said that this change was to be brought about by the college-trained young men. And then he introduced the dairy cow and showed how she should become the strongest factor in aiding to bring about the change. The fact that each dairy cow has an individuality of her own, and should be so treated was brought out. Some facts about feeding were brought out and illustrated from the speaker's own experience. At the close of this talk, the audience went with Mr. Van Pelt to the dairy barn, where with one of the station cows as a model, he pointed out the good and bad points of the dairy cow.

Following him Mr. Andrew Elliot spoke on phases of agricultural subjects.

Various other men noted in the agricultural world will address the students during the short courses.

A SUGGESTION

Alumnus Favors A New Football System

Vermont men everywhere, are noting the decline of football at their parent institution with concern and apprehension. This concern is not ill-advised, for beyond the interest and loyalty that success in athletics inspires among the friends of the University, there is the far-reaching influence that it has among those whom it would add to its list of friends. For after all is said, the fact remains that good standing in athletics ranks among the best advertisements of any school, and in colleges, the influence of football surpasses that of all the other branches combined.

A thousand discouragements may beset a team for intervals of time, but they should not overcome progress for a whole season, and certainly not for a series of seasons, and cannot always be laid at the door of Dame Ill-Fortune. The injury "Jinx" gets its best nourishment from lack of training, and from playing men who are already crippled; failure to maintain required scholastic standing can never be attributed to "hard luck".

The CYNIC, in its review of the season was unable to place the blame for failure upon any individual, and in this I heartily agree. In my opinion the trouble lay in the coaching system, or better its lack of system. A one man coaching-staff of wide experience, is unequal to the task of moulding a squad of green material into a football machine—an inexperienced man is bound to encounter even greater difficulty. To change coaches each year does not promote continuous development, for no two men have the same ideas, and players are compelled to use valuable time in unlearning old methods, and practicing new ones, that perhaps, are productive of no better results. Also the one-year coach is almost certain to neglect the second team, for his reputation stands or falls on the present seasons scores, and his time is all too short to develop even the fifteen or twenty men, that look like Varsity material at the start of the season.

That the above destructive criticism is true, I think most will agree; however, it will fall flat unless supplemented by suggestions that aim to construct rather than tear down. My idea would be to engage a graduate head-coach—one in whom all would have confidence; give him a three years' contract, and not expect too much from him the first year. In addition I would secure a younger man from another college, (a line man if the head coach were a back-field player) to assist him. These two working harmoniously would slight neither the backs nor the rush-line, and would have time to work with the scrubs, for the head-coach, at least, would be interested in the nucleus for next year's eleven.

Here, again, I think most agree, for it is practically the system that has been tried and retained by the the greater number of colleges that have attained football success. The two questions that must be met are: Have we an available graduate qualified for head-coach? and, can we raise the funds necessary for the salaries of two men? The second question I shall attempt to answer first: let one or both of these men be capable of earning something in other branches of athletics, the class-room, the registrar's office, or the Y. M. C. A. Work of this nature would not only help to settle the salary question, but would tend to make the coach seem more a part of the University, and would add to his interest in its welfare. I have in mind an answer to the first question and will gladly give his name if requested to do so.

Personally, I believe that a system like the above is practical and possible, moreover, I believe it to be worth a trial; for it would seem that a capable man, given free rein for a period of years,—although he might meet with occasional reverses—could, in the long run, show us something more satisfying than a "wealth of material" and "a splendid schedule."

An Alumnus

THE DEBATING OUTLOOK

STUDENTS OF VERMONT:

During the past few years debating in the University has received little attention. Some three years ago a 1915 Debating Club was organized; one year later the 1916 Club was developed. Now these two organizations, as we all know, have been reorganized into the "University of Vermont Debating Association."

In addition to enlarging the scope of home debating the University through this association has entered the field of inter-collegiate debating. After two try-outs two teams of three men each and two alternates were chosen to represent the U. V. M. The judges, Professors Tupper, Gifford, and Aiken, selected as debaters Bailev, '15, Chatterton, '17, Dean, '15, Hunt, '15, Powers, '15, and Prindle, '15; as alternates, Gates, '15, and Piper, '17. These men are to debate Middlebury and Norwich Colleges late in March.

I believe that we may take it as granted that the whole student body will enthusiastically support these two teams with large attendance at the home debate and with financial aid. The financing of the teams will be taken care of by a manager elected by the association.

So much for the present. The main interest in debate should not center around this triangular debate.

The fundamental issue at stake is whether or not we can create a debating precedent which will firmly establish debate in Vermont. This is the problem.

In past years Vermont has sent out a few phenomenal teams. But when those skilled debaters entered the sterner college, debating was forgotten. But the situation is now much different. There seems to be ample material for the next three years. By ample material I mean material in embryo. Consistent development is the means of producing future teams. That development should commence from the day a prospective debater dons his "yellow top." Because of this the freshmen and sophomores should be the real live mass of the association.

However, I would not underestimate the importance of the juniors and seniors. The juniors particularly hold a very important place. The few 1915 and 1916 men who supported the movement for a debating association are to be congratulated on their achievement. But successful as the work has been and enthusiastically supported as it has been, we can but feel that larger achievements are in prospect. These larger achievements it seems to me can be attained only by a steady and consistent development. The association has an enrollment of fifty and more male students. Excepting one or two meetings the attendance has been very good. But we can do much better than this. An enlarged membership is possible; a larger attendance is necessary.

Before I close I must again say a word to the 1916 and 1917 men. Debating presents to you a many-sided opportunity. First there is the personal element—a chance for individual development. Secondly, there is a social or rather good fellowship element as demonstrated in the regular meetings. And there is also a large opportunity to develop the U. V. M. There is absolutely nothing other than a lack of ambition to keep Vermont from developing into a debating college. There is little need to emphasize the personal, the social, and the collegiate opportunity open to you in this college activity. Because the senior and junior classes will soon become graduates, a greater burden carrying splendid honors falls to you. Will you meet the obligations and grasp the honors?

It will be well to emphasize the fact that the association is not a classical institution. The purpose of the association is both intensive and extensive according to the

Work at the Neighborhood House

For some time members of the Young Women's Christian Association have been assisting Miss Brownell in her work at the Neighborhood House. Classes in gymnasium work have been conducted, and other classes are being organized. There is still opportunity for more workers who can assist on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings. Any girl who is interested in social service work will find here an opportunity to render aid of a very practical sort.

Mr. Guthrie's Talks

At the weekly meeting of the Y. W. C. A. yesterday afternoon Rev. E. G. Guthrie, pastor of the First Church, gave the first of his series of talks on "The Fundamental Principles of Christ's Life and Ministry." The address was very inspiring and was listened to by a large number of girls. The other talks of this series will be given in the next three or four meetings of the association.

Akraia

The meeting of Akraia which was to have been held last Monday evening was omitted because of the severity of the weather.

Debating Club Meeting

The Debating Club met as usual on Monday evening, and listened to a short program. A very interesting paper written by Wong, '17, on the subject, "Marriages in China", was read by Prindle, '15, and a spirited debate over the proposition: "Resolved; That members of the Student Council should vote as they see fit on any questions coming before them," was an event of the meeting. In spite of the severe weather a quorum was present and at a short business meeting Sanford, '15, and Grismer, '16, were respectively elected manager and assistant manager of the debating teams.

AGRICULTURAL CLUB

The Agricultural Club held a very interesting meeting at Morrill Hall, last Tuesday night, Jan. 13. Over fifty men were present, including several of the short course men. The following program was rendered: Reading by Connor, '17; talk on the agricultural extension work, by Carrigan, '14; and the reading of the Vermont Chronicle, edited by Mayforth and Carlton. Prof. Lutman then gave an illustrated talk on, "Grape Culture on the Rhine". This lecture was most interesting. Samples of peas for the agricultural students were passed around and voted upon. Refreshments were then served.

THE ST. PAUL'S CLUB

On Monday night the St. Paul's Club held a meeting at the Sigma Phi House. The subject for discussion was "The Regulation of Amusements and Recreations of a Modern College Student." C. B. Stetson, '15, and J. W. Baker, '15, opened the discussion, Stetson with "Professionalism as Applied to Athletics" and Baker dealing with "Modern Dancing." The general opinion concerning modern dancing was that it could be and should be regulated and that if regulated properly it would be entirely unobjectionable. In discussing means of regulating college amusements the subject of an interfraternity council was brought up. It was thought that such a body would be a great help not only as an aid in regulating college amusements but for the purpose of further regulating and improving the "rushing" system. That the seniors should have a greater prominence in regulating college affairs was thought highly desirable.

Among the speakers were Dr. Bliss and Rev. C. C. Wilson.

The St. Paul's Club has developed wonderfully since its organization and now holds its rank as one of the leading college clubs. It is perhaps the most democratic and progressive club in college embracing as it does members from all the fraternities. Though started by members of St. Paul's Club it is not sectarian in any way and all the denominations are well represented. It acts as a clearing house in which live subjects of college life may be discussed on a common footing.

The next meeting of St. Paul's Club will be held Feb. 16 in the Delta Mu Rooms on Main Street, the subject for discussion being "College Democracy."

preferences of the individual whether he debates or discusses some subject. An attempt is continually made to interest students of the several colleges by calling upon them for work in which they have special interest. Despite the difficulty in discovering individual preferences, this plan is succeeding very well.

Students of Vermont, the University is calling upon you to support an institution which can help in the making of men—"all around four-square men." Now is the opportunity to respond to this call. Knowing that you are each and every one real, true-hearted, loyal Vermont men, the call will not be futile.

ALUMNI NOTES

1865 Rev. Lambert L. Wood, Ph. D., is pastor of the Congregational church of Alexander, California. For four years Mr. Wood was a member of the Montana territorial legislature. He afterward went to Nome, Alaska where he was active in building up religious and educational institutions. Later he became pastor of the Taylor church, Seattle.

1887 George L. Wheelock has been made treasurer of the Century Co. of New York, publishers. Mr. Wheelock went into the publishing business in Boston on leaving college, going from there to the office of the Century Co. in New York after three years. He has held various positions in the company being for the past 12 years manager of the sales department.

1889 Dr. Walter H. Merriam is a prominent physician in Cleveland and will be one of the members of his class to attend the twenty-fifth reunion next commencement. In a recent, successful effort to raise two hundred thousand dollars for a charity hospital in Cleveland, Dr. Merriam was one of the committee which engineered the undertaking and brought it to a completion in six days allotted for the work.

1891 As Pacific Coast manager of the Fiske Teachers' Agency, Mr. J. B. Stearns has built up a very successful and useful teachers agency, with headquarters at Berkeley, California.

1900 Rev. John L. Fort has resigned as district superintendent, Saratoga District of the Troy Conference, to accept another position with the Methodist Episcopal Church. The territory which will be covered by Mr. Fort will include the entire Atlantic Coast from Florida to Maine.

1907 Dr. John J. Burke was recently appointed coroner physician for Schenectady county. He has been city physician for sometime.

1912 The marriage of F. W. Shepardson of Richmond and Miss Mary Parkhill of Burlington took place at the home of the bride Saturday, Jan. 10, at 10.30 a. m. After a short wedding trip the couple will live in Richmond where Mr. Shepardson is in business in the Richmond Lumber Company.

1913 W. P. Smith of Plymouth, N. H., was a recent visitor in town.

Christmas eve, 1913, marked the 53d anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Hamilton of Petersburg, Ill. Mr. Hamilton is one of our oldest alumni, having graduated in 1853. He is now 83 years old and in good health.

Abel Blodgett Tracy, 1896

Abel Blodgett Tracy died in Utica, N. Y., on Dec. 25, after a brief illness which was brought on by a weak heart. He was in the prime of life, 44 years old, and was chief engineer of the Consolidated Water Co. of Utica. He was a civil engineer of exceptional ability.

Mr. Tracy was born in Tunbridge. He attended public schools and then the University, graduating in 1896. He was given his first position by W. S. Bacot, who came to Burlington in connection with street improvement. He later succeeded Mr. Bacot in the position as chief engineer which he held at the time of his death.

Leaving Burlington Mr. Tracy was employed in Boston as engineer-inspector on the Metropolitan Board. In this connection he was chiefly engaged on the Wachusett reservoir, a notable engineering work. Later he was employed on the Greenwich, Conn., water works and the Portchester water works, and did much landscape gardening work.

He went to Utica in 1899 to survey a watershed for the Consolidated Co. He remained with the company until his death, his rise being steady. In 1905-6 he was surveying for the West Canada extension. After the survey he was retained to assist and supervise the construction. He was then promoted to first assistant engineer of that division of the company's operations. He was placed in charge of the construction of a large storage reservoir at Gray, on Black Creek. The work was of a new type of construction known as the hollow dam type, being built of steel and concrete. He successfully accomplished the task and the work stands today as a monument to his engineering skill. In all of his work he showed careful judgment, signal ability, and exceptional fidelity.

In 1906 Mr. Tracy became chief engineer of the Consolidated Water Co. upon the resignation of Mr. Bacot. His chief work in this position has been the development of the distributing system of Utica. A high service reservoir from which water is conveyed five and one-half miles to Utica has been entirely in his charge and is now half completed.

Besides his wife, Mr. Tracy leaves four children, Isabelle, Frances, Carl, and Lawrence. He is also survived by his father. His younger brother, Carl, was in the class of '96 at the University, but died one month before his class commencement.

Harold S. Batchelder, 1913

News was received Tuesday of the death of Harold Story Batchelder at Pittsburg, Pa., after a short illness. He was first taken with typhoid, which developed into pneumonia and on Saturday his mother was hurriedly summoned to his bedside.

Mr. Batchelder was born in Burlington, October 6, 1891, and was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. James O. Batchelder. He was graduated with high honors from the Burlington high school in 1909. He was graduated from the University last June, having finished his electrical engineering course. In July he went to Wilkesburg, Pa., to take a college graduate's student engineering course with the Westinghouse Electric Company in which he did such remarkable work that within a few weeks he was taken from the course and placed in the engineering office.

He was active in religious work and especially in connection with the W. C. T. U., of which he was at one time organist.

He was a student of especially fine gifts, with two predominant characteristics of enthusiasm and unselfishness. He had a bright future in his electrical work, for which he was peculiarly fitted by nature and by his enthusiastic application. His untimely death occasions sincere regret and sadness.

Class Basketball Schedule

The class basketball series has been arranged as follows: Feb. 11, juniors vs. sophomore, seniors vs. freshmen; Feb. 18, sophomores vs. seniors, freshmen vs. juniors; Feb. 25, sophomore vs. freshmen, juniors vs. seniors.

A cup will be awarded the winners. The series is under Key and Serpent auspices.

LOCALS

The Student Council met Friday night, January the ninth. At this meeting, class finances and bulletin board problems were considered.

St. John, '14, and Gilbert, '15, have been elected first and second lieutenants respectively, of Co. C, one of the local militia companies. The officers are desirous of having more college men enlist in the company, and will be glad to explain the matter to any who care to inquire.

ALUMNI NOTES

Elwood G. Blessing, '94, and D. A. Young, '03, recently made startling charges concerning alleged slackness of men in the Highway Department at hearing in Albany, N. Y., before Commissioner James W. Osborne, the special grand investigator for Gov. Glynn.

1909 Robert C. Wheeler, assistant engineer with George W. Fuller, consulting engineer of New York City, spent several days at Sigma Nu Lodge the past week.

NOTED LECTURERS AT SUMMER SCHOOL

FOR AFTERNOON COURSES

Ex-Governors Hadley and Hanly Are Engaged. Regular Courses To Be An- nounced Soon

The plans for the next summer school are not yet complete, but enough has been arranged to ensure a fine session. The faculty is not entirely selected but announcement of courses will be made soon. The special lecturers and entertainers have nearly all been engaged.

There will be a series of afternoon lectures each week. The lecturers are all men of national reputation. Dr. A. E. Winship of Boston is editor of the Journal of Education. He is well known all over the country as a lecturer. He has lectured in every state in the union, and is always in demand at educational gatherings. He will give five lectures the first week of the summer school.

The second week Ex-Gov. J. Frank Hanly of Indiana will be here. Gov. Hanly is one of the best orators among the governors of the United States. He is a strong advocate of peace. He has debated the question of the disarmament of the nations repeatedly with Captain Hobson. During his four years' term as Governor of Indiana a state railroad commission was created, three prominent state officials were turned out of office for misuse of funds and many radical measures for the betterment of the people were adopted. Gov. Hanly will give a course of five lectures on the Defense of the Constitution and two other lectures on subjects yet to be selected.

Dr. S. S. Curry, President of the School of Expression in Boston, will give six lectures on Expression in Art and Poetry and on Great Periods in Art. Dr. Curry is a good lecturer as well as an able teacher. He is the author of several books, has been connected with Boston University and with Harvard and Yale. He has been honored with degrees by several colleges.

Dr. Edgar J. Banks, orientalist, lecturer, and author, will give five illustrated lectures on cities and countries of the east which he has studied. Dr. Banks lectured not long ago at the University on Bismya, or the Lost City of Adab. Those who heard him have spoken in the highest terms of his lecture. He is a graduate of Harvard and later received the doctorate from Breslau, Germany. He has been

BASEBALL TEAM HAS 32 GAMES

Final Schedule Has Smaller Number

The final baseball schedule contains 32 games. The Amherst game which was scheduled for May 15 and the West Point game of May 20 as well as the Alumni game have been cancelled. With these exceptions, therefore the schedule stands as printed in the Cynic of two weeks ago.

KAKE-WALK DUTIES SOON TO BE ASSIGNED

At Least Ten Couples Will Compete For The Kake

Plans for the annual Kollege Kake Walk are rapidly maturing. President St. John has made an early beginning by the appointment of an able committee. However, the men chosen will not comprise the whole personnel of the committee but will rather serve as the chairmen of the various sub-committees which will have direct charge of the particular phases of the performance. The remainder of these committees will be composed of a representative from each fraternity. When the organization of the committee is completed all important considerations relating to time allowances for stunts, number of kake walkers, etc., will be decided by the action of the whole committee.

There will be at least ten couples walking for the kake, which should assure some real competition and once more place that feature of the entertainment in its former preeminent position.

There is a strong movement in favor of the introduction of a novelty stunt of some kind to make the program more varied than in the past. Its character and place on the program will be decided by the action of the whole committee soon after its final organization.

Interest in the event is beginning to spread. Fraternities, couples, and individuals have been doing much earnest planning, and the 1914 Kake Walk gives promise of being the best ever.

TRACK SCHEDULE HAS THREE DUAL MEETS

ANNOUNCED BY MGR. THOMAS

In Spite of Financial Limitations a Creditable Season is Augured

Manager George M. Thomas announces the following as the official Track schedule for this year:

February 7—B. A. A. games at Boston.

May 2—Colgate at Burlington.

May 7—Middlebury College at Middlebury.

May 16—New Hampshire State College at Durham.

May 23—Interscholastic meet at Burlington.

May 30—New England Intercollegiate meet at Harvard Stadium, Cambridge.

Manager Thomas is to be congratulated on arranging so good a schedule, considering the small amount of money appropriated to track this year.

VERMONT AT B. A. A.

On Saturday, February 7, Vermont will be represented at the B. A. A. athletic games by a strong team. The squad is working very hard under Captain Hayden, and a training table will be started at the Commons on Monday, January 26. Every man is in the pink of condition, and a strong team is bound to be developed.

In past years Vermont has not been represented by as large a team as this year's. The relay team will meet Tufts; Cintron, '17, will enter the 600 yard dash; Captain Hayden will enter the mile run; and two men, whose names as yet have not been disclosed, will compete in the 40 yard dash. In running against the Tufts relay team, Vermont will not have an easy victory as Tufts proved her calibre by winning from last year's strong combination. However, we can well hope for victory this year for Tufts has lost two of the best men of last year's quartet. In regard to the other events we can only surmise as Vermont did not compete in these events last year.

There are now seven men on the squad—Cintron, '17, Gallagher, '16, Wilbur, '17, Le Baron, '17, Patterson, '16, and Minkler, '15. The four men composing the team will soon be picked.

NO BANQUET FOR ENGI- NEERS

It has been decided not to hold the Engineering Banquet this year. The last banquet was held two years ago and the affair had become almost an annual event.

MUSICAL CLUBS DOINGS

The Musical Clubs are now assured of two trips, one after mid-year's and the second during the Easter recess.

The mid-year's trip is to cover the northern part of this state including St. Albans and Enosburgh Falls where concerts have already been contracted for. Since the interest in such entertainment seems to be lacking throughout Vermont, Manager Ellis has turned his attention to a new field in Northern Massachusetts and Eastern New York. Most of the dates of the proposed schedule have been definitely secured but the final itinerary will not be available until a later issue.

Any student who can in any way aid in securing of concert dates in this territory, should remember that the musical clubs are a potent agency in advertising Vermont and should do his utmost.

UNIVERSITY SERVICE AT ST. PAUL'S WELL ATTENDED

Rev. C. C. Wilson, '07 Preaches, Saying That We Should Lead Consecrated Lives

If the man who feels that collegians are not interested in church affairs could have been present at St. Paul's on the evening of Sunday last he would have carried away with him the conviction that his theory was somewhere at fault. It was the regular evening service with a peculiar appeal to the University students, and the attendance and the interest manifested, showed an earnest response to the appeal.

The text of the sermon was "And God called Samuel; and he answered, Here am I."

Young people of the present generation are too prone to renounce Christianity, at least its outward appearances. Their lives should be that of consecration, not of renunciation. The most common excuse, if such it may be called, is that of the Chinese father, who in selling his daughter in time of famine, said "One must live." How frequently we put aside our religious duties, which should receive first consideration, to appease our hunger for worldly pleasure! In presenting these ideas, the Rev. C. C. Wilson, '07, understands the University atmosphere, and his desire to aid the students on the hill is both altruistic and one that deserves a hearty response.

The service was followed by a splendid recital on the new organ. Nevin's "Rosary" and Dvorak's "Humoresque" were especially appreciated.

to the summit of Mt. Ararat, crossed Armenia and Kurdistan by horse, followed down the Tigris nearly its entire length and crossed the Arabian Desert by camel. He is the author of "The Bible and the Spade" and other works. He is a charming speaker and a man of attractive personality.

Dr. Richard T. Wyche, Editor of Story Tellers' Magazine, author of "Some Great Stories and How to Tell Them" will give five lectures the first week in August. Dr. Wyche is highly esteemed by United States Commissioner Claxton, Dr. Henry Van Dyke and others of similar standing. He is able to captivate his audience by his manner of telling classical stories. Inspiration and literary appreciation seem to be the results which follow him wherever he goes.

Dr. John A. Lomax of the University of Texas, author of "Cowboy Songs and Ballads" will give five lectures—one on Cowboy Songs, and the others on subjects to be selected. Dr. Lomax visited Professor Tupper about a year ago and while here gave a lecture, and those who missed hearing him missed a treat such as no man by Dr. Lomax could give. He has made a study of the spontaneous development of songs and ballads, and he has the ability to present them in a way that is delightful beyond description as many of the faculty and students of the University will testify.

Two evening lectures will be given by Mr. E. K. Coulter of New York. Mr. Coulter is a lawyer, sociologist, author and lecturer. His book on the "Children in the Shadow" has made a profound impression upon social workers and those interested in social work. He was for many years clerk of the children's court in New York and he organized the "Big Brother Movement" there.

Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education, will give one lecture. Dr. Claxton is a forcible speaker and will attract a large audience. He is too well known to need introduction.

Ex-Gov. Hadley of Missouri will give one address and it is expected that he will bring Mrs. Hadley with him and spend a few days in Burlington. It will be remembered that Hadley received a great ovation at the Republican National Convention in Chicago and that there was a strong demand for him to be the compromise candidate for President. He is still a leading possibility for the next campaign. His successful fight with the trusts in Missouri, his attitude toward public questions, and his achievements brought him into prominence. The people of Vermont will be glad of an opportunity to hear him.

Musical programs, entertainments and theatricals have been arranged, and will be reported in a later issue.

F. G. Helyar is Director of the N. Y. School of Agriculture in Morrisville, N. Y.

DEBATING SOCIETY MEETING

Debating Teams Assigned—A Financial Campaign Started

The U. V. M. debating association held a very successful meeting Monday night in the Old Mill. J. B. Sanford, '15, read a paper on current events following which there was a short discussion. Mills, '15 spoke on the telephone situation in Vermont, followed by Edgerton, '15 who read a paper on Woman Suffrage. Much interest was shown and a lively discussion followed. The question for extemporaneous debate was: "Resolved that the students of the University of Vermont should have complete self government." The affirmative was assigned to LaBrake, '17 and the negative to Joyce, '17. The decision was awarded to the negative.

The intercollegiate debates are to take place in March. Vermont meets Norwich here and Middlebury at Middlebury. The team against Norwich is to be composed of Hunt, '15, Powers, '15, and Bailey, '14, with Gates, '15 as alternate. The team to meet Middlebury is composed of Chatterton, '17, Dean, '15, and Prindle, '15; Piper, '16, alternate.

The Senior class has voted to give the debating team $7.00. It is expected that the other classes will also help. Pres. Bailey and Mgr. J. B. Sanford are working hard to make the debates a success.

NEW ENGLAND ALUMNI DINNER

Great interest is already being manifested in the annual dinner of the New England Alumni Association, which will take place at the Hotel Vendome, in Boston, the night of Friday, February 20. President Benton will be on the program, and former Gov. Foss, of Massachusetts, of the class of 1880, has signified his purpose to be present. Information may be had by addressing the Secretary of the Association, R. D. H. Emerson, Esq., 24 Milk St., Boston.

S. S. McCLURE ON CITY GOVERNMENT

A large number of University students attended the lecture by Colonel S. S. McClure, the well known magazine man, on "Efficient City Government," which was given in the city Y. M. C. A. hall last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. McClure has made an extended study of city government both at home and abroad. He took the city of Frankfurt as representative of all German cities and explained at length, their simple, but effective system of government. From this research he has concluded that the basis of all good government is "Similar to that followed by corporations in electing a board of directors who, in turn, choose the experts who carry on the work of the government."

THE STUDENT VOLUNTEER CONVENTION

Five Thousand At Inspiring Meeting In Kansas City

The Student Volunteer Convention, of North American colleges, which meets once in four years was held in Kansas City, Mo. from Dec. 31-Jan. 4. Seven hundred and fifty-five colleges and universities of the United States and Canada were represented by four thousand delegates. It was without doubt the greatest convention of its kind ever held. Vermont was represented by Miss Gates, '15, Miss Nutting, '15, Davis, '15, and Piper, '16.

The watchword of the convention was "The Evangelization of World in This Generation," and its purpose was to place before the Christian students of North America the unprecedented world situation in the missionary fields and to sound the call for student volunteers to go to foreign lands. To those who could not volunteer, the purpose of the convention was to give a new vision of the possibilities of work in the home college.

The convention itself could be divided into three main divisions:

A statement of the purpose of the convention;

A statement of the needs in foreign fields;

A plea for volunteers.

The principal speakers were: John R. Mott, William J. Bryan and Robert E. Speer from the United States, Dr. McFarland from Toronto, Dr. Horton from London, Drs. Zwemer and Watson from Africa, and Dr. Sherwood Eddy from India, these last had all come to this country for the express purpose of speaking at this convention.

With such speakers as these the convention could not help being a success. They portrayed very vividly the need of the East, of Africa and of South America, a need the magnitude of which few of the delegates to the convention had ever realized. The reports of the Moslem ordinance in Africa and of South America and of the ignorant in China set every delegate to thinking deeply as to where he was going to place his own life.

In that great convention of four thousand college students who are the leaders in Christian work in their own college, and one thousand returned missionaries, laymen, and special guests, there was an atmosphere of the nearness of Christ as few there had ever felt before. When the call for volunteers came nearly one thousand responded.

The convention meetings in the mornings and evenings were held in Convention Hall which had a seating capacity of eight thousand. Every seat was taken and evenings hundreds were turned away at the door. The afternoons were given over to sectional conferences held in the various churches. Some idea of the cosmopolitan delegation can be obtained from the fact that some thirty different denominations were represented.

Some of the large delegations were: Michigan University with 57 delegates, University of Toronto with 65, Wisconsin with 50 and Syracuse with 37. All of the Middle Western States had from 200 to 300. It was an imposing sight to look at that great company and realize that they were from all parts of North America for a single purpose.

One very enjoyable side of the convention was the social side. The Vermont delegates met various people who knew U. V. M. students, several graduates, and one old-time professor. Every delegate assumed that he had met every other delegate and the streets and cars were full of social greetings between delegates.

It was a great convention. Before leaving each delegate had to face personally this proposition: "Do I want to put my life where it will count for most? Am I sincere in that desire? If I am, since I have had proved to me that there are greater opportunities in the foreign fields than at home, why shouldn't I go?"

In the belief that others should intelligently face this same question the Y. M. C. A. has organized a Mission Study Class, which is drawing a good number.

HON. JOHN E. OSBORNE

Vermont Man of '80 has Achieved Distinction

Among the names of alumni of the University who have made notable careers must be mentioned John E. Osborne, former governor of Wyoming, and at present first assistant secretary of state at Washington.

Governor Osborne was born at Westport, New York, on January 19, 1864, the son of John C. and Mary (Reil) Osborne. He fitted for college at the Westport High School and later went to Bristol, Vt., where he took a position as assistant to a druggist. From Bristol he later entered the College of Medicine at the University from which he received his doctor's degree in 1880.

Dr. Osborne went west and located at Rawlins, Wyoming, where he established a wholesale drug house. He was appointed assistant surgeon of the Union Pacific Railway and also engaged in sheep raising on the ranges. At one time he owned the largest number of sheep of any individual in the state. Another line of his endeavor was that of banker.

The executive ability of Dr. Osborne was soon recognized and in 1888 he appeared as chairman of the state penitentiary commission and mayor of Rawlins. In 1892 he was alternate to the Democratic Convention, having previously served one term as member of the territorial legislature. In 1893 the people of Wyoming elected Dr. Osborne to the governorship, an office which he filled successfully until 1897, declining renomination. In 1896 Governor Osborne was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention and from '97 to '99, he was a member of the fifty-fifth congress, during which term he served as vice-chairman of the democratic national congressional committee.

The latest honor conferred upon Governor Osborne was to be made first assistant secretary of state by President Wilson at the beginning of the present administration.

In 1907 Governor Osborne was married to Selma Smith of Princeton, Kentucky. His home continues to be at Rawlins with his Washington residence at the Shoreham Hotel.

RIFLE TEAM WINS FIRST MATCH

Near The Top Score of American Colleges

The university rifle team has begun the season with flying colors, having trimmed the University of Kansas by a score of 943 to 845, and shooting the highest score of any team in the B league. Only three teams in the A class, Mich. Agricultural College, Iowa State University, and Mass. Agricultural College, had a better showing among all the colleges in the country. The men are shooting much better than last year, and although we lost the last match to Cornell by a score of 947 to 928, yet there is no reason why, by consistent work, Vermont cannot win first place in the B class. Our only rivals for that honor seem to be Cornell and U. S. Naval Academy, whose scores have not averaged above our own thus far. With a new shooting gallery and up-to-date equipment, together with a year's experience, we should make a good showing among the "sharpshooters" this season.

MATCH LOST TO CORNELL

Rifle Team Scores Low In Second Match

In the match against Cornell the team missed its pace and fell back 15 points from the score of the Kansas shoot. Cornell shot in its best form and won over Vermont by 19 points.

The individual scores were as follows:

P. L. Slayton, '16, 191; R. R. Bogle, '16, 189; E. M. Washburn, '16, 185; P. H. Gates, '15, 182; R. W. Daniels, '15, 181. Total, 928.

This week Vermont shoots against Wisconsin University.

Delta Sigma Dance

On Friday evening, January 16, the Delta Sigma fraternity held its fourteenth annual dance at the Van Ness Roof Garden. The patron and patroness, Captain and Mrs. Ira L. Reeves, received together with Edward M. Bissonette and Miss Zerinne Daigle. About twenty couples enjoyed an order of twenty dances, music being furnished by Barton's orchestra. The color scheme of the decoration was green and white, many banners and flags being tastefully arranged throughout the roof garden. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Alumni and undergraduates are heartily invited to contribute. All communications must be signed by the writer, whose name will be withheld if so desired. They should be addressed to the editor-in-chief and should reach him by Wednesday noon. Any brief notices should be handed in by Thursday noon or may be telephoned to 183-M before 7 p. m. Thursday.

Vol. 31. January 24, 1914. No. 20.

A recent alumnus reading of the proposed "Thousand Club" writes:

"I was much interested in the current number sent me, and I notice that there is a movement on foot to boom the University of Vermont. I think that all who are interested in the U. V. M. will be glad to see this. I hope that the growth may come in every vital aspect of the institution. Three factors are necessary for a good school: a good working equipment, a faculty with the proper ideals and consecrated to its work, and a student body that is not only commensurate in size with the capacity of the plant, but which has in itself, and which propagates for itself, those ideals that mean the positive appreciation of opportunity and which also mean the measuring into every opportunity worth while, all that time and effort and self that is needed to make it a part of one's life and of one's service to others. In more concrete terms this means an outspoken respect for scholarship that shall make high scholastic standing worth a man's while and the ambition of every undergraduate. It means unselfish service to all those student interests which the individual can serve; athletics, musical clubs, debating societies, religious associations, fraternity, and all else that is included in the student life of today, for in these activities the student finds preparation for the larger service which is soon to be his and which is the ultimate object of his college days.

"Finally it means a positive and an active stand for high moral ideals, ideals that shall exclude all that is base and low and which shall build into the traditions and customs of the University, and into the lives of its men that point of view that recognizes the rights of others; that breeds courtesy; that teaches above everything else that to be educated is to be a gentleman.

"I believe that one of the finest things about Vermont is the high ideals that are set before her men. The campus and its wonderful setting are in themselves an inspiration to better thoughts and deeds and he is no man at all who can remain for four years under such men as I knew while in college and not be the better man for it.

"And so, while I, as an alumnus, would like to see the enrolment of the institution grow to a thousand, yes, to many more than that, I hope that when that growth comes there may come with it no depreciation of ideals, and that every man who may look to Vermont as his Alma Mater, may find in her a mother who shall instil into his life ideals, purposes and a manhood of which he need not before any man or God be ashamed."

The faculty-student council is beginning to find its province, and the legislation which was set in motion at its last meeting will meet with wide approval. The size and location of notices upon the bulletin boards was limited; this is a necessary reform and we hope that provision has been made for enforcing it. The matter of the numerous clubs which meet any time on ten hours' notice could well bear investigation. All the meetings of the various organizations have been posted upon such short notice lately, that the CYNIC has not been able to publish a calendar of coming events for the last three or four numbers. It would benefit all organizations if they could submit to some system. There would be more interest and a larger attendance at all the meetings if they were announced beforehand in good season.

We can not leave the subject of the bulletin boards without dwelling upon a new phase of the question. It is a fact that no official announcement of any value has been allowed by students to remain upon the bulletin board unless it is pasted on so that it can not be removed. In other words there are students who prefer to lift an important notice like the examination schedule and appropriate it for their own use, rather than copying what interests them and letting the rest of the college use it. Such a selfish and thoughtless attitude is hard to understand. It can not be done many times without detection by some other student. The petty offenders should be made known and should feel the pressure of a little public opinion.

The faculty-student council also proposes to investigate class finances. Here is a fertile field for reform. We suggest that they begin with the freshmen who are said to be in such a beneficent frame of mind that they are about to bestow a sweater and numerals upon every man among their number who donned a football suit last fall. Reports of the class game say that 18 freshmen played at least a minute of the game. Not all of these were out for practice the length of time that is usually required. If the freshmen vote 22 sweaters they will be giving sweaters which are not earned, they will be establishing a bad precedent, and they will be well on the road to a careless attitude about class finances which will prove as expensive as it has to the present Senior class. If the council can set the freshmen right, can remedy a few other slight abuses all along the line, and can collect data on the various class budgets for the use of following classes, it will be a cause of great satisfaction.

As soon as the college emerges from the mid-year examinations the question of grades will be of great moment to each individual. Just at this point we wish to suggest to some member of the faculty that he write a letter to the CYNIC giving the logical basis for the "half-D rule" which is found under "Scholarship Regulations" on page 72 of the catalogue, rule 2. This letter could be printed in the issue of Feb. 7 before the grades are announced, and it might materially lessen the semi-annual complaints from the students on this score. This rule is not popular, to say the least, and when some instructors who do not mark closely consider "D" a fair passing mark for a class of average students, it has worked hardship to men who are thus kept out of college activities. If the reasons for promulgating and continuing such a rule were explained, perhaps it would not arouse so much opposition on the part of the students.

"Are we ready for the honor system?" is now due in all its phases. This could be argued on theoretical grounds until doomsday, and there would still be many doubters. A much-argued economic question of half a century ago was the resumption of specie payment. The crowning argument was that "The only way to resume is to resume." That could be applied here. The only way to have the honor system is to be honorable. When it comes, however, the movement must come from the students. As far as the morale of the student body goes, we are as near ready for it now as we ever will be. It has been regularly tried by two professors in tests and occasionally in examinations. Without any promise by the students, by merely an assumption of honesty by the professors, it has invariably worked. If there is anyone of our readers who believes in the honor system in theory, but has doubts about its operation, either he doubts his own honesty or he doubts his own firmness to take a decisive stand at all times against any dishonesty of others in examinations. If he is in the latter class he would do well to talk with others and find out how many scores there are like him. When the number of these theorists is realized there may be more confidence about putting it into practice. But the whole movement must be spontaneous, and we believe, must come from the students.

There is room for so much more idealism at the University. There are too many practical objectors who oppose every desirable reform on the ground of peculiar local conditions. Peculiar local conditions is a ready-made excuse which can block many projects, but at the bottom there is but one strong local condition; and that is apathy, and it is not so peculiar as it might be.

The objections to a fraternity rushing system on the score of peculiar local conditions have long since fallen to the ground. No one doubts that it is the only ideal way to handle the rushing situation. It is gratifying, therefore, to see the strong demand for a rushing system at Vermont which seems about to find expression in the new Inter-Fraternity Conference, which seems so near at hand.

The activity of the past week in hockey has been gratifying. The Ukma Society have chosen a committee and set dates for a series. The classes have elected managers. The sophomores have chosen a captain and held practices. The enterprise of the sophomores in getting out their hockey and their basketball men deserves much credit.

COMMUNICATIONS

Students of Vermont:—

During this college year the fact that there is no definite and ordered manner for the formation of societies in the U. V. M. has been repeatedly called to my attention by undergraduates and by graduates. A certain graduate who was quite prominent as an undergraduate speaks of certain "distractions" caused by "scattered" student activities.

To my readers I desire to make it clear that I have no hostilities against any society of Vermont. Nor would I advocate the abolition of any of our existing societies. But it does seem that no little advantage would be gained by consolidating two or three societies upon a compromise base if possible. Whether or not this is possible I cannot say. I merely wish to place the idea before the student body.

It seems possible that some form of incorporation of college societies by the Student Council would tend in the future toward a concentration of efforts more adapted to a small college. The Council might be authorized by the student body to act as an incorporating committee. Should this be done the Council could then enact a general incorporation law having in mind the benefit and development of the whole college. I would be glad to answer any questions I can concerning the incorporation plan.

Sincerely,

H. A. B., '15.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

Dear Sir:—

Here is a somewhat radical suggestion which has been in your columns before, but to my knowledge has never been discussed seriously by the faculty. The suggestion is this: allow Seniors of high standing more latitude in attending or omitting lectures, instead of keeping them to as rigid a system of attendance as any preparatory school. The writer understands that this has been tried for a number of years at Harvard and is about to be tried for both Juniors and Seniors at Columbia.

During his Senior year the writer kept fairly busy at certain college activities where he received training that he finds is of permanent value to him. He had about three hours of college every day, with one or two vacation periods sandwiched in between them. His program was one hour of one branch of learning, an hour to read or study a scrap or to work at some college activity, then an hour of another branch of learning, etc. This disjointed program scattered his energies. He was hurried, he was not in the proper frame of mind to hear some of the lectures, he could get little accomplished in college work or outside work until the uninterrupted evening. Such a program did not fit him to become a real student or a good business man.

While not criticizing the schedule, which was very well arranged, the writer is firmly convinced that more flexible attendance rules would have enabled him to miss some lectures which he could have easily made up from notes of others, that he could have accomplished more outside work, and that he could have had more time for independent study, going deeper into some subjects which interested him most, and that he would have graduated a better student and a more efficient worker. He feels that his Senior year would have counted for more.

The suggestion may sound radical, but seems reasonable. Why can not a Senior who has reached his majority in most cases and who has passed his work with an average percentage of 80 or better be intrusted with some discretionary powers in the mere matter of classroom attendance?

Very truly yours,

K. I. I.

DEBATE ON DIRECT PRIMARY

The second Senior debate of the year was held Wednesday morning at 9.10 in the Williams Science Hall. The question under consideration was: "Resolved that state-wide open primaries should be adopted by the State of Vermont." Sykes '14 and Hicks '14 supported the affirmative and Rodney Ellis '14 and Styles '14 the negative. The judges, Profs. Messenger, Aiken and Lindsay, decided in favor of the affirmative.

"ALICE IN WONDERLAND"

Attracts Large Audience and Succeeds Financially

"Alice in Wonderland," given last week by the young ladies of Grassmount and Howard Hall, proved a great success in every way. Two performances were given, one on Friday evening and the other Saturday afternoon. Both audiences showed their appreciation of the honor of the play and the little people especially were delighted to see their favorite characters on the stage and to travel with the charming little Alice, Helen Chapin, through the Wonderland world. The costumes added greatly to the interest of the play.

The "Lobster Quadrille," in which nearly all the members of the cast took part, and "Beautiful Soup," a solo by the White Queen, Lucy Swift, received the heartiest applause of the audience. From the two performances a total of about $95 was cleared.

FIVE ALUMNI ANNUAL MEETINGS

Usual Reunions and Dinners Scheduled for February

The following Alumni Associations will hold their annual meetings next month:

February 3rd. The New York Association for New York City and vicinity, will dine at Delmonico's.

February 10th. The Eastern New York Association will meet in Troy, at the Rensselaer Inn.

February 18th. The Alumni of Western Massachusetts will meet at Springfield.

February 20th. The New England Alumni will hold their meeting at the Hotel Vendom, Boston.

February 27th. The Washington (D. C.) Alumni Association will hold its meeting.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The weekly devotional meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held yesterday afternoon. Mr. Guthrie, pastor of the First Congregational Church was the leader in the second of his series of three talks on the personality of Christ. These meetings are being enthusiastically attended and are offering enlightenment on many of the problems apt to occupy the student mind.

The meetings for the next two weeks will be omitted because of examinations. The meeting for Feb. 6, will be led by Grace Nutting and Edith Gates who will give their report of the Kansas City Convention.

PROGRESS OF THE ARIEL

Changes in Arrangement Include Division Into Four Main Sections

The Ariel board this week began the most edifying part of its work—the "grinds" on the Junior class. Anyone in college having a grudge against anyone else, or desiring protection for himself, may bribe some member of the board before the middle of next week. "Do it now."

The 1915 Ariel will be a new departure from those of several years. Though the board seems a bit loath to disclose all of its plans (perhaps because they haven't many to disclose) the following features have already been developed: a complete change in the order and arrangement of the sections; four or five self-explanatory innovations in the Junior class section; a new treatment of "college happenings"; a reduction, at the request of the fraternities, of the fraternity section from fifty-four to thirty-two pages; pictures of members of the faculty; and a greatly increased number of pictures throughout the book.

The book will be divided into four main sections, in the order named, each section to be introduced by a "header" in colors, i. e., 1, The Class; 2, The College; 3, The Faculty; 4, Signs of the Future and Echoes of the Past. The last of these will deal with the old college traditions. The board believes that the Ariel is the proper means for their preservation.

One important notice which may well be added to this column is this—more artists are needed. Please volunteer immediately.

ALUMNI NOTES

1865 Rev. Lambert L. Wood, Ph. D., is pastor of the Congregational church of Alexander, California. For four years Mr. Wood was a member of the Montana territorial legislature. He afterward went to Nome, Alaska, where he was active in building up religious and educational institutions. Later he became pastor of the Taylor church, Seattle.

1891 As Pacific Coast manager of the Fiske Teachers' Agency, Mr. J. B. Stearns has built up a very successful and useful teachers agency, with headquarters at Berkeley, California.

1879 Robert C. Sattley, valuation engineer for the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, is mentioned for a prominent position in the work of Government valuation of Railroads. Mr. Sattley has had an office in the headquarters of the Rock Island at Chicago for some years, and in 1901 submitted a comprehensive plan for a new railroad terminal for Chicago.

1889 Dr. Walter H. Merriam is a prominent physician in Cleveland and will be one of the members of his class to attend the twenty-fifth reunion next commencement. In a recent successful effort to raise two hundred thousand dollars for a charity hospital in Cleveland. Dr. Merriam was one of the committee which engineered the undertaking and brought it to a completion in six days allotted for the work.

1900 Horatio N. Drury, is now at the head of the extension and publicity departments of the Pace Institute of Accountancy, 30 Church Street, New York. During the first five years after leaving college, Mr. Drury was head of the department of English in the Cortland (N. Y.) Normal School, after which he was for five years teacher of English in the Stuyvesant High School, New York. Mr. Drury writes us regarding his present position: "The function of the Pace standardized courses—which are evening courses only—is to transform the serious-minded young man of average ability employed by day in any aspect of organized business into the exceptional man, by means of systematic and cumulative instruction in the subjects of accounting, law and applied economics, treated as correlated sciences." Mr. Drury states that more than 2,500 men and women are now taking these courses in the affiliated Pace schools in different cities, four of these schools being in New York and vicinity. The courses are also available by extension through the mails, so that any earnest-minded person who can not attend the resident schools will have an opportunity to increase his mental capacity and develop his reasoning ability and thus equip himself to become a certified public accountant, comptroller, auditor, treasurer or other executive.

Philip Whitcomb, son of Jessie (Wright) Whitcomb, '84, is a Rhodes scholar at Oxford. Mrs. Whitcomb is a lawyer in Topeka.

1914 will be the thirtieth anniversary of the Class of 1884. Ten were graduated that year of whom seven are now living. One of the older alumni has written to know if any provision has been made for a reunion.

1908 Harold F. Barton will not leave Burlington this year to take up practical electrical engineering work as he had planned. He will continue to be instructor in the electrical engineering department for the remainder of the year.

Ex-'08 Charles P. Cassidy of Poultney and Miss Mary Shanley of Burlington were married in St. Mary's Cathedral, Burlington, January 14. They will live in Poultney.

1909 The engagement of Miss Ruth Votey, daughter of Dean Votey of the Engineering Department, to Mr. David Sternberg of Philadelphia, has been announced.

1908 The engagement of Levi P. Smith to Miss Julia Pease of Burlington has been announced.

1889 Sho Nemoto, a member of the Japanese Parliament, has recently published a translation in Japanese of "The Nation, the Foundation of Civil Order and Political Life in the United States," by Elisha Mulford. He tells in the preface how the late President Buckham urged him to study the book and what a great help it has been to him. The book is dedicated to the late Frederick Billings, Jr., of the class of 1890.

1889 Mr. Elmer E. Allbee has resigned as mechanical superintendent of the Safety Car Heating and Lighting Co., of New York City. He entered the employ of the Safety Car Heating and Lighting Co. in 1890. He was soon promoted to be Mechanical Engineer and for the past 11 years has been Mechanical Superintendent. Mrs. Allbee was also a member of the class of 1889 and she and Mr. Allbee were married before they entered college. Their daughter graduated from Columbia last year. Their home address is 111 Stewart Ave., Arlington, N. J.

SENIOR MEDICAL RESOLUTIONS

Owing to the death of the mother of one of their classmates, Francis Charles Buckmiller, on Thursday, Jan. 15th, the class of 1914, College of Medicine, adopted the following resolutions:

Whereas the Almighty God in his infinite wisdom has called to her rest the mother of our beloved classmate and fellow student

Be it Resolved, That the class of 1914 do extend to Francis Charles Buckmiller and his immediate family our heartfelt sympathy in their recent bereavement.

Be it further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family; a copy be printed in the Burlington and college papers.

THE COLLEGE WORLD

Out of 1,809 men doing graduate work at Harvard, 1,226 are graduates of other institutions, representing 150 different American and foreign seats of learning.

A new modification of the honor system has been adopted at Simmons, removing the condition that each student shall pledge herself to bring cases of dishonesty observed by her to the attention of the Honor Committee. The students will vote by classes on these two questions: "Do you desire that the class assume the responsibility for the honest conduct of examinations and written tests?" "If the class desires to assume this responsibility will you do all you can to maintain a high standard of honesty?"

A course in industrial organization and scientific management, dealing with problems of industrial efficiency from a scientific standpoint, will be inaugurated at Brown University next semester.

SOPHOMORE HOP COMMITTEE ELECTED

A Formal Hop Vote Taken By The Class

At a meeting of the Sophomore class on Wednesday, Jan. 21, the following hop committee was elected: H. A. Mack, chairman; Miss Fanley, Miss Miller, Miss Votey, C. F. Baldwin, W. P. Leutze, P. L. Ransom, and C. F. Robinson.

By a vote of 51 to 33 it was decided to hold a formal hop.

CHANGES IN THE GYM.

The following apparatus has recently been added to the physical training equipment of the gymnasium: horizontal ladders for hand climbing, a pair of low parallel bars, a new improved model of high parallels, a spring-board of the "grasshopper" type, and a good "mechanic" for teaching somersaults, etc. Gilbert, '15, and Wright, '17, have been appointed assistant instructors for the sophomore and freshman classes, respectively. Boyce, '16, is official monitor.

Class Basketball

Senior Manager, G. H. Seiple; Junior Manager, W. H. Smith; Sophomore Manager, A. D. Seaver; Freshman Manager, J. M. Stanton.

The schedule: Feb. 11, juniors vs. sophomores, seniors vs. freshmen; Feb. 18, sophomores vs. seniors, freshmen vs. juniors; Feb. 25, sophomores vs. freshmen, juniors vs. seniors.

A Key and Serpent committee is in charge.

Senior Class Meeting

The seniors held a class meeting on Saturday the 17th, electing G. H. Seiple as manager of the basketball team and W. H. Boardman manager of hockey. A class tax of ten dollars was voted.

SOME NEW LIBRARY BOOKS

Abbot—Battle fields and camp fires.
Alford—Bearings and their lubrication.

Barnes—Voices of faith and love.
Bodie—Bellows Falls and vicinity.
Bury—History of freedom of thought.

Gordon—Reminiscences of the Civil war.

Hall—Mastery of grief.
Johnston—Richard Malcom. Autobiography.

Marshall—Materials for the study of elementary economics.

Munsterberg—Vocation and learning.
Parmelee—Science of human endeavor.

Ranney—Practical suggestions respecting the varieties of electric currents and the uses of electricity in medicine.

Ravenhill—Household administration.

Welch—Confederate's surgeon's letters to his wife.

Welton—Logical bases of education.

Class Hockey

The schedule: Fri. Feb. 13, 1917 vs. 1915; Wed. Feb. 18, 1914 vs. 1916.

The winners of the two matches will play a three-game series, dates to be announced later. The schedule is in charge of a Ukma committee.

A VERMONT POEM

At a college alumni dinner given at the University Club in New York city at which several states were represented, Hon. Chas. H. Darling was invited to respond to the toast "Where Vermont Comes In." and made the following response:

Where Vermont Comes In

Up where the north winds blow just a little keener,

Up where the grasses grow just a little greener.

Up where the mountain peaks rise a little higher,

Up where the human kind draws a little nigher,

That's where Vermont comes in.

Up where the snows of winter last a little longer,

Up where the heart beats just a little stronger,

Up where the hand clasp is just a little warmer,

That's where Vermont comes in.

Up where the lonesome pine its nightly requiem sighs,

Up where the unpolluted waters take their rise,

Up where the sons of toil have fought for freedom's sod,

Up where all nature's mood is a little nearer God,

That's where Vermont comes in.

Wherever manhood fights for honor,

And where woman shrinks at sin,
Where health is man's best riches,

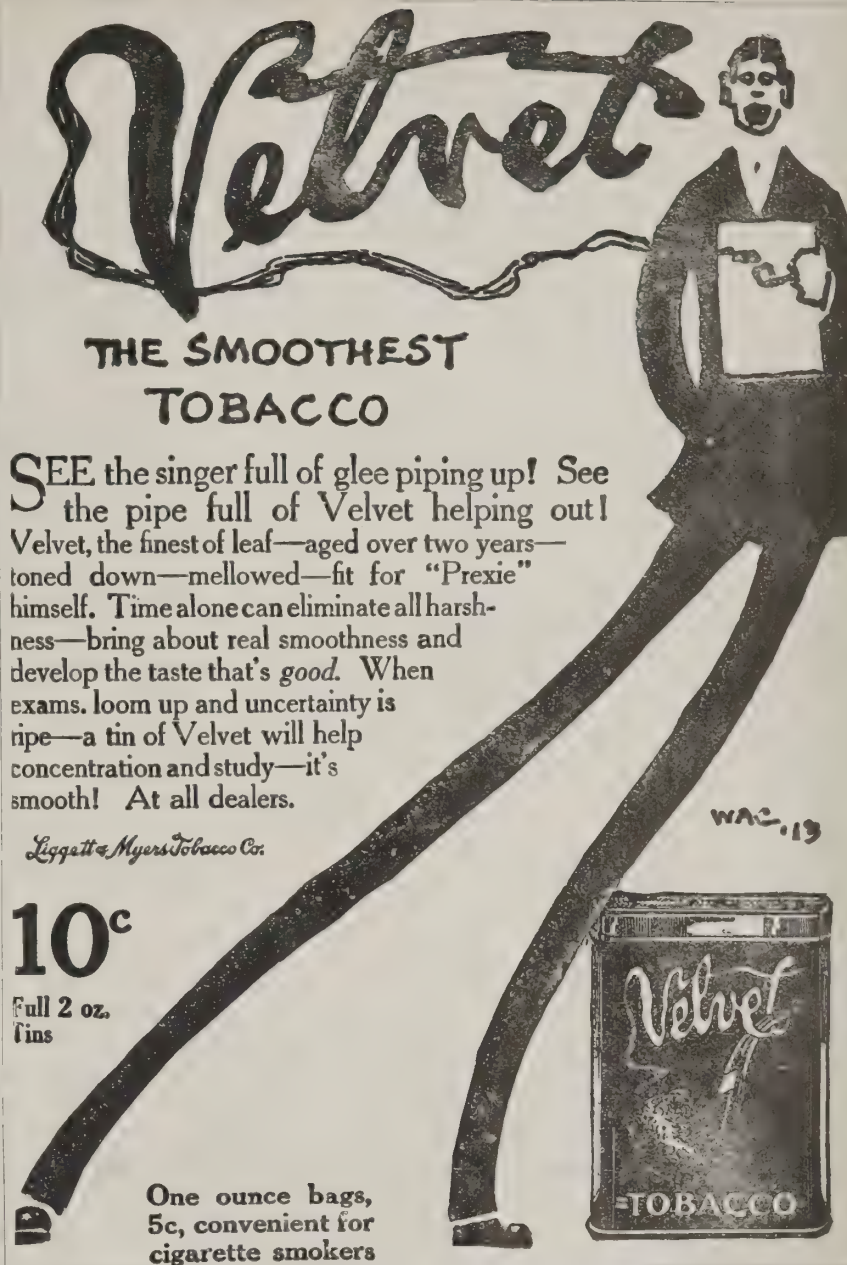

That's where Vermont comes in.

THE COLLEGE WORLD

Literary interests at Harvard have joined forces. The "Monthly" and the "Advocate" have united. Neither literary magazine had been receiving proper support.

A red light in a Harvard student's window means study, not danger. The style was started by one student to indicate that he was plugging for mid-year exams, warning friends not to disturb him. Many others took it up.

The tango has recently been forbidden by Columbia. The Newman Club at least has been forced to abide by the edicts of Cardinal Farley. It has therefore given up its annual dance as has a prominent literary society. Other Columbia societies are dancing, but are abiding by the restrictive University rule which requires that a distance of six inches must be maintained between partners.

To the Men of "Old Vermont"

Commons Hall is now under University management and it is the desire of the authorities to make the Hall serve the student body in the largest way possible. In order to do this, it is necessary to have every table full, for then only can the best food and service be given the patrons.

Those who can be asked to board at this institutional table and those who find that impossible are requested, for the sake of the University, to do what they can for the betterment of

Y. ALUMNI ANNUAL BANQUET

SCHOLARSHIP VOTED

Talcot Williams the Principal Speaker at Enthusiastic Gathering.

The twenty-second annual dinner of the New York Alumni Association was held at Delmonico's on Tuesday night, January 3. It was a pleasant and successful reunion. The post-prandial exercises were of a high order, Dr. Talcot Williams, Dean of the Pulitzer School of Journalism being the principal speaker. The association voted to give a New York Alumni scholarship to a New York boy, selecting a boy each year who needs and merits such financial aid.

Seventy-one were present at the banquet, a smaller number than usual, but more than outweighed by the enthusiasm of the gathering. President Morton C. Robbins, '98, was toastmaster. Thomas J. Mulcare, '08, led in cheering, and showed that he had not none of his old-time "pep." Many old and new college songs were sung under the leadership of a sextette of young grads.

President Robbins said in opening the post-prandial exercises:

"We are all sharing the delight which comes when we assemble to honor a great college—great because it means so much to you and to me—great because of the service it has rendered to others. Our alma mater-mother, what greater word? We meet to-night on a common basis community of memory. Many of us were under the same roof. Many of us were under the same professors, saw the same janitors come and go, ate at the same hash house. Many of us ate of the same hash. Many of us called on the same college widow. Many of us came from the same red-school house. I believe that we owe the university a great service. We can not repay for all her good deeds to us, but we can pass the good deed on. He then introduced Charles Lamb, '03, who reported for the scholarship committee, which looked into the plan of sending a New York boy to the university.

Mr. Lamb said that the committee had investigated scholarship plans of various universities. He said the general object of the plan was to enable carefully chosen young man of New York to attend the university. The committee to choose will be composed of five trustees. The candidate will be chosen on account of character, scholarship and personal fitness. He must need the money. The tuition will be paid outright. The rest will

BASKETBALL GAMES THIS WEEK.

The managers of the class basketball teams met with Dr. Stone recently and the coming inter-class basketball series was thoroughly discussed. The open night of the series was dated as Feb. 11th, but owing to the Wig and Buskin having its winter play on this evening the date was changed to Thursday night, Feb. 12th. This is Lincoln's birthday and a very fitting night for the opening of the series. Nothing is known of the strength of the various class teams, but it is safe to say two good games will be witnessed next Thursday when the juniors stack up against the sophomores and the seniors against the freshmen. Inter-collegiate rules are to govern the playing and a competent official will be selected by the athletic council to enforce them.

It was the general opinion that fifteen cents be charged for admission to both contests. Those present at the meeting were G. H. Seiple, representing 1914; W. H. Smith, for 1915; A. D. Seaver, for 1916; J. M. Stanton for 1917, and Dr. Stone.

THE BIG EVENT

Only Two Weeks Away—Get Busy—
Co-operation Needed—Judges Appointed.

Vermont's own big event that has for a number of years startled the ears and eyes of many people from Maine to Michigan is now brewing. Perhaps you have been so busy with exams that you haven't thought much about it, but all the while the committee in charge have been outlining big plans and novelties to make this year the biggest in the history of Kake Walks. Now, this committee isn't going to do all the work. They are just the directors and are making plans so that they may be able to help you out. Co-operation is what has made good Kake Walk's and always will. If you have a good idea, just give it to the committee. Don't stand on the outside looking in. Take a little time off, now that exams are all over and boost. Get up some kind of a stunt and make a big fool of yourself—the Kake Walk is just the proper place. At the same time give the people a good time—show them you are alive, and ready to boost old Vermont. Start something! Don't wait for an inspiration. Inspirations are always twenty minutes late. Join the P—rade!

PLAY POSTPONED.

Because of poor attendance at rehearsals during mid-year's the college play, scheduled for next Wednesday, has been indefinitely postponed.

VERMONT BOTANICAL AND BIRD CLUBS.

DRS. PERKINS AND BURNS RECEIVE OFFICE.

Over 40 Papers Presented. "Long Trail of the Gr. Mt. Club" of Immediate Interest.

The nineteenth annual winter meeting of the Vermont Botanical Club and the twelfth annual winter meeting of the Vermont Bird Club were held Friday and Saturday, Jan. 30 and 31, in the Williams Science Hall. The following board of officers were elected for the ensuing year.

BOTANICAL CLUB.

President, Dr. Ezra Brainerd, Middlebury.

Vice-President, W. W. Eggleston, Washington, D. C.

Secretary, Dr. G. P. Burns, Burlington.

Treasurer, Mrs. Nellie F. Flynn, Burlington.

Librarian, Miss Phoebe M. Towle, Burlington.

Editor, George L. Kirk, Rutland.

BIRD CLUB.

President, Dr. G. H. Perkins, Burlington.

Secretary, C. D. Howe, Morrisville.

Treasurer, J. G. Underwood, Hartland.

Editor, Mrs. A. B. Morgan, Woodstock.

There was a fairly good attendance, and many new members were proposed and elected to both clubs. Some of those who had papers to present were not able to be present, but their papers were read by others. Out of some twenty-seven papers presented, ten were on birds and related topics, eight were devoted to botany and the rest had to do with methods of nature study and miscellaneous topics. The program follows:

Friday Morning, 10:00 O'Clock.

WILLIAMS SCIENCE HALL.

Business meeting of the Clubs.

A Nature Student in Labrador. (With exhibit of plants). Miss Edith M. Estabrook, Boston, Mass.

Medicinal Plants, Mrs. Evaline D. Morgan, Woodstock.

Seeds and Seeds, Prof. Henry M. Seely, Middlebury.

Relation of Transpiration to the Amount of Mineral Matter Taken from the Soil, Prof. George P. Burns, University of Vermont.

Aspidium filix-mas in Western Vermont, George L. Kirk, Rutland.

Reports on Birds, Mrs. A. B. Morgan, Woodstock.

PROF. TUPPER CONTENTS.

For New Idea Concerning Canterbury Tales—The Seven Deadly Sins.

"The Nation" for January 15 in a report on "The Modern Language Association" convention at Easton, Penn., speaks of a paper presented by Professor Tupper as follows:

"Probably the most original contribution presented at this meeting was on 'Chaucer and the Seven Deadly Sins,' by Professor Frederick Tupper of the University of Vermont. It was a continuation in very much condensed form of his article in The Nation of October 16, 1913, on Chaucer's treatment of love in the 'Canterbury Tales,' and sought to show that certain of the Pilgrims in their persons, prologues, and tales illustrate the seven deadly sins, and that the Parson's tract in the culmination of a long-sustained motif. Parallels with Gower, the marked pointing of the moral in each of the tales dealing with a particular sin, the assigning of each of these narratives to the representative of the vice under repulse, the linking of these tales with the Parson's sermon, are the proofs by which the conclusion is reached. A new irony is discovered in the fact that the storyteller sometimes incarnates the very sin he preaches against, as in the cases of the Pardoner, the Wife of Bath, and the Manciple."

We have quoted in full because Professor Tupper is presenting an entirely new idea in regard to the "Canterbury Tales," and it will be of interest to watch the progress of his contention.

WISCONSIN DEFEATED.

The individual scores for the last three shoots are as follows:

	Jan. 18	Jan. 15	Feb. 1
Finnessy	191	191	...
Bogie	187	187	...
Daniels	184	190	180
Gates	183	...	192
Slayton	188	189	181
Corley	...	183	181
Washburn	...	...	187
	933	940	921

The first shoot was against Wisconsin, that team getting 896. The second was against Dartmouth and the third against Washington State. The last two have not been heard from as yet.

KAKE WALK JUDGES.

Chairman Whalen of the committee in charge announces that the following men will be judges of the Kake Walk: Secretary of State Guy W. Bailey, Captain Ira L. Reeves, Professor G. G. Groat, Dr. Thomas Brown, and Mr. J. L. Southwick.

Wild Mammals of Vermont, Frank S. Hoag, Cambridge, Vt.

A very pleasant feature of the meeting was the supper served at Grassmount by the young ladies of the home economics department of the University. It was complimentary to the visiting members, and was declared by all concerned to be the best supper that the clubs had ever enjoyed.

One paper, which was not closely connected with the work of either club, but had a strong bearing on that of both, was entitled "The Long Trail of the Green Mountain Club." It was presented by Dr. Louis J. Paris of Burlington. This trail already reaches from Killington Peak to Johnson, an airline distance of about one hundred miles and an actual distance of one hundred fifty miles. All this work has been done within two or three years, and in the not far distant future the trail will extend from Canada to the Massachusetts line. Loops and side trails will soon form a network of roads leading to almost all the points of especial interest in the Green Mountains. The trail takes one into the local habitats of the rare flowers and the shy birds of our state, and a journey along it should prove a source of constant joy to the botanist and the bird lover as well as to him who seeks unrivalled mountain scenery and the sense of out-of-doors.

On Friday evening, Dr. Ezra Brainerd gave an interesting lecture on "The Blackberries of Vermont." Apparently dozens of varieties of blackberries may be found growing along the country roadsides of Vermont, and their classification has offered some difficulty to botanists, but Dr. Brainerd has given careful study to the laws of heredity as they affect the hybridization of blackberries and from this study has arrived at the conclusion that there are really only some nine varieties of blackberries in question, and that all the others are hybrids of these. Dr. Brainerd is a recognized authority in this field of work, both in this country and in Europe, and his work is much appreciated especially by systematic botanists, by students in plant and animal breeding, and by all persons interested in the laws of heredity.

NEW YORK ALUMNI BANQUET.

be a loan. This has seemed best. Yale and other colleges have found that many students do not draw upon the whole funds. Four per cent. interest will be charged beginning at graduation. The fund is to be $400 a year. This money shall be raised by a general subscription of New York Alumni. This report was unanimously adopted.

President Benton brought "a message from the Old Mill." He said:

I am gratified at the concrete expression of your loyalty at this scholarship. He paid tribute to the distinguished guests of the evening. The chief mission of our university is to grow tall men—tall in intellect, spirit and accomplishment. A modern man should stand relatively as high as the buildings he builds. What should his foundation and superstructure be. He should stand seven stories high upon the foundation of faith—faith in self, in humanity and in God. The first story should be virtue, not a passive quality. The second story should be knowledge, not mere information. Knowledge is a vision, it is a revelation, it reveals a man to himself. The third story is temperance in its widest sense, moderation. The fourth story is patience, fortitude in suffering, persistency in the man's task. The fifth story should be godliness, a manly virile godliness. The sixth story is brotherly kindness. The seventh and last story is love, that which Henry Drummond has denominated "the greatest thing in the world," not sentimentalism, but that which transforms humanity.

The true university will inspire the purpose to make a life, while making a living. The university is more than a college. It belongs to the public. It is a popular institution. The university in America exists not for the professors or the janitors. It exists for the public. The state university is the great conservator of democracy in America.

The University of Vermont is fulfilling its mission in the state. The extension courses, the growth of the agricultural college, and the growth of the department of commerce and economics are all to serve the state. But in spite of increased legislative appropriations and a number of private bequests, our mission demands more money.

The true American university will stand for character, scholarship and professional bearing which will lead to the best sort of public service. That is a statement of my position. If we live up to it, it will be an institution of which no one need be ashamed.

Dr. George Lawson, principal of Vermont Academy, was the next speaker. He has sent 17 men from his school who are now in the university. He said:

It was my misfortune not to have been born in Vermont, but after 22 years in Vermont consider myself a Vermonter. We are sending boys to the university. You are doing a great work. As never before you are deserving consideration from the state and the loyalty of the alumni. He then enumerated the assets of the U. V. M.

First, the location. I think you are trying to build up the non-athletic boy physically. Second, for your spirit, that subtle something which is almost spiritual, almost personal. I do not speak of college equipment; you need it. It is the personal element which is important. He paid a tribute to President Benton. I believe in the medium-sized college for the average boy. I do believe that you should give most of the boys the classics, the cultural training and put off the day of specialization. I hope to see the day when the U. V. M. will strengthen its classical department as it has its scientific departments.

Dr. Talcot Williams, dean of the Columbia School of Journalism, spoke on "The College Midway." He was introduced as the greatest universal specialist, and his speech will be published in the next issue of the Cynic.

Mr. F. L. Moore, '90, of Wadsworth, N. Y., manager of the first baseball team that beat Dartmouth, president of Empire State Products Association. The influence of Vermont men has been felt everywhere in every movement for good in this country. We have in this country a peculiar people, full of complex ideas. We need education of the masses. I assume that we all aim at success. The path to a full dinner pail is paved with many a knock-out drop.

Dr. Samuel Lloyd, —, was the last speaker. With all the changes of the age to meet utilitarian ideas, we are getting away from a true education. The purpose of the college is to take the rough block of humanity, the school boy, and to hew him into a man. I do not believe that we can make an educated man without the humanities. The smaller colleges and Vermont are standing out for the true education.

The meeting closed with the "Old Sis Boom" and "Champlain."

The annual meeting of the association will be held in March.

RELAY MEN IN BOSTON TONIGHT

Men in Excellent Condition—Captain Hayden Optimistic—A Fast Combination After Final Week of Polishing.

The relay team is in Boston ready to meet Tufts to-night. The men are in excellent condition, much better than last year's, who were somewhat overtrained, and Captain Hayden thinks we stand well to not only win the relay, but to show up strong in the other events also. In the final trials last Saturday Bolster, '16; Wilbur, '17; Patterson, '16; and Cintron, '17, made the best time and will probably run to-night in the order named. Bolster, who starts the race, is the fastest short distance man in college. His get-a-ways were formerly a little slow, but this year has shown improvement. He is a hard, muscular runner who will find the 390 distance long for his speed.

Wilbur, the second man, is a long distance runner, new to us, but with plenty of races behind him to insure experience. He is easy, fast and ready.

Patterson, the prettiest ground coverer on the trials team, whose specialty is the 440, will fall in at third place. He is in better shape than during his heats of last year.

Cintron is expected to make the fastest time, and will close the race. He is a heavy, strong, long striding runner with speed and endurance. Although sick at the beginning of the week, he is in good condition for to-night.

Cintron will also enter the 600-yard handicap, Bolster and Patterson the 100-yard scratch, and Hayden the one mile handicap.

Captain Hayden, always a strong long distance man, has never been in better trim for a race. For two years Vermont has wanted to see him go up against the real article. He represented the university last night at the gathering of the New England Intercollegiate Athletic Association at Boston.

The past week has seen the men on training table, and working at the starts and touch-offs. At the latter they are not in first class form. Dr. Stone accompanied the team.

$50 CONDITIONAL GIFT.

Economics Department Needs $50 More.

The Department of Economics has received from an anonymous alumnus an offer to contribute fifty dollars for the purchase of books on the condition that the amount be increased to one hundred dollars. This sum must be in addition to any appropriations now made.

It is hoped that some other alumnus will be interested enough to second this offer and thus secure a sum much needed to meet the demands of an expanding department.

BULLETIN ON DIRECT PRIMARIES.

Class in Politics Issues Pamphlet of State Interest.

The class in politics has composed a very interesting and enlightening pamphlet of about twenty pages on direct and preferential primaries. The class has undertaken to present to the voters of the state of Vermont the information necessary for an intelligent understanding of the question, which will be voted upon next March.

The bulletin traces the history of the convention system now in use in this state, a form which the bulletin endeavors to prove has outlived its usefulness, and should be replaced by the more progressive system of direct or preferential primaries. It alleges that the old time convention system fails, and shows in just what points that failure is most injurious to state and voter.

"What the Direct Primary Is," is a topic of lengthy discussion. It defines the subject and then divides it into its two classes: the "closed" primary, and the "open" primary. In the "closed" primary participation is open to only members of the party who have been previously enrolled or who have complied with some sort of test of party allegiance. In the "open" primary a voter may cast his ballot for the candidates for nomination of any party, and no attempt is made to prevent the Democrat from taking a hand in Republican nominations and vice versa. It then discusses the advisability or inadvisability, as the case may be, of these two phases of the problem.

A presentation of the full list of states that have adopted the direct primary is given in the pamphlet, but the variety of the forms adopted by the different states has become so great that it was impossible to present the full information in so small a bulletin. It states that the population of the states which use the direct primary system in some form is about sixty million, or about 80 per cent. of the total population. In states containing much over half the population practically all elective officers are nominated by direct primary elections.

The bulletin concludes by a consideration of the results of direct primary elections, and a discussion of the preferential primaries. It suggests that the preferential primary may be all right as far as it goes, but it does not go far enough. "It is only striking in a half-hearted way," states the bulletin, "at a difficulty, whereas the direct primary is a bold step towards progressive government."

It is the desire of the University that this bulletin be in the hands of every one desiring it. If any student would like a copy sent to any friend throughout the state, it will be sent if he will but give the address to the registrar.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB.

Hinting Wong, President of the Vermont Cosmopolitan Club, announces that he has for some time contemplated having a man of note come to Burlington and give a lecture on some such question as "International Peace." The man and the date have not been definitely decided upon, but these details will probably be settled soon, as President Wong is desirous of having this event take place during his administration.

Vol. 31. February 7, 1914. No. 21.

The meeting of fraternity representatives on Monday afternoon to form an Inter-Fraternity Conference will be watched with great interest by all who hope for better things in our undergraduate life. The sentiment in favor of better fraternity relations and for a rushing system seems to be universal and it is very strongly hoped that nothing will block the movement. If a conference can be formed, officers elected and a constitution drafted and adopted at Monday's meeting, the Conference will be on its feet, and the rushing by-laws can be thrashed out and put through at later meetings.

The fraternities will be fortunate if a rushing system can be perfected which will exactly suit everyone. A spirit of idealism and a spirit of generous compromise, however, will solve all the difficulties. Dartmouth has tried several rushing systems and has been through some hard times before the fraternity situation was on the road to perfection. This year all the fraternities are pulling together on the rushing system. The results are so gratifying that "The Dartmouth," the college newspaper, expressed its gratification at the state of affairs in the following editorial a few weeks ago.

For the first time within the recorded history of The Dartmouth, its editorial columns have for over two months maintained a profound silence upon the fraternity situation. This very silence is eloquent of the utopian state of affairs at present, and is only broken that due notice be taken of a change in student relations. The duty of a newspaper should be to point out the significant good, as well as evil in the life here, and thus far, the fraternity situation in regard to the relations between the College and the freshman has, for the first time in many years, taken on a natural form.

The first result of this absence of artificial relations between upper classes and freshmen is shown in the freshman marks, which are higher than ever before at this time of the year. Whether the rise in scholarship be wholly due to this cause, or whether the present entering class be far above the ordinary in intelligence, is difficult to judge, but, as the law of average tends to discount the second presumption, it is safe to say that both these factors contribute to the long desired result.

On the other side of the question, the feeling of mutual confidence between the fraternities was never so apparent at this period of the year. A spirit of friendliness among them was shown when the Interfraternity Council changed the date of Chinning Day without demur to accommodate two chapters of the conference, which had conventions on the date previously arranged. This, while it may appear as a natural bit of courtesy, will appear to any who have been familiar with fraternity relations in the past here as nothing short of a miraculous commentary upon existing feelings.

And lastly, the College has not been moved completely off its natural base, in order that the senior should prostrate himself suppliant before the feet of the almighty freshman. Acquaintance has been ripened between the classes by natural means, and not forced into bloom by the artificial methods of organized calling and predetermined "rushing," which was equally a bore to the upperclassman, and an inquisition to the new man. The Dartmouth is no prophet of an impossible optimism, and does not prophecy the completion of a season without any break to mar it, but it would say that never before has such a period of time elapsed for the classes to become acquainted with each other, under conditions that approximated normal.

The rise in scholarship rank, which has not been confined to the freshman class alone, and the freedom from constraint, which either bids or forbids one to know a member of the entering class, has been indeed a true cause for thanks from the whole College, and a praiseworthy criterion of the growing maturity of college life and viewpoint here.

Suggestions as to how to reduce class taxes are always in order. Class budgets, supervision of the executive committees, a study of the expenditures of former years are all calculated to produce a more efficient administration of class finances. Here is another suggestion for the two lower classes: Do not give sweaters for class baseball. If this was voted at this time of year, it could not be considered as aimed at any particular individuals and could not cause complaints on this score. Class baseball sweaters are a needless expense. The football men who must go out for a stated period of weeks and who serve as scrubs and help keep the regulars in condition—these men deserve class sweaters if they play a considerable portion of the class game. The baseball sweaters are never earned. None of the men are called upon for any long term of training, and they do not help varsity baseball in any way. The inter-class baseball games have never aroused much interest. The donating of class baseball sweaters is an expensive habit. This little extravagance has put more than one class on the rocks financially for a considerable period of time. It is a time-honored custom which might well be considered unwise, and might easily be abolished.

We print elsewhere a proposed monthly schedule of college events which Professor Appelmann has worked out. Its purpose is admirable and it shows much careful thought. He offers it to the students and to the faculty-student council for their consideration, not claiming it to be perfect, but as a mere suggestion for a scientific program of meetings, smokers, dances, and other functions. It is not perfect, in our opinion, but it is a big step in the right direction. We suggest that all organizations which have regular meetings be required to hold them, say on Monday or Tuesday nights. The fraternities and Commons Club, and faculty could still have Saturday night. This would leave three nights a week in which any extraordinary meeting could be held. All smokers and dances, all rehearsals of Musical Clubs and Wig and Buskin Society could find three uninterrupted nights in each week. Placing all club meetings on two nights of the week would require everyone to limit his membership to a small number of clubs. There would be some nights left for study, which is not a negligible quantity. Professor Appelmann's plan is especially commendable in providing for a monthly smoker. He says that the organizations need not meet on the scheduled nights if they do not wish to, but they must not meet on any other nights.

There is another opportunity for a graduate or friend to give a small gift which may be applied in a special place and may do much good. The Economics Department has been given an anonymous gift of $50 on condition that the amount is duplicated by some one else. The money will be devoted to the purchase of new books for the department. We suggested a few weeks ago that some alumnus give a fraternity scholarship cup, and no one has adopted the suggestion as yet. THE CYNIC now wishes to call the attention of the alumni to this opportunity. Special departments of the University may often attract the interest of the alumnus. It is very much to be desired that some graduate will be sufficiently interested in the Economics Department to match this gift.

SCHEDULE OF MEETINGS SUGGESTED BY PROF. APPELMANN.

In pursuance of the general feeling that some fixed schedule of club dates should prevail in the University as was suggested by a letter to the last issue of THE CYNIC, Professor Appelmann has suggested the following provisional arrangement, meetings to begin at 7:00 or 7:30 o'clock. First Week: Monday, Glee Club, Instrumental Club; Tuesday, Catholic Club, St. Paul's Club, Y. M. C. A.; Wednesday, German, French, and Classical Clubs; Thursday, Botanical, Electrical, and Chemical Clubs; Friday, Dances; Saturday, Faculty Club, Fraternity meetings, Commons Club.

Second Week: Monday, Dramatic Club, Senate; Tuesday, Y. M. C. A., Pre-med Club; Wednesday, Debating Association; Thursday, Agricultural Club; Friday, Class Societies, Dances; Saturday, Smoker.

Third Week: Monday, Home Economics Club, Girls' Glee Club; Tuesday, Y. M. C. A.; Wednesday, Debating Association, German, French, and Classical Clubs; Thursday, Botanical, Electrical, and Chemical Clubs; Friday, Dances, Cotillion Club; Saturday, Cosmopolitan Club, Fraternity Meetings.

Fourth Week: Monday, Prep. School Clubs; Tuesday, Y. M. C. A., Pre-med Club; Wednesday, Debating Association; Thursday, Aero Club; Friday, Plays, Entertainments; Saturday, Commons Club, Fraternity Meetings.

VERMONT CLASSICAL ASSOCIATION TO MEET HERE.

Some of State's Best on the Program.

The eighth annual meeting of the Vermont section of the Classical Association of New England will be held at the Williams Science Hall, Burlington, Vt., Saturday, Feb. 14, 1914. The program will be as follows:

Morning Session 10:15 a. m.—12:30 p. m.

"Xenophons 'Anabasis' as Literature," Prof. S. E. Bassett, University of Vermont.

"Ways and Means of Bringing Dead Languages to Life," Principal J. E. Colburn, Burlington High School.

"The Minimum of Syntax which will enable the Student to Gain a Practical Working Knowledge of the Classics," Principal Harriman, Middlebury High School.

Afternoon Session 1:45—4:00 p. m.
Business Meeting, 1.45 to 2.00 P. M.

"An Up-to-Date Version of Some Scenes from the 'Birds of Aristophanes,'" Prof. W. S. Burrage, Middlebury College.

"Vivifying the Past in the Study of the Classics," Principal Thomas, Rutland High School.

"Influences Against Classical Studies," Principal C. H. Morrill, Brigham Academy, Bakersfield.

Any additional information in regard to the meeting may be obtained from the Secretary of the Association, Prof. M. B. Ogle, Burlington, Vt. All who are interested in the classics and what they stand for are cordially invited to attend.

TWO VERMONT MEN IN FACULTY PLAY.

Former Author of College Play.

"The Daily Illini," of the University of Illinois publishes the following account of "London Assurance," presented by the Players' Club, a social dramatic organization of members of the faculty:

"The Players' Club last night presented in Morrow Hall what is said to have been one of the most successful comedies that it has ever staged. According to the critics, the play lacked nothing in the way of clever acting . . . . . G. P. Tuttle created an uproar from the audience when he made his first appearance looking for his wife, and was introduced to Sir Harcourt."

Mr. Tuttle will be remembered as a Vermont man of the class of 1911, and the author of the college play of that year. In "London Assurance" he took the role of Adolphus Spanker. Mr. H. E. Cunningham, another Vermont man, was also in the cast, as Martin, the footman.

Juniors Elect.

H. C. Fisk, Jr. has been elected manager of the Junior class hockey team. The class has voted a tax of ten cents per capita toward defraying the expenses of the debating teams.

A COLLEGE TRADITION.

During the photo frenzy which recently struck the hill, a hidden "point of honor" was unexpectedly discovered. It would seem that the Seniors have the exclusive right of class photos on the library steps. It is good to have class distinctions and college traditions. The case in point is of ten years' standing. The misfortune is that so few seemed to know the custom existed. We now call the attention of the entire college to the fact that it is a Senior right to monopolize the library steps for class pictures.

COLLEGE JOURNALISM.

Improvement of College Papers—Local Papers Alarmed—Viewpoint of the National Advertiser.

J. B. Powell, Instructor in Advertising at the University of Missouri, says that "One of the most notable and most recent effects of the teaching of journalism at the various schools and colleges of this country has been its effect upon the college press of America." There are now over thirty institutions where instruction is given. Manner and character of presenting the news has changed, also the amount and character of the advertising. In at least three instances the town newspaper has been so threatened by the college daily that a vain appeal has been made to the state legislature for protection.

In three state universities of the Middle-West, located in towns with a population ranging from ten to eighteen thousand, the college newspapers have a larger circulation than the locals. National advertisers such as Cluett, Peabody & Co.; Ed. V. Price; and the Coco Cola Co., knowing that college students are good spenders, and recognizing the broader circulation, the improvement in news and advertising of the college papers are making deliberate investments with good returns.

DR. NICHOLS INTRODUCED TO BURLINGTON BY PRES. BENTON.

Speaks of Business and Social Ethics and Morality.

Dr. Ernest Fox Nichols, president of Dartmouth College addressed the mass meeting of men at the city Y. M. C. A., Sunday afternoon, February 1st. President Benton presided, and the scripture lesson was read and prayer offered by Prof. G. H. Perkins. President Nichols' subject was "Business and Social Morality." A large number of University students were present.

One of the most interesting statements made in President Nichols' address was that in the present age the individual had practically disappeared. Impersonal business combinations have supplanted him. The officers of great corporations are not known to the people, and the people seem to be indifferent to them. To cope with this altered status a new system of morality is necessary and right. The speaker illustrated the present attitude of the people to the corporations by showing that the same feeling does not exist in the mind of a person when the conductor fails to take his mileage as when the grocer with whom he is personally acquainted fails to give him the proper change. On the other hand, the director of a corporation when sitting at the meeting of a board has a different idea of responsibility to the people with whom he would be scrupulously just if he were dealing with them face to face. Our morality must become broad enough to cover the new arrangement of things.

President Nichols, in defining morality, called it the child of religion, but one that has not been completely weaned from its mother. Religion and morality are interpenetrative and dependent on each other. The principles of morality are ages old, but in each succeeding age they stand in need of new application. This is the age of Scientific Discovery: every department of human endeavor is healed scientifically, and so there is an increased need of education, knowledge, and ability to think.

In closing the speaker appealed to the Y. M. C. A. to carry on its work of the conservation of men in things moral, spiritual, and intellectual, without which the conservation of wealth and natural resources is of very little use.

Tomorrow, February 8, Hon. W. H. Crockett, of Montpelier, will speak.

SCHEDULES.

A recent schedule of Y. M. C. A. meetings for February and March shows the following:

Feb. 10.—"Y. M. C. A. as a Life-work," Mr. Byron Clark, State Sec'y., Y. M. C. A.

Feb. 17.—"The College Man in Politics," Prof. G. G. Groat.

Feb. 24.—Discussion: "What Contribution to an ideal College Spirit Can the Y. M. C. A. Make," Schoff, '14.

Mar. 3.—Student Volunteer Meeting. Report of Delegates to Kansas City.

Mar. 10.—Illustrated Lecture, "The Coming City" or "The Problems of the Municipality."

Mar. 17.—"Greater Vermont," Mr. J. P. Taylor, Pres. of the Greater Vermont Association.

Mar. 24.—Business Meeting; Election of Officers for 1914-15.

On the opposite side of the leaflet is a schedule of the University Rifle Team with space reserved for the scores. The schedules may be obtained by calling at the Y. M. C. A. office. The Y. M. C. A. also announces that handbooks containing a blank study plan for the coming semester may be had by calling during mid-year registration or the following week.

The last meeting was led by Dr. Barnes on "The Rich Young Man."

ALUMNI NOTES.

The Vermont Alumni Association of Western New York is to hold its annual banquet on March 6 at Buffalo. H. C. Burrows is secretary of the association.

ANNUAL FACULTY RECEPTION.

The ladies of the faculty entertained the college women at their annual tea held at Grassmount Saturday afternoon, January 24. Miss Terrill, Mrs. Stone, Mrs. Messenger and Mrs. Blackburn received. Mrs. W. L. Wasson of Waterbury, for two years president of the Vermont Federation of Women's Clubs, gave a very interesting talk on "The Federated Women's Club as a Social Force." The Girls' Glee Club rendered several selections in a very pleasing manner. At the close of the program, a buffet luncheon was served in the dining room, Mrs. Smart and Mrs. Groat presiding at the table. The seniors appeared in cap and gown for the first time.

All-Girl Dance.

PRE-MEDIC CLUB.

The Pre-Medic Club held a meeting shortly before Mid-Years. As there was not a quorum present no business could be transacted. Those present did however discuss details of The Pre-Medic Club Banquet, which is to come soon after Mid-Years, although the exact date has not yet been appointed.

Travel Club Lecture.

Professor M. B. Myrick gave a very interesting and enjoyable illustrated lecture on France before the members of the Travel Club, Saturday afternoon, January 31, in the Williams Science Hall. Both city and country life in France were depicted with great vividness, and many of the curious customs and the chief treasures of art were described.

Professor and Mrs. A. A. Borland are the parents of a daughter, Margaret Eleanor.

VAUDEVILLE FINANCES.

One Hundred and Fifty Dollars to Baseball.

The financial outcome of the College Vaudeville held at the Majestic Theatre, December 18, for the benefit of the athletic treasury has not been fully determined. It is stated, however, on good authority that the addition to the amount set aside solely for baseball will be in round numbers about one hundred and fifty dollars. Had not the affair been so successful we would have been deprived of several games worth seeing.

"A CENTURY IN INDIA."

By William Hazen, Class of 1893.

The recent centennial celebration of America's Christian connection with India, observed with special meetings in Bombay, November 7-10, takes on a new interest for us of the University of Vermont with the gift to the Library by the author, William Hazen of the Class of 1893, of a short historical sketch of the American Marathi Mission entitled "A Century in India." Mr. Hazen is at present a missionary at Ahmednagar and writes of the success of the American Mission with immediate and first-hand knowledge.

Perhaps but few of us realize the difficulties under which the American missionaries have labored in their zeal for a righteous cause. Naturally the first workers did little more than obtain a foothold. When the work began in 1813 the East India Company had ordered that no missionaries be allowed to remain in its territory, but undaunted, the little band of men and women set themselves to the task of learning the language and becoming acquainted with conditions in preparation for the time when they would be allowed to teach. Shortly afterwards, in 1815, liberty to remain and engage in missionary work was granted. Sickness then unfortunately reduced their numbers so that but two men were left. This was but the turning point, and beginning with 1816 the work began to prosper, though but slowly. In 1833, after the mission had been established twenty years, there were on the field but nine missionaries. Although but eighteen natives had been received into the church, no fewer than 2,000 pupils were enrolled in the mission schools. Since this date, as everyone knows, success has been more evident.

The account, though largely tabular and evidently rather hastily written, at least presents a good lesson in the value of persistent effort. It illustrates, as the author hopes it may, the words of one of the first missionaries, Gordon Hall: "Everything may be effected by exertion—exertion—exertion, with the blessing of God."—Prof. Lindsay.

WINTER SPORTS.

Book by Fred H. Harris.

A unique and interesting book entitled, "Dartmouth out o' Doors," by Fred H. Harris, has recently been placed on the library reading table. Although the book deals primarily with the history and exploits of the well known Dartmouth Outing Club, it is the hope of the author that the three colleges of Vermont may also become enthusiastic over winter sports, the joys of the carnival and the long white trail. Suggestions to the amateur are taken up under the three divisions of why to hike, how to hike, and where to hike. The book is attractively outlined, printed, and illustrated, full of good advice and pleasing anecdote. It comes to us with the compliments of the Green Mountain Club.

CAPTAIN REEVES ADDRESSES THE MERCHANTS.

At the last luncheon held by the Merchants' Association of the city the principal speaker was Capt. Ira L. Reeves of the University. Capt. Reeves spoke on the student encampment. He discussed the camp in its relation to the University, to the city, and to the nation. He estimated that about 1,000 young men would take advantage of the fine opportunity offered in the camp. These young men in most cases would come from well-to-do families, and the parents of quite a few will probably accompany their sons. In this way the camp will attract business to the city and give it a good deal of free advertising.

He gave as the most important reasons for choosing Burlington as the situation for the camp, the pleasing location of the city, the proximity of the lake and the historical significance of the region, as well as the natural features of the surrounding territory, which are excellently adapted for the study of military tactics.

He also mentioned the fact that there will be an aeroplane here for some time this summer.

AN INDUSTRIAL UNIVERSITY.

Demand for Trained Employees Supplied—Experts in Control—All Industrial Branches.

A free institution for manual training, technical training and practical management is being established at Lomax, Illinois, with an inventor's department to assist inventors in the development of new ideas. The fact has long been recognized that the industrial establishments of the United States have been seriously handicapped by the lack of a sufficient number of highly trained employees, and the lack of special training, necessary to develop a class of employees, fully equipped to undertake the management of the various branches of manufacturing industries.

It is proposed to organize an institution with a board of control, composed of highly trained experts in Mechanical Engineering, Electricity, Chemistry, Advertising, and Business Management, with other branches added as the needs of the institution may develop. There will be a trade school for higher training in Mechanics, Chemistry, Electricity and Factory Management; an inventor's department for the benefit of all inventors of the United States with undeveloped or partially developed ideas which may be worthy of the assistance of this institution; a trade school for the special training in all industrial lines, free of charge; and a department of research for the benefit of all industries in conducting special investigations to secure improved methods of manufacture.

PRESIDENT'S ITINERARY.

Tuesday of this week President Benton attended the New York Alumni Banquet at New York. His more important engagements for the rest of the month are:

February 10.—Troas, N. Y.

February 13.—Vergennes.

February 19.—Waterbury, Conn.

February 20.—Boston Alumni Banquet.

February 24. Richmond, Va. Meeting of the Department of Superintendents of the National Educational Association.

February 27.—Washington, D. C.

March 6.—Buffalo N. Y., Alumni Banquet.

On yesterday he was to have spoken before the Southeastern Kansas Teachers' Association at Fort Scott, but the engagement was cancelled.

THE FOOTBALL COACH.

List of Several Stars Necessitates a Careful Selection.

The next athletic council meeting will be an important one in that the selection of next season's football coach will be thoroughly talked over. Several applications from well known and competent football men have been received by Dr. Beecher, and the candidates will each be given careful consideration. It is the object of the council to satisfy the undergraduate body as well as the alumni in the selection of coach as is obvious in the slow and cautious manner in which it is making the selection. Two stars of last year's Dartmouth team, a Michigan man, a Colgate man, and a former Vermont star are under consideration, and all indications point toward a good coach for next fall.

INTERCLASS HOCKEY.

The schedule of the interclass hockey and the preparation of the rink are in the hands of a committee of the U. K. M. A. society. The schedule is as follows:

Friday, Feb. 13, at 4 p. m.—Freshmen vs. Juniors.

Wednesday, Feb. 18, at 4 p. m.—Sophmores vs. Seniors.

The two winners will play a three game series for the college championship. Other games will be announced later.

The playing of this series necessarily depends upon the weather. If a cold spell does not set in immediately, the rink will not be in condition, and there can be no series on scheduled dates. In this event the games will be postponed until weather permits.

Commons Hall is now under University management and it is the desire of the authorities to make the Hall serve the student body in the largest way possible. In order to do this, it is necessary to have every table full, for then only can the best food and service be given the patrons.

Those who can are asked to board at this institutional table and those who find that impossible are requested, for the sake of the University, to do what they can for the betterment of

INTERFRATERNITY CONFERENCE FORMED FEW FRATERNITIES ENTER

Constitution Drafted and Officers Chosen by Lot—Rushing Rules Later.

An Inter-Fraternity Conference was formed of ten fraternities at the meeting called for that purpose on last Monday afternoon. A constitution was adopted, officers were named, and the general form of the by-laws in regard to fraternity rushing were informally discussed.

The constitution provides that each member fraternity shall choose three members as its representatives—these men to be preferably an alumnus, a Senior, and a Junior, and to hold their positions throughout the year, the Junior holding his position in the Conference his Senior year. Each fraternity will cast one ballot on all questions. The constitution also provides that the officers shall have no position of honor or power, but shall merely perform the duties which are necessary to every organization. They shall be chosen by lot, and none of the fraternities will have the president or the secretary-treasurer until these officers have been held by all the other fraternities in the Conference. The constitution follows rather closely the model constitution suggested by the National Inter-Fraternity Conference.

The fraternities represented at the meeting were Lambda Iota, Sigma Phi, Delta Psi, Phi Delta Theta, Alpha Tau Omega, Kappa Sigma, Sigma Nu, Alpha Zeta, Delta Sigma, and Alpha Kappa Kappa.

The constitution of the Conference is as follows:

I.

This organization shall be known as "The Inter-Fraternity Conference of the University of Vermont."

II.

Its purposes are:

1. To promote the interests of the said university;
2. And of the several fraternities represented therein;
3. To insure co-operation among said fraternities;
4. Between them and the college authorities to the end that the conditions of the fraternities and their relations with the college authorities may be improved.

III.

This conference shall comprise three members from each fraternity represented.

FOUNDER'S DAY COMMITTEE IS APPOINTED.

The Founder's Day committee has been appointed by President St. John as follows:

W. H. Boardman, Chairman; Allen E. Moore, Richard S. Farr, Leon W. Dean, '15, and Robert W. Daniels, '15.

This committee will have charge of the arrangements of the Founder's Day exercises. The Senior and Junior nominating boards will each meet to make nominations for the two Founder's Day Speakers and these names will be balloted upon in a college meeting in the near future.

HAYDEN WINS SECOND IN B. A. A. HANDICAP MILE

Hayden Wins Second Medal at B. A. A. Meet—Relay Team Loses to Tufts—Better Its Previous Record by Several Seconds.

The relay team of Vermont and Captain Hayden arrived in Boston in fine shape for the B. A. A. games and gave a good account of themselves. Last year the 1560 yards relay was won by Tufts by 20 yards in 3 min. 24% seconds. Saturday night Tufts won by 5 yards in 3 min. 19% seconds. Our boys ran a game, determined race and excelled their trials by 2 seconds each, on an average. Bolster 52%-51, Wilber 52%-50%, Patterson 51%-49%, Cintron 52-50, making a total in trials of 3 minutes and 28 seconds, and in the race 3 minutes and 21 seconds. The team though defeated deserve a lot of credit for their gain of seven seconds in a race over any work done at home.

The handicap mile was a very exciting race. It started with 33 men and was won by a Harvard man, Blackman, in 4 minutes and 37½ seconds, Captain Hayden second. The Harvard man only managed to get up in the last ten yards and won by a yard. Hayden made a game struggle, though

KAKE-WALK SMOKER FULL OF ENTHUSIASM DR. CLARK SCORES A HIT

Kake Walk Plans, Baseball Needs, Printing Plant Practicability Presented—Big Musical Features.

The liveliest smoker of the year thus far was the Kake Walk smoker of Wednesday night, in the Medical building. Because of the intense cold and the short notice the attendance was not full, but nevertheless there was a goodly number, and lack of numbers was more than made up by quality of spirit. The spirit of St. John, F. C. Ross, and Dr. Clark showed conclusively that "Old Vermont" enthusiasm and loyalty are live wires; and the response of the audience was just as enthusiastic as the speeches. The rejuvenated band, the Glee Club, and Seth Johnson, '14, kept every moment busy between speeches, and a delightful evening was enjoyed by every man. Moreover the necessity for a more successful Kake Walk than ever before was impressed on the minds of the men, and a new impetus was given the Kake Walk movement.

Chairman Whalen, '14, of the Kake Walk Committee, explained the rules this year and emphasized the necessity of all pulling together and every man doing what he could to make the event a success. He said that it was expected that there would be ten couples to walk fo' de kake, and of these, seven have already handed in their names. Frank C. Ross, '11, former Kake Walk chairman, in a few effective words put much kake walk enthusiasm into the meeting. Captain S. F. Berry, basketball captain, and a member of the Kake Walk Committee, said that the Kake Walk fund was needed for the basketball team and pleaded for the support of the men. Olzendam, '15, then told of the plan of the Key and Serpent Society to entertain sub-freshmen at the Kake Walk and asked for the support of the Key and Serpent dance on Monday evening, the income from which will be partly used for this purpose. Dr. Clark followed in a speech which struck the keynote of the smoker and was pervaded by the never-die, true Vermont spirit. He brought forth cheer after cheer from his audience by references to the University, its hopes, and its ideals. Manager Moore of the baseball team expressed himself as optimistic at the outlook for the season and spoke of the Southern trip and the schedule. He urged especially

BASEBALL PRACTICE STARTS.

Promising Battery Candidates Report This Week.

Baseball practice began this week with the working out of batteries. There is much new material out and although it is yet too soon to ascertain definitely, the outlook is very promising. Captain Berry is counting on some strong batteries this season.

KAKE-WALK PLANS OVERSHADOW ALL ELSE

Fraternities Busy—Syndicate Offers Peerade Cup.

The work of preparing for the big annual college event, the Kake Walk, is well under way, and never before has there been such an intense interest on the part of the entire student body, as was manifested by the attendance at the Kake Walk smoker held at the Medical College on Wednesday evening. As has long been the custom, the receipts from the Kake Walk will go to defray the expenses of the varsity baseball team. These expenses will be considerably heavier this year than usual owing to the addition of the Southern trip.

The manager is planning on a hundred dollars more of receipts from the Kake Walk than heretofore. This will mean that the gymnasium must be filled to its utmost capacity. Special efforts are being put forth to make the events more attractive and interesting. The fraternities have been working on their stunts for some time, and many of these are entirely original. The stepping for the cake will be a keen competition in which ten couples will take part. While in a general way the event will be very similar to that of former years yet there will be many new features.

The Kake Walk Committee met Monday night and drew up a set of rules governing the events. These are only slightly different from those of former years.

1. Time of stunts is fifteen minutes from the time the bell rings. Judges will be notified of all overtime.

2. One-half of the expense of the stunts will be paid up to twenty dollars. The limit of expense is thirty dollars.

3. Time allowed the kake walkers is three minutes. Kake walkers will be allowed expenses up to three dollars.

4. Each fraternity must hand in to the chairman of the Kake Walk Committee the number of men who will participate in its stunt. These men will be given stunt tickets which must be kept in plain sight when desiring admission.

INTERFRATERNITY CONFERENCE FORMED.

sented in the University of Vermont which subscribes to this constitution.

Each fraternity may choose its representatives in any manner it may see fit, but where possible the three representatives shall be an alumnus, a senior and a junior, the latter to be the senior representative the succeeding year.

During any one college year the representatives of each fraternity shall remain the same, unless a representative leaves the institution in which case a substitute may be appointed in his place. Each fraternity shall have one vote, but there shall be no voting by proxy.

IV.

Regular meetings shall take place once a month; the time and place shall be designated by the president.

Special meetings may be called at the request of the representatives of any fraternity.

V.

The officers of the conference shall be a President, Treasurer and Secretary, who shall perform the usual duties incident to their respective offices. They shall each preferably be chosen to serve for one collegiate year and shall be chosen by lot, the first being the President, the second Secretary and Treasurer; the officers being eliminated at expiration of term until all other fraternities have held office.

VI.

The conference shall make by-laws regulating the manner of pledging prospective members to the several fraternities represented in the Conference, and any other by-laws which would meet the needs of the Conference.

VII.

Infractions of this Constitution or By-Laws may be punished in any appropriate way to be determined by the Conference.

VIII.

This Constitution can be amended at any time by a majority vote of the fraternities represented in the conference, each fraternity being entitled to one vote for its three representatives.

SOME SUGGESTED BY-LAWS.

The following very tentative by-laws were among the rushing regulations which were discussed:

1. No invitation to membership in be given to any person who is not any fraternity of the conference shall regularly enrolled as a student.

2. No invitation to membership shall be extended to any student by any fraternity of the Conference until the first of November.

3. Every invitation to membership shall be in writing.

4. Any student who shall leave college after being pledged, but before being initiated, shall be automatically released from his pledge after an absence of six months, and if he returns to college shall be open to invitations from any fraternity.

5. The Constitution and By-Laws shall be printed and a copy shall be placed in the hands of every person who enters the college as a student. It shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Conference to see that this is done.

The temporary officers of the meeting were L. W. Batchelder, chairman, and William E. Remby, secretary. The officers which were chosen by lot to serve for the remainder of the year were David W. Howe, president, and Ralph E. Soulis, '16, secretary-treasurer.

K. H. Emerson has been named to make a study of rushing systems in other colleges.

The significance of this meeting cannot be overestimated. It prophesies better and bigger things for the university, and by providing a permanent board for settlement of all interfraternity affairs it gives to the college something it has long been in need of. Not only does this council mean better conditions between the fraternities but better and bigger things for the university. By means of it the fraternities can act as a unit in many ways for the betterment of Old Vermont.

The first regular meeting of the Conference will be held on Thursday evening at 7.30 p. m. at Sigma Nu Lodge. All the fraternities are expected to choose their three representatives in time to attend this meeting.

he was jostled and knocked around before he managed to gain the lead, which he held for the last two laps to within 10 yards of the finish. That second medal should mean much to the track team and students of Vermont. With this gain in time by the relay teams and the splendid showing made by Captain Hayden in the Boston meet to begin with, a good showing in the track department for the year is augured, and the student body should endeavor to at least show their appreciation of the efforts made by the delegation by coming out to the Colgate, New Hampshire, and Middlebury meets.

that the baseball men should look to their studies and make the most of their time from now to Easter. D. W. Howe, '14, gave the report of the Printing Press Committee, which was appointed at the last smoker at the instigation of Captain Reeves. The committee, after investigation reported as favorable to the project, and it will be taken up later. J. W. Baker, '15, and Olzendam, '15, led several cheers during the evening.

LOCALS.

J. W. Baker, '15, has returned from a short visit with his family in Montclair. He attended the New York Alumni banquet.

Ex-Governor Eugene N. Foss, ex-'81, was a recent visitor in Burlington.

PLANS FOR THE THOUSAND CLUB.

The "Thousand Club" committee has partially made known its plans for attaining the thousand mark in the undergraduate body next year. Each member of the club is to send in under his signature, on a card provided for the purpose, the names of three prep. school men whom he will endeavor to the best of his ability to bring back next year with him. He is to see that these three men get a full knowledge of the University of Vermont and is to aid them in every possible way to become conversant with the advantages and opportunities of the University. He is to concentrate his energies on these three men and thus do the best possible service he can render in this department; they are to be his province. The details of the plan are not discovered to the public ear but will be disclosed later. By means of this system descriptive matter and catalogues can be sent where they will do the most good and will be of interest to all who receive them, thus saving a useless expenditure of effort and minimizing as far as possible the amount of matter sent out ineffectively.

By means of this club the individual student will feel more deeply his obligation and loyalty to his university and is given an opportunity to make some return for the great benefit which he receives from his alma mater. It ought to bind undergraduate body and alumni more closely together and effect through organization the bigger university which every Vermont man desires.

KAKE WALK PLANS OVERSHADOW ALL.

5. Each fraternity must hand in the name of its stunt and a short description so that the nature of the event may be determined and the program properly arranged.

6. The prizes are the same as usual: The large cake and Briggs cup which go to the winner of the stunt; a small cake to the kake walkers; and the Syndicate Clothing Co. has offered a cup to the best costume in the peerade.

7. Prizes of five dollars, three dollars, and one dollar will be given for selling tickets.

In addition to the committees appointed earlier in the season, a number of men have been appointed to assume the charge of the various features. W. E. Whalen, '14, has charge of the fraternity stunts, the arranging of the program, and the selling of tickets. H. P. Gaylord, '14, is in charge of the peerade. J. Rapuzzi, '14, and A. N. Willis, '15, will have charge of the kake walking. S. F. Berry, R. B. Smith, and C. S. Ferrin will superintend the ushering and seating. It is the desire of these committees that as many men as can may be on hand at the college gymnasium on Saturday and Monday, February 21 and 23, to help in arranging seats, etc. It is also hoped that there will be good competition for the prizes for selling tickets.

Middlebury has offered prizes of ten and fifteen dollars for her debating team try-outs.

NO ORGANIZATION SCHEDULE SEEMS PRACTICABLE

Faculty-Student Council Consider Various Plans, Report Upon Class Finances and Grant Dances.

At the first meeting of the Faculty-Student Council in January a communication concerning the arrangement of a definite schedule of the meetings of the organizations in the University was received from Prof. Appellmann. A committee was appointed and upon investigation found the following to be the situation.

1. There are at present about thirty organizations on the academic side.
2. These organizations embody three principal purposes—religious, social and educational.
3. Several of them have membership in common.
4. Some of them have weekly meetings, some of them have bi-weekly meetings, most of them meet irregularly.
5. There are new clubs arising continually.

In discussion of 1 and 3: There are too many organizations and too many of them have membership in common to successfully arrange a definite schedule. One night (Saturday) is used for Fraternity and Commons Club meetings. This leaves five nights for about twenty-five organizations. A schedule arranged by Prof. Appellmann was published in the last issue of the CYNIC. In this arrangement there is one case when four clubs having members in common meet on the same night; in other cases there are two or three clubs, having members in common, and meeting on the same night. The committee has been able to discover no arrangement where this difficulty can be eliminated. Neither has the committee found any case in which this difficulty has been very marked in the past.

In discussion of 2: Some of the organizations have one purpose, some have two or more purposes. Who is to judge the value of the purposes and thereby determine the frequency of meetings of the different organizations? This is a difficult proposition the solution of which is bound to bring about a feeling of dissatisfaction among the different clubs.

In discussion of 4: This point has been covered to some degree. The irregularity of the meetings of some of the organizations is due most often to one of the following reasons:—At some times there is more urgent business than at other times, or in choosing a speaker who can be present on some certain night the club is obliged to arrange its meeting to suit the convenience of said speaker. Some clubs, as the Wig and Buskin, Glee Club, etc., have very little reason for holding meetings except immediately previous to the presentation of the entertainment and at such time said clubs must meet practically every night in order to prepare for the entertainment.

In discussion of 5: Three new clubs have arisen in within a year. If this keeps on, what would be the benefit of a schedule which would of necessity be continually changing?

Two things are necessary before a definite schedule can be arranged, namely: 1. There must be a decrease in the number of organizations. This might be brought about by a merging of some of the clubs, for instance, the Classical Club, the French Club, and the German Club might be merged into the Arts and Science Club. 2. There must be some means of regulating the formation of new clubs.

At present it is not deemed advisable to arrange a definite schedule.

The Council at the last meeting wished the committee to recommend that each organization send a notice of its meetings to the CYNIC far enough in advance so that a complete calendar of the coming week may be published in each issue of the CYNIC. This would prepare the student for coming events and allow him to arrange his work accordingly. It would also afford organizations having conflicting dates an opportunity to remedy such conflicts.

The Faculty-Student Council was glad to receive this communication from Prof. Appellmann and hopes that no one at any time will hesitate to send a communication dealing with this question or any other question affecting the student body. All matters will be acted upon at the earliest possible date.

At a meeting of the Faculty-Student Council Friday, Feb. 6, permission was granted the Alpha Kappa Fraternity to hold a dance in May. Permission was also granted the Sophomore Class to hold the Annual Sophomore Hop March 13. Permission was withheld from the Key and Serpent Society as there was a conflict in dates—a sorority asking for permission to hold a dance on the same night. This will be decided at once by a committee. A report of the Committee on Schedule of Organization Meetings was made and acted upon. A report of the Committee on Class Finances was made and the Council voted to have the plan, as worked out by the committee referred to the Faculty Finance Committee. The plan will be presented to the student body sometime in the near future.

It is desired that the rules in regard to Bulletin Boards will be recognized.

On the official board the paper is limited to 5 1-2 in. x 8 1-2 in. in size, while on the unofficial board the size should be 8 in. x 12 in., or less.

These rules are at present posted on the Bulletin Boards and if not adhered to, the matter will be taken up more strenuously.

The Faculty-Student Council recommended to the Senate that some action be taken in regard to getting the marks out at an earlier date than in the past. It is hoped that the marks be out within a week.

INTERCLASS TRACK MEET.

Will Occur March 14—Medals on Exhibition.

An indoor interclass track meet will be held in the gymnasium on the fourteenth of March. Dr. Stone has charge of the contest and he will hold the following events. A 25 yard race, half mile race, mile race, 25 yard hurdle, pole vault, shot put, running high jump, running high dive, quarter mile potato race, sack race, and obstacle race. Gold, silver, and bronze medals, which will be awarded to the three men, who win the largest number of points, are on exhibition in the trophy room. All events will take place on the main floor of the gym., leaving the running track for the spectators. All entries must be in by March 7.

Vol. 31. February 14, 1914. No. 22.

The Inter-Fraternity Conference is now formed, a constitution adopted, and officers chosen. Without causing any stir and with great unanimity of ideas and aims this important body begins its existence, after a long period of continual wondering why we have not such a Conference. But one of the three medical fraternities was represented and it is not yet determined just what the status of the medical fraternities in the Conference will be, since all of their rushing problems are not yet evident. The by-laws in regard to rushing are, of course, the greatest task before the Conference. It is not well to underestimate or overestimate the difficulties in the way of satisfactory rushing laws. Careful and broad-minded consideration of all proposed laws will meet all difficulties and will not create any new difficulties.

In taking up the problem of a fixed schedule of club meetings the student council is dealing with another hard problem which has from the first been marked out for the council to solve. We wish again to call attention to the idea which the CYNIC advocates of placing all regular club meetings on two days of the week, preferably the first two days. The fraternities and Commons Club will of course not be included in these two evenings, since Saturday night for fraternities is a time-honored custom which no one seems anxious to change. Throwing practically all organization activities upon three nights of the week will cut down the distractions of this nature in which any one individual may indulge. Some of the weaker organizations may be thus throttled. There will be three evenings each week in which the atmosphere may be undisturbed in case that smokers, dances, and musical or dramatic rehearsals be held.

It need not surprise anyone that Captain Earle Hayden made such a creditable showing at the B. A. A. Indoor Meet. Those who know him all realized that he was sooner or later to reap the fruits of his time and effort. Everyone in the University realizes the credit which is due for his performance at Boston and everyone who knows praises him for the faithful and consistent work of two and a half years which made his splendid showing possible. Captain Hayden does not need the further praise of a CYNIC editorial since his time, effort, and interest in track are so universally recognized. His medal has a two-fold significance for University track interests. First, it should cause each man to remark on the pity of it all that we have not had 30 to 50 other men of sturdy physique who were willing to give half as much time and interest to track work. Second, it should encourage such men to begin track work at once, with a chance of similar honor before them. The fame and newspaper publicity which comes from winning medals in large inter-collegiate track meets is much greater than ever comes to a University of Vermont football or baseball man. The winning of this medal gives us a reasonable expectation that Hayden may win more honors in the New England Inter-collegiate Meet.

Track activities have been at a very low ebb for too long a time at the University and this is a good opportunity for making a beginning of better things. In order to put track on its feet there needs to be a different attitude towards it on the part of nearly every individual in college. Track is suffering from lack of interest; it is not spectacular and usually seems to involve more work than honor; a track meet does not thrill so many as a baseball game. Therefore an overwhelming majority of the student body has not shown the proper interest in track. It seems as if the whole student body were to blame for the present condition of track rather than any one individual or any policy of the athletic committee. The athletic committee are in a position where they can spend money only where they see a reasonable return, and lack of student interest in track must result in small appropriations. As a result of this lack of interest track is suffering from a lack of co-operation; there is developing too universal a tendency to criticize the track men whom we have now, when every student should be helping them, every freshman should be willing to volunteer his services to rub them down, every man with a grain of ambition who is not holding down other athletic positions should go out and try to develop his track abilities, and a dozen sophomores who have been holding aloof from college activities should step in and try for the assistant managerships of track. There is no need of dwelling upon the great benefits and opportunities which track athletics offer to the individual student who is without previous training. There is, however, a strong need of emphasizing that we have a great amount of undeveloped material in college, that there is an astonishing percentage of underclassmen who seem to have no consistent ambition for further physical or athletic development, and that the most unpromising candidates who report for track work are entitled to the greatest praise from the student body in place of unfeeling comments. We think that there are statements in this paragraph which will apply to all but about a dozen of the male undergraduates.

The inter-class track meet a month away is a good time to show more interest and less apathy, more class spirit and less criticism. If every man in college who once had an idle dream about amounting to something in athletics would start training now and would enter this meet, a new era for track athletics at the University could be safely predicted.

$35,000 GIFT TO UNIVERSITY.

W. W. Scranton of Scranton, Pa.,
Presents Big St. Albans Estate.

President Benton has made public announcement of a gift to the University of Vermont of property valued at $35,000. The donor is W. W. Scranton of Scranton, Pa. The property deeded to the college authorities in the gift is the mansion and estate known as the Worthington C. Smith estate, situated on the outskirts of St. Albans. Power is given the trustees of the University to retain the property or to dispose of a part or all of it. The money realized by the latter step would constitute the Worthington C. Smith fund of the University.

The mansion, with barns, stables, superintendent's home, and cottages for employees, constitutes a fine estate of about 120 acres, adjoining the city of St. Albans.

Mr. Scranton is the head of the gas company at Scranton, Pa. He is a graduate of Yale University, and his wife is the daughter of the late Worthington C. Smith, a distinguished graduate of the University of Vermont, and for many years an eminent citizen of the State.

The gift was secured through the efforts of Irving L. Rich of Boston, who is the alumni field secretary of the University. Mr. Rich recently called on Mr. Scranton at the latter's office, and interested him in the University bearing the name of the State which claimed his allegiance because of residence and family connection. The gift resulted.

PROF. GROAT AT Y. M. C. A.

Deals with the College Man in Politics.

Prof. Groat of the Economics department gave an interesting and enlightening talk on "The College Man in Politics," on Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Prof. Groat believes that the college man is doing much in politics at the present time but has a great opportunity yet awaiting him for constructive work. He says that the voters of the country may be divided into four classes. The first class is the class of independent voters, and they must learn to be intelligently independent. The second class includes those who take active part in politics only in an emergency. These men give good service and have a certain effect, but lack the effectiveness of the men who peg steadily at it. The third class, composed of those who are interested in measures rather than men, have influence because they popularize measures and thus cause them to be adopted in party platforms. The fourth and most influential class is the best known—the politicians, and this last class must have the ideal of public service rather than personal benefit before them.

The college man having an independent resource to fall back upon if defeated, possessing ideals above corrupt practices and graft, and holding the public service above selfish ends, should enter the class of politicians. If, however, he cannot stand these tests, he should join one of the other classes until he may conscientiously and efficiently work for the welfare of his fellowmen.

EASTERN NEW YORK ALUMNI REUNION AND BANQUET

President and Professors Address the Gathering—Officers Elected.

The members of the Eastern New York Alumni Association of the University of Vermont held their ninth annual banquet Tuesday evening, Feb. 10, at the Hotel Rensselaer, Troy, N. Y. About 25 were present.

At the conclusion of the dinner there was a program of toasts, with Rev. Charles M. Sturgess, 1900, of Albany, superintendent of the Albany district of the Methodist Church, acting as toastmaster. The first speaker was President Benton, who contended that the university of today should not only fit a man to make a living, but it should make him a cultured man as well, or, in other words, it should make life as well as living. He spoke of the recent survey of the educational institutions of Vermont by the Carnegie foundation and pointed out that the great needs of the University of Vermont are the development of its Colleges of Medicine, Agriculture and Engineering.

Professor Freedman of the College of Electrical Engineering touched upon the work of that branch of the institution, pointing out that its graduates have done good work wherever they have gone and adding with no small measure of pride that the college has about it an atmosphere of culture entirely foreign to most technical schools. This he gave as one of the principal reasons why he returned to the university after spending four or five years as a member of the faculty of Pratt Institute, New York. He announced that the faculty of the College of Engineering is working upon plans for a new building and expressed the hope that the money would be readily forthcoming.

Professor Tinkham of the College of Medicine spoke of the high standing of graduates of the college in examinations conducted by state boards of medicine, and claiming that the college is recognized as one of the best of the kind in the United States. He said that although the increased requirements have had the effect of temporarily reducing the membership of the classes in this department of the university, the prospects for much larger classes in the near future are excellent.

Mr. Irving L. Rich, the alumni field secretary of the University, spoke of the desirability of inaugurating an alumni day, when graduates of all colleges and universities in the land will either return to their respective institutions or gather in various communities in which they are located in any considerable number. He pointed out that the value of alumni organizations is to impress upon the general public the merit and standing of the institution from which its members have been graduated and also to give it support. He announced that the commencement exercises at the University of Vermont the coming June will be more interesting than ever, and urged his hearers to make it a point to be present.

The business meeting followed. The results of the election being as follows: President, Rev. Charles M. Sturgess, '00, of Albany; vice-presidents, D. A. Young, '03, Dr. J. H. Collins, '97, and Dr. A. S. Fay, '96, all of Schenectady; secretary-treasurer, John M. Downer, '00, of Schenectady. The executive committee consists of: Charles S. Raymond, '96, Dr. J. J. Burke, '07, and A. E. Lessor, '09, of Schenectady. The date for the next annual meeting was set for Feb. 3, 1915, and will probably be held at Albany.

"THE COLLEGE MIDWAY."

Abstract of Dr. Talcott Williams' Speech at N. Y. Alumni Banquet.

In the CYNIC of last week we were unable to print the excellent address of Dr. Talcott Williams at the New York Alumni Banquet. A summary of his speech follows:

Dr. Williams spoke of the great and increasing influence of college men, and then turned to the perils of the present tendencies of higher education.

He said in part:

The last forty years have seen an influx of college men in newspaper work. In other spheres the importance of the college man has been increasing during these same years. The college man occupies a position in the United States which few realize. A large per cent. of the clergy have A. B. degrees, 10 per cent. to 40 per cent. of those in the law schools, and 10 per cent. of medical men are college graduates, and the proportion is on a big increase. Half of the college men go into business. In the great railroads the men above a certain level are practically all college men. The number of college men in the Federal and State Judiciary is very great. The college man dominates the situation.

College degrees are rarely opposite the names of men of great fortunes. College men are not seeking the highest material welfare. They work for charity, justice, mercy, things unseen. This is the great heritage upon which we enter.

America has half a billion in college endowments. Nearly 80 per cent. of college expenses come from taxation and from endowments: But 20 per cent. come from tuition fees of students. This great system comes from the munificence of the American nature. This majestic march of learning in which we share is unequalled in history. It justifies democracy.

But the risk is that instead of being the midway between the learning of the past and the needs of the present, it may become a college midway. President Wilson has noted the importance of the college side shows over the main tent.

The classics have been eliminated perhaps for two reasons: they were difficult, and because they were difficult teachers allowed sight translations and various makeshifts. Now we have history, economics, and sociology. But they are not taught as thoroughly as biology, physics and chemistry, because these subjects are later tested in schools of applied science. We must see to it that it does not become the college midway of snap courses.

The third peril is that as men going into business multiply, they may think that their studies are of no practical value. We must meet this by teaching these studies so that men will be forced to see their relation to the course they enter.

We are on the threshold of the last great service of the American nation to mankind. Religious liberty and representative government have been won; and now after making the greatest wealth we are aiming at the most just distribution. No man can be allowed to add field to field and barn to barn and sit in the middle and own the earth. We have a democratic economy. Recast the old studies and make them of value to the life of the student after he receives his degree.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES.

Talk by Rev. E. G. Guthrie—National Secretary Coming.

At the Y. W. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon Rev. Ernest Graham Guthrie, pastor of the First Church, gave the last in his series of talks on "The Fundamental Principles of Christ's Life and Ministry." Following the address Mr. Guthrie answered a number of questions which were of general interest.

These talks by Mr. Guthrie have made a very general appeal to the college women and a large number have been able to hear them. The Cabinet has been working this year to make the connection between the Y. W. C. A. and the churches of the city a more vital factor in the life of the Association, and it is felt that this series of talks has been a step in the right direction. The Association wishes to express its gratitude to Mr. Guthrie for his cooperation in the matter.

The Y. W. C. A. cabinet held a short business meeting at the close of the Association meeting.

Miss Mary Corbett, national secretary, will be the guest of the Y. W. C. A. at Grassmount on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Akraia Pin Chosen.

The design for the "Akraia" pin has been chosen, consisting of a plain block V mounted on a thin gold circle. The contract has been given to the Charles H. Elliot Co., of Philadelphia.

Senior Class Meeting.

The senior class held a short meeting Tuesday, Jan. 10, during the chapel hour. The matter of granting class sweaters to basketball men was discussed, and voted upon. It was voted not to grant sweaters.

Deutscher Verein.

The regular monthly meeting of the "Deutscher Verein" will be held on Wednesday evening, February 18, in the Y. W. C. A. room in the Mill. A literary program is being arranged, and refreshments will be served.

AGRICULTURAL CLUB MEETING.

The Agricultural Club held an interesting meeting Tuesday night, Feb. 10, at Morrill Hall. The following program was rendered in a satisfactory manner. A reading, "The Essentials of Successful Farming," by Hitchcock, '17, guitar and violin duet by Flint, '15, and Osgood '15, a discussion of woman suffrage which was later thrown open to the house by Mayo, '15, Piper, '16, Johnson, '14, and Wheelock, '14. A vote of the house was then taken and it was decided that the agricultural men were not in favor of woman suffrage. The Vermont Chronicle edited by Dana, '14, and Lovell, '14, was then read by Dana, '14.

At the business meeting which followed, it was voted to levy a tax of $1.50 on all members of the club. This is an increase of 50c over the old tax, but it was thought necessary to have this amount to pay up several old bills. At the close of the meeting refreshments of coffee and doughnuts were served.

DEBATING CLUB MEETS.

The Debating Club met Monday evening and held a short program. An impromptu debate on the question: Resolved, "That Congress should pass a joint resolution definitely promising independence to the Philippines at a date not later than ten years in the future"—was snappily contested by Daniels, '15, and Jones, '17, for the affirmative, by Grismer, '16, and Hitchcock, '17, for the negative. A membership committee composed of Ellis, '14, Bailey, '14, Dean, '15, Piper, '16, and Hitchcock, '17, was appointed.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.*A Dance and Social Evening Enjoyed.

The members of the G. A. A. enjoyed a very pleasant social evening, Monday, Feb. 9, in the College Gym. Miss Spofford, '14, furnished music for a program of ten dances. Several of the ladies of the Faculty were present; Mrs. Stone, Mrs. Stetson, Miss Marshall and Miss Terrill serving as patronesses.

The G. A. A. Ariel picture was taken Tuesday morning on the steps of Morrill Hall.

THE ENTERTAINMENT OF SUB-FRESHMEN.

A committee composed of L. F. Dow, '15, chairman, R. M. Olzendam, '15, and C. S. Ferrin of the Key and Serpent Society are making arrangements for the entertainment of the Subfreshmen who will attend the College Kake Walk on the evening of Monday, Feb. 23. The arrangements have not as yet been completed, but as is the usual custom, the visitors will be entertained at the several fraternity houses. Among several new features of their entertainment this year will be two basket-ball games which will be played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium on the afternoon of the Kake Walk. The games now pending are: Montpelier High vs. Vermont Academy, and Peoples' Academy vs. Burlington High.

THE INTER-FRATERNITY CONFERENCE.

Plans for the meeting to discuss the formation and organization of an Inter-Fraternity Conference at Vermont are nearly completed. This meeting was advocated by the Boulder Society and will be held in the Marsh room in the Library, at 4:20 P. M. Monday, Feb. 9.

The Boulder Society thought that much should be accomplished at this meeting and consequently have secured from William R. Baird, of New York, some constitution forms whose outlines for the organization of such a conference are very helpful as well as efficient. Mr. Baird does not favor having professional and academical fraternities in the same conference, but would have the two work side by side.

There were several defects in the attempt to form such a conference last year which will carefully be guarded against this year, and it is sincerely hoped that at this meeting the conference or conferences may be formed, a constitution adopted, and officers elected.

SENIOR MEDICAL OFFICERS.*George L. Steele is Class President.

The Senior medical men have elected the following class officers: President, George L. Steele; vice-pres., Percy E. Buck; marshal, Harry H. Dutton; sec'y., J. Albert Boucher; treas., George A. Eckert; executive committee, Harold S. Patch, Smith A. Quimby, Richard F. Farr, Nathan R. Caldwell, Ralph S. Richardson; Frank C. Buckmiller.

The Musical Clubs take a trip this week, giving concerts at Enosburg Falls on Friday evening, and at St. Albans on Saturday evening. Following the concert at Enosburg Falls a dance was given to the clubs. The program at the concerts is the same as that rendered at the home concert here in Burlington.

The Classical Club will meet on Wednesday evening, Feb. 18, in the Classical suite. Professor Appelman is to speak on "Classics in German Universities." There will also be an election of officers.

KEY AND SERPENT DANCE COMING*Second Dance of the Series Next Monday.

The Key and Serpent Society will hold the second dance of this year's series next Monday in the gymnasium. The music will be furnished by Robinson's Orchestra of five pieces. No effort will be spared to make this a very enjoyable affair. Admission will be fifty cents a couple. The Key and Serpent depends upon these dances for the necessary funds to help out college smokers for sub-freshmen entertainment, and for promoting inter-class and inter-fraternity athletics. In order to carry out its usual ambitious program the Society needs the support and presence of a large number of the student body at the dances.

STATISTICS FROM THE COLLEGE WORLD.

A new strength record for the University of Pennsylvania has been established by Michael Dorizas, a Greek athlete. Dorizas registered 1700 kilos on the testing machines. Seven members of the freshman class better the record of 1300 kilos, made last year by Dorizas. F. W. Hasson of the freshman football team was second to the Greek, with a total of 1,496 kilos.—The Wesleyan Argus.

Records from Football Statistics.

Park H. Davis, Princeton's member of the Rules Committee, an authority on football statistics, has recently compiled some astonishing figures dealing with the various phases of this sport.

According to his personally collected data, 400 colleges and 5,000 schools throughout the country were represented by football teams last fall. Approximately 43,200 games were played and 150,000 players took active part both in practice and contests. Mr. Davis estimates that about 13,000,000 persons witnessed football games during the past year.

Records Established.

As to records established, he states that Carl Woodward, of Tulane University, made the longest goal from field, which was a placement kick of 52 yards. To James M. Porter, of McKenzie Preparatory School, is awarded the second longest drop kick, his feat showing a distance of 45 yds. The greatest number of field goals were scored by Charles E. Brickley, of Harvard, who succeeded in sending the ball over the bar five times in the game against Yale.

Records for long run-backs from the kick-off are more numerous than ever before in the history of the sport. Following are the men who are leaders and the games in which the runs were made: 97 yds., H. L. Jones, (F. and M.) vs. Haverford; 90 yds., E. E. Huntington (Colgate) vs. Syracuse; 85 yds., J. C. Moore (Missouri) vs. Rolla; 85 yds., Albert Beyer (Lafayette) vs. Swarthmore; 80 yds., C. P. Leathgood (West Virginia) vs. Villanova; 76 yds., J. T. Toohey (Rutland) vs. New York University; 58 yds., S. E. Gross (Iowa) vs. Chicago.

Freak Scores.

The teams responsible for establishing the freak scores of the year were: Newberry 159, B. M. I. 0; Alleganey 116, Wooster 0; Gallandet 103, Baltimore 0; Louisville 100, Washington 0; W. and J. 100, Grove City 0.

New York University has the unfortunate distinction of having played eight games without winning a single victory or scoring a single point.—Harvard Crimson.

Large Colleges Most Expensive.

Much discussion has come up recently as to the comparative cost between the small and large colleges. There have been some statistics prepared of these representative large colleges: Yale, Harvard, and Princeton, and three of the smaller colleges: Lehigh, Amherst, and Dartmouth, and these statistics show that the cost in the smaller colleges is slightly less than that given at the University Commons. The average cost of all the rooms was also taken into consideration. In the last two of these expenses the exact amount will depend almost wholly upon the individual.

The statistics are as follows:

	Yale	Harvard	Princeton
Tuition .....	$155	$150	$160
Board .....	190	200	180
Room .....	150	140	140
Light, fuel.....	...	...	39

COMMONS HALL To the Men of "Old Vermont"

Commons Hall is now under University management and it is the desire of the authorities to make the Hall serve the student body in the largest way possible. In order to do this, it is necessary to have every table full, for then only can the best food and service be given the patrons.

Those who can are asked to board at this institutional table and those who find that impossible are requested, for the sake of the University, to do what they can for the betterment of

ANNUAL KAKE WALK ON MONDAY NIGHT

NINE STUNTS ENTERED

Wide Interest in Making the 17th Surpass All Former Records.

On next Monday night at eight o'clock sharp the curtain goes up (or it would go up if there were a curtain) upon the Seventeenth Annual Kake Walk. Nine stunts will compete for the Clark C. Briggs Cup and the big cake, both of which go to the best fraternity stunt. The competition for the smaller cake will bring out a record number of couples, and the Syndicate Clothing Co. cup for the best peerade costume will attract many for this event. A record amount of money will be raised for athletics, it is hoped. Never before have conditions been so favorable and so much interest been evidenced.

A canvass of the participants in the various features of the entertainment has shown an unusual number entered.

The "peerade" gives promise of being the best ever. Many have entered and the last day or two always brings forth a great number of contestants in this event.

The stunts will be nine in number, each being limited to fifteen minutes. The names of these would indicate acts of a very startling nature.

Seven academic fraternities, one medic and the Commons Club are to be represented in this event. This is the first appearance of the latter organization.

The kake walking should be more evenly contested than in recent years. Last year's contest had only five entrants, while nine couples have already signified their intention of entering and more are expected.

Other preparations have been actively pursued. Many tickets have been sold throughout the state and the capacity (1,251) of the seating plan seems likely to be taxed. Advertising by newspaper space, slides in "movies," posters and banners has been widespread.

The committee has lately learned of the coming of "Farmers' Week" at which four hundred of the most progressive farmers will congregate in Burlington. Many of this number will, no doubt, avail themselves of the opportunity to witness the most novel feature of the college year.

With such favorable conditions coupled with economic policy maintained by the committee, a record amount should be cleared. The greatest proceeds from any Kake Walk in the past was $620 and to eclipse that

FOR FOUNDERS' DAY SPEAKERS.

The nominations for Founder's Day speakers are: Seniors, Seth Johnson and F. Sykes; Juniors, R. M. Ozen-dam and M. D. Powers. One speaker will be chosen from each class at a college election next Tuesday at 12.20 in the chapel.

CABOOSE HAS ADVANTAGES OVER PULLMAN

Glee Club Takes Novel Trip—Two Concerts in Northern Vermont.

On Friday and Saturday evenings of last week the musical clubs gave concerts in northern Vermont. Enosburgh Falls was the first stop. The clubs arrived about 7:30 and as the concert was called for 8:15, there was just time for Manager Ellis to divide up the bunch among the good people of Enosburgh, and for all to get a little something to eat. Due to various unavoidable delays the curtain did not rise until 8:30.

All the glee club and mandolin numbers were much appreciated by the audience which very nearly filled the large hall. Seth Johnson was right there with his "Bear Stories" and the "Ragetty Man." Seth received several hearty encores. Taplin's violin solo was roundly applauded as was his well rendered encore. "Doug" Roberts sang two solos which were enthusiastically received. "Gene" Ellis with his "Ragtime Melody" brought the house down and the story of "Lizzie" was followed by several good rags. Swett sang several solos which were greatly appreciated. Seaver's accompaniments were indispensable. Many compliments were heard after the concert and everyone seemed very much pleased.

A dance followed and a number of the fellows attended. Gordon, Ellis, Lovejoy and Robinson furnished excellent music.

Saturday was spent in Enosburgh. The hospitality of the Enosburgh people is beyond reproach and all the fellows reported a fine time. At four o'clock everyone, except Lovejoy and Swett, who were unavoidably detained, assembled at the station to take the 4.16 train for St. Albans. Shortly it was announced that the train was four hours late. Manager Ellis telegraphed and secured a private engine, freight car, and caboose. At 5.30 the "special" arrived and from then on until 7 o'clock the party was on the road to St. Albans, a distance of eighteen miles. "Pat" Hurley, who has travelled much in Vermont, is publishing a book on "Vermont Railroads I Have Travelled." Olzendan was "Pilot" on the caboose.

The St. Albans concert was held in the city hall. The audience was larger

FRESHMAN FIVE WINS AGAIN

1916 NOSES OUT B. H. S.

Fast Basketball Against High School—Juniors Easily Defeated.

The basketball games which were played at the college gymnasium on Wednesday evening, Feb. 18th, were distinctly different in character, although both were distinguished for their lack of fouling.

The first game was staged by the Juniors and Freshmen, the latter proving their superiority to the tune of 34 to 12. There was no question after the first three minutes of play as to which was the faster team. It was simply a case of holding the Freshmen to a low score, as far as the Juniors were concerned. They might have accomplished this, but for the work of Stanton, who caged nine out of the sixteen baskets credited to the Freshmen. His shooting was almost perfect. Kelly, the other Freshman forward, showed up some fine floor work, leaving most of the shooting to his team-mate.

The Juniors were rather slow with their plays and their shooting was decidedly unsteady. Maiden, Glidden and Gilbert did the best work.

The line-up follows:

Gilbert, r. f.,	.....l. g., Nenno
Maiden, l. f.,	.....r. g., Burke, Lewis
Brown, c.,	.....c., Greenwood
Glidden, r. g.,	.....l. f., Stanton

Summary—Baskets from the floor, Burke 2, Nenno 2, Greenwood 1, Kelly 1, Stanton 9, Maiden 2, Gilbert 2, Glidden 1, Smith 1. Baskets on fouls, Kelly 2. Time, 4 ten minute periods. Referee, Doctor Stone. Timer, Leutz, '16. Score, 34 to 12.

J. W. Baker, '15, Will Edit Ye Crabbe.

The editorial board of Ye Crabbe held a coming out party at the Phi Delta Theta House Wednesday afternoon in honor of the appearance of the January issue. J. W. Baker was elected editor in chief to succeed I. D. Everett, resigned. It was decided to inaugurate a campaign for new subscriptions and advertising. Contributions to the February number were also discussed.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN.

The meeting of the German Club which was to be held Thursday evening was postponed until Wednesday, Feb. 25 at 7.30 p. m.

AN OUT O' DOORS CLUB.

A meeting of out door enthusiasts will be called some day next week and the formation of an "Out o' Doors Club" for the University will be discussed. At Dartmouth, where the mountains are very remote and there is no lake, they have an Outing Club which is one of the great organizations of the college. A book was recently published in the interests of this club, "Dartmouth Out o' Doors," by Fred H. Harris. This book was presented to the University Library by the Green Mountain Club of Vermont and anyone who is interested may obtain it at the library.

MEDICAL MEN HOLD BIG SMOKER

An Inspiring Gathering Full of Spirit and Speeches.

A very enthusiastic smoker was held Monday night at the medical college by the medical faculty and students. The smoker was held for the express purpose of talking over the recent report of the "Carnegie Foundation on the Educational Situation in Vermont." As this report affects the medical department more vitally, therefore affecting the students who are working for degrees in this department, it was deemed advisable, by the faculty, that students and faculty meet and discuss the report; by so doing, both students and faculty would understand and appreciate the matter fully.

President Benton called the meeting to order, and the thunder of applause, which lasted fully a minute, showed very plainly, his ever growing popularity with the students. President Benton explained the Carnegie report; Dean Tinkham explained how the same would affect the college and students, if put into effect. This was followed by a general informal talk upon the subject on hand, while everybody smoked at the expense of the faculty.

By this time "old Vermont spirit" was running rife and the students began enthusiastically calling for speeches from other people present. The following men responded and talked upon matters in general. Doctors Williams, Wheeler, Clark, Beecher, Stone, Sears, Brown, Pease, Jackson, Johnson, Buttles, Whitney, spoke, also Flynn, '15, Bishop, '17, Agnew, '14, Berry, '14 and Carr, '15, who "was there" with his usual amount of "funny stuff." The smoker closed after singing college songs.

The writer would suggest to the "medics," now that they have found they can attend a smoker and show the most "pep" he has seen at one in four years of college, that they attend the next general smoker, and show equally as much spirit.

BOYS GIVE EXCELLENT CONCERT.*U. V. M. Musical Clubs Greeted by Good Sized Audience.

(From "The St. Albans Messenger," of Feb. 16th.)

The concert given in the city hall Saturday evening by the University of Vermont Musical Clubs of Burlington, for the benefit of the high school was attended by over 300 people which was considered excellent after the severe storm of the day. All numbers of the program were well received, especially "A Ragtime Strain," by Mr. Ellis and the readings by Seth Johnson. The concert was given to help the Athletic Association and to raise money to buy new baseball uniforms.

The members of the club were at a disadvantage, having to wait several hours in Enosburgh Falls, where they appeared Friday night, for a train to bring them to this city. Eventually they came in a caboose, which was run for the purpose, just in time to give the concert.

The net receipts are between $35 and $40.

The program was as follows:

Part I.

"Grand Old Vermont," (Smith-Riker), combined clubs.

"Comrades March," (Le Claire), mandolin symphony.

"Vulcan's Song," (C. Gounod), Mr. Roberts.

"Gipsy John," (Frederick Clay), Glee Club.

Violin solo, "Prize Song," (Wagner), Mr. Taplin.

Reading, Mr. Johnson.

"Song of Vikings," (Eton Faning), Glee Club.

Part II.

"Pauline Waltz," (Allen), mandolin symphony.

String quartet, Messrs. Gordon, Paulson, Taplin, and Daniels.

"A Ragtime Strain," Mr. Ellis.

"A Night in Spain," (H. Trotere), Glee Club.

Reading, Mr. Johnson.

"College Songs" (Night), combined clubs.

RESOLUTIONS.

WHEREAS, we wish to make known our gratitude to the Commandery of Vermont Military Order of the Loyal Legion for their thoughtfulness in our behalf,

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, That we the officers and cadets of the Battalion of the University of Vermont do hereby express sincere thanks and appreciation for our beautiful state flag and for the friendly interest, of which this appropriate gift assures us, and furthermore,

COACHES ARE BARRED.*Hereafter No One Will Be Permitted on Sidelines at Football Games.

At its meeting in New York on Saturday, the intercollegiate football rules committee made several important changes in the old rules. The most radical of these was the decision that hereafter coaches should be barred from the side lines.

The changes were of a corrective rather than of a radical nature.

Other changes were as follows:

2. Intentional grounding of a forward pass will be penalized by the loss of ten yards from the point of scrimmage.

3. When the ball from a free kick hits a goal post and bounds back into the field, the play is counted as a touch back.

4. After the teams line up, the team having the ball shall not enter the neutral zone in shift formation.

5. A player out of bounds when the ball is put in play, penalizes his team by the loss of five yards. Under the old rule there was no penalty for this offense the first time it was committed.

6. A kick-off after a touchdown is eliminated.

7. The committee left it optional with teams to decide whether they shall have a fourth official, to be known as the field judge, who shall have no specific duties of his own, but act as assistant to the referee and umpire.

The committee reached no decision regarding the question of distinguishing players in games by numbers. The members concluded to observe how this plan works out next season before making any recommendations.

Prof. Messenger's Trip.

Prof. Messenger, director of the Summer School, left Friday to attend a number of meetings in the interests of the coming Summer School. Saturday he will be in New York City; from there he goes to Richmond, Va., to attend a meeting of the National Educational Association. He will then meet Captain Van Horn in Washington, D. C. Prof. Messenger will be away for a week or more and will visit a number of cities in Massachusetts, New York and New Jersey. In another column the entertainments for the coming Summer School are discussed.

"VOTE NO" URGES PRES. BENTON.

Tuesday morning President Benton was the leader in chapel. He very earnestly urged upon all the men who are voters, the importance of voting no license at the coming election on March 3rd. One of the chief reasons for the abolition of the saloon at this time is on account of the military encampment which will bring from 1,500 to 2,000 fellows to Burlington.

Messenger Service Installed.

A new messenger service has been installed between the various college offices and the professors. The messenger, Harold Fraser, leaves the administration offices in the Medical College early in the morning and early in the afternoon, two trips a day. On this rounds he visits all the main college buildings, Dean Votey's house, Converse Dormitory, Grassmount and the treasurer's office, returning to the medical building. The service is at the disposal of all the officials and professors, but not of the students. It is expected to prove a great convenience and to save much in time and postage.

COLLINS SIGNS UP.

"Ray" Collins, '09, has signed up with the Boston Americans for next year. "Bill" Carrigan, the new manager of the Red Sox, was in Burlington a short time ago, and said that while Collins had not actually signed up, he had given his word, and that he would as soon have his word as his contract any day. Ray goes to the spring training camp in a few weeks. He has been holding off together with many other members of the Players' Fraternity, but practically all are satisfied with the terms now offered by the clubs.

SUB-FROSH ENTERTAINMENT.

The Key and Serpent Society has sent out invitations to the Senior classes in the chief high schools in Vermont to attend the Kake Walk. Already about 25 prep. school men have accepted the invitation of the society. The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of L. F. Dow, C. S. Ferrin and R. M. Olzendam.

TEACHING OF THE CLASSICS

apers and Discussions of High Order at Classical Conference.

The eighth annual meeting of the Vermont section of the New England Classical Association was held at the University last Saturday. There were two sessions, one in the morning and one in the afternoon, and at noon the visiting teachers were entertained at lunch at the home of Professor and Mrs. Ogle. In the absence of the President, H. N. Wood of St. Johnsbury Academy, Prof. Myron R. Sanford of Middlebury College presided.

The first paper of the morning session was read by Professor S. E. Bassett of the University of Vermont on "The Literary Quality of Xenophon's Anabasis." The speaker called attention to the simplicity and directness of Xenophon's style, and gave several examples of the genial wit and humor which are found in his work.

Principal A. S. Harriman of Middlebury high school then spoke on the topic, "The Amount of Syntax Necessary for a Practical Working Knowledge of Latin." Our aim in teaching Latin in the high school, said the speaker, should not be to prepare the few students who intend to enter college. Nor should it be to develop power of analysis, or to aid in the knowledge of English, although it does both. The only legitimate reason is to help students understand the thoughts of a different people, and to have another point of view. To achieve this aim, syntax should not be taught, as it now is, as an end in itself.

The last paper of the morning was read by Principal J. E. Colburn of the Burlington high school on "Ways and Means of Bringing Dead Languages to Life." There is some trouble, said the speaker with the teaching of a language when a student, after three or four years study, cannot pick up a page of it with any certainty of understanding. Part of the trouble seems to lie in the fact that we never try to impart a reading acquaintance with the classic authors beyond those required for entrance to college. And these are taught in such a way that any beauty or interest which they possess is obscured in the clouds of syntax. The fault rests partly with us teachers who teach in a spiritless manner; partly with the colleges who do not emphasize sufficiently reading power. We do, even with our present methods, learn more about our English tongue, and four years of Greek or Latin have an immense disciplinary value. But, after all, we fail to get what is most important, namely, the power to criticize our own literature and our own culture, and to look at our own time in its proper relation to the great past. Just as the discovery of Greek and Latin literature in the 13th century gave to the medieval world its renaissance, so it can give to us to-day fulness of life and ability to find ourselves amid our surroundings. Agriculture and plumb-ing ought to accomplish this but they do not; and the reason that the study of the classics does not better accomplish these ends is threefold: 1. In the subject matter, because the high school student reads too much of the same thing; shorter productions that have a beginning and an end, and a wider range of topic would be more apt to make him reach out after them. 2. In the method; we should not teach too many syntactical bones at first; we should have oral work, and should make our students memorize choice bits. 3. If we teachers do not ourselves enjoy Latin and Greek, we cannot expect our students to enjoy them, or to get the greatest good from them.

The first paper of the afternoon session was "An Up-to-Date Version of Some Scenes from the Birds of Aristophanes." In a most lively and humorous fashion Prof. W. S. Burrage of Middlebury College told how Plausible and Gullible, charter members of the Athens Knockers' club, joined with the birds in building a city 'twixt earth and sky, thus preventing the smoke of sacrifices reaching the gods; how Zeus sent three peace commissioners to arrange terms, resulting in the surrender by the former of his house-keeper, Sovereignty, to be the wife of Plausible.

The meeting was brought to a close by Principal C. H. Morrill of Brigham Academy, who spoke on "Influences Against the Study of the Classics." The most prominent obstacle against the study of the classics, said the speaker, is the demand that our schools have an industrial rather than an intellectual aim. If we are to look upon intellectual training as valuable only as it gives mental grasp of the material side of life, then not only the classics but all humanistic studies are on the defensive. To combat this view, we must hold to the doctrine that man's value even as an industrial factor, is measured by the quality rather than by the variety of his mind; that our schools, therefore, to best serve the State, must aim to cultivate the higher intellectual and moral attributes. Those who preach industrial and agricultural education are to be commended, but should the people of our rural districts not also hear appeals for the idea, for the intellectual? Ought not the cry "Back to the farm," be supplemented by the cry, "On to higher manhood?" To combat another opposing influence, namely, the modern scepticism regarding the theory of mental discipline, all true educators should join. The rejection of this theory is usually preliminary to the rejection of all difficult and exacting studies. It means the abandonment of Greek and Latin not only, but algebra, geometry, ancient history. After all, however, the performance of a hard task, the ability to stand up under the exacting demands of Greek, Latin and mathematics is what we must have to produce the large and robust man.

The following officers were chosen for the coming year: President, Prof. R. H. White, Middlebury College; executive committee, Principal A. S. Harriman, Middlebury high school; Prof. S. E. Bassett, University of Vermont, Miss Smith, Woodstock high school; secretary, Prof. W. S. Burrage, Middlebury College.

"RATTLING" BANISHED BY NATIONAL ASSOCIATION.

Objectionable Feature of Baseball Games to Go.

At its annual meeting the National Athletic Association enacted six rules against the practice of "rattling" at intercollegiate baseball games. They are as follows:

1. The catcher shall not during actual play speak to the batsman, except where occasion requires a bona-fide word of caution, and in speaking to the pitcher he shall not use words reflecting or calculated to reflect on the batsman or any member of the opposing team.
  2. No member of either team shall call out or shout during the game to any member of the opposing team, except to caution him against some danger, nor behave in any indecorous or unseemly manner.
  3. There shall be no oral coaching from the bench.
  4. The so-called encouragement of the pitcher from the outfield shall be stopped or at least minimized.
  5. The umpire shall warn a player for an infraction of the rules, and exclude him from the game for continued offense.
  6. The students of the home team must not cheer in such a way as to rattle the opposing team.
- The baseball captains of Yale, Pennsylvania, Brown, Dartmouth and Williams were also in favor of banishing the professional coach from the bench, but the Harvard, Princeton and Amherst captains opposed it.

1917 FOOTBALL NUMERALS.

Twelve Frosh Win Class Sweaters.

The freshman executive committee met recently and upon the recommendation of the athletic committee granted sweaters and numerals to the following football men, eleven players and the manager: Davis, Greenwood, Sanford, Root, R. Powers, Houston, Beckwith, St. Cyr, Burrage, Tennien, Laity and H. H. Powers.

The head-line in last week's report of the Interfraternity Conference, "Few Fraternities Enter," was a compositor's mistake for "Ten Fraternities Enter."

Alumni and undergraduates are heartily invited to contribute. All communications must be signed by the writer, whose name will be withheld if so desired. They should be addressed to the editor-in-chief and should reach him by Wednesday noon. Any brief notices should be handed in by Thursday noon or may be telephoned to 183-M before 7 p. m. Thursday.

Vol. 31. February 21, 1914. No. 23.

If we continue to develop our hockey possibilities as thoroughly as they have been developed this year we can reasonably expect to see Varsity hockey here in about 50 years, providing that climatic conditions remain about the same. We find ourselves more than half through a winter which should have seen much Winter Sports activity, and has seen practically none. With the exception of four or five days of intense cold we have had ideal conditions for skating and hockey on Centennial Field rink ever since Christmas vacation. Yet the percentage of the student body which has gone over to make sure if such a rink really is in existence is negligible. No college student, to our knowledge, has expended a particle of effort to flood the rink or remove the snow; all has been done by city authorities. Very little effort has been spent to prepare the rink for hockey and after six weeks there are no board sides or goals in place.

We have had a rink and coasting hill provided free and a toboggan slide which costs little for each user. No other college to our knowledge has so many natural advantages for winter sports or so much outside activity developing them. Unfavorable weather conditions offered an excuse last year. Is it possible that there is no undergraduate organization this year which is willing to do any real work to promote hockey, and that the classes cannot turn out four teams for a series? We have not 28 men who were prep school hockey stars, but it is hardly necessary to wait until then before we can play a hockey series. Most of our football men enter college with little football knowledge, but they are given means for gaining some. There must be some system for making loafers into skaters, and skaters into hockey players.

With so many possibilities for a large participation in winter sports, there is not much hard work for any organization to do. The principal function of the Outing Club or any other such organization is simply to labor effectively in calling out a number of individuals to enjoy our natural assets.

We can spend our time more profitably sometimes learning just what we have in the university now, rather than in expressing empty wishes for a new Commons Hall, a new Engineering building, a new chapel, a grandstand, a swimming pool, and other needed additions. This is a period of investigations and surveys. If every student would take an afternoon off in each college year and look over our present equipment, he would find it an interesting and profitable employment. We are still a small university, and it is hardly fitting for one to profess or confess ignorance as to other college buildings and departments than those which he sees every day. Nearly every student will learn a lot of things that he never knew before, and not a few will be impressed with all that we have in a small compass. If you have no better opportunity, visit all the buildings next Monday and Tuesday, and take some of the sub-freshmen guests with you. Starting in near home many may find the trophies in the trophy room and the first-class equipment of the shooting gallery in the basement of the gymnasium objects of fresh interest. The model dairy machinery in the basement of Morrill Hall is not familiar to all students. Some of the Arts men could well pay a visit to the engineering building and learn for ever the points of difference between a speed lathe, a valve, a grindstone and a steam engine. The museum is perhaps the least known of the college buildings, not excepting the baseball cage. (The key to the museum can be obtained at the Library). There are many rooms on the four floors of the Science Hall and a few nooks in the Library which are not as familiar to the eye as the statue of Lafayette. The Medical College above the first floor is a closed book to many students but need not always remain so. End up your tour with a climb to the belfry of the Old Mill and get the superb view. After such a trip you will begin to be a university man as well as a college man.

The CYNIC has been trying to reach many alumni and to keep in touch with large numbers of them through alumni correspondents in the cities where there are active alumni associations. The loyal and efficient work of these correspondents has been responsible for the flourishing alumni department which we have been able to maintain thus far this year. We now wish to reach the class organizations. It is much to be regretted that so many classes have gone out from the university with no permanent organization, no one responsible for class reunions, and no one responsible in the least degree for the doings of all his classmates. This evil can not be remedied now, but each class which follows the suggestions of the Alumni Field Secretary, Irving L. Rich, and the precedent of 1913, need not fall into the unorganized state of most of our past classes. At present the CYNIC has reliable and responsible sources of information from only three classes, '89, '04 and '13. Will every alumnus who has kept in touch with most of his classmates and will keep the CYNIC informed about them, kindly drop us a postal notifying us to that effect at once. If you, alumni reader, are not in close touch with many of your classmates, will you write and tell us the man who is?

The students of the University are laying themselves open to ridicule because of the array of insignia which an increasing number of students are affecting. To the unsophisticated townspeople new organizations with new pins seem to be springing up every week. It is a truism to say that we have too many organizations upon the hill. There is too much misplaced effort in these clubs, and the coming of pins for the Musical Clubs, the Pre-Medic Club, and the Deutscher Verein means a needless expense when class taxes go cheerfully unpaid. It may be questioned whether the Agricultural Club insignia is necessary. As far as possible a pin should be a badge of honor and an indication of loyalty. As far as possible the pins should be restricted to elective organizations, which have definite purposes and ideals. In a normal University we should have class pins before we have departmental pins, just as college yells and class yells are more to be desired than "medic," "aggie," and engineering yells. There is no need of passing rules to regulate such things; it is up to each individual's sense of fitness. If all the clubs, associations, and societies in colleges still decide that they must have pins, it will be necessary to have some central committee with authority to pass upon all proposed designs. The similarity between some of the pins is deplorable. The Boulder Society after ten years of existence should be protected in its insignia, and no club should be allowed to have a pin which can easily be mistaken for it. Other organizations of long standing should be allowed to keep their distinctive insignia which should not be even slightly imitated.

Columbia Opposes Honor System.

After having learned the position of the student body in regard to the institution of the honor system, the faculty of Columbia University has decided to drop the plan because of the opposition of a majority of the students. The undergraduates were unwilling to bind themselves by the clause:

"Every student of the college shall be expected to lend his aid in maintaining this constitution, and to report to the committee of ten any fraud observed by him in any exercise conducted under the honor system."

Except for this reservation the system met with general approval. At Williams also, this phase of the honor system has been the most difficult to enforce.—Harvard Crimson.

RIFLE TEAM TRIMS DARTMOUTH.

Vermont defeated Dartmouth 940-906 in the shoot ending Jan. 29th.

The individual scores of the Vermont team were:

Finnessy, 191; Daniels, 190; Slayton 189; Bogie, 187; Corley, 183.

Official returns from the match against Washington State, Feb. 5, and Oklahoma A. & M. College have not been received.

The scores of the Vermont men in the shoot against Washington were: Gates, 192; Washburn, 187; Corley, 181; Slayton, 181; Daniels, 180. Total, 921.

The following are the individual scores in the Oklahoma shoot:

Slayton, 189; Corley, 185; Daniels, 183; Washburn, 182; Baker, 182. Total, 921.

SUMMER SCHOOL TO HAVE FINE MUSICAL FEATURES

Talented Musicians Secured for the Faculty and Recitals are Promised.

In a recent number of the CYNIC a report was given of the special lecturers who have been engaged for the summer school. Further plans for the summer are progressing steadily and the arrangements for musical programs and entertainments are about completed. The courses have nearly all been decided upon and the bulletin will be printed within a few days. In a later issue of the CYNIC the names of the faculty and the courses to be offered will be announced.

A very strong music department has been secured. Mr. Alfred Larsen of this city will teach the violin as formerly and Mr. Rudolph Larsen will return from St. Petersburg and teach the violin also. He has been studying there under Auer who is acknowledged to be the greatest living teacher of the violin. He was the teacher of Elman, Zimbalist and Kathleen Parlow. He has complimented Mr. Larsen most highly and has said that when he returns to America it will be hard to find any one here who can play as he will. Mr. Larsen will give his first public recital after his return to America during the summer school. In the recital he will play Paganini's Concerto in D major.

Mr. Charles Lee Tracy of New York will teach the piano. Mr. Tracy is one of the best known of New York's piano teachers. He is a certified Leschitzky exponent, and has been the teacher of many prominent musical artists.

Mr. John W. Nichols, tenor singer and vocal teacher of New York will give lessons in voice culture. Mr. Nichols has taught classes in the music department of Columbia University and has given private lessons there for a number of years. He has studied under Carl Dufft, New York; Edward Iles, London; Jean de Reszke, Paris; and Isadore Braggiotti, Florence. He has sung with pronounced success before critical musical audiences in various parts of the country.

Mrs. Nichols will be associated with Mr. Tracy in teaching the piano. Mr. Tracy esteems both Mr. and Mrs. Nichols very highly. Mrs. Nichols was born in Ireland and at an early age showed such a talent for music that she was sent to London where she entered the Royal College of Music. In that institution she won several prizes and gained the recognition of Associate of the Royal College.

Mr. and Mrs. Nichols have given musical recitals in many places and during the summer will give us two recitals here. They have given musical programs at Columbia University, Vassar College, Chicago Symphony Hall, the New York Musical Art Society, Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences and in many other places and have been warmly praised by press and by musical critics.

A musical event of special note will be the evening of chamber music given by Mr. Charles Lee Tracy, piano; Mr. Alfred Larsen, violin; and Mr. Hans Kronold, violoncello. Mr. Kronold is easily the greatest violoncellist in America.

There will also be a number of entertainments and theatricals. The Coburn Players have been secured for three Shakespeare plays. These will be given out of doors if the weather permits.

The Frank Lea Short Company will give three plays: The Romancers, Pomander Walk, and Robin Hood. This company is not known in Vermont but they have given performances at Yale and other colleges.

The Weber Male Quartette of New York has been secured for one evening and Mr. George Kiernan the impersonator of Warfield and Jefferson plays for one evening.

Fuller accounts of the various attractions of the summer will be published later.

U. V. M. FRESHMEN 20—St. MICHAEL'S 16.

Following the Junior-Sophomore game, the Freshmen, who were to have played the Seniors, lined up against the St. Michael's quintet, the upperclassmen not having a team on the floor. The two fives proved quite evenly matched, and the game was much more interesting than that earlier in the evening. St. Michael's started off with a rush, and the first five minutes of play looked bad for the Freshmen, but the latter soon took a brace, and their two whirlwind forwards, Kelly and Stanton, began popping the ball through the net. Soon a comfortable lead was obtained, which the University boys continued to hold throughout the game, although St. Michael's kept them moving to maintain it. The greater part of the rushing was done by the forwards, Kelly and Stanton, while their team-mates were not far behind in the good work. The game was divided into two periods, the first twenty minutes in length, the second fifteen. The latter period was the faster of the two and ended with a score of 20 to 16 for the Freshmen.

The line-up:

Debating Meeting.

At a meeting of the Debating Association Monday evening, the following question was debated: "Resolved, That the United States should grant independence to the Philippines at a date not later than ten years in the future." Morrow, '14 and R. Ellis, '14 upheld the affirmative with great gusto, although Edgerton, '15 and Shippey, '17, won the debate for the negative.

A new feature was introduced in the form of a question box. Many vital questions were discussed, among them, the report of the Carnegie Investigation.

Plans were made for changing the basis of membership of the Debating Association and making it a closed association, that is, having a limited number of members. In this way, only those who have the interests of the society at heart will become members. A special meeting for further discussion of this project was held Thursday evening.

The meeting next week will be led by A. E. Schoff, '14, president of the local association, and will be a discussion of "What Contribution to an Ideal College Spirit Can the Y. M. C. A. make?"

ST. PAUL'S CLUB MEETS.*Discusses "College Democracy"—"Out o' Doors Club" Planned.

The St. Paul's Club had one of the most successful meetings since its organization, on Wednesday evening at the Delta Mu rooms. The business session occupied the first few minutes of the evening. The club voted to send a representative to the New England Conference of College Churchmen at Amherst. R. D. Soper, '15, was chosen to represent the University.

The second part of the meeting was a discussion of the topic "College Democracy." W. Weeks, '15 opened the remarks. He advocated the appointment of a committee to interview all freshmen immediately upon their arrival on the Hill to ascertain what activity they intend to take part in. Every man must take part in at least one activity.

Captain Reeves then touched upon the development of college democracy through fraternities. He then told of his interest in the formation of an "Out o' Doors" club. He will send to the U. S. Government for forty knapsacks, plates and other necessary camping utensils to be free for the use of the members of the club. Men become more intimate in the great out of doors than in any of the other walks of life. Roy Sawyer, '12, Rev. C. C. Wilson, R. D. Soper and W. Chapin were among the other speakers. The next meeting of the club will be held in the Kappa Sigma rooms on March 16th and the subject for discussion will be "The Independence of American Colleges."

Interfraternity Conference Holds First Meeting.

The Interfraternity Conference held its first regular meeting at the Sigma Nu Lodge on last Thursday evening. The meeting was devoted to the discussion of the constitution and proposed by-laws, and in outlining some of the problems before the conference.

Rules in regard to rushing will not be fixed for one or two months, until the rules of other colleges have been studied and sentiment in this matter has crystallized.

Sophomores 22—B. H. S. 21.

The second game of the evening was much more interesting. The team which lined up against the high school quintet at the beginning was composed mostly of Sophomore subs. They did good work, however, during the first few minutes of play, but the high school soon found its range, and gained a strong lead in a very short time. Then Capt. Gallagher sent in Bloomer to take Carlton's place, and, a few moments later he and Linnehan replaced Rawson and Palmer. Things immediately livened up, the score was soon tied, and the lead swung back and forth from that time on, throughout the game. At the end of the first period it was 13-13. The second period opened with a rush and continued to be fast to the last second of play. Some clever passing was displayed by both teams during this period, and several sensational shots brought hearty applause from the spectators. It was anybody's game to the end, the score wavering from one side to the other during the last two minutes of play.

For the Sophomores, Linnehan and Gallagher were most in evidence, while the high school was most ably supported by Bell, Sheldon and Flint. The line-up:

B. H. S. 1916.
Bell, l. f., . . . r. g., Carlton, Bloomer Ashland, r. f.,

l. g., Rawson, Gallagher
Sheldon, c., . . . . c., Wilcox, Rawson
Bland, r. g., . . . . . l. f., Williams
Flint, l. g., . . . r. f., Palmer, Linnehan

Summary—Baskets from the floor, Bell 4, Ashland 1, Sheldon 3, Flint 2, Wilcox 2, Williams 1, Gallagher 5, Linnehan 2. Baskets from fouls, Ashland 1, Gallagher 2. Time, two twenty minute periods. Referee, Maiden, '15. Timer, Seaver, '16. Score, 22-21.

TEA FOR MISS CORBETT.

The college women were guests at a tea was given Wednesday afternoon at Grassmount in honor of Miss Mary Corbett of the national board of the Y. W. C. A. Mrs. Stetson poured. Miss Corbett spoke briefly on the conference of the World's Student Christian Federation at Lake Mohonk last June, when representatives of 47 different nationalities were present. During the afternoon music was rendered by Miss Moore, '14, and Miss Lewitus, '17.

GOOD MATERIAL FOR BATTERIES.*Cage Practice Brings Out Many New Candidates.

Baseball practice began last Monday in dead earnest under the direction of Coach Winters. Only the battery men have been in action thus far, but by the middle of next week all the candidates will be called out. Besides the mainstays, Mayforth, Malcolm, Gallagher and Gilbert, about ten men from the entering class have shown good form in the week's try-outs.

HOTEL VERMONT

MAX L. POWELL, President

R. F. COLLAMER, Manager

Four weeks from Monday the team leaves on its whirlwind southern trip. This means that every man must put in a lot of hard work from now on so that he may be in condition to go when the time arrives. With one or two minor exceptions, the schedule is practically completed. Any enthusiasts planning to accompany the Vermont delegation southward should hand their names in to Manager Moore at once, as he is already making reservations. All indications point to a very successful season.

ABSTRACT OF PRINTING REPORT.

Student Printing Plant Seems Feasible.

The committee appointed by President St. John to look into the student printing plant feasibility made the following findings:

1. The annual small-job printing expense of the University is about $1,300; that of the undergraduate organization is about $500. This is the legitimate field for student plant.

2. Inquiries failed to find any such plants in operation in similar colleges.

3. Captain Reeves has had practical printing experience and considers it feasible here. There are about four experienced printers now in college.

4. Such a plant would not print any large publications, and would not print the Cynic or Crabbe at first.

5. Equipment would cost second-hand from $500 to $600. The best way to finance it would be to find a small country shop, which the owner would be willing to lease reasonably, he himself acting as foreman when the plant was transported to the college.

6. A plant could be located in the basement of the Marsh room of the library, or in the caterers' room in the northeast corner of the gym.

7. Students could be given employment at odd hours, paying piece rates where possible.

8. A faculty committee should manage it and do the bookkeeping.

9. With Captain Reeves and experienced student printers behind it, and with success in finding a second-hand plant, the venture seems feasible.

SOPHS DEFEAT JUNIORS IN OPENING BASKETBALL GAME.Freshmen Win From St. Michael's in Close Contest.

A small crowd witnessed the two basketball contests at the gymnasium on Thursday evening, February 12. The 1916 five won from 1915 by a comfortable margin, 27 to 13. The Freshmen trimmed St. Michael's by a score of 22 to 16.

The Juniors were confident, with last year's victories in mind, but the game was not very old before everybody realized that 1916 was master of the situation. The Sophomores led off with the first basket, and from that time until the end of the game, they were well in advance of their opponents. Conroy and Linnehan, Wilcox, Bloomer and Gallagher were a hard combination to get away with, and their consistent team work was responsible for the Sophomore victory. Gallagher was easily "the man of the hour," with a total of six floor baskets and one foul, several of these being sensational shots. Conroy also did good work at forward, with four floor baskets to his credit.

The Juniors played a steady, hard-fought game, but were noticeably defective in shooting, with the exception of "Billy" Maiden, who scored all of the five floor baskets for his team, while playing at his customary guard position. The other members of the Junior quintet wasted valuable opportunities, which, with some "hard luck" shooting, caused their defeat. Glidden, at guard, was strong on floor work.

The game was divided into four ten minute periods in place of the two twenty minute periods usually played.

The line-up:

1915. 1916.
Gilbert, r. f. l. g., Gallagher, Rawson.
Maiden, Ferrin, Dow, l. f.

r. g., Bloomer.
Brown, c. c., Wilcox.
Glidden, r. g., l. g., Linnehan.
Mayforth, l. g. r. f., Conroy, Williams.

Summary:—Baskets from the floor,
Gallagher 6, Maiden 5, Conroy 4, Linnehan 2, Wilcox 1. Fouls, Gilbert 3, Gallagher 1. Referee, Doctor Stone.

THE JANUARY ISSUE OF YE CRABBE.

The January issue of Ye Crabbe appeared Thursday. It contains some very interesting advertisements. Also a few cuts which possess a melancholy interest as the work of one who is now no longer with us. The editors have been greatly handicapped by the lack of quality and quantity of material submitted. Anyone who has or thinks he has a spark of humor in his make-up is urged to try out for the board. Contributions will also be welcomed from any members of the faculty. Perhaps the papers submitted at the recent examinations might furnish some amusement. Contributions should be dropped in the box in the hall of the Old Mill.

Those who wish to try for the board should report to J. W. Baker, '15, or drop their names in the box.

FARMERS' WEEK, FEB. 23-28.

Farmers' Week program will be held all next week at Morrill Hall, beginning on Monday. This will close the winter short courses which opened on Dec. 29.

There will be many prominent lecturers at Farmers' Week and topics pertinent to the farmer will be discussed. These exercises are usually attended by 400 farmers in addition to those regularly enrolled in the short courses.

Alumni Reunions, Past and Future.

On Wednesday, Feb. 18, the Western Massachusetts Alumni held their annual reunion and dinner at Springfield, Mass.

On Friday, Feb. 20, the New England Alumni dined in Boston. President Benton and Dean Tinkham spoke.

Next Friday, Feb. 27, the Washington Alumni will hold their annual dinner at the Cochran Hotel in Washington, D. C. J. H. Eaton, 1450 Harvard street, Washington, is chairman of the dinner committee.

The Western New York Alumni will meet in Buffalo on March 6.

ALUMNI NOTES.

1879. John Dewey, Ph. D., LL. D., who graduated in the class of 1879, and who is now professor at Columbia University, will deliver the Ichabod Spencer Lectures on Psychology at Union University, Schenectady, N. Y.

THE SMOOTHEST
TOBACCO

All the comforts—

When good fellows get together—then Velvet is supreme. This superb leaf has hung in the warehouse over two years—a tremendous change—all harshness is nullified—the leaf grows rich—remarkably smooth—and in the pipe, Ye gods! what a smoke! It's too smooth to bite—too mellow to be anything but the best smoke on earth. That's why it's called Velvet. One tin is a revelation. At all dealers.

COMMONS HALL

To the Men of "Old Vermont"

Commons Hall is now under University management and it is the desire of the authorities to make the Hall serve the student body in the largest way possible. In order to do this, it is necessary to have every table full, for then only can the best food and service be given the patrons.

Those who can are asked to board at this institutional table and those who find that impossible are requested, for the sake of the University, to do what they can for the betterment of

RECORD FEATURES AND CROWD AT KAKE-WALK

OWLS WIN CUP AND CAKE

Gallagher, '16 and Hayden, '15 Take First Honors in the Walk and Bloomer, '16 Wins Peerade Cup.

The seventeenth annual kake walk Monday evening drew a crowd that filled the gymnasium and occupied the running track, balcony, and all the main floor space except that left for the staging of the stunts. It seemed as though the whole city of Burlington had flowed up the hill for the great event. It was a varied crowd. There were Thomas, Henry and Richard, with their respective Annies, Fannies and Jennies, gray-haired old ladies who had never ventured so far from home before, but had come out to see what those dreadful boys could do, and sub-freshmen with the light of high resolve in their eyes. The press of the crowd was so great that the stunts were late in starting. More originality was shown in the stunts this year, and the facility with which they were staged was notable.

"Manager Pro Tem," put on by Lambda Iota won the Briggs cup and the big cake for the best fraternity stunt. It portrayed the infernal regions, the scene of many former kake walk stunts. Its success lay in its originality, wit, and clever acting and local hits, instead of in trap doors, flashes and the usual devilish mechanical properties. A roller coaster was a novel and effective agent for the entrances of the actors.

When the floor had been cleared sufficiently the Peerade began its march up the gym. It fully sustained the reputation gained in previous years, for certainly the like was never seen outside a dream of the Rarebit Fiend. It afforded a complete pageant of Farmers' Week with a fearful and wonderful spraying apparatus as the main feature. There were nursemaids wheeling carriages containing obstreperous six foot infants. Old Dutch Cleanser was much in evidence, and chased Dirt in the person of a hugely elated small boy. A pair of trousers some eight feet high strode up and down, apparently directed by no human agency.

General Villa was there in full regalia, and added to his list of sports by carrying off the cup given by the Syndicate Clothing Co. for the best costume. Bloomer, '16, impersonated the general, and his get-up was highly effective.

Delta Mu opened the program with a clever though somewhat obvious stunt, "A Day at the Rockefeller In-

FOUNDER'S DAY ELECTIONS.

S. P. Johnson, '14 and R. M. Olzendam, '15 Are Chosen.

The election for Founder's Day speakers was held last Tuesday noon in the Chapel. The senior representative will be Seth P. Johnson, and the junior, Roderic M. Olzendam.

SETH P. JOHNSON.

Founder's Day exercises will be held as usual on May 1, celebrating the birthday of Ira Allen, founder of the university. This excellent custom was started in 1894. The alumnus speaker will be announced later.

THE DAY OF PRAYER FOR COLLEGES

Sunday Chapel Service Led by Rev. C. C. Adams.

The service of prayer was held in the College Chapel at 3:30 p. m., with Rev. C. C. Adams of Essex Junction in charge. He chose his text from the first two verses of the sixth chapter of Hebrews. His topic was "The Deepening of the Spiritual Life."

He said in part: "The signs of a new depth of life are: Are our own lives deepening? Fifteen years ago things made it impossible for one to deepen. The Bohemian spirit took away the spirit of Christ. This spirit crept into my life at Dartmouth. Here one must cast aside the teachings of the Sunday school. If you are not deepening in spiritual life what are you here for? If you are not growing spiritual we are losing what our fathers had in mind when they founded the University of Vermont, Dartmouth, Amherst, Williams and Harvard."

Mr. Adams outlined the three guideposts as: "First, therefore leaving the doctrine of Christ let us go on unto perfection. Second. The doctrine of baptisms, of the resurrection of the dead, and of eternal judgment."

"When in my experience," he said, (Continued on second page.)

MEDICAL COLLEGE RATED AS CLASS A STILL OF THE 22 BEST

Standing Maintained by National Council in Spite of Opposition of Outside Influences.

The Medical College of the University is still rated in Class A by the American Medical Association, thus keeping its position of nation-wide recognition as one of the twenty-two leading medical colleges of the country. This is a signal victory for the university, for strong influences were brought to bear upon this highest standardizing body to reduce the rating of the Medical College, thus helping the attack upon the college which has been growing increasingly evident.

Dr. H. C. Tinkham, dean of the College of Medicine, and Dr. B. H. Stone, director of the State laboratory of hygiene, went to Chicago last week for the purpose of presenting the claims of the medical college before the national association, and President Benton on Saturday received a telegram showing that a grand victory had been won for that institution. The message was as follows:

"Chicago, Ill., February 21, 1914.

"President Guy Potter Benton,

"University of Vermont.

"No change in rating for the University of Vermont's College of Medicine. Dr. Bevan, chairman of the council of medical education, believes it to be important for the State to continue medical education in Vermont, and that it is the duty of the council to help the State and the Medical College.

"Signed

"Tinkham,
"Stone."

The standing of medical graduates in 1912 who took examinations before State boards as published in the Journal of the American Medical Association showed that Vermont graduates ranked second. There were but three per cent. of failures, a slightly better showing than Johns Hopkins and the University of Pennsylvania and a much better showing than Harvard, Columbia and many other medical schools.

SUB-FRESHMEN ENTERTAINED AT KAKE WALK.

Twenty-five sub-freshmen attended the Kake Walk at the invitation of the Key and Serpent entertainment committee. They were harbored at the different fraternity houses, and the smoker after the Kake Walk was given for their benefit. The men came from St. Albans, Montpelier, Rutland and Enosburgh Falls.

DR. BENTON AT WASHINGTON.

An Advocate of a National University.

President Benton spoke this week before the Department of Superintendents of the National Educational Association convened at Richmond, Virginia. The president was also in Washington where he represented the National Association of State Universities before the House Committee on Education, in behalf of the bill for a national university. Such a university would be founded in Washington, under federal control, and devoted to graduate work. This would give those in attendance the exceptional opportunities offered by the city for research work.

KAKE-WALK SMOKER USHERS IN THE DAWN

Brings Kake Walk to End and Introduces Sub-freshmen to Student Body.

Immediately after the Kake Walk on Monday night a smoker was held in the large lecture room at the medical college for the benefit of the sub-freshmen who were in town. It was in the cold wee hours of the morning when President St. John of the senior class opened the smoker with a brief talk to the sub-freshmen. Later he introduced Capt. Reeves, Dr. Beecher and Prof. Stone, each of whom spoke strongly for a greater and better Vermont, and encouraged the sub-freshmen to enter the University next fall. Ned Pease, ex-'14, was singled out of the crowd for a speech by his former classmate, St. John; and he expressed his pleasure in being able to attend the annual Kake Walk and in enjoying the society of the assembled body. The glee club rendered two selections, and was heartily applauded. "Shorty" Roberts, '13, offered his musical talent to the entertainment of the evening and on the impulse of the moment organized a quartet, consisting of Gallagher, '16, Mayforth, '15, D. Roberts, '16, and himself. The quartet sang its complete repertoire in "Who Did" and "Sleep Kentucky Babe." Capt. Stan Berry concluded the speaking of the evening and dwelt chiefly on the baseball situation at Vermont. The meeting adjourned to the smoking room in the basement where refreshments were served by the U. K. M. A. society.

The smoker and entertainment of sub-freshmen were in charge of the Key and Serpent society.

LOCALS.

Secretary Clifford H. Smith of the Vermont Anti-Saloon League spoke in chapel on Thursday on the subject of personal temperance.

RECORD CROWD AT KAKE WALK.

stitute in 1920." A professor with a strong Yiddish accent was explaining to his students his method of operation. The patient's inner workings had been taken out, cleaned and repaired and the reverse process of restoring the patient was about to be gone through. The assistants produced an articulated skeleton piece by piece from a chest, and after the bones had been placed together as they should be, the students gathered around the table and rubbed them to restore the circulation. In due time there was a stir beneath the sheet, and a real flesh-and-blood patient sat up, making the feminine part of the audience gasp, for his costume was exceedingly brief.

The prize winning stunt, "Manager Pro Tem" put on by Lambda Iota, came next. The scene was laid in Hades and General Gardyne, who represented Satan, soon surrendered the management to Boss Murphy in the person of U. A. Hicks, '14, who arrived via subway. From that time on the fun was fast and furious. Many telling local hits were made, and the song of the Carnegie Foundation Commission brought down the house. Each member of the commission sang about half a line, carrying on the song where his partner had left off. The words were especially clever. It is impossible to say whether the directors of the stunt put on the song in this manner remembering that the Muses love alternate numbers, but however that may be it was apparent that the judges agreed with the Muses for once in loving 'em, for they awarded the stunt the Briggs cup and big cake.

The Commons Club scored heavily with their first appearance in the kake walk. Their stunt, "On the Trail of the Carnegie Foundation Commission," would have taken the cup had it not been penalized for overtime. The act opened in a startling manner when the lights were turned on and a complete miniature of the principal college buildings was revealed. Dr. Benton and Dean Perkins were in the high light as impersonators. The commission made various profound discoveries, including the fact that the college was near Lake Champlain—dangerously so. The roasts and hits were all well received.

The Alpha Zetas were handicapped by a change of plans at the last moment, and they were unable to put much rehearsal on their stunt, "The Finish of the Game." Considering everything it went off very smoothly. A large chess board was displayed, with Uncle Sam as the player, and Mexico, Japan, John Bull and others as the chessmen. Uncle Sam solved the Mexican situation by a few moves. The close of the stunt was highly effective, with a display of the flag and Columbia supporting it. The whole audience rose to its feet at the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Sigma Nu then presented "A Eugenic Marriage," in some respects the cleverest and best presented feature of the program. Olzendam, '15, scored the individual hit of the evening by his characterization of the Bishop. John and Mary were united in aseptic matrimony after passing a physical examination of horrifying severity. Mary promised to feed her husband on nothing but aseptic victuals, and they mutually agreed to love each other "through sickness, through health, through convalescence and relapse." The bridesmaids, though unhygienic, were charming.

Delta Psi's stunt, "A Dream of the Decades," was worked out with great care. Champlain appeared to a man of today and showed him the change wrought in the dances from the war dance of the Indians through the minuet and country dance to the one-step of the present day. The costuming was elaborate, and the dances were all finely executed—though there was little of the classical restraint recommended to the devotees of the modern dance in the dancing of the one step.

Sigma Phi presented a panorama of "A Four Years' Grind at the Old Mill," faithfully showing the methods of fraternity rushing, conducting of exams, the impressive ceremonies of the faculty senate and of the student council and all the other characteristic details of student life. Individual parts were well taken, especially that of the fair co-ed, and the U. V. M. senator.

Delta Sigma's stunt was entitled "The Chemist of the Twenty-first Century." "The pale student of unhallowed arts" mixed together some weird compounds, which exploded in a ball of red fire that blinded the audience for half an hour. The product of the first combustion was a black charred thing, but at the second trial another being was produced—an angelic vision of rather earthly beauty who explained that she was sent from above to punish the inventor's presumption in daring to create a living being, and dispatched the unlucky man in short order. The setting of the stunt was good, but most of the audience saw red fireballs dancing before their eyes for a long time after.

This was the last stunt on the program. The floor was swept clear of debris, the band broke into the strains of "Cotton Babe," and the walking for the cake was on. Six couples walked and all were so good that the judges were much to be pitied. The first couple, Gates and Woodbury, sailed into their work with an amount of verve and pep that seemed likely to get them the cake with no more question about it. Burke and Spear, Bean and Saunders followed them, all doing good work. The fourth couple, Gallagher and Hayden, performed some really fine walking high kicking, strenuous and graceful performing with several novel features, and were awarded the cake. Hayden's performance was thoroughly good stuff, and the abandon of his kicking would turn the shapeliest soubrette on the boards a dark green with envy. Those who followed were Wilbur and Nemo, Morse and Cheney.

While the judges were considering their verdict Wright, '17, did some excellent work with illuminated Indian clubs. The judges were Guy W. Bailey, J. L. Southwick, Capt. I. L. Reeves, Dr. Thomas S. Brown and Prof. G. G. Groat.

After the awarding of the cakes there was general dancing until one o'clock. A smoker at the Medical College in honor of the sub-freshmen in town helped fill out the rest of the night.

DAY OF PRAYER AT COLLEGES.

"young people come to me and ask if we sprang from monkeys, or what my opinion is in regard to the resurrection of the dead—these are signs of the deepening of the spiritual life. One should be content to work and do good where he is placed by God, and not wish for things higher up in a discontented way. A pleasant face when one is troubled, eagerness for doing good, kindness, all these are signs of a deepening spirit."

"Third. Can we love our enemies? There is a growing sensitiveness to sin. There is a progressive inroad of the seen and unseen things of this world. Are we entering unseen work? Are we entering this in our sorrow, our victory or defeat?"

Rev. Adams said in closing: "Companionship with God is prayer. Prayer is real spirit—a sign of deeper spirit. Are you going to let the spirit deepen as you let these years of after life grow upon you?"

FARMERS' WEEK.

This is Farmer' Week at the Agricultural College. About 100 farmers are attending the agricultural lectures which are held in Morrill Hall nearly every morning, afternoon and evening from Monday to Saturday. Agricultural instructors and other members of the university faculty are giving addresses. Practical exhibitions and demonstrations are being given during the latter part of the afternoons at the city hall. These exercises bring the winter short courses to a close.

The farmers were fortunate in being in Burlington at a time when they could see the Kake Walk, could attend the Greater Vermont Association banquet on Tuesday, and could attend a Merchants' luncheon on Thursday.

DEBATING ASSO. REORGANIZES.*Membership Limited to Interested Workers.

At a special meeting of the Debating Association, held Thursday evening, Feb. 19, it was voted to limit the membership of the association to thirty. Those who signed the constitution and paid the annual dues under the unamended constitution constitute the active membership under the constitution as amended. New members can be admitted to the club on vote of the members according to the provision of the constitution. Any student who wishes to become a member should submit his name to the association. All are invited to the program meetings. A motion was carried providing that the constitution as amended be printed in the CYNIC.

The following portions of the constitution should be of general interest:

Article I. Membership.

Sec. 2. Any male student of the university may become an active member by a two-thirds vote of the active membership and upon signing the constitution.

Sec. 3. Any faculty member or alumnus of the university may become an honorary member by a two-thirds vote of the active membership.

Sec. 4. The active membership of this club shall be limited to thirty.

Sec. 5. For non-attendance for three consecutive meetings, upon a majority vote a member may be dropped from the club.

Sec. 6. Two consecutive refusals of a member to take part on a program shall warrant his expulsion from membership upon a majority vote.

Sec. 2 of Article III. A quorum shall consist of fifty per cent of the active membership of the club.

By-Laws.

No. 1. Regular meetings shall be held weekly—Monday evening at 7.20 o'clock.

No. 3. Annual dues shall be fifty cents. Special taxes may be levied at the discretion of the members.

THE SUMMER CAMP.*Information Gladly Furnished by Authorities.

The Students' Military Instruction Camp at Burlington begins July 6 and lasts through August 7. Any student who wishes to attend should see Captain Reeves or write Captain R. O. Van Horn, General Staff, Army Building, Washington, D. C. By writing to the latter a bulletin which gives a full statement in regard to the organization and details of the camp, can be obtained. It is desired that every student who wishes to spend a few weeks of his summer vacation in camp, should consider attending the military instruction camp. The benefits derived will be many and varied, and judging from reports which come from students who attended the camp at Gettysburg last summer, the student who attends the camp at Burlington will have something, in years to come, to look back upon with pleasure.

The Hospital Corps.

Beginning on Tuesday, March the third, for all pre-medical students whether registered in the short or long courses there will be work consisting of first aid to the injured, of knowledge in proper bandaging, of the use of the litter, etc. This work will be under the charge of well qualified senior or junior medical students who will be selected for the work by Dr. Clark.

The work will probably consist for the most part in lectures until the weather permits out-of-door work. Then will follow the practical side of the matter—the use of the litter and duty of a hospital corps to a company. This work comes at the usual hour for the weekly lecture for the freshmen, and is held in the gymnasium.

This may prove to be quite a feature in the military department, considering the large class of "pre-medics."

THE CONDITION OF THE RIFLE TEAM.*Support and Recognition Needed—Strong Reasons.

The rifle team is facing two problems (1) financial support, (2) recognition by the university. Before considering these problems it will be well to show how they came to be.

Last year the team was organized and financed by Captain Reeves. The team came as a logical result of increased efficiency in the military department. It was made up of members of the battalion. It probably, though not necessarily, will always be made up of members of the battalion. This year the financing of the team passed into the hands of a rifle club made up of members who signed the membership list last fall. At present there are seventy-nine names on this list. Several attempts have been made to call enough of the club together in order to carry on the necessary business, but without result. On being approached for the 25 cent tax more than two-thirds of the members can not be persuaded that they are members until they are shown their own names in black and white on the membership list. Only those men who actually make up the rifle team seem to take any interest whatsoever.

The rifle team has not been satisfactorily recognized by the university. The athletic committee granted team members who averaged a certain number of points the right to wear a V of distinctive design. The V's were not awarded. They were bought by the individuals who won them.

The rifle team is not on a sound basis. It should be put on such a basis, with its limitations and activities clearly marked out. There can be no doubt that the team deserves both the financial and moral support of the university. In the first place, in competing against such colleges as Cornell, Dartmouth and the Naval Academy, the name of the university is brought into some degree of prominence throughout the United States. At present the activities of the rifle team are about the only ones reported for Vermont in the leading newspapers. Again, the expense for the support of the team amounting to about $20.00, is comparatively small. The membership of the team is limited by competition and consequently does not interfere to any extent with the activities of other organizations.

Under such adverse conditions the rifle team has thus far made a game struggle. The men who shoot on the team have been doing an unselfish work for the university. A few have been forced to do all. Unless a more active interest is taken by the university the team will slowly but surely go to pieces. The problems merit sound thinking. Action should follow. There seems to be no reason why that action should be otherwise than favorable to the rifle team.

Vol. 31. February 28, 1914. No. 24

Commencement Comes Wednesday,
June 25.

It is gratifying to note the way in which the public is rallying about the Medical College, after an unwarranted attack upon it by an investigating committee which everyone supposed was impartial and disinterested. Its continued rating of "Class A" by the American Medical Association is a decided blow to Carnegie Foundation investigators. It is publicly intimated that the Foundation brought its powerful influence to bear upon the American Medical Association to give the Medical College a lower rating, and no authority has publicly denied this charge. It is a pity that the University should have to contend with such a powerful educational agency as the Carnegie Foundation. It is a pity that the motives of the whole Carnegie report of a few weeks ago can now be questioned, since the report on the Vermont colleges contains much information and some suggestions which deserve wide approval. Yet much good should come from all this ferment, for the cause of higher education can ask nothing more than keen interest and a widespread demand for the truth on the part of the public. Both of these ends seem likely to be served. The third thing that higher education can hope for is public support, if it is deserved. This too may be gained.

After the Kake Walk is over and Burlingtonians and collegians have done with their sighs of anticipation, pleasure, and relief, it is well for the college to congratulate itself, since outsiders also congratulate us, upon maintaining the high standard of former Kake Walks. It is the opinion of many that on the whole it was the best and most polished performance of all the seventeen Kake Walks, and the figures are likely to show that it was the most successful financially. The Kake Walk is showing no signs of becoming a run-down institution, and it is hard to imagine a time when this great college event will fall below the usual standard. As a distinctive college feature, as a financial aid to athletics, as a college custom which draws the strenuous support of large numbers of students, and as a training in executive ability and in "putting things through," the Kake Walk is thoroughly worth while.

The movement to abolish rattling at college baseball games and to keep the professional coach from the bench during games and in some colleges to abolish the professional baseball coach entirely are spontaneous and widespread movements which are felt in many colleges at this time. It is an expression of the desire to eliminate the professional, win-at-any-cost spirit and is part of that idealism which should more thoroughly permeate the realm of college athletics. There is need for some of this spirit here at Vermont, although any experienced observer would be likely to say that athletics at Vermont are not in the same danger of securing too strong a hold and too overbalancing an influence as in many other colleges. We have no grounds for assuming a "holier than thou" attitude on the subject of athletics, yet our fairly consistent position in allowing summer baseball players upon the team is likely to be justified when this same spirit of idealism and good sense reaches everywhere. Figures have been recently published giving the number of college baseball captains who favor summer baseball. We understand that practically all eastern college captains but one were in favor of it. Wherever summer baseball is prohibited there is a strong tendency to evade the law by deceitful methods. The law is not considered reasonable, for summer ball does not breed a spirit of professionalism such as is detrimental to the best interests of sport. If summer baseball is allowed by all colleges, all the deceit which the restrictive rule has bred will be removed. The new football rule banishing the coach from the sidelines removes another privilege which has been abused. It is the spirit back of these new rules and their enforcement which indicates progress in true sportsmanship, not the mere rules themselves.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The Necessity of Keeping Posted.

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

The students in the University of Vermont do not take advantage of their opportunities. During the past week there were present in Burlington men of world-wide fame. On one occasion, at the Hotel Vermont, were Howard Elliot, chairman of the board of directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, Theodore Vall, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., Col. George Harvey, editor of the North American Review, and Charles A. Prouty of the Interstate Commerce Commission as speakers. The second instance was an address by Rt. Rev. A. C. A. Hall, Episcopal Bishop of Vermont in the college chapel, and the third meeting in Williams Science Hall with Hamilton Holt, editor of the New York Independent as speaker. The number of students who attended these meetings was ridiculously small. There might possibly be two reasons for the absence of college men from these gatherings: first, indifference, and second, lack of knowledge concerning the things which are occurring on the hill and elsewhere. And very briefly this apparent lack of interest, if such it be, can be overcome in two ways: first, read the daily papers; second, cultivate an interest in problems outside the state and college, for Vermont is a very small state. The University of Vermont is a place of great opportunities, let us begin to realize what is at our very doors.

NOT AN OUTSIDER.

COMMONS CLUB TO HOLD UNIQUE MEETING.

A rather original meeting is to be held by the Commons Club in the gym to-night in the form of a track meet. It is the aim of the club to hold these meets regularly henceforth, in accordance with its resolution to boom varsity track. The events will include a 25-yard dash, the half-mile, the mile, pole-vault, high jump, hitch and kick, wrestling matches and a basketball game. About forty entries are expected, and men winning places out of this number will enter the interclass meet in March. Arrangements are in charge of Minkler, '15, Buchanan, '16 and Cintron, '17. The announcement that one of the events would be a competitive fussing match is declared by the committee to be unofficial.

LOW RIFLE SCORES.

The rifle team lost to Washington State and to Oklahoma State, made a low score against Maine where the results are not yet published, and shot this week against Lehigh.

The scores are as follows:

U. V. M., 921, Washington State, 968;
U. V. M., 919, Oklahoma State, 923;
U. V. M., 915, Maine, not reported;
U. V. M., 905, Lehigh, not reported.

ALUMNI UNIVERSITY DAY AT YALE.

Alumni Familiarized with Everyday Intellectual Work.

A new way to interest the alumni in the work of their Alma Mater has recently been tried at Yale. On February 23 about two hundred and fifty graduates, chiefly from New England, returned to New Haven, not to see a football game or to attend a class reunion or a society initiation, but to see "Yale at work." In the morning the visitors attended chapel and classes, listened to an account of the progress which Yale has made in securing the proper equipment for its work, and were shown the new university laboratories and the work which is being done in them. Then after a luncheon in Memorial Hall they visited the most important collections of the university, and were addressed by representative undergraduates and deans, and by President Hadley. The speeches of the undergraduates were particularly interesting. One told of the workings of the honor system recently adopted by the students of the Sheffield Scientific School; another spoke of the senior student council in Yale College, and a third, the chairman of the Yale News, emphasized the need for greater encouragement of the student who is above the average in ability.

The meeting was arranged by the associated Yale Alumni of New England, and is a most hopeful sign in American education, for its aim was to emphasize the importance above all other things of the intellectual work of a great American university.

CARNEGIE REPORT SUBJECT AT N. E. ALUMNI BANQUET

All the Speakers Discuss Educational Report—Gov. Foss and Others Attacking It.

The recent report of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching upon the educational conditions of the state was the subject for discussion at the New England Alumni banquet at the Hotel Vendome in Boston on Friday, February 20. One hundred alumni attended.

Some of the criticisms in the report were admitted to be just, but President Benton and Ex-Governor Foss expressed indignation because of that section of the report which failed to recognize Vermont as a State institution and recommended that the State cannot afford to support the university.

President Benton declared that Vermont was the first State university on American soil, and ex-Governor Foss urged that State support to the institution should, in view of the service which it is rendering, be increased rather than eliminated. The other speakers were Dr. Lyman Allen of the medical faculty, who read a speech prepared by Dean Henry C. Tinkham; W. N. Ferrin, '75, formerly president of Pacific University, Portland, Ore.; Irving L. Rich of Boston, alumni field secretary, and Walter A. Dane of Boston. Dr. Frank H. Clapp, '86, was toast-master.

Hon. Eugene N. Foss, '81, said:

"Some of us are much disturbed by the survey of the Carnegie Foundation, and I cannot believe that the State of Vermont is going to take the position recommended in one section of the report, and withdraw its support from the university after the splendid work it has done for the State.

"Of the 600 practicing physicians in Vermont, 400 are graduates of the university, according to President Benton. Should an institution which has done so much for Vermont be wiped out? The State of Vermont ought to keep up with Massachusetts and all other States in helping higher education. I don't believe that the army of strong men who have been graduated from the university and who are scattered throughout the State of Vermont is going to permit the Legislature to pass legislation which will cut away the already meagre appropriations."

Dr. W. N. Ferrin, '75, said:

"The Carnegie Foundation report is published by the foundation, and there is nothing yet to show that the State commission has approved it. The foundation has been investigating conditions all over the country; its members are experts; its reports command attention. Therefore I advise you all to read it, but I shall be sorry, indeed, if the State commission accepts the report.

"When it comes to the criticism of higher education it should be realized that private colleges have no claim upon the finances of the State. No State can afford to throttle its own institution. The Carnegie Foundation says in so many words that the State can't afford to give support to the State institution. That's a sorry condition, I confess."

President Benton said he was glad to endorse many features of the report. It has spoken the truth about many things in the higher education of the State, he said. He announced that he was glad the report praised the work in some departments of the university.

"Many criticisms of the college of agriculture are warranted," he continued, "but the failure of that department to co-operate with the farmers has been the fault of the State until its appropriation for extension work last July. That criticism is unjust now, and the foundation ought to keep up with history."

He defended the medical college and discussed the service of the university to the State, declaring that a university, unlike a college, is under obligation to serve the people. Vermont is rendering this service, he said, and must be recognized as a State institution. He declared the criticism that it is not a State institution because some members of the board of trustees are self-perpetuating and live without the State, is absurd, because these men are successors of men elected by the Legislature and are really State officers. Dean Tinkham's report, read by Dr. Allen, was a defense of the medical school.

Throughout the evening there was orchestral music, under the direction of Frank Stinson, '80, who also led in the singing of college songs, F. M. Larchar, '02, led the cheering. The invocation was made by Dr. E. C. Bass, '59.

These officers of the association were elected: President, Dr. Frank H. Clapp, '86, of Gramton, Mass.; vice-presidents, Prof. Carroll W. Doten, '95, of M. I. T., Albert E. Lewis, '97, of Boston, Ralph A. Stewart, '93, of Boston, Dr. Peer P. Johnson, '98, of Beverly, and Lee C. Abbott, '00, of Manchester, N. H.; chaplain, the Rev. Dr. E. C. Bass, '59, of Providence, R. I.; auditor, James D. Brennan, '03; members of the executive committee, Frank Stinson, '80, George H. Randall, '91, Walter A. Dane, '03, Dr. Walter J. Dodd, '08, and Harley W. Chittenden, '01, all of Boston; secretary-treasurer, R. D. H. Emerson, '04; assistant secretary, K. H. Lawton, '09, of Boston.

WESTERN MASS. ALUMNI HEAR REPORT ATTACKED

Conspiracy and Slander of Carnegie Foundation the Theme at Annual Dinner.

The Western Massachusetts Alumni Association held their annual banquet Wednesday, Feb. 18 at the Nayasset Club, Springfield, Mass. Dean Tinkham of the Medical College was present and gave his views on the Carnegie Foundation report. His views on the subject were:

"I am very much inclined to believe that there is a conspiracy, and I say it advisedly after much thought, that there is a conspiracy on the part of several organizations and on the part of schools, to put the smaller medical schools out of business. It stands to reason that if the smaller colleges close, the students will have to go to Columbia, Yale, New York colleges or elsewhere. Dartmouth has gone through this same experience, and the octopus has practically squeezed out the existence of the Hanover Medical school in the past two years. I believe that this organization, the fundamental principle of which is the Carnegie Foundation, is trying to put the University of Vermont out of business.

"When they release stories to the Sunday papers of New York, and as I have learned, Springfield and other cities, and furnish them with identical texts and identical cuts, there must be something behind it. When they sent out the cuts of the University of Vermont, they sent a picture of the old medical building, now used as a lodging house, and the worst building connected with the university. They felt they ought to have two buildings and they choose the next smallest, a good one and a new one, but small—the agricultural building. I should like to know what noble mind-spirit must have inspired somebody to send out these cuts when we have such good buildings as you know there are on the campus."

Dr. Tinkham also charged that last year's report of President H. S. Pritchett of the Carnegie Foundation was "vicious" and "unfair" and contained garbled statistics. The speaker concluded by reading one sentence from a statement published over the signature of Clyde Furst, secretary of the foundation, saying: "The report shows that the University of Vermont neglected agriculture and used its appropriations for a medical school."

"That remark is a slander that ought to be hurled back into the teeth of the slanderer," said President Benton, the final speaker. He said that the federal inspectors have never suggested even that the university has misappropriated funds for the agricultural school by turning over money to the medical school. This was said to be impossible, for all the money for the former department comes from the federal government and the accounts are constantly being audited by national inspectors. President Benton said he liked the University of Vermont for four reasons, its location, which was an education in itself to the young men; its traditions; its present accomplishments and finally, its ideals.

Col. W. S. Peirce, 1885, brought up the matter of a University Club in Springfield and the association declared itself in favor of it. I. L. Rich, '02, also spoke.

The officers of the association were all re-elected. They are as follows: President, Col. W. S. Peirce, '85; vice-president, Dr. P. F. Leary, '90, of Turner Falls; secretary-treasurer, Dr. C. J. Rowley, '94 of Springfield. About 27 were present.

MANUAL OF ARMS COMPETITION.

Second Contest for Richold and Reeves Medals.

The second competition in the manual of arms was held on February 20. The Richold medal went to C. Harold Hayden of Riverside. The second and third prizes, the Reeves medals went respectively to John V. Piper of Springfield and Ronald P. Burrage of Leominster, Mass. The judges were Captain Mygatt, U. S. A., Sergeant Steele, V. N. G., and Cadet Major St. John of the university battalion.

Exams for Annapolis.

Captain Reeves is in charge of the physical and mental examination which will be held at the University on March 10 at which time one Annapolis appointee and three alternates will be selected upon a competitive basis. The examinations are conducted to determine the appointment by Senator Carroll S. Page. The appointee must then take the entrance examinations of the Naval Academy. All boys between the ages of 16 and 20 may compete. A letter addressed to the Secretary of the Navy will bring literature explaining fully as to the requirements for entrance to the Naval Academy.

The marriage of Robert Davis, '10, to Miss Irene Dubray of Newport, is announced.

Mrs. A. F. Hawes and Mrs. Clapp gave a tea for the senior women of the university Monday afternoon, February 23, at their home on Prospect street. Mrs. Hawes and Mrs. Clapp received. Miss Shattuck and Miss Marshall poured.

Prof. G. G. Groat is spending the last half of the week in New York City at the National Unemployment Conference. He was appointed by Gov. Fletcher as Vermont delegate at this meeting.

Miss Elizabeth Gilmore, '16, who has been ill for the past few days, is again able to be out.

CLASSES OF '83 AND '86 HAVE MOST SONS IN COLLEGE

Former Has Six Sons and Daughters —A Total of 35.

There are 35 sons and daughters of Vermont alumni in the academic departments of the University at present, out of 411 students who were reached by the CYNIC canvass of a month ago.

The class of 1883 holds first place when the students are lined up according to the classes of their parents. This class has returned six sons and daughters who are now in college. The class of 1886 holds second place with five sons and daughters. The classes of 1884 and 1888 come next with three legacies apiece.

The following classes have two sons and daughters each: 1880, 1882, 1885, 1889, 1895.

There is one son or daughter now in college from each of the following classes: 1868, 1870, 1875, 1878, 1893 and 1906. The 1906 man was a medical graduate. The medical alumni are considered as parts of each class, but the present medical students were not canvassed.

Of the 35, there are 27 sons and 8 daughters.

FEW STUDENTS HAVE COLLEGE-BRED PARENTS

U. V. M. Statistics Show Spread of College Education.

Only 21 per cent. of the students in the Academic Departments of the University have parents who attended college. Out of 411 students reached in recent CYNIC canvass, but 86 have parents who went to college. There are 21 students both of whose parents went to college; 14 of these are male students and seven are women.

This proportion, 21 per cent., holds for both men and women. Of the 323 men who answered the questionnaire there were 67 who have one or both parents of college training; and of the 88 women in the canvass, 19 had one or both parents of college training.

It does not need to be pointed out that these figures show the great increase in the popularity of college education in the territory from which the University is drawing her young men and women. It can be safely assumed that there are very few Vermont fathers with a college education who are not sending most of their children to college. There are 82 men and women who have college-educated fathers. This means that the fathers of 80 per cent. of the students are giving or helping to give their children greater educational advantages than they themselves enjoyed. Some of these students are entirely self-supporting and do not owe their college education to the kindness or self-sacrifice of their parents. How large a proportion are in this class will be shown in the CYNIC in the near future, for the CYNIC investigation covered this point also. But however the present generation of Vermont students are financed, these figures should have considerable educational interest.

The detailed data upon which the above percentages are figured is as follows: The 323 male students; 45 have college-bred fathers only, 8 have college-bred mothers only, and 14 have college-bred fathers and mothers. The 88 women students; nine have college-bred fathers only, three have college-bred mothers only, and seven have both parents of college training.

One other set of statistics might be made of the proportion of students who neither attend chapel nor read the bulletin board intelligently in the course of two weeks. As a result of this canvass the CYNIC estimates this number at about ten per cent. It might be well to add that this "submerged tenth" is not entirely composed of freshmen.

"FEDERATION OF THE WORLD."*Hon. Hamilton Holt Outlines the World Peace Movement.

Hon. Hamilton Holt, editor of the Independent, spoke Wednesday evening in the Science Hall on "The Federation of the World." He gave a very inspiring address on the history and status of the modern peace movement. He spoke in brief as follows:

We have abolished slavery, the owning a man by man; and the next great step is to abolish war, the killing of man by man. Emotional appeal is not what is necessary, but a practical working organization and law in place of war. Codified international law must be backed up by some political organization that will give it validity and sanctity. Of the 59 nations, 46 are civilized enough to belong to the Hague conference.

Emmanuel Kant said that we could never have peace till we have a political organization composed of nations with representative governments. And now we all have representative governments except Siam.

Mr. Holt compared international law, organization, and constitutions with those of existing federated States; and compared the idea of the United Nations with that of the United States.

Next he considered the history of the peace movement, with especial emphasis on the two Hague conferences.

The first Hague conference was the first positive step to organize the world politically. This contributed the Hague court, the court of inquiry, and the power of a neutral nation to offer mediation without insult to warring nations. The second Hague conference tried to find substitutes for war; and unanimously adopted the principle of compulsory arbitration, but failed to put it into effect. It stimulated many treaties which are positive agencies for the making of world peace.

The recent renewal of eight treaties in the Senate was a big step. Since these treaties refer all matters of treaty interpretation to international arbitration, this means that the United States will allow the Japanese land question and the Panama tolls question to the Hague. Besides, the Columbian question must be settled here.

The three most important propositions in world peace which we face at present are as follows: First, the Hague conference, which should be held in 1915, but subject to some opposition by a few European powers which are not very enthusiastic about the world peace movement. Second, the treaties which Secretary Bryan is now negotiating. These provide for one year of impartial investigation with published findings before hostilities begin between the nations. Third, Winston Churchill's idea of a naval holiday.

Mr. Holt noted the great part played by the United States in fostering many and various agencies contributing directly or indirectly to the peace cause.

In closing he said that the peace movement was no longer a cult of cranks. The Hague courts and conference are utterly inadequate for the needs of world organization. United States is a world in miniature. It is a demonstration that the world can live together in peace. We are drawing near to "peace on earth, good will to men."

BISHOP HALL SPEAKS ON OBSERVANCE OF LENT.

On Wednesday afternoon, Bishop Hall spoke in the college chapel on the Reasons for Observing Lent. Bishop Hall said first that he wished to remove some misconceptions regarding Lent. That Lent is not merely a season of fasting and prayer which atones for all sins committed during the rest of the year but a time for taking a mental inventory of one's good and bad habits that we may encourage the former and conquer the latter. It is vain to argue that we should do this at all times and therefore Lent is useless, for experience shows that those who do not devote some special time to conquering their bad habits never conquer them. This is no better argument against the observance of Lent than saying that we should be patriotic at all times is for the abolishment of the Fourth of July. In our fight for better character during Lent we have the moral support of the thought that we are not struggling alone but in company with Christians all over the world.

The college man, said the Bishop, could observe Lent by saying "no" to such little indulgences as smoking. He should examine himself critically, asking himself if he was not becoming narrowed to the single outlook of his fraternity or social set.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ENTERTAINMENT.

An entertainment will be given by the Women's Department of Physical Education. The program is as follows:

Grand march, Fairy Queen, Maiden playing ball, Indian clubs, Jean and Jeanette, Sylvette, Japanese fan dance, Dumbbell drill, reaping flax, solo and pickanniny chorus, Zouave drill, tableau, Russian Cossack.

To win the gold medal a girl must attend every practice on time and do the best work in the exhibition (to be decided by the judges). To win the silver medal, the conditions are the same except that the girl is obliged to do the second best work in the exhibition.

Y. W. C. A. MISSION CLASSES.

Y. W. C. A. missionary classes have been formed for the purpose of studying Turkey, China and South America. Dr. Barnes is director of the class studying Turkey, while Miss Gates, '15 has charge of the class studying South America, and Miss Nutting, '15 of the class studying China. The three classes will meet as follows:

Turkey, Monday at 4:15 p. m.

China, Monday at 7:00 p. m.

South America, Monday at 7:00 p. m.

COMMONS HALL To the Men of "Old Vermont"

Commons Hall is now under University management and it is the desire of the authorities to make the Hall serve the student body in the largest way possible. In order to do this, it is necessary to have every table full, for then only can the best food and service be given the patrons.

Those who can are asked to board at this institutional table and those who find that impossible are requested, for the sake of the University, to do what they can for the betterment of

MANY CANDIDATES AT CAGE PRACTICE STRONG PITCHING STAFF

Baseball Squad of 46 Men Rounding Into Shape Under Coach Winter.

Last Saturday for the first time the full baseball squad reported for work, numbering 46 men. As far as can be judged at present from the material, Vermont should have a favorable season. Several of the old men are back, and the freshmen are showing up well. The pitching staff is strong. Malcolm is looking much better than last year and is getting into his old form. Gallagher, after his accident during the football season, has been slightly handicapped, but is coming along fast and promises to be in shape when the team starts South. Gilbert is out, looking fifty percent better than last year, and is rounding into shape a bit faster than the other men. These men are reinforced by Ellis, '14, and Burleson, '17, Denning, '17, Spear, '17 and Wood '16. It is rather early as yet to make any statements about the freshmen as they have not had time to show up yet, but they look good so far. Mayforth will hold down his old place behind the bat, assisted by Brown and Farr, '14, of last year's squad. Murnan, a freshman medic, is showing good form also.

There is a wealth of infield material, the more prominent prospects being Linnehan, Fraser, Lyons, of last year's team, and Manderville, Houston and Squires for new men. Many others are rounding into form, and there will be a sharp fight for positions.

Of the outfield, Fitzpatrick and Captain Berry are the only veterans, but there is much new material which will work at topnotch speed for these places.

Although the men have been out only a short time, the ones who comprised last year's squad show the effects of Coach Winter's careful training last season, as they have already got their batting eye, and are hitting the ball hard. Coach Winters insists on the men getting into condition, as can be seen by the line of baseball men around the running track after each night's practice.

The work of the men is much inconvenienced by the poor facilities of the old cage. It isn't long enough for full throwing distance, and is so loose that it is extremely difficult to heat and exposes the men to the risk of catching cold. A bigger cage would undoubtedly see a big improvement in the work of the team, but the best is being made of the opportunity offered.

Dean Tinkham Addresses Pre-Medics.

A meeting of the Pre-Medic Club was held on Tuesday evening, March 3rd, at the Phi Chi house, at which Dean Tinkham of the medical college discussed the position of the college and its relation to the students at present and in the future, as a result of the Carnegie Foundation report. He appealed to the pre-medics for their loyal support of the college and impressed upon their minds that their standing as members of a class A medical institution would not be altered even if the college should cease to exist or should maintain only a two-year course. He expressed his belief in a favorable development of the medical college, and declared that the students must cooperate with the faculty to obtain the most effective results.

SOPHOMORE HOP COMES ON MARCH 13

New Dances Permitted—Fraternities Will Have Booths.

The sophomore class of the University of Vermont will hold a formal dance in the university gymnasium on Friday evening, March 13. Robinson's seven piece orchestra will furnish music. Arrangements have been made by the committee in charge to decorate the hall in a manner appropriate for the occasion. The different fraternities will arrange their own booths. Refreshments will be served. The principal feature of this event will be the dancing of the two new dances, the hesitation waltz and the one step, according to the action of the student council at the meeting held last Saturday.

Adrian St. John and W. H. Boardman have been appointed marshals for the occasion. The rules for the event permit no new dances except the two mentioned above; there is to be no extreme dancing; the lady's right arm and the gentleman's left arm must be extended. This is to be a trial of these two new dances and all who are interested in the promotion of such dances should do all in their power to see that the new privilege is not abused. Failure to comply with the above rules would have a tendency to bar these steps from future dances.

Coach Winters is working hard with the men, and expects to live up to his reputation in turning out good teams, and have the men in the best possible shape for the southern trip which begins March 23. There is much competition for positions and with the men and coach working as they are there is every reason to expect a winning combination this year.

MEDICS CELEBRATE CONTINUED "A" RATING HOLD SPIRITED SMOKER

Pres. Benton, Dean Tinkham and Drs. Stone and Clark Give Strong Speeches.

The real old fashioned Vermont "Do or Die" kind of spirit was that shown at the Medic Smoker Monday night at the Medical College. It was the most spirited college function that Vermont has seen in years. It was the kind of spirit that strong men show after winning a battle, hard fought, against unfair opponents. The Carnegie Foundation officers would have fared badly indeed, had they chanced into that meeting. But they kept far away, so spirited peace reigned.

The smoker was called to celebrate the return of Dean H. C. Tinkham and Dr. B. H. Stone, who were sent to Chicago to put the true facts before the American Medical Association meeting there. The result of their work is known far and wide and the University of Vermont College of Medicine will continue.

President G. L. Steele of the senior medic class presided at the meeting. Some one hundred of the students were present and many of the members of the medical faculty. President Benton was also present a part of the evening.

Robinson's orchestra furnished music before the speaking and between the speeches.

President Benton was the first speaker. His tribute to the work of Dean Tinkham and Dr. Stone was a royal one. It was the result of their earnest work that the College of Medicine was classed A again and all credit should be given them. He told of his experiences with the Carnegie investigators and showed up many of their peculiar methods.

President Benton was cheered for many minutes before and after his address. His interest in the medical smoker was greatly appreciated by the students.

Dean Tinkham was next called to tell about the infernal workings of the "Foundation." His appearance was even more warmly greeted than that of the president's. His talk carried the audience to Chicago and to the meeting of the association. His treatment, uncivil at least, by the members of that association; his efforts to put the truth about our college to the association; his final success, and the plans for our future were all told. He urged every student of Vermont, academic or medical to talk to all influential men, legislators and laymen (Continued on second page.)

Professors Borland and Thomson were re-elected to the advisory board. Schoff, '14, spoke on "What Contribution to an Ideal College Spirit Can the Y. M. C. A. Make?"

SOPHOMORES WIN BASKETBALL SERIES

Fast Basketball Marks Closing Game —Juniors Defeat Co. A, 2nd Cavalry, 38-16.

The Sophomores won the interclass basketball championship by defeating the Freshman team, 18-9, in a fast and interesting game. The freshmen were crippled by the loss of their fast forward, Stanton, and this was a decided factor in the sophomores' victory. The sophomores excelled both on the offensive and defensive, the freshmen being unable to get close enough to the basket for safe shots, taking chances on long shots from the middle of the floor which generally failed. Neither team seemed to have a man able to shoot baskets from fouls with any degree of accuracy, only five baskets from fouls being made out of a much larger number of tries.

Gallagher of the sophomore team and Nenno of the freshmen were the stars of the game.

The line-up follows:

1916.	1917.
Bloomer, r. g. ....	I. f., Kelly
Rawson, l. g. ....	r. f., Metcalf, Best
Wilcox, Conroy, c. ....	c., Burke
Gallagher, r. f.,
	l. g., Wright, Greenwood
Linnehan, l. f. ....	r. g., Nenno
Baskets from floor: Gallagher 3,
Wilcox 3, Conroy, Linnehan, Nenno 2,
Kelly. Baskets from fouls: Linnehan,
Gallagher, Kelly 3. Referee: Currier.
Time, four ten-minute periods.

RIFLE TEAM DEFEATS LEHIGH.

The rifle team results as given out from Washington show that Vermont again defeated Lehigh University. The standing by their last report is as follows: Michigan Agricultural College heads class A in the race for championship in the Intercollegiate Rifle Shooting League. Washington State College leads class B and the University of Illinois, Class C. The week's results in class B are:

Washington State, 974; Cornell, 963; U. S. Naval Academy, 932; Vermont, 905; Dartmouth, 909, Maine, 936; Wisconsin, 943; Oklahoma Aggies, 947; Columbia, dropped; Lehigh, 901; Clemson, dropped; Kansas, 855.

NINTH CONFERENCE OF VERMONT SCHOOLS

"The School and Community Needs" Discussed Here Next Week.

The ninth conference of the Schools of Vermont with the university will be held in the Williams Science Hall, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 12th, 13th and 14th. The subject is to be "The School and Community Needs." The following program will be given:

Thursday Evening at 8 O'Clock.

Opening Address.—Robert J. Ale, LL. D., president University of Maine.

Friday Morning at 9:30 O'Clock.

The School as a Social Center.—Archibald C. Hurd, Windsor County.

Discussion.—Superintendent's Viewpoint, E. O. Hamilton, Newport; Teacher's Viewpoint, Miss Caroline S. Woodruff, St. Johnsbury; Patron's Viewpoint, Mrs. Geo. H. Smilie, Montpelier.

General Discussion.

Intermission.

The university invites the visiting teachers to luncheon in the gymnasium at 12:30.

Friday Afternoon at 2:30 O'Clock.

The School and Vocational Training.—Prof. G. G. Groat of U. V. M.

Discussion.—C. D. Howe, Morrisville; S. C. Hutchinson, Montpelier.

General Discussion.

President and Mrs. Benton invite the teachers and their friends to an informal reception at the president's home at the close of the afternoon session.

At 8:00 o'clock the Schoolmasters' banquet will be held at the Hotel Vermont.

Saturday Morning.

It is proposed to discuss problems in the teaching of agriculture in the secondary schools with special reference to conditions as they exist in Vermont. This discussion will be in charge of Prof. F. B. Jenks, and all interested in the subject are invited to participate.

PRESIDENT BENTON FAVORS NATIONAL UNIVERSITY.

President Guy P. Benton was in Washington, D. C., last week where, as secretary of the National Association of State Universities, he appeared before the committee on education and spoke in favor of the National University. It will be remembered that the bill for such a university was introduced into the lower house some time ago. Senator Dillingham of Vermont has just introduced a similar bill into the upper house, and the indications are that it will soon become law. The state universities are supporting the bill almost unanimously, but it is reported that Yale, Harvard and other graduate schools are opposing it.

The proposed university is to be located in Washington, D. C., because of the fact that there are so many institutions there which are not to be found elsewhere, and which will be a great aid in the work of the university. The National University is to be a graduate school entirely. Its purpose is threefold. 1. To promote the advance of science, pure and applied, and of liberal and fine arts by original investigation and research and by such other means as may appear suitable to the purpose in view.

2. To provide for the higher instruction and training of men and women for posts of importance and responsibility in public service of state and nation, and for the practice of such callings and professions as may be required for their worthy pursuit and higher training.

3. To cooperate with scientific departments of the Federal Government, with the colleges of agriculture and mechanic arts founded on the proceeds of the Federal Land Grant of the act of 1862, with state universities, and with other institutions of higher learning.

The institution is to be governed by an advisory board or council consisting of one member from each state in the Union. These representatives shall be the presidents of the individual state universities where such exist. In states where there is no state university a member to this advisory council may be appointed by the governor.

COMMONS TRACK MEET.

An indoor track meet was held last Saturday night by the Commons Club for the purpose of bringing out new material. Several freshmen showed up well, especially B. Powers and Best, who won first and second prizes respectively. Of the track men Cintron and Shippy scored the heaviest. The results:

25-yard dash: Bolster, '16, first; Cintron, '17, second; Minckler, '18, third.

1 Mile run: Shippy, '17, first; Buchanan, '16, second; Best, '17, third.

440-yard dash: Cintron, '17, first; Bolster, '16, second; Greenwood, '17, third.

Hitch and kick: Best, '17, first; Greenwood, '17, second; Minckler, '15, third.

Half mile run: Shippy, '17, first; McDowell, '15, second; Minckler, '15, third.

Pole vault: Bailey and McDowell tied for first place.

High jump: Cintron, '17, first; Powers, '17, second; Greenwood and Bailey, tied for third.

Hurdles: Cintron, '17, first; Powers, '17, second; Bailey, third.

Dr. Stone was the starter, Capt. Hayden the timer and Mgr. Thomas the judge.

It is hoped that this may become an annual event. Also an attempt will be made to have an outdoor meet in the spring before the interclass meet takes place. It has not been definitely decided, but probably the next meeting of the club will be Friday, Mar. 13.

Buffalo Banquet Postponed.

The Western New York Alumni Association will hold their annual banquet on March 20 at the University Club, instead of March 7 as formerly announced.

MEDICS CELEBRATE CONTINUED "A" RATING.

and try to secure for the medical college the needed appropriations. Vermont's medical college must not die out from want of support by the state and the students should all lend a hand in helping her stay.

Dean Tinkham was followed by Dr. B. H. Stone, a speaker of rare ability. His address was mainly about the Chicago trip and much more information was gained in regard to the situation. His talk was full of wit and good humor but was straight to the point when the welfare of our college was at hand.

Dr. C. H. Beecher gave his usual spicy, characteristic talk and Dr. F. E. Clark had the boys in a spasm of laughter every minute. His tribute to old Vermont was a stirring one and one could have heard a pin drop at the close of his speech.

Drs. Wheeler, Brown, Sears, Wells and McSweeney followed, all full of the spirit of the evening. After short talks by Walch, Buck, Niles, Becker, McNeal and Thomas, of the student body, the meeting closed with the singing of "Hail, Green and Gold" by the whole assembly, standing, accompanied by the orchestra.

AGRICULTURAL CLUB MEETING.

A fairly well attended meeting of the Agricultural Club was held at Morrill Hall, Tuesday evening, March 3rd. The following program was rendered: Reading by Lewis, '17; selections by the Agony quartet composed of Wheelock, '14, Osgood, '15, Flint, '15, and Connor, '17; reading of Vermont Chronicle by Mann, '15; and a reading by Tennien, '15. Dean Perkins gave a very interesting illustrated lecture on the Hawaiian Islands. The dean has visited these islands twice with the view of studying the rock formations and volcanic eruptions. The views which he showed were some which he had taken himself, and they were very interesting and instructive. At the close of the meeting refreshments of coffee and doughnuts were served.

IMPORTANT MEETINGS AT RICHMOND, VA.

Prof. J. F. Messenger attended several of the numerous meetings of national associations which were held at Richmond, Va., from Monday to Friday, Feb. 23rd to 27th. He attended the meetings of the Department of Superintendents of the National Educational Association, of the National Association of College Teachers of Education, and the Heads of the Department of Education in State Universities. This last meeting was called by the United States Commissioner of Education. Prof. Messenger also made a short stop at Washington, D. C., to make certain arrangements for the Summer School.

THE NEED FOR MISSIONARIES.

Joint Meeting of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. Reviews Kansas City Convention.

At the joint meeting of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A., on March 3rd, a report was given by the delegates who went to the Kansas City convention.

Davis, '15, pictured the auditorium in which the convention was held. On the floor 2,000 persons could be seated and 3,000 more in the first gallery. Besides this there were two or three galleries for those who had not obtained delegate tickets. On one of the walls was a large map of the parts of the world where christianity is needed. On this map were the flags of the United States and Great Britain designating that these were the countries which should carry christianity where it is needed. It was the good fortune of the Vermont delegates to be seated only two seats away from the speaker's stand together with the delegates from New Hampshire and Maine.

The addresses of John B. Mott left an especially strong impression on all of the delegates.

Miss Nutting then spoke about the demand for missionaries. In all the countries where they are needed except Japan, where there is a demand of 50 percent more missionaries. There they need 100 percent more. Japan and Russia need them but China, South America and the Mohammedan countries have a greater need. China, because of her failure to have any established religion, must have Christianity and the people are recognizing this rapidly. The Spanish Catholic religion is only partly understood by the South Americans. Since Spain lost control here has been no one to teach, nor had Spain exerted herself in that respect. So these states are in need of Christianity. The Mohammedans lost some of the power of their religion by the effect of Christianity upon them and now are practically without any definite religion. Why not give them ours? It is up to the United States to do this because we are founded upon religious principles. The first English and French to come here came because of the desire of religious freedom.

Miss Gates then spoke of missionary work. A missionary should have a special training. Not only should he study the Bible, the customs and manners of the people whom he is to teach, their history and everything which will help him to teach the people in their way. In addition he should be a statesman, for without this quality his success would be limited. Furthermore, without this quality it would be extremely hard for him to obtain native workers, and if a great deal is to be accomplished these are needed. To begin with a missionary must sacrifice himself, and then must know what his message is. He should be acquainted with social service for that is only a different part of missionary work. When foreign students come to the universities of this country they should be taught as much about our religion as is possible lest they should take back with them a wrong idea.

Then they may hinder the progress of others who might follow when they should have helped it. And finally it is for the college students to undertake this work. They have the education and training and would accomplish more than a person without these characteristics.

Piper considered that the life of all the delegates had been changed by this convention. On the last evening of the convention telegrams were read calling for aid and then the roll of honor was read. And the need and power of intercession were vividly explained. Then the questions arose, "What can I do for my God?" and "What are you going to do with your life?" If there is a greater need at home than abroad, stay at home. But to prove the contrary he showed that in the city of Buenos Ayres there are 10 Protestant churches, while in Philadelphia, a city of equal size, there are 600. The delegates were only asked to face the facts as they are and answer them truly.

INDOOR TRACK MEET.

Postponed to March 21—Eleven Events.

The annual indoor track meet which was set for March 14 has been postponed until March 21 on account of the sophomore hop which takes place March 13. The order of events for the track meet has been announced and is as follows:

1. 25-yard race.
2. 25-yard hurdle.
3. 88-yard sack race.
4. 440-yard potato race.
5. 880-yard race.
6. Mile race.
7. Running high jump.
8. Running high dive.

9. 16-pound shot put.
10. Pole vault.
11. Obstacle race.

The meet will be held in the university gymnasium. The track is 88 yards to a lap or 20 laps to the mile. There will be three prizes, a gold, a silver and a bronze medal. These medals are distinctively university and bear the university seal. The medals are of exceptional value, and may be seen at the university trophy room where they have been on exhibition for some time.

The entries for this track meet close March 14. A good list is expected, as ten entries have already been made.

DEBATING ASSO. MEETING.

An interesting meeting was held by the Debating Association on Monday evening. A literary program preceded a business meeting at which the names of new members were suggested. Varney, '17, gave the current events of the week. Hitchcock, '17, spoke somewhat at length on the subject of "College Athletics," giving a resumé of some articles in a current magazine by an authority on the subject. His talk was instructive and showed some of the phases of college athletics not generally known. Question: Resolved, That the A. A. A. should repeal its regulation denying the right to engage in college activities to all men who have previously competed for money—was debated by Shippy, '17, and Leffler, '15 for the affirmative, and Mills, '15 and Buchanan, '16, for the negative. The decision was rendered by the judges in favor of the negative. This was the first meeting since the membership was closed, and the members seem to have a better appreciation of the opportunities and responsibilities.

Feed Your Crops Available Potash

Insoluble plant foods are cheap in the beginning but may be dear in the end. We feel good when we hear that the soil contains enough Potash to raise 500 crops, but we feel tired when we discover that it will take 1000 years or so to make it available. We will be converted into plant food ourselves long before that.

POTASH

The acids derived from green manure may make insoluble phosphate of lime more available. But the feldspathic Potash in the soil is less soluble in these acids than in the slightly alkaline waters of the best soils. A little soil Potash becomes available yearly, but not enough to provide for profitable crops. Crops have two periods of Potash hunger. One just after germination and the other when starch formation is most rapid—when the grain is filling. Rational fertilization requires ample available Potash at these periods and if you provide it you will find that Potash Pays. Send for our pamphlet on making fertilizers.

Vol 31. March 7, 1914. No. 25

Commencement Comes Wednesday,
JUNE 24.

The report of the recent Yale Alumni University Day in last week's CYNIC and the resolutions of the New England Association of Vermont Alumni which are published in this week's CYNIC both show a similar movement in two different American universities. It is now too easy for alumni to lose a vital touch with their college. The typical college alumnus likes to see the name of his college in print, likes to see it grow in size and importance, is pleased at news of athletic victories, likes to hear that some other alumnus or friend has given money to the college, likes to attend a local alumni banquet if it is possible and convenient, and enjoys returning to his college commencement occasionally, when he invariably kicks himself for having missed so many other commencements. The exceptional alumnus is keenly interested in all branches of the college, its growth, policies, intellectual life and ideals, and the student activities—and he shows his active interest in many ways; he contributes to the college endowment fund to the limit of his ability; he reads his college paper; he does missionary work in securing freshmen; he attends many commencements if he is not too many hundred miles away; and he contributes more than his share to the activity of alumni organizations. It is the typical, the average alumni which the colleges are trying to reach. To increase their loyalty and to enlighten their interest is usually a great problem. Vermont's problem is probably not at all peculiar, except that the average Vermont alumnus is likely to be located at a greater distance from his alma mater than the average Yale, Harvard, Columbia and Pennsylvania alumnus.

The establishing of an Alumni Day at Vermont near the beginning of the college year would be a great custom. Commencement season is not a convenient time for many business men to get away. In order to give the day as much attractiveness as possible it might be well to arrange a football game and fraternity initiations on that day. This would be a departure from the high ideals of the recent Yale day; it would emphasize other things than the intellectual side of college. But it would give many alumni an opportunity to get acquainted with the present student body and student life at Vermont; and athletic contests and fraternities may be drawing cards which would at first be necessary to bring the alumni. Later, when the custom would have won prestige, the character of the day might be changed to meet new ideals, as at Yale.

The Interfraternity Conference could co-operate with such a movement. When a uniform pledging day is set, it should not be such a difficult task to persuade most of the fraternities to hold their initiations upon the same night. This is done at Wesleyan and some other colleges. It is a departure from precedent here at Vermont, but so is a rushing system and pledging day. If the alumni at next commencement do take steps to start the proposed alumni day, the CYNIC hopes that the fraternities will hold themselves in readiness to co-operate in every way.

This year has been marked by an unusually large number of opportunities to hear lectures and addresses outside of the curriculum. Chapel services have been given a new interest because of the number of short talks which have been given by faculty members, townspeople, and social workers. There have been a few opportunities to hear prominent men on subjects of wide interest and importance, but as our correspondent in last week's CYNIC deplores, these are seldom taken advantage of. In our isolated position we are not likely to obtain a tenth of the lecturers which are available in colleges near large cities, and until the students interest themselves in gaining a great deal out of college life besides those things which are compulsory, we are not likely to have any larger number of opportunities. Must we have organizations, extensive advertisement, and much personal solicitation to turn out any number at any sort of a gathering? Must we have an Out of Doors Club to make a decent number of students put on their snow shoes and skates? Must students be persistently urged to come out for track or to try out for athletic and other managerships? Do not some large opportunities speak for themselves? We pause for reply.

Not lack of a sense of civic duty but ignorance as to the necessary conditions for voting was responsible for the extremely small student vote at the last election. Many who might have cast their first ballots on last Tuesday were not awake to the fact that they should have taken the first steps not later than last December 1. It is hoped that the CYNIC'S statement this week of the requirements will help to clear up matters on this score. Any further questions which may be sent to the CYNIC on this subject will be taken to the authorities if necessary and will be answered in our columns later.

It will be noted that any student from within the state who reaches his majority before next November may vote next fall without paying a poll tax; but he must declare his residence here before next August 3. It will also be noted that any student from within the state may vote next March, but must declare his residence by next December 1 and pay a poll tax. Thirdly, students from without the state who intend to vote in the future should look ahead and declare their residence before next July, for they will not be able to vote until such declaration has been filed for a year.

With the facts before him no student can afford to show apathy. There is hardly a boy who does not look forward to the time when he can reach man's estate and vote. This boyish eagerness often changes; but absolute indifference towards taking up one's political responsibilities is hard to tolerate in an educated man. A college-bred man owes the state his intelligent vote in a much higher degree than many other voters. From the point of view of expediency, one should consider the vital questions concerning the university which are to come before the next legislature. It is important that the students use all their influence to secure fair-minded and enlightened men to settle these questions. Indifference or distaste at paying the poll tax or whatever the reason, a man is false to himself and to all his training and education if he fails to vote at his first opportunity!

WASHINGTON ALUMNI DINNER.

W. M. Reed, '86, Chosen President—
Distinguished Guests Present.

The meeting of the Washington Alumni Association was held Friday evening Feb. 27 at the Cochran Hotel, 14th and K streets. The president of the association, Mr. L. S. Doten, presided, who introduced Col. Tracy L. Jeffords, '86, as toastmaster. In addition to President Benton, Dr. Hills and Dr. Messenger were present as were also the two Vermont senators, Hon. W. P. Dillingham and Hon. Carroll S. Page. Col. Frank L. Greene, representative in Congress from the first district, was one of the guests as was Hon. M. S. Stone, '83, the state superintendent of education. All toasts were responded to in a thoroughly enjoyable manner.

Mr. Irving L. Rich, alumni secretary, spoke interestingly on his work. The medical faculty was represented by Dr. Albert F. A. King. A very pleasant feature of the meeting was the presence of the wives of many of the alumni, this being the only association to whose dinners ladies are invited.

Mr. W. M. Reed, '86, was chosen to be the new president of the association.

NEW ENGLAND ALUMNI ASSO. OF THE UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT.

A Resolution.

WHEREAS, it seems wise that our graduates and former students be brought into a closer organization as an alumni body, to the end that each may secure the greatest benefit and pleasure to be derived from his relationship to his alma mater and his fellow graduates, and that we may enhance the interests and prestige of the University of Vermont and aid in the service which it renders by a greater degree of united action,

BE IT RESOLVED, That the president of this association appoint a committee of five from among its members to report to the associate alumni, at the next meeting of that body to be held at Burlington during the commencement of 1914.

(1) A plan for an annual alumni day to be held at some time early in each college year, upon which date all alumni associations of the University of Vermont shall hold meetings in their respective territories and as many as possible of the alumni shall visit the university and become acquainted with the undergraduates;

(2) A plan for inter-communication between alumni associations;

(3) Recommendations for the establishment and conduct of new alumni associations, especially within the State of Vermont;

(4) Suggestions for additional features for commencement and class activities and reunions;

(5) Suggestions as to how alumni associations may aid the new graduates in business and social ways.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the secretary of this association be instructed to transmit a copy of this resolution to all alumni associations of the university with the recommendation that committees be appointed for the purpose of considering the foregoing matters and making suggestions at the next meeting of the associate alumni.

Boston, February twentieth, 1914.

CONFERENCE ON UNEMPLOYED.

Relief Measures Advocated—Professor Groat a Delegate.

Various practical methods of remedying the conditions of the unemployed were considered at the First National Conference on the Unemployed which was held last week in New York and at which Professor Groat represented the state.

The federal employment bureaus throughout the country were recommended to act as a clearing house of information and to further the distribution of labor throughout the country. State bureaus were also proposed to aid in this work.

Federal insurance against unemployment was favored and it was decided to start a campaign of education on this movement. Such insurance is now in force in England and Germany.

Employers in industries of seasonal activity were asked to do as much as possible to readjust their work and make conditions more uniform throughout the year.

The present private employment agencies were severely condemned as was the attitude of manufacturers who consider it good for business when there are many unemployed. The present impossibility of securing accurate statistics on unemployment was demonstrated.

About 25 states and over 50 cities were represented at the conference. During the conference demonstrations were made at churches where bands of the unemployed sought lodging for the night.

NEW DANCES PERMITTED.

Student Council Also Grants Musical Clubs Trip.

At the meeting of the student council, Friday, March 27, it was voted to allow two new dances, the one step and the hesitation waltz, to be danced at the sophomore hop. The Boulder men are to have oversight to insure that they will be properly danced. If a trial of these dances shows them to be desirable, they will doubtless be permitted at all later college functions.

A plan for class finances was discussed. This plan will be worked up more fully and presented to the students for their approval in the near future.

The Glee Club was granted dates for an Easter trip through Vermont and Massachusetts. The trip will include the following places: In Vermont, Montpelier, Rutland, Brattleboro, Belows Falls; in Massachusetts, Marlboro, Orange, Leominster, Southbridge and Greenfield.

MEDIC NOTES.

W. J. Clarke Agnew, '14, has returned after a short visit at home.

George A. Eckert, '14, has secured a position as interne in the Rhode Island General Hospital. The position was won through a recent examination at which 40 candidates appeared, including medical men from Columbia, John Hopkins, Harvard, Rush and several other medical schools.

TRAVEL CLUB.

The four sections of the Travel Club met together last Saturday to listen to a very entertaining lecture on Germany by Herr Appelman. He first gave a brief account of the more important physical features of the country and with the aid of a map pointed out the location of the principal cities. He then showed a number of excellent lantern slides of scenes along the Rhine and in South Germany.

The next country to be considered by the Travel Club is England.

World's Record Relay.

Harvard relay quartet established a new world's record in the 1,560 yard relay when they won from the B. A. A. in 3 minutes, 3 seconds. The former record previously held by the B. A. A. team was bettered by two and three-fifths seconds. The race was at Boston, on Feb. 28.

At the same games Phillips Exeter won in indoor championship of the New England schools, totalling 25½ points. Worcester Academy was second with 17 points.

Young Women's Musical Club.

The March meeting of the Young Women's Instrumental Club was held yesterday afternoon at Grassmount. An excellent program was rendered by members of the club under the leadership of Jeannette Sparrow, '14.

FRESHMEN MEETING.

At the freshman class meeting on Tuesday sweaters and numerals were voted to Stilwell, MacLeod, DeCicco and Captain Burke. These are in addition to the 12 sweaters announced two weeks ago.

The class voted a contribution equivalent to ten cents per member towards the intercollegiate debating team expenses.

The question of voting sweaters to baseball men was considered, but final settlement was postponed.

ALUMNI NOTES.

Ex-1902. Harry E. Gage has accepted a position as special traveling agent for the New York Life Insurance Company for Vermont and northern New York. Mr. Gage has been agent at Burlington for the Aetna Life.

Ex-1902. Samuel T. Campbell has been advanced from the Albany and Boston night line of the railway mail service to the office of the superintendent in Poston.

1892. The series of articles by George W. Alger on "Swift and Cheap Justice" in the World's Work ended in the February number with an article on "The Dawn of a Better Day in Criminal Law." A short example of some good points in our courts in defending poor men, follows this article. The series has been running for five months.

1906. Paul deN. Burrows, who has been with the Lackawanna Bridge Co., constructing a factory for the American Radiator Co., at Bayonne, N. J., has accepted a position with J. G. White & Co., to instal a wireless station on Cape Cod, Mass.

1910. H. R. Pierce is at his home in Bellows Falls for a short time to recuperate from a short illness. Mr. Pierce is secretary to Senator W. P. Dillingham at Washington.

THE "OUT O' DOORS CLUB."

Movement Gaining Headway—Soon to Be Organized.

The movement pertaining to the organization of an "Out o' Doors Club of the University of Vermont" is steadily gaining headway. The subject was discussed at the last meeting of the St. Paul's Club where among others, Captain Reeves pledged his support. As a proof of this he is going to send to the U. S. Government for forty individual camping outfits to be used by the club members. In this way expenses will be reduced to a minimum.

The activities of a club of this nature would have unlimited scope. The lovers of winter sports such as snowshoeing, skiing and skating could desire no better location than is included in the natural advantages surrounding Burlington. A famous German physician states that there is nothing better for general physical betterment than mountain climbing in winter. The seasons of spring and fall open new possibilities. Mountain climbing at either of these periods is certainly as enjoyable and beneficial a recreation as can be obtained. Trips to Mt. Mansfield and Camel's Hump may be taken with little difficulty and a nominal cost. Shorter Saturday afternoon tramps would afford nearly as much pleasure. The enthusiasts of canoeing, sailing and motor boating have no less than our beautiful Lake Champlain on which to congregate. All the possible activities may not be enumerated here, but it is obvious that the field is unlimited.

The advantages for a group of young men related in this way are self-evident. When those who realize the attractiveness of the out of doors get together good fellowship of the highest order is the result. Who is better acquainted with a man than are his companions after a jaunt of some duration? The good feeling, the wholesomeness, the general health and vigor of members of an outing club would undoubtedly spread throughout the university. The different activities of the club would afford the botanist and geologist unusual opportunities. Those interested in photography could have no better chance to exercise this interest than upon the trips on land and water. While recreation is gained in these many pursuits there are other distinct assets such as knowledge of nature and a feeling for it.

Surely you have said to yourself on some bright morning, "If I could but find the right fellow to go with me, I would like to go for a hike this afternoon." An out of doors club would bring these people together with the varied activities and advantages as the attraction.

So when the time comes for action let every one who sees the value of being a part of such an organization, and there surely are many who can be included in this classification, give it his individual support. The nature of an outing club is so totally different from that of any other organization in the university that the argument that there are now too many clubs is easily overthrown. Think it over and be ready

IN ORDER TO VOTE

A student must file a declaration of residence at the city clerk's office. He must then get his name upon the city list by appearing in person before the city council and ask to have his name put upon the check list, and take the freeman's oath before the council.

Most of the students of voting age or near voting age have a vague idea of what is necessary to do in order to vote. Large numbers of them slept on their rights and did not exercise the franchise at the city election last Tuesday, simply because they did not act soon enough. The CYNIC has therefore looked up all the necessary information in regard to this matter and summarizes it here:

1. According to section 73 of the Vermont Statutes a student at a college neither loses nor gains a residence while at college. Students of U. V. M., therefore, by signing and filing a declaration of residence blank at the city clerk's office adopt Burlington as their residence while in college. In order to vote here a man must be a resident of the state for a year and a resident of the town for three months, his residence being computed from the time of filing his declaration.

2. In order to vote at next municipal election one year hence a student should file his declaration of residence by April 1, 1914 and must file it before December 1, 1914. He must also pay a Burlington poll tax, usually about $3.50. The act of declaring his residence before June 15 will make him subject to the Burlington poll tax, if he is 21 years of age. If he is thus liable for a poll tax and does not pay it at the city treasurer's office by August 15, he will be required to pay it to the constable together with an additional collection fee, usually about one dollar. In addition to the declaration of residence and the poll tax the student like all voters must appear in person before the city council and have his name put upon the check list and take the freeman's oath. The council meets on several evenings for this purpose; the last opportunity for one to go before the council for the next city election is the last Thursday in February. It is not necessary that a student be 21 by next April, but if he becomes 21 before March 1, 1915, and if he has fulfilled the three above requirements, he may vote next March.

3. In order to vote at the state election next November a student must file a declaration of residence as above. He must have been a resident of the state for a year in order to vote then; he must have resided in the town three months in order to vote for city representative and county officers. He must then go before the city council next October and have his name put upon the check list and take the freeman's oath. Payment of a poll tax is not necessary in order to vote in a state election. As was said above, if one declares his residence after June 15 and before Aug. 3, he may vote in the state election (if he has resided in Vermont for a year) and will not be liable for a poll tax that year. If he does not pay the poll tax this year, however, he may not vote in the municipal election next March.

4. The old law exempting students and professors and servants of the University of Vermont from paying a poll tax is no longer in force. This was provided in the original U. V. M. charter of 1791. By act of November 6, 1865 the university was with its consent merged into a new corporation entitled "The University of Vermont and State Agricultural College." This new charter did not contain the tax exemption clause. The old custom continued, however, and students and professors were allowed to be exempt from payment of poll tax until two or three years ago, when the State Tax Commissioner ruled that the exemption in the original charter should not apply under the existing charter. Since then students and professors have paid poll taxes, and have usually let them slide until summer time. Then upon returning from summer vacation, they find the constable hanging around with a bill for the poll tax plus his little fee.

5. The next municipal election comes March 2, 1915. At this time a mayor, six aldermen, and three school commissioners will be chosen, all for two years each. Also the annual vote on the license question will be taken.

6. The next state election comes Tuesday, November 3, 1914. At this time there will be an election of governor, state officials, legislative members, United States senator, all county officers and national representative from the First District.

7. Most of the students vote in ward 1 or ward 5.

8. Women students of voting age who hold property in Burlington in their own name may vote for school commissioners.

9. It behooves all students who intend to vote at all during their college course to call at once at the city clerk's office and file declarations of residence. This is especially important for students from other states who can vote only after such declaration has been filed one year.

The poll tax and the freeman's oath need not occupy the minds of any unless 21 years old or over. All underclassmen of whatever age who will reach voting age while in college should file their declarations now.

If there are any points which are not understood upon careful reading of the above details, the CYNIC will be glad to answer all questions upon the subject. If you have any question, send it to the CYNIC by mail, drop it in the manager's box, or leave at the CYNIC office.

Velvet

THE SMOOTHEST TOBACCO

A good friend is the friendly coach—who comes and brings a tin of Velvet and helps you in the nick of time.

Velvet is a remarkable tobacco—in these hurry-up days it takes its time.

Takes two years of mellowing to take out all harshness and "bite"—make the taste rich and quality "smooth."

That's why Velvet is a helpful smoke—never irritates—just delivers the maximum of pipe pleasure—that we're all after. At all dealers.

1915 DEFEATS CO. A.

While the freshmen were losing to the sophomores, the juniors defeated the Co. A. team at Fort Ethan Allen by a score estimated as 38-16. The official scorer left after the championship game was over, and the score was variously guessed at by the spectators. "Billy" Maiden was the star, shooting at least eleven baskets from the floor, while "Polly" Squires held the Army team off.

The line-up follows:

SUMMER SCHOOL COURSES ANNOUNCED THE FIFTH SESSION

Education, Music and Art Courses Are Strong Features of Curriculum.

Four years have elapsed since the first permanent summer school was established at the university and this year's session will show the rapid strides that have been made toward making the University of Vermont one of the great educational centers during the summer months.

Favored by admirable conditions there should be a general recognition of its advantages and a large enrollment recorded. Principally designed for the needs of teachers it also offers great attraction to the student seeking advanced degrees.

The schedule covers the period between July 7 and August 15 and includes a variety of courses of unusual merit. The committee in charge are to be congratulated on the splendid personnel of the teaching force and breadth of educational field dealt with.

Courses in education are offered. These will be given by Professors Messenger of Vermont, Jacobs of Brown, Miss Jackson of Manchester, England and Miss Ogle of New Jersey.

Latin and Greek will be given by Professors Ogle and Bassett of the local faculty. Professor Appellmann will instruct in German and Professor Moseley of Princeton will teach French.

The English courses offered will be under the charge of Professor Kerlin of Virginia Military Institute.

President Mitchell of the University of South Carolina has been secured to teach the history courses.

Mathematics will be taught by Professor Evan Thomas of the engineering school.

Botany will be given under the direction of Professor Burns, assisted by Mr. Peitersen. Professor H. F. Perkins will offer several courses in animal biology.

An art department will be ably conducted by Mr. Carbee, an eminent Boston artist who has studied abroad under the foremost teachers and has successfully exhibited at the Paris Salon.

Professor Alfred Larsen will direct the musical department and instruction will be offered by Mrs. Burritt on the piano and Mrs. Bradish in vocal culture, both of whom come highly recommended by musical authorities.

In addition to these courses a splendid series of lectures by some of the

DR. WM. H. HOPKINS, '85, FOUNDER'S DAY ORATOR.

The Rev. Wm. H. Hopkins, D. D., class of 1885, has accepted the invitation of the president and faculty of the university to give the oration on Founder's day. This ensures the success of the literary part of the program. Mr. Hopkins is one of the few best speakers who have graduated from U. V. M. in the last third of a century. He is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Albany, N. Y.

Dr. Hopkins entered college in 1881 from St. Albans, Vt. After graduation, he taught for a short time in the Burlington high school and Essex Classical Institute. He studied for the ministry at Union Theological Seminary, getting his degree in 1889. He has held pastorates in Woodbridge, N. J., Jacksonville, Fla., Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Berkeley, Cal.

The two undergraduate speakers at the Founder's day exercises on May 1 will be Seth P. Johnson, '14, and Roderic M. Olzendam, '15.

MUSIC LOVERS OF HIGHGATE STIRRED

Musical Clubs With Organ Accompaniment Prove Popular Entertainers.

Fourteen men from the musical clubs gave a concert Friday night, March 6, in the Methodist Church at Highgate Centre. Seaver's piano solo on a one horse power foot-pump organ and the work of the mandolin quartette, formed en route, were the hits of the evening. Manager Ellis' "Ragtime Strain" was a close second in popularity.

The club left Burlington at 12.40 p. m. taking 5 hours to reach the metropolis, 50 miles away. There were about 50 in the audience. A snow storm and the dimensions of both church and town preventing any very great number from turning out. The pieces were all well received even though one or two showed lack of preparation, Swett, Ellis and Wright being especially popular. The concert was under the management of Rev. Walter H. Gould, pastor of the church and member of the senior class. The following took the trip: Ellis, Hurley, Dow, Swett, Lovejoy, Gates, Wilbur, Taplin, Paulsen, Grismer, Daniels, Pease, Seaver and Wright.

Vermont Scores 911 Against Columbia.

The rifle team came up several points in the shoot March 12th, totaling 911 against Columbia.

The individual scores were: Gates, 189; Slayton, 188; Washburn, 181; Daniels, 179; Bogie, 174.

The results of the Naval Academy shoot last week are not yet reported.

A TENTH OF STUDENTS EARN ALL THEIR WAY

ONE-HALF EARN LARGE SHARE

Figures Computed by Cynic Show Large Amount of Student Self-Support.

Eighty-two and seven-tenths percent of the students of the university minus the medical college, are in some degree self-supporting according to the recent canvass of the CYNIC; 10.2 percent being entirely self-supporting and the remaining 72.5 percent being partially self-supporting. The degree of self-support of those that only earn a part of their expenses is shown by the following figures: 14.2 percent earn both room and board; 21.8 percent earn enough for their room and 3.8 percent earn their board alone, the remaining 32.7 percent only earning to pay minor expenses. The large proportion of students paying part of their own expenses marks the university as a good place for the man or woman of limited means.

The relative number of men and women making up these figures is interesting. Ninety-four women and 329 men were reached in the canvass. Six and four-tenths percent of the women or 6, and 11.2 percent of men or 37 are entirely self-supporting; and 54.3 percent of women or 51, and 77.8 percent of the men or 256 are partially self-supported, a percentage of 9.6 percent of the women and 15.5 percent of the men earn enough for room and board while 11.7 percent of the women and 24.6 percent of the men earn their rooms and 1.1 percent of the women and 4.6 percent of the men earn their board only.

Sixty and six-tenths percent of the women and 77.8 percent of the men are therefore to some extent self-supporting. All of the men earning any money at all and one-third of the women earn money in the summer.

The larger proportion of self-supporting men than self-supporting women is noticeable.

The report of the faculty committee on student employment which was summarized in the Cynic for January 10 contained another statement on the question of the relative number of men and women who were partly self-supporting. This report stated that the percentage of women who were helped to employment was much larger than men,—that it was easier to find employment for women, partly because the number which applied was so much smaller.

TENNIS MATCHES ANNOUNCED.

Varsity Has Four Matches and One Pending.

Manager Roberts has just completed the tennis schedule for the coming season which is printed below. It is one of the best schedules which Vermont has had for some time. The games with McGill University are especially worthy of note. The schedule:

May 8. M. A. C. at Burlington.
May 16. Union College at Schenectady, N. Y.
May 30. McGill University at Burlington.
July 6. McGill University at Montreal.

A match with Middlebury is now under consideration.

We have not met McGill in any kind of a contest for a number of years, but it is to be hoped that this is the beginning of a pleasant rivalry with the neighboring college across the border.

Practice will soon begin in the cage. Candidates for the team should hand their names to Manager Roberts as soon as possible.

BASEBALL SQUAD INCREASING.

Coach Winter is Getting Squad of More Than Fifty Men Into Form.

At the present time the baseball squad has been increased to fifty or sixty men. The increase has been mostly in outfield material. In the pitching staff Malcolm continues stronger and is practically in mid-season form. Coach Winter predicts a better season than he had two years ago when at its best. There has been a slight improvement in the other pitchers mentioned last week, with Ellis shading the rest of his competitors. Murnane has been on the hospital list for the past week so at present we have very little line for this man. Brown, of last year's squad is rounding into shape speedily and making a strong bid for a position on the receiving end.

Coach Winter is giving the infield candidates a bit of extra work after the regular practice to speed them up a bit in handling the ground ball. The outfield is still a big question and that, like the other positions, is still an unsettled matter. All of the men are hitting well, driving the ball on a line which is characteristic of Winter's coaching. He teaches his men a vicious snap which was very noticeable in the hitting of last year's team. At present, Coach Winter is unable to say what the line-up will be of the team starting south. In fact, competition is so close that the team will not be picked until the last minute.

GREAT 1889 REUNION

Plans for 25th Anniversary—Present Locations of Class Members.

During Commencement week last year plans were made for a reunion of the class of 1889 to celebrate the 25th anniversary of their graduation this coming June. A four-page announcement by A. B. Gilbert of New York was mailed in August to the entire class and a strong campaign started later in the year. It is expected that Sho Nemoto will make a special trip from Japan to attend this reunion and members of the class in California and other distant parts have also signified their intentions to be present. The local arrangements are in charge of Max L. Powell, and Mrs. J. F. Downing of Essex Junction.

The above report shows the actual numbers and proportions of students who take all the advantages which the university and Burlington offer for student self-help. It is greatly to be doubted if this proportion is exceeded in many colleges.

DR. STONE DESIGNS PLAN TO DEVELOP ATHLETICS

A System of Six Physical Grades Will Bring in Competitive Element.

Although Doctor Stone was considerably handicapped last year and worked under adverse circumstances in his gymnasium and athletic work, he has not lost his spirit and has been endeavoring to find or develop some system whereby the gymnasium work should assume its proper place in the university and proceed to the best interests of all. After long consideration he has evolved a plan which is largely original with himself and involves the following principles:

1. Varsity material should be consistently developed.
2. The work must be made interesting through variety, competition and appeal.
3. There should be a goal toward which every effort should tend.
4. Every individual should receive benefit from the work.

The purpose of the new plan is to bring out all the material in college and place our athletic department on a firm basis. It aims to follow out the above mentioned principles in a novel way. The men will have a combination of athletic and gymnasium work, including many branches, such that each man will necessarily find something he can do. All the men will execute the high jump, the broad jump, the sprints, the climbs, the ring work, horizontal bar work, etc., or whatever is finally decided upon, on every gym. night. The men will be graded every night according to quality of work.

For instance, in the high jump, grade A may be 4 ft. 9 in. or over; B, 4 ft. 6 in. to 4 ft. 9 in.; C, 4 ft. 3 in. to 4 ft. 6 in.; D, 4 ft. to 4 ft. 3 in.; E, 3 ft. 9 in. to 4 ft.; F, all under 3 ft. Every two weeks the grades will be posted or published and the requirements for the various grades will be raised somewhat. With this consistent work there will be a training of the whole body, a raising of efficiency, and a stimulation of the spirit of competition in the various grades. The A grade will afford varsity material with the B grade furnishing substitutes.

Doctor Stone expects to have a regular examination at the end of every semester in which all the men will go through the regular events and demonstrate the result of the half year's training. He hopes to be able to offer silver and bronze medals or other prizes for the two men who obtain the best grades in the examinations. Each man will be working against every other man in his grade and won't want to be left behind while the others are advancing and the A or varsity grade is ahead to beckon on.

Doctor Stone believes that this new method will fulfil its purpose well, but declares that the men must cooperate with him for the best results, both for themselves and the college. The university is much in need of a development of its athletic material and with a little consistent, determined, cooperation on the part of the men, much could be accomplished.

MAYOR BURKE AT THE COMMONS CLUB.

Relates Experiences and Advocates Commission Government.

A loud and enthusiastic reception was tendered Mayor James E. Burke at the Commons Club on Friday night, when he gave a thirty-minute talk on "City Government." The "blacksmith-mayor" made an unusual hit with the fellows, and was interrupted again and again with bursts of applause.

The address consisted of two parts: one being a brief summary of eight years of experience as Burlington's chief executive, touched up here and there with personal reminiscences; the other, a series of arguments in favor of the commission form of government.

"Human nature is everywhere the same," said Mayor Burke. "You must give your city executives big things to do, requisite power to do them, and full credit for their accomplishment."

The next meeting of the club will be "Cosmopolitan Night." The subjects of six different nations will each present a vaudeville sketch characteristic of his native land.

W. P. McMahon, '15, has been elected C. C. baseball manager.

TAXES ON TERM BILLS.

Sophomores Consider Business Matters at Meeting.

At a meeting of the sophomore class on Monday, the 9th, the suggestion of the student council that, beginning next year, the class taxes shall be added to the term bills, was taken up and adopted without opposition. This plan does away with the difficulty of collection from each member individually by the treasurer, and it also gives the class a chance to make use of its funds before the latter part of the year, since the taxes will all be paid at mid-years.

A motion to the effect that the class vote an individual ten cent tax to help defray the expenses of the coming debates between Vermont and Middlebury, and Vermont and Norwich was put forward and voted down. It is thought by some that the importance of this coming debate was not clearly understood, and that, should it be more clearly explained, the sophomores would not refuse to do what the other three classes have already agreed upon.

Mack, chairman of the sophomore hop committee, reported that everything was running smoothly, that tickets were selling well, and that he expected to see between seventy-five and one hundred couples at the dance. He also appealed to the class to show its appreciation of the action of the student council in allowing the new dances by keeping within the restrictions imposed, and conducting themselves in such a manner that the new dances will be continued hereafter.

TRUSTEES DEFEND UNIVERSITY.

President Benton Speaks for Retention of State University Principle.

A meeting of the educational commission was held at Montpelier last Friday, March 6, at which trustees of the university appeared in relation to certain features of the report of the Carnegie foundation. The university was represented by President Benton, Dr. Tinkham, Chief Justice George M. Powers, Hon. Robert Roberts and Judge E. C. Mower of the board of trustees and C. P. Smith, treasurer.

Dr. Benton made an earnest plea for a square deal for the university. He reviewed the history of the college from the foundation to the present time and made a strong argument for the retention of the state university principle, which he emphasized was backed by origin, tradition, history and present conditions. In the course of his address to the commission he quoted freely from addresses and statements made by Senator Morrill, whom he characterized as the father of land grant colleges, contrasting with these the attitude of the Carnegie survey. Dr. Benton was warmly congratulated on his able presentation of the case to the commission.

University Has 615 Students This Year.

The catalog number of the Vermont Bulletin for March, 1914 containing some interesting additions will probably be out next Wednesday. The general design of the book is similar to that of last year except that the committee plans to have a gray cover instead of a green and to have a greater quantity of the books sewed instead of wired. The paper is somewhat thinner than that formerly used and especial effort has been made to keep the book as free from errors as possible. The index will be considerably enlarged.

According to the catalog the total number of students in the university is 615. In the academic colleges, the college of arts and sciences has the greatest number with 282 students, the college of engineering is next, having 104 students, the college of agriculture next with 95 students. There is one post graduate student, and 15 specials, making the total of academic students 497—363 men and 134 women. In the college of medicine are 118 men. Fifteen states and four foreign countries are represented. Vermont leads the states with 420 students, and of the counties Chittenden leads with 138. The catalog committee was composed of Prof. J. K. Hooper, Prof. Andrews and Mr. Swan, chairman.

Kake Walk Ticket Prizes.

R. E. Minckler, '15, won the prize of $8 for selling the greatest number of kake walk tickets. He sold about $290 worth. W. P. Leutze, '16, won the five dollar prize and R. M. Anderson, '17, won the three-dollar prize for ticket selling.

Vol. 31 March 14, 1914. No. 26.

Commencement Comes Wednesday,
JUNE 24.

The plans for a new system of physical training at the university which we publish this week sound promising. It is becoming a more thoroughly recognized fact that there is not a strong interest in exercise for its own sake. The recent changes which the gymnasium authorities of Yale and the University of California have made are in recognition of this fact. Only a small percentage of students is able to maintain for any considerable length of time a strong enthusiasm for work with dumb bells, chest weights, and other apparatus. The curriculum is not arranged so as to appeal to every student's inclinations, but the modern tendency seems to be to abolish or improve any line of training which seems dull and uninteresting to practically every student. The proposed system brings in the elements of competition and variety, as do the recent changes at Yale and California. Making the physical work competitive is alone enough to insure the success of the plan. American competitive sports are always accused of tending toward too much specialization. The introduction of variety into Dr. Stone's plan will prevent this evil. Even the combination of being a first class high jumper and having well-developed triceps will not be enough to admit a man to the highest grade. The new system will fire the ambition of all who get into the spirit of it, and the aim will be a well-rounded physical development. The thorough methods of the physical examination of the two underclasses this year are also commendable. The lack of enforcement of this requirement in the past has been the reason why many have not become sufficiently interested in their physical development.

The intercollegiate debate, the first in five years, will be the next important undergraduate event. Debating is not so spectacular as baseball, and has seldom called out as much spirit in eastern colleges. Now that the preparation for a debate involves more of a study of authorities than a training in oratory, it is even less spectacular than of old. Debating should take a more important place in our college activities than it has taken in the past. A strong support of the team at the coming debate will help immensely.

The figures upon student self-support which the CYNIC publishes this week show as accurately as possible a condition which was formerly generally known or suspected. When over 11 per cent. of the men earn all expenses, when 15 per cent. of the men earn both room and board, and when 25 per cent. earn their rooms, we can claim a position which is fairly distinctive among eastern colleges. It shows that the university and this city have great opportunities for the needy, ambitious student. It means that for half of us at least, college education is a serious business, an opportunity which can not be lightly treated. The spirit of getting the most possible out of college life thus tends to be stronger at Vermont than at colleges where very few students have to finance themselves. These figures may sometimes account for lack of interest in certain activities where a student does not see a proper return for the expenditure of his time and energy. The men who are earning their way do not as a rule show any great degree of apathy towards undergraduate interests. It is fairly safe to state that a much greater proportion of them are engaged in athletics, the college papers, and dramatics than of those who do not have the same financial problems. While economy to the extent of frugality is prevalent at Vermont and always has been, parsimony is too often adopted as a policy by men who do not have financial drawbacks. However, we can be justly proud of the students who are earning their way, are doing well in studies, and are taking active part in college activities. We have many of this type of men, and we can reasonably hope to attract many more.

Pi Beta Phi Initiates.

On Saturday evening, March 7 the seventeenth annual initiation and banquet of Vermont Beta of Pi Beta Phi was held. The following girls were initiated: Loretta Dyke, '16, Winooski; Lessie Cobb, '17, Westford; Mabel Derway, '17, Burlington; Barbara Hunt, '17, Essex Junction; Sadie Norris, '17, Sylvania, O.; Ruth Stuart, '17, Fairfax. The banquet was held at the Hotel Vermont, covers being laid for thirty-three people. Miss Maizie Powers of St. Albans acted as toastmistress and toasts were responded to by Ruth O'Sullivan, '14, Edith Gates, '15, Barbara Hunt, '17, Ethel Magoon, Vt. Alpha, '14, Mrs. Gebhardt, patroness, Clara Gardner, '16, Miss Coventry, '12, Almira Watts, '15, Sadie Norris, '17, Mrs. Ray Tuttle, '09, Lessie Cobb, '17 and Dorothy Cook, '14.

Musical at Grassmount.

The March meeting of the Young Women's Musical Club was held at Grassmount on Friday, March 6th. There were sixty present, including members and guests. The following program was admirably rendered:

"Dry Yo' Eyes" ..... Landsmeer
Glee Club.
Violin Solo—Walther's Prize Song, Wagner

Alma Holton, '15.
Soprano Solo—"Summer Wind," Bischoff

Frances Tenney, '17.
Piano Solo—"Waltz" ..... Moszkowski
Mrs. Arthur Myers.

Trio—"The Shoozy Shoo,"
Misses Durfee, Watts and Tenney.
Violin Solo—"Romance,"

Winenawski
Frances Lewitus, '17.
Soprano Solo—"To you,"

Charles Teny
Frances Tenney, '17.
Piano Solo—"Etude" ..... MacDowell
Mrs. Myers.

Santa Lucia,
Glee Club.

The club was very fortunate in having the assistance of Mrs. Myers whose brilliant playing was greatly enjoyed. The entire program was delightful and showed that there is much real musical talent among the young women.

THE SLIDE RULE.

Professor Thomson has consented to give a series of lectures and demonstrations on the slide-rule for all engineers who have "slip-sticks" and wish to become lightning calculators. The first, "An Introduction to the Rule," at which a number of commercial and home-made calculators will be shown, will be given at 8 p. m. on Wednesday, March 18th. The others will follow in rapid succession. The second will cover "Multiplication, Division, Involution, Evolution and the Reciprocal Scale"; the third, "Logarithms and Automatically Placing Decimal Point"; and the fourth, "Trigonometric and Composite Manipulations" with a summary. Properly absorbed, these exercises should make each man who attends them, fairly proficient in handling his slide-rule. The meetings will be in the Science Hall. Bring your sticks.

Y. M. C. A. LECTURE COURSE.

Three Lectures by Local Speakers Arranged.

To meet the expenses of the year the Y. M. C. A. is planning a lecture course of local talent.

On March 18, Capt. Reeves will speak on "The West As It is To-day." April 15, Dean Perkins will give an illustrated lecture on "The Temples of the Far East," showing how deep-rooted the religious instinct is and how it is manifested in temples. April 22, the Rev. I. C. Smart will speak on "A Simple Reader and His Shakespere." These lectures will be held in the Williams Science Hall at 8 p. m. Season tickets will be fifty cents and single lectures twenty cents.

FOUR STUDENT MILITARY CAMPS LOCATED

"Review of Reviews" Contains Interesting Outline of Whole Movement.

The locations of four of the five U. S. Student Military Camps have been determined according to an interesting article in the American Review of Reviews for March. The article, "Military Camps for College Students," by Arthur Wallace Dunn, gives a general outline of the camps and their objects. We quote from it extensively here:

Two camps were established last summer, one at Gettysburg, Pa., and the other at Monterey, Cal., and proved to be such a success that plans are now being made for five such camps next summer, to be located most advantageously for the great student bodies in American colleges.

Five Camps This Year.

The location of the camps will depend upon finding suitable sites with wood, water, and sufficient open fields for drills, in healthful summer climate, and near enough to the educational institutions whence the students will come to encourage attendance. One camp will be located near Burlington, Vt.; another at Monterey, Cal., one at Spokane, Wash., one at Asheville, N. C., and one on the shores of Lake Michigan.

Will Train Officers.

The object of these camps is to afford educated young men an opportunity to take a short course in military training, which will enable them to be prepared to some extent to command and care for troops in case they are called into military service in an emergency. The records of efficiency which the students make at the camps will be filed in the War Department for future reference if the time comes when the services of volunteer officers are needed.

The Benefits Offered.

All students at universities and colleges and members of the graduating classes at high schools over 18 years of age are eligible to attend the camps when recommended by the heads of the institutions.

That the camps will be popular and attended by as many students as can be accommodated and instructed there seems to be no doubt. They can mingle and become acquainted with the students of other colleges and institutions and secure a wider range of vision generally. They will receive inestimable benefits from life in the open and will sleep in tents in a healthful climate. They will learn self-control and will accustom themselves to a discipline that is conceded to be a good thing for every youth just entering manhood.

Another object of the camps also is to afford an opportunity for the students of the best educational institutions in the country to study the organization of modern armies and inform themselves as to the military history and the military policy of the country and the needs of the nation in regard to military affairs. In lectures and informal talks by the army officers the students are to be taught "the true military history of the country, not the illusive school-book version of our few victories, but the real accounts taken from official records of our military defeats and reasons therefor; the military policy, past and present; and the necessity of some sound definite military policy." Students are to be instructed in the theoretical principles of tactics which will be explained in informal talks by the officers. The students will learn road-making and military camps; how to handle rifles and ammunition, etc. In addition they will be taught the uses and duties of the different arms of the service.

The Five Weeks' Expenses

Of course, the cost of this camp-life is an interesting feature. The government furnishes everything in the way of camp-equipment, arms, etc. The students must pay their fare to and from camps, and pay $3.50 per week for subsistence, or $17.50 for the period. The students must furnish their clothing, which consists of a suit of olive-drab cotton, one pair of extra breeches, hat, leggings, and two olive-drab cotton shirts. The cost of this equipment is from $5 to $10, according to the quality of the goods. Details regarding the outfit will be furnished to the students designated to go to the camps.

Five weeks is the period fixed as the time the students shall remain in camp. They will be subject to the rules and regulations prescribed by the officers, and cannot leave without good reason. They will engage in real military work, however, and it will not be a five weeks' lark or play spell. Students will not be limited to one term in the camps but as long as they are eligible they will be permitted to attend. The more experienced and efficient will be made non-commissioned officers in the companies to be formed.

The point of view of parents of students will have much to do with the success of the new scheme. Without regard to the beneficial effect upon the future military policy of the country it would seem that the parents of college boys would heartily welcome an opportunity for "disposing of" or "taking care of" such boys for at least a half of their summer vacation.

For the average family is always at a loss as to how to give the college boy on vacation a good time without too much expense; to afford him recreation and outdoor life; and to avoid having him spend his time about the streets and shops, cheap theaters and the "movies."

The young men will have an outdoor life, recreation, and be under discipline, at the same time receiving instruction of a most valuable character. They will be taught how to care for themselves, care for a camp, care for accoutrements, besides military instruction which will be of great value to them in the future. Coming out of the military camps the young men would have a few weeks of unrestricted and unhampered vacation, which would give them the real holiday before they returned to college.

Almost without exception the leading educators of the country have endorsed the student military camps. And not only has President Wilson given his approval but former President Taft has expressed his earnest hope that the system will succeed.

ALUMNI.

1910. Edson D. Fuller has taken up farm work in Putney, Vt. Mr. Fuller has been taking the short winter courses in agriculture at the university.

1908. Charles A. Smith, in partnership with his father, expects to complete the New Jersey State Fish Hatchery at Hackettstown by the end of the summer.

AT THE LIBRARY.

Alarcón, Historietas nacionales.
Boursault, Théâtre choisi.
Braune, Gotische grammatik.
Campoamor y Campoosorio, Obras completas, tomo 2.
Coloma, Pequeñeces.
Góngora y Argote, Obras poeticas, 1.
Nuñez de Arce, Gritos del combate, poesias.
Quevedo, Los sueños.

1904 Plans Reunion.

News has been received that the class of 1904 will celebrate the 10th anniversary of their graduation, next commencement. Irwin Spear, class secretary, has requested that all members of the class send him page letters detailing the writer's experiences since leaving college. The reading of these letters will be a part of the reunion program. Letters should be addressed to Irwin Spear, 423 Maple Ave., Winnetka, Ill. A detailed program of the reunion will be printed soon.

Y. M. C. A. MEETING.

A lecture on "The Coming City," illustrated by stereopticon slides and presented by Merle H. Davis, '15, was the feature of Tuesday night's regular meeting. The weaknesses of our present municipal systems, as compared with those of England, Germany and Ancient Greece; how to analyse them; and how to correct them—were all very freely discussed.

The meeting next Tuesday night promises to be an unusually good one. Mr. J. P. Taylor, secretary of the Greater Vermont Association, will give his well known lecture on "Greater Vermont." Every man in college ought to do justice to this lecture and turn out.

ALUMNI NOTES.

1905. Fred B. Wright of New York was called to Burlington on Saturday because of the critical condition of his mother, sick with pneumonia. Mrs. Wright died on Tuesday.

1910. Wilber F. Welch has departed for Marshfield, Oregon, where a good position awaits him.

Senate Meeting.

At a faculty senate meeting on Monday night certain changes in the curriculum of the commerce and economics course were considered, but the details are not yet ready to be announced. The senate also granted the request for a woman's council. This will be composed of two faculty members and four undergraduates. It is designed to meet with the regular student faculty council to consider affairs of general college interest and will meet separately on affairs pertaining to the women alone.

Sig Anniversary.

A number of Vermont alumni were present at the dinner in honor of the 87th anniversary of the organization of the Sigma Phi fraternity on March 4, 1827, which was held at the University Club in New York City. John J. Allen, '62, of Brooklyn, N. Y., presided. Charles E. Allen, C. L. Woodbury, H. R. Ward of Minneapolis, Prof. J. R. Wheeler, E. G. Benedict, M. Shaler Allen, Dr. H. B. McIntyre, P. J. Ross, H. G. Bancroft, P. D. Burrowes, S. E. Hall, F. B. Wright and F. H. Pease were among those present. The local chapter celebrated the anniversary by a banquet at Sigma Phi place last Monday night. Thirty-seven were present.

St. Paul's Club, March 16th.

The next meeting of the St. Paul's Club will be held on Monday evening, March 16th in the Kappa Sigma rooms at 8 o'clock. The subject for discussion will be "The Independence of American Colleges." All men in college are cordially invited to attend this meeting.

Washington Alumni Officers.

The following officers were elected at the annual banquet of the Washington, D. C. Alumni Association: President, Wendell M. Reed, '86; vice-president, Willard L. Goss, '02; secretary, J. H. Eaton, '03.

The Sophomore Hop.

The annual sophomore hop occurred last night in the gymnasium. Robinson's orchestra furnished music. The gymnasium was tastefully decorated and the attendance was larger than usual. A complete report will be published next week.

FUTURE DATES.

Baseball southern trip—March 23 to April 5.
March 25.—Intercollegiate debates, Vermont vs. Norwich at Burlington; Vermont vs. Middlebury at Middlebury.
Spring vacation—March 27 to April 8.

Memorial day—May 30.
Final examinations—June 8 to June 20.
Commencement week June 20 to June 24.

FROM OTHER COLLEGES.

Yale and California have both abolished gymnasium drill. At Yale where the freshmen have had compulsory gymnasium floor work for over half a century, it has been invariably unpopular with the freshmen. Now they will be assigned to different departments of athletics, after a study of their individual needs. The physical instructors, after doing all in their power to make gymnasium work interesting, have decided that the men can be interested in their own physical development only through athletic rivalry.

At California the old Greek pentathlon is substituted for gymnasium drills. The pentathlon is a five-featured physical contest which embraces running, jumping, wrestling and javelin and discus throwing.

A registration bureau for teachers has been started at Dartmouth. It is conducted by the administration officers and aims to secure positions for teachers without the necessity of the expensive agencies.

A man with a scholarship at Hobart College loses it if he takes a drink, according to a recent ruling.

CAN AFFORD STATE AID.*"The Independent" Finds Fallacies in Carnegie Report.

The "Independent" for March 9th has a two page editorial, "Shall Vermont Give Aid to Its Colleges?" The editor takes up the cudgel in behalf of higher education and gives some telling blows to the Carnegie Foundation report. The fallacy of the investigation committee is pointed out in putting forward the theory that there can be no cooperation between public and private philanthropy. Dartmouth, Cornell, Johns Hopkins and Massachusetts Institute of Technology are cited as examples of successful financial cooperation between the state and private donors. The attitude of the Independent is summed up in one sentence: "The little Yankee state, traditionally chary of its independence, should consider well before it yields to outside counsel, however high its authority, and denies college opportunity to its youth."

LOCALS.

Dean J. L. Hills was in Washington, February 27th to 28th, attending the meeting of the executive committee of the Association of American Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations. The committee was called there to confer with the secretary of agriculture and with several committees of the United States Department of Agriculture touching the interpretation and execution of the new federal enactment appropriating considerable sums to the various state colleges and universities for work in extension and other lines of agriculture and home economics.

ON COW FEEDING.

Coming Bulletin Will Embody Tests of Seven Years.

Dean Hills and Professor Borland are engaged in preparing an exhaustive bulletin on cow feeding. Statistics covering seven years of experimentation on the college farm are the basis of the bulletin. About 70 cows were observed during this period.

The cows were given three varieties of feeds. One contained little protein, one contained a medium amount, and one contained a large amount of protein. Some of the cows have been fed entirely on one kind of ration, and some have alternated. The bulletin will show the relation of the various feeds with the amount of milk production and the cost of the feeds. Such a vast amount of statistics must be tabulated and digested that the report will not be published for several months, possible not for a year.

The tests were begun seven years ago by Dean Hills and Professor Charles L. Beach, formerly of Vermont, now at Rhode Island State College. Prof. Washburn, formerly of Vermont, now at the University of Minnesota, will assist in the work later in the spring.

Professor George P. Burns is serving as acting dean of the agricultural college while Dean Hills is engaged in the work.

THE BOLTON MOUNTAIN TRIP.

A Pleasant Day's Tramp Described.

We should congratulate ourselves on the prospect of having an Outing Club as the embodiment of enthusiastic interest in out-of-door life. Excepting the Y. M. C. A. mountain trips, there has hitherto been no organized effort to arouse a first-hand appreciation of what our community can mean to us. In the absence of more general inter-mural athletics, such a club, of up-to-date character, circumscribing as it does, a host of year-round activities, offers a source of refreshing exercise of the greatest good to the greatest number.

Twice blest is one who sees and takes, during his four years here in college, opportunities offered by our inviting surroundings for single-day outings.

One of the fine snow-shoe trips afforded by the winter season is the Nebraska Notch—Mt. Bolton loop. From the morning train, which arrives in Underhill at 8.15, one walks over the Underhill Center and Stephenville roads to the old north and south stone wall at the foot of Mt. Mansfield, departing from the road on snow-shoes at about 10.15 to strike southwest over the field toward the saddleback which marks the notch. The attractive entrance to the notch trail is reached in very few minutes and one's appetite immediately begins to keep pace with the glory of the changing scene. Splendid views are had of Mt. Admiral Clark and the other southern peaks from along the trail. The trail emerges east into a logging road which leads down toward Stowe past Canning's lumber camp. The camp is but a stone's throw southwest from Lake Mansfield. At about 12.30 the camp is reached and one receives a royal welcome from Mrs. Canning as well as a gracious introduction to a wonderfully attractive pot of doughnuts. An hour at this camp adds much to the trip, and it is to be regretted that this is Mrs. Canning's last winter in the notch.

If one wishes to reach the town of Bolton, an earlier start from the camp is required, but with a 1.30 start, the loop trip can be made in comfort, and permits also a detour to Lake Mansfield. Climbing south over the trail which opens at the door of the camp, one skirts the summits of the peaks between the notch and Mt. Bolton, getting many splendid views to the east over deep valleys. The turn to the west is made across the north face of Mt. Bolton at about 3.30, and from the indication of a pocket compass, one sets out on a bee-line descent northwest toward Bear Town, reaching this hamlet over rough country at about 5.30. From here, it is easier to travel over the road afoot rather than snowshoe across country, and if one does not yield to the attraction of passing sleighs, he will reach Underhill Center in time for an attractive supper at the Mountain House. Thence over the road to Underhill, a leisurely walk of about 3 miles brings one to the station in time for the 7.50 train for Burlington.

There are many very interesting trips of this sort within our easy reach which broaden the outlook and thicken the limb. One would do well to align himself with the Outing Club and sample their glory.

NEW ECONOMICS COURSES.

Four New Courses Announced.

The following additional courses will be offered in economics:

1. Advanced Economics. A course in economic theory; one-half year.
2. Business Organization. A general course introductory to the special business courses; a full year course.
3. Social Economics. This course will deal with matters where economic activity touches social welfare; a full year course.
4. Labor Problems. Immigration, unemployment, distribution of labor supply and labor organizations will be studied; a full year course.

The present course in transportation will occupy a full year instead of a half year.

Not all of these four new courses will be offered next year. Some system of alternation will be adopted. Probably the Business Organization and Social Economics courses will be offered next year.

Changes in the subjects required for the B. S. degree in Commerce are under consideration, but are not now ready for announcement.

Another new course, Economic Seminar will be offered to any who wish to pursue it. It will be an investigation in economic branches instead of a regular study course.

THE SMOOTHEST TOBACCO

SKATING in the keen air
—the companionship of a pipe—the pleasure of a tobacco such as Velvet!

Velvet is the best leaf—aged over two years in the warehouse—a slow, silent transformation from harsh leaf to a mellow smoking tobacco. Time gradually evicts the bite—matures the good qualities of the leaf—a flavor unusual—good—wonderfully good!

Such a tobacco takes time to produce—extreme care withal, but this is the smoke we all want—so why not?

To the Men of "Old Vermont"

Commons Hall is now under University management and it is the desire of the authorities to make the Hall serve the student body in the largest way possible. In order to do this, it is necessary to have every table full, for then only can the best food and service be given the patrons.

Those who can are asked to board at this institutional table and those who find that impossible are requested, for the sake of the University, to do what they can for the betterment of

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS THURSDAY

NINE GAMES IN SOUTH

Fine Material Makes Hard Choosing —Grand Tour Starts Monday.

The baseball season opens next week with the Southern trip. The first game will be with Trinity College at Durham, N. C. The twelve men who will take the trip have not been finally chosen as we go to press. The squad has been cut to 19 men this week. Coach George Winter will pick the team to-day, and the twelve men, the coach, and Manager Moore will leave for the South on Monday noon for a nine-game trip.

The nineteen men who survived the cut in the squad are all top-notchers, and Coach Winter is pleased at their work and the prospects for the season. Most of the men are hitting well. The pitching staff will be much stronger than last year. The seven pitching candidates include Malcolm, Gilbert, Ellis and Upham of last year, and Spear, Denning and Burleson, three promising freshmen. Mayforth, Brown and Murnane are competing for catcher's position. Captain Berry, Fraser, Linnehan, Lyons and Maiden of former teams, and Merrill and Mandeville of the freshmen are in line for infield positions. Fitzpatrick and Gallagher are outfield candidates.

The team leaves for New York on Monday noon, March 23. After half a day in New York they will leave on Tuesday afternoon for Durham, N. C., the longest jump of the trip. After a day of limbering up, they will play Trinity College on the 26th. The following day comes the game with North Carolina A. & M. College at Raleigh. The University of North Carolina will be played at Chapel Hill on the 28th.

The next long jump comes on Sunday. Arriving at Lexington, Va., the varsity will play Washington & Lee on Monday, the 30th. The University of Virginia are our opponents on the following day at Charlottesville, Va.

Washington, D. C., will then be the headquarters of the team for four days. The games are Georgetown University on April 1st; Mt. St. Mary's College at Emmitsburg, Md.; the Washington American League team at Washington; Catholic University at Washington on April 4th. The team will reach New York April 5th, where the trip ends, and the boys return home for the remainder of the vacation.

The trip is better arranged in every way than any former Southern trip. The long jumps are few, and the nine games should put the men in fine shape

TRACK MEET TO-NIGHT.

Eleven Events—Three Medals—Dancing Follows.

The annual interclass track meet will be held in the university gymnasium to-night, games to be called at eight o'clock, sharp.

The events in the order in which they will be called are as follows:

30-yard hurdles, 25-yard dash, shot put, 880-yard run, pole vault, sack race (88 yards), potato race (440 yards) high dive, mile run, running high jump, obstacle race.

As yet there are only sixteen or seventeen entries, and there are three medals to be awarded. The medals, which are gold, silver and bronze, are to be awarded to the three highest point winners. These medals are now on exhibition in the trophy room.

The indoor 30 yds. hurdle should prove an interesting event; Hayden will run in the mile; the sack and potato races and high dive add to the variety; and the 25-yd. dash between Bolster, Patterson and Woodbury will be close. Dancing is to follow the events.

OUT OF DOORS CLUB MEETS AND ORGANIZES

Mountain Climbing, Water Sports and Winter Sports Will be Promoted.

About forty men attended the initial meeting of the "Out of Doors Club of Vermont," as it was decided to call it, last Wednesday afternoon. The meeting opened with a practical talk by Mr. Page on the Dartmouth Outing Club. Captain Reeves followed with a short speech in behalf of such an organization, and a constitution was adopted.

A tax of twenty-five cents per member was decided upon for the rest of this year. Any Vermont student, faculty member, or alumnus may become an inactive member by paying this fee, or an active member by paying the fee and accomplishing a hike to Mansfield or Camel's Hump, or taking three regular hikes with the club. There will be a regular out of doors meeting every two weeks. The club's work was divided into three branches—mountain climbing, winter sports and water sports.

R. M. Olzendam, '15, was elected president; Professor R. D. Thomson, vice-president, with supervision over mountain climbing; H. A. Mack, '16, vice-president, with supervision over winter sports; and J. W. Baker, '15, vice-president, having supervision over water sports; A. D. Seaver, '16, secretary-treasurer.

Pamphlets and active membership certificates are to be printed.

MEDICAL COLLEGE NEEDS MORE SUPPORT

"A" RATING IS PRECARIOUS

Dean Tinkham Says That a $200,000 Hospital and Doubled Appropriations Must Be Secured.

Dean H. C. Tinkham of the College of Medicine made public on Thursday the requirements which the college would have to fulfill in order to remain "Class A" and in order to continue its existence. The National Council requires that the medical college shall have clinical facilities consisting of 200 beds; the annual appropriations must be increased from $23,500 to about $50,000. The two local hospitals now have 200 beds, but only 100 are at the disposal of the medical clinics. A new hospital must therefore be provided, at a cost of about $200,000. The occasion of these announcements was the Thursday luncheon of the Burlington Merchants' Association, where Dr. Tinkham's remarks received careful attention and carried conviction.

After a brief history of medical education in which he showed the need of uniform standards Dr. Tinkham touched upon the latest Carnegie report, which he said naturally enough reiterated its arbitrary position of 1909 in which the Foundation said that two medical colleges were enough for New England, and designated Harvard and Yale. Mr. Pritchett's final position is that no matter what the state does, Vermont can not have a satisfactory medical school. He also says that the state can not afford to support higher education. He is human, and is possibly mistaken in both of these statements.

After telling of the need of increased hospital facilities and appropriations in order to remain in Class A, Dean Tinkham said that we were just over the line on our "A" rating, and must obtain evidences of the needed support before next February if the college is to continue.

"Is it worth while to the state?" he asked. He gave three reasons why he thought it was. First, it stimulates professional activity among physicians of the state and keeps them up to date. Second, it is of immense value to educate the men of the state in the state to practice in the state. The Carnegie report doesn't think this applies to doctors, but lays emphasis upon the desirability of such training for secondary school teachers. Educate Vermonters in the cities and many do not return. Of the 741 doctors in the state, Columbia claims 17, Harvard less, Yale 3, Johns Hopkins 1. "Is it better to

ALFRED NOYES COMING.

Distinguished Young Poet to Lecture Under University Auspices.

Alfred Noyes, the famous young English poet, will speak in Burlington on the evening of April 8, the first night after college opens. The reading will be in the high school assembly hall, and will be given under the auspices of the Phi Beta Kappa society of the university. Admission will be fifty cents.

Mr. Noyes has delivered many lectures in this country during the past two years. College men have been especially interested in him. His three appearances at Dartmouth met with great enthusiasm on the part of the whole student body. A brief sketch of his life and works will be found on page three.

TRIANGULAR DEBATE NEXT WEDNESDAY

Philippine Question Debated by Vermont Colleges—Norwich Comes Here.

Wednesday night, Mar. 25, the eve before the closing of college for spring recess will witness the first intercollegiate debate at Vermont for almost a decade. The Vermont team is composed of M. D. Powers, '15, Hunt, '15 and Bailey, '15. The debate will be held in the high school auditorium and the men will speak in the order named. They have the affirmative side of the question: Resolved, That Congress should pass a joint resolution definitely promising Filipino independence, ten years hence. Norwich will be their opponents.

That same night Dean, '15, Chatterton, '17 and Prindle, '15 will be representing Vermont at Middlebury on the negative side of the question.

Middlebury will also have another team in the field, debating Norwich at Norwich.

Each man will be given ten minutes for opening speech and six minutes for rebuttal.

The judges will be prominent men from without the state. Not all are announced as yet. No admission will be charged to the debate.

KAKE WALK NETS $630.

The net returns from the Kake Walk will be about $630, according to a recent statement of Chairman Whalen. One expense item is not yet adjusted. These figures are much above the average.

Buffalo Alumni Meeting.

The Western New York Alumni held their annual banquet last night at the University Club in Buffalo. President Benton and Dean Tinkham spoke.

SOPHOMORE HOP ENJOYED BY MANY

Seventy-five Couples Attend—Decorations in Excellent Taste Add to Success of Function.

Last Friday night the class of 1916 held the annual sophomore hop in the gymnasium, and a very delightful evening was spent. The student council's sanction of the one-step and hesitation waltz at the hop brought out fully seventy-five couples to participate in the new dancing steps. Adrian St. John and W. H. Boardman, members of the Boulder society, acted as floor marshals during the dance.

The gymnasium was prettily decorated with the class colors, green and white. From the running track green and white streamers were draped to meet at the center of the hall over a large light which furnished light for the orchestra. Robinson's orchestra consisting of seven pieces, furnished the music for an order of eighteen dances. The orchestra was situated in the center of the floor upon a raised platform banked on all sides with palms. Around the running track green and white lights were alternately placed.

Each fraternity had its booth gaily trimmed, some being especially clever in their construction.

The dance programmes consisted of card cases of white leather with the university seal and the class numerals on the front.

The patrons and patronesses were President and Mrs. Guy Potter Benton, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Clark, and Capt. and Mrs. Ira L. Reeves.

President John Berry of the class of 1916 and Miss Helen Rutter led the grand march, which started at nine o'clock, following a concert of an hour by the orchestra.

The hop committee consisted of Harold A. Mack, chairman, Charles F. Baldwin, Paul L. Ransom, Willard P. Leutze, Carl F. Robinson, Gladys M. Fauley, Agnes J. Miller and Constance Votey.

JUNIOR CLASS ELECTION.

Provision Made for Publicity Committee and Peerade.

At the meeting of the junior class held Monday morning J. B. Johnson was elected to the student council as engineer representative to fill the place of E. A. Currier. Provision was also made for the election of a publicity committee of five from the class whose work should be to create more interest in the work of the university. Baseball will be pushed, track and dramatics as well, and slides put on at the moving picture galleries advertising stunts pulled off down-town on the eve before big games, and various other attempts made to interest the townspeople in the college. There will be three junior week committees this year; a prom committee of ten a general committee of seven, and a peerade committee of five. It is thought that a big and successful peerade can be staged. Committee elections were held yesterday.

FOOTBALL DANCE PROPOSED.

A Function for Alumni Coaches' Expenses Planned.

The football men met on Wednesday and considered a plan for holding a large benefit dance, possibly a masquerade, in the gymnasium during the latter part of April. The proceeds will go to pay the expenses of assistant coaches next fall. About $40 is needed.

It is possible that the football team, the band, Boulder, Key and Serpent, and Ukma will all join in holding this dance. The financial advantages of both plans will be considered before the final plan is announced.

CHICAGO ALUMNI HOLD INFORMAL DINNER.

On the evening of March sixth, the Chicago Alumni Association held an informal dinner at the Hardware club. While the number present was not large, it was the general feeling that the gathering gave promise of a greater and more active interest in Vermont affairs on the part of the Chicago Alumni.

The post prandial exercises were entirely informal. The subject of the recent report by the Carnegie Foundation was introduced by President Taylor and became the theme of the talk for the evening. Indignation was expressed by many that the report did not recognize Vermont as the state university.

Arrangements were made for a round table every Friday noon at Rothchild's restaurant. The idea is that Vermont men in the business district of the city can drop in any Friday noon for luncheon and find other Vermont men. It is hoped that this will be the means of bringing U. V. M. men in Chicago and vicinity closer together, and that any out-of-town alumni will take advantage of these meetings to get acquainted when in the city.

The following were present: R. C. Sattley, '79; H. K. Tenney, '80; Rev. Edgar Beckwith, '82; Judge A. C. Barnes, '86; A. M. Taylor, '99; J. B. Porter, '00; H. B. Macrae, '03; C. P. Valleau, '06; C. H. Burke, '08; C. H. Copeland, '08; Dana H. Ferrin, '08; W. B. Derby, '11; Ralph W. Tomlinson, '11; Curtice N. Hitchcock, '13.

MEDICAL COLLEGE

NEEDS MORE SUPPORT.

(Continued from first page.) turn the young men out and trust in the Lord that they will come back doctors or that the people will not be sick?" Third, the doctors of the medical college are furnishing a gratuitous service to the poor of the state worth over 200,000 annually. A private medical school is not desirable. Medical education is the child of the state.

In return for the benefits which the medical college conferred upon Burlington he asked that the board of aldermen provide that charity cases under the city physician should be clinical cases; and that a detention hospital with 10 to 15 beds should be built by the city for patients with contagious diseases.

PROGRESS MADE TOWARD RUSHING SYSTEM.

Five Rules Passed by Conference Subject to Fraternity Ratification

The Interfraternity Conference adopted five rules Thursday night which will be the backbone of a fraternity rushing system next fall, if ratified by the several fraternities. Not all the rules necessary for a satisfactory rushing plan were passed, but it is hoped that more of the important details may be fixed at the next meeting. The rules are as follows:

1. No invitation to membership in any fraternity of the conference shall be given to any person who is not regularly enrolled as a student.

2. No invitation to membership shall be extended to any student until the first week of November, the final date to be decided each year by the Conference.

3. Every invitation to membership shall be in writing, and upon printed forms furnished by the Secretary of the Conference; invitations not accepted shall be returned; invitations must be delivered in person.

4. Any student who shall leave college after being pledged, but before being initiated, shall be automatically released from his pledge after an absence of six months, and if he returns to college shall be open to invitations from any fraternity.

5. The Constitution and By-Laws shall be printed and a copy placed in the hands of every person who enters the college as a student. It shall be the duty of the secretary of the Conference to see that this is done. The Conference shall choose some person to present and explain the rules at a mass meeting of the freshmen at the beginning of each college year.

Rules limiting the period and times of the entertainment before the invitation date were discussed, as were also the penalties for violations of the rules. The medical fraternities asked that they be allowed at a later time to introduce certain rules which should apply to medic pledging only.

The Conference met at Sigma Phi Place. The next meeting will be at the Lambda Iota House, probably on April 15.

Military Notes.

The University Battalion turned out St. Patrick's day at the special request of Mayor Burke. By the courtesy of Colonel Nicholson of the Second Cavalry horses were furnished gratis for the staff officers and Captain Reeves, who has received many pleasing testimonies of the fine showing which the battalion made in the parade.

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS

With a big attendance at this game, the trip will not drain the athletic treasury to any great extent. William E. Whalen, '14, is planning to accompany the team.

THE BEST HOT SODA

SERVED IN THE BEST WAY

This is the verdict of all who drink a glass of Hot Soda

AT CHURCHILL'S

ALFRED NOYES.

"Poets among the best sellers," sounds strange and improbable to American ears. Yet two contemporary English poets, Alfred Noyes and John Masefield, have made the phrase entirely appropriate. The first of these has gained a following of readers perhaps more numerous and enthusiastic than any poet since the palm days of Kipling. His lecturing tour through America has been signally successful, especially at the universities and colleges; and now he has been appointed a visiting professorship at Princeton. At home, he has been hailed by any critics, including the fastidious Winburne, as the foremost English lyric poet of today. Popularity and general recognition would unquestionably confirm this estimate.

Alfred Noyes was born in Staffordshire, England, in 1880. His boyish interest in verse-making was pronounced, his first long poem being composed when he was only fourteen. His first published poem appeared in the London Times in 1889, at which time he was in Exeter College, Oxford. In Oxford, it appears, he was less famous as a poet than as an athlete, being an enthusiastic oarsman. Reminiscences of the college boat races color some characteristic lines in his poetry. After leaving the university, he turned seriously to poetry as a profession, refusing to enter any occupation that might distract him from it. His success has justified his singleness of purpose. He has already published some ten volumes of verse, including nearly every type of poetry. He married, in 1917, Miss Daniels of Washington, the daughter of an American army officer. Versatility, fluency and technical skill are characteristic of Noyes's work. His most perfect pieces are probably lyric: one may without exaggeration compare his mastery of melody in his best lyric work to that of Swinburne; while the freshness and beauty of such charming lyrics as "Kimmeridge in Dorset" (in Tales of the Mermaid Tavern) lift the author's work well above the level of merely graceful verse. Sherwood, his poetical drama, is a romantic picture of Robin Hood and his band, with the lyric element perhaps more successful than the dramatic. His most ambitious effort is the epic Drake, a tale of the famous voyage of the Golden Hynde and of the destruction of the Spanish Armada. The narrative is well sustained, the management of the blank verse skillful, and the songs often very effective. The distinctive note, as befits an epic, is national glory and individual heroism. To many, Tales of the Mermaid Tavern will seem his most interesting work. We are introduced to the old Mermaid in the days of the marvellous circle that made it famous. The author has had the audacity to mingle with the demi-gods and to present them to us face to face. Ben Jonson, Marlowe, Greene, Sir Walter Raleigh—even Shakespeare—share again in song and tale before the Mermaid replace. It is high praise of a poet to say that in such a daring attempt he has in a large measure succeeded. In spirit, Alfred Noyes represents the older poetry. He is not a realist striving to extract poetry from the mud; but a romanticist with an imagination full of the splendor of the past or of an idealized present. The fact of England's greatness bulks large in his imagination; yet he is as far as the poles from the imperialism of Kipling. Universal peace is his frequent theme, and inspires some of his best lines. He stands for the traditional melody and beauty of poetry, for romantic imagination, for the ideal of an elevated and united humanity, and—as he has expressly told us—for the insistence on the relation of poetry to life.

It should be a matter of satisfaction to Americans that a poet of such significance should have aroused so genuine an interest in America; especially is it gratifying that the students of our colleges have had so general an opportunity of hearing a foremost workman in that field of literature usually considered the highest and the most difficult.

The West Today.

Captain Reeves delivered the first of a series of Y. M. C. A. lectures on "The West Today" on Wednesday night. He did not attempt to compare it with the East in many respects, and he said that western progress came through an interchange of ideas rather than through a different and more original and progressive type of people. He disillusioned those who believed in the west as pictured in the "movies." Only irrigable land is open for new homesteads now, he said.

He dwelt in turn upon the educational, social, vocational, industrial, political, and geographical features of the west. He closed with a few pictures upon the screen.

Hospital Corps Organized.

A Hospital Corps has been organized composed of the Pre-Medics and seven year men. The organization will conform to the sanitary troops of a regiment of infantry.

Dr. F. E. Clark has received a special appointment from President Wilson giving him the rank of major and surgeon. He will have entire charge of the instruction and will be assisted by Captain C. A. Van Cor, who will have the title assistant surgeon. One or two senior medics may be lieutenants and assistant surgeons.

The following are sergeants: H. A. Johnson, '16; A. E. Perley, '16; W. M. Emerson, '17; A. E. Mandeville, '17; L. J. Menard, '17. The three latter named have had previous military training. They will have instruction once a week during the Tuesday period. The other two periods a week the individual will report to his regular company. The instruction will conform as much as possible to the civilian course and it is planned to use the members of the corps to instruct the entire battalion in first aid work later in the year.

Slide Rule Lecture Monday.

Professor R. D. Thomson will give his opening lecture of the series explaining the slide rule on next Monday night at eight o'clock in the Science Hall. It was postponed from last week on account of Captain Reeves' lecture.

THE REAL SUMMER SCHOOL*FACULTY.*Some Changes From Last Year.

The report of the faculty and courses of the Summer School last week was a bit of absolute fact, but was ancient history instead of live news. The YNIC reporter carefully lifted one of last year's catalogs and accurately copied all the important features thereof. There are some changes from last year. We print the entire faculty here. The special lecturers have been previously announced.

Professor J. F. Messenger is Director of the Summer School and Professor of Education. Professors W. J. Jacobs of Brown, Edwin A. Kirkpatrick of State Normal School, Fitchburg, Mass., and William S. Monroe of State Normal School, Montclair, N. J., will also give courses in the department of Education.

Courses in Latin and German will be offered by Professors Ogle and Appelmann of the local faculty. French will be in charge of Professor Charles M. Underwood of Simmons College. English courses will be given by Professor Robert T. Kerlin of Virginia Military Institute and Professor Wellington E. Aiken of the local faculty.

Professor Samuel F. Emerson will give courses in history and sociology. Professor George G. Groat will give the Economics courses.

Professor Evan Thomas is in charge of Mathematics.

Professor George P. Burns and Mr. Arne K. Peitersen will instruct in Botany. Professor Henry F. Perkins will offer courses in Zoology.

Physics and Chemistry will be taught respectively by Professor William H. Freedman and Professor Henry E. Williams of the university.

Professor Floyd B. Jenks will teach Agricultural Education. A course in elementary agriculture will also be offered.

Miss Mary G. Griggs of the Atlanta Art School will teach Public School Drawing. A course in the Palmer method of Penmanship will be given.

Mr. Scott C. Carbee of Boston will have charge of the Art department. Mrs. Mabel E. Stone will instruct in physical education.

The Department of Music will offer three courses. Violin study will be in charge of Messrs. Alfred Larsen and Rudolph Larsen. Mr. Charles Lee Tracy of New York and Mrs. John W. Nichols will teach piano. John W. Nichols will instruct in vocal music.

The Department of Speaking and Expression will be in charge of Dr. Samuel S. Curry of Boston, President of the Curry School of Expression. Miss Anna H. Allen of Smith College and Professor Victor H. Hoppe of Denison University will also give courses in this department.

The Special lectures cover a wide range of subjects. There will be lectures on the American Constitution, educational problems, stories and story telling, archaeology, Art, American Balladry, and several other subjects.

Commencement Comes Wednesday,
JUNE 24.

No Cynic During Vacation.

The CYNIC will not appear for two weeks, because of the spring vacation. The April 11 number will contain a full report of the baseball southern trip, the musical clubs trip, the track meet and the intercollegiate debates.

A Real Need.

Last fall at the close of the tennis season the CYNIC advocated a few new policies in the management of the tennis courts. Three first class courts seemed necessary to meet the student demand, and three first class courts seemed a possibility to maintain. If this is an impossible request to grant, we suggested pay courts, charging about ten cents an hour for their use. It is better to provide for such things now, rather than to spend the first half of the season promising and anticipating, and the last half of the season vainly regretting. We therefore ask the athletic committee or the buildings and grounds committee or both, "Will three first class tennis courts be maintained from about April 15 to about October 30?" An authoritative answer to this question is considered by a large number of students to be really important.

The CYNIC evidently misinterpreted the feeling of the student body when it strongly advocated the development of inter-class hockey, looking toward varsity hockey in the near future. It is plain that most of the student body rather let someone else do all the work and exercise in the winter time, all the time for that matter. There were so few hockey enthusiasts, and the Ukma and Key and Serpent societies showed so little energy in the matter, that we are as far as ever from college hockey. Perhaps we are over-emphasizing the interest of the student body in tennis and in decent tennis courts, but we think not. If we are correct in our assumptions, it remains for every tennis player in the college to bring pressure to bear upon the members of the athletic and buildings and grounds committees.

The Coming Debate.

The intercollegiate debate on next Wednesday night is a revival of debating after five years' inactivity. It is planned as a beginning of intercollegiate debating and not as an ending. The composition of the teams, including as they do men from all classes but the senior class would indicate that we are developing good debating talent early and that we can reasonably expect a prosperous future for debating interests. No student now in college has had the opportunity of attending an intercollegiate debate in Vermont; the novelty of the event should attract every one. The reasonable prospect of a victory over Norwich in the Burlington debate should help to swell the attendance. But above all, individual student loyalty and support for something besides athletics, and an appreciation of the months of hard work which the debaters have put into their work—these should call out the entire student body at the high school assembly hall next Wednesday night.

The Class of 1918.

In less than a week Easter vacation will be upon us. In less than three weeks the vacation will be over. Within this short period the activity of the students who return home for vacation in telling sub-freshmen of Vermont and her advantages will have great influence in determining the size and personnel of the class of 1918 at the university. A large proportion of prep school seniors decide the college question before next June. This is the last opportunity to tell many men about the university. The importance of personal missionary work during the coming vacation can not be over-emphasized. If every student will feel his responsibility in this matter and will discharge his duty during the coming vacation, he will find the vacation much more satisfactory in every respect.

The Military Camp.

There is little likelihood that the students of the university will fail to consider the advantages of the military camp next summer in solving the vacation problem. If any are failing to give it proper consideration, they should notice the way in which it is being advertised in other colleges, and note the interest which is being aroused in some of the other New England colleges. The Harvard Crimson makes this editorial comment upon the camps:

"On Thursday evening Major-General Wood, U. S. A., spoke on the subject of the Military Instruction Camps. The camp at Burlington, Vermont, which is the one of the five that Harvard students would naturally join, will be held for only five weeks, allowing ample time for other possible summer undertakings; the expenses of the outing will be so slight that the experience is possible for practically everyone; the work will not be so strenuous that it is devoid of enjoyment; the wide variety of the training will render it worth while whether the country is ever at war or not. The military camps furnish a solution of the summer problem worthy of much consideration, particularly for those who are still without plans."

As might be expected, some peace cranks are protesting against the student camps. In the face of the present Mexican situation, they have been easily silenced.

Alumni and the Cynic.

We wish to call the attention of all student and alumni readers to the efforts which the CYNIC has been making during the past year to interest the alumni. Complaints had been made that the paper did not interest alumni readers, and that the news was written as if every reader knew it all anyway. We have been trying to meet both of these criticisms. Most of the letters which we have received from alumni express pleasure at the character of the paper and the progress which we are making. The fact remains, however, that we have about 250 subscribers out of about 3,300 alumni. Does it occur to some of our readers that they can help increase this number? Are there some of our readers who know alumni who are not sufficiently interested in the college and its progress, in the student activities, and in the other alumni? If you do not know half a dozen such alumni you are an exceptional reader or you know exceptional alumni. If you do know such men, consider whether their interest in the college can not be strengthened by keeping informed about it; and consider if the CYNIC in its present form is not the best medium for keeping them informed and interested. If you are a student and believe in the college and its newspaper will you not hand a copy of the paper to one of your parents or some of your alumni acquaintances and tell them some of the benefits which they may gain from a subscription. If you are an alumnus and have any convictions on the matter, will you not go out of your way to bring other alumni into touch with the college through the CYNIC. We have not called attention editorially to ourselves, our finances, or our purposes for a number of weeks. On this subject we crave your attention and your co-operation.

Condensed U. V. M. Lore.

One can not do better than to turn to the 1905 Ariel, the Centennial number, if he wishes to learn a few interesting facts about the university's history and information about a number of the most prominent living alumni. Beginning with page 208 this Ariel has thirty exceedingly interesting and valuable pages. It will make one a better Vermont man to read them. With the college generations changing every four years, it is hard to develop and keep any historians. These pages will tell one a few things he may have wondered about and will start him thinking about some things which never occurred to him before. You will find the 1905 Ariel in the Vermont room of the Billings Library.

J. P. TAYLOR SPEAKS ON "GREATER VERMONT."

Mr. J. P. Taylor, secretary of the Greater Vermont Association, addressed the members of the college Y. M. C. A. last Tuesday evening on what the Greater Vermont Association is doing to improve the state, and the lines which they are following in this connection. He outlined the relation of the citizen to city, to county, to state, and dealt at length with moral conditions in this state, and the possibility of improving them.

Mr. Taylor said that organization was the only intelligent and practicable means of making a "Greater Vermont," and that the chief function of these various organizations was to create publicity. He commended the work of the few organizations throughout the state, and declared himself ready to cooperate with them in this work.

"If Vermont men," said Mr. Taylor, "would show the same qualities on their own soil as they have displayed outside the state, Vermont would be the center of attention."

Mr. Taylor is an outdoor enthusiast, and voiced his approbation of an outing club here at Vermont, hoping one would be soon organized, imitating the strong Dartmouth aggregation. "No chap," said Mr. Taylor, "should be graduated from Vermont without having had some experiences in tramping our mountains." Mr. Taylor is a loyal worker in whatever field he enters.

Dr. Barnes led the meeting in the absence of the president, Schoff, '14. The attendance was large.

Council Grants Dates.

At the student-faculty council meeting held last Friday dates were granted to the young woman of Howard Hall for an entertainment, to the Catholic Club for a dance in the gymnasium, and to Lambda Iota for a party.

Y. W. C. A. Meeting.

The Y. W. C. A. held its weekly meeting Friday afternoon, March 13. Miss Lou Fullington, '15, was the leader; her subject was "The Present Evil Tendencies Among College Girls." The meeting for this week was held Friday afternoon, March 20, in the Old Mill. The president of the Y. W. C. A. gave a detailed report of the annual meeting of the members of the northeast division of the Y. W. C. A., held last week at the national headquarters in New York City for the purpose of discussing plans and policies for the future. The annual election of officers took place also.

Mt. Hermon Club.

At the last monthly meeting of the Mt. Hermon Club officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: President, R. A. Healy; vice-president, B. E. Howe; secretary-treasurer, F. R. Churchill; executive member, R. S. Ely.

ST. PAUL'S CLUB MEETS.

Several Topics of National Interest Discussed.

The St. Paul's Club of the university met Monday evening in the Kappa Sigma rooms. The date for the next university service was set for May 31. The organization of the out-of-door club, which was organized in the college chapel at 4:10 Wednesday was discussed. L. D. Soper gave an interesting account of the twelfth annual student churchmen's conference, held at Amherst, to which he was a delegate. The society voted to extend an invitation to the conference to assemble in Burlington next year and a committee was appointed to communicate this invitation to the proper persons.

The subject for discussion was "The Independence of Our American Colleges." L. D. Soper gave a brief history of the Carnegie Foundation, to open the discussion. Other speakers were the Rev. George Y. Bliss, the Rev. C. C. Wilson, H. E. Small and Roy D. Sawyer. J. W. Baker defended some phases of the report and urged the students to fight indeed, but more for the university than against the report. The Rev. George Davenport of Newton Center, Mass., spoke with much enthusiasm and very interestingly of the mission field abroad and at home.

An invitation was extended for the next meeting, Monday, April 20, to be held at the Lambda Iota house.

Travel Club Meets.

The different sections of the Travel Club met in two divisions at the homes of Miss Whitting and Miss Benedict, Saturday afternoon, March 14, when they made a study of England with especial emphasis on the lake country and the universities of Oxford and Cambridge. At the next meeting to be held April 11, the last regular meeting of the year, Professor Tupper will lecture on England.

The Prohibition Question.

Mr. Neill Crammer, formerly managing editor of the Syracuse Daily Orange, spoke at the chapel service Monday in behalf of the Intercollegiate Prohibition League. The Y. M. C. A. has decided to take the matter up under a special committee, and an organization will be formed under its direction.

Pre-Medic Banquet.

The Pre-Medic Club held a banquet at the Phi Chi house last Tuesday evening. It was decided that the club should support a baseball team from its members, and Gilbert Houston was elected captain, with E. L. Mott, manager. A musical program was rendered.

Classical Club.

An unusually large meeting of the Classical Club was held last Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Ruth O'Sullivan. An interesting reading was rendered by Miss Florence O'Sullivan, college songs were sung, and refreshments served.

Ex-1911. Walter Maun has moved to Evanston, Ill. Address: 915 Reba Place.

Debating Club Meeting.

The weekly debating club meeting opened with a general discussion as to whether a man who had served time as a criminal should be trusted by the public sufficiently to elect him to an office such as the mayoralty of Boston.

The debate of the evening was: Resolved, That the U. S. should appropriate money for national roads. The affirmative was upheld by Davis and Piper, the negative by Howe and Ellis. The affirmative won. A business meeting followed.

Jones, '17, Crane, '15, Churchill, '17, and Grismer, '16, have recently been admitted to the club.

Everybody is cordially invited to the program meetings which are held every Monday night; the business meetings which follow are closed except to members of the club.

TRI DELTS HOLD INITIATION.

Eta Chapter of Delta Delta Delta held its annual initiation Saturday evening, March 14. The initiates, all members of the freshman class were: Marjorie Fletcher of Helena, N. Y., Gladys Hunt and Blanche Montgomery of Burlington, Fairfax Sherburne of Pomfret, Zilpha Ranney of Pittsfield and Alsey Young of Orleans. The initiation banquet was held at Hotel Vermont, covers being laid for forty. Miss Carrie Deavitt of Montpelier acted as toastmistress, and toasts were responded to by Ruth Rogers, '14; Blanche Montgomery, '17; Marjorie Luce, '16; Marjorie Hayden, '16; Hazel Spinney, '15; Mrs. Evelyn Enright Lindsay; Marguerite Jones, '11; Mrs. L. M. Simpson; Mrs. B. F. Lutman; Mrs. W. L. Fulton and Miss Woods of Beta Chapter. Other alumnae from out of town who were present were: Josephine Dana, '11 of Randolph; Grace Gates, '12, of Morrisville; May Campbell, '11, of Bethel; Katherine Graves, '13, of Wells River and Mrs. Bertram Eno of Vergennes.

MUSICAL CLUBS' EASTER TRIP.

Southern Vermont and Western Massachusetts in the Itinerary.

The combined musical clubs of the university leave on the 11.55 train Monday morning, March 23, for their annual Easter trip. There are twenty-two men who will make the trip and they will give their first concert on Monday night in Rutland. A dance will follow. Tuesday night they play in Belows Falls, and in Brattleboro Wednesday night. They then go into Massachusetts and give their concert in Greenfield on Thursday evening and in Orange Friday evening. There is a possibility of their playing in Marlboro Saturday, but nothing as yet has been decided.

This trip has long been looked forward to and is the longest one of the season and it is hoped that it will be the most pleasant and successful.

The following men will take the trip: S. P. Johnson, French, Hayden, Dow, Hurley, Weeks, Best, Lovejoy, Olzendam, E. W. Ellis, Swett, Williams, Seaver, Ballard, Powers, Gordon, Taplin, Paulson, E. J. Ellis, Voorhies and Roberts.

Nineteen fourteen will turn out 21 teachers and 14 engineers according to a recent canvass conducted among the seniors by the Cynic. The future plans of the members were asked, although no effort was made to find out how many had secured positions. In the case of a few, merely personal preferences were given, for they had taken no steps to get definite employment, and were not even positively decided as to the general line of activity into which they would enter.

After teaching and engineering comes business with ten men and two women. Fourth comes farming into which seven men are planning to enter. Chemistry comes fifth; five men expect to go into chemistry work.

PRESIDENT ALEY OPENS TEACHERS' CONFERENCE

"The School And Community Needs"
the Main Topic for Discussion.

The ninth annual conference of the Vermont schools with the University was held Mar. 12th, 13th and 14th. The attendance was large, and the topics discussed, the future of the state college, and the school in its relation to the community, are especially important here and now, inasmuch as Vermont has gone about solving her educational problems in a way which is as yet unique, and the report of the Carnegie Foundation is being discussed from one end of Vermont to the other and by educators everywhere.

President Robert J. Aley of the University of Maine opened the conference with an able address upon "Education and the State." He said in part: In a democracy, education of all the people is a necessity. Education has gradually passed from private hands to those of the State. The wisdom of each step in the process has been questioned endlessly, but it has continued nevertheless. Elementary and secondary education is almost entirely a public affair. We have come to look with equanimity upon the taking over by the state of many kinds of activity once supposed to be purely individual and private. Our age depends upon knowledge as no other has. The exhaustion of our natural resources and the keenness of competition in the modern business world render necessary the wide diffusion of that kind of knowledge which has to do with efficiency and the elimination of waste. Changing economic conditions create new and vast social and political problems, and these problems call for leaders, men who can both think clearly and act decisively. Now higher education dominated by the church or by private money cannot furnish such leaders nearly so well as higher education, in the hands of the state, supported by all the people, and helping all the people in turn by the discovery and application and knowledge and the making of men. The field of knowledge is growing wider day by day, and the hunger for it, instead of becoming sated, grows by what it feeds upon.

The State better than any other agency can perform the three-fold task of diffusing and simplifying the knowledge we have and of stimulating that thirst for knowledge for its own sake, which has been so important a factor in the progress of civilization. "I venture to predict that higher education is still in its infancy for the states which have done the most for it." The States that are doing the most for higher education have received the most from it. Wisconsin, relying upon its experts and its university-trained men, has led the country in constructive legislation. That State is using its university as it ought to use it. The State ought to use its own instruments. The state has a right to call upon its own for service. The State university will have a greater career than any of us have yet dreamed of. In all the States in the Union, where there is not a state university now, influences are at work which will tend to create them in the future.

The morning session of the second day was given over to the subject of the "School as a Social Center." The question was ably discussed by representatives of the schools, the Y. M. C. A., and the State Federation of Women's Clubs from different parts of the state. The church is not satisfactory as a social center, because people of different sects often refuse to unite at any one church. The school-house is the logical place for circulating libraries, agricultural fairs, lyceums and lecture courses. It is the logical center for all the activities which tend to make life in the country a life better worth living and to provide such opportunities for country young people that they will be willing to stay and develop their own state.

The school must be used as a means to get people to rub shoulders with each other and to break up the isolation which often leads to misunderstanding and hatred. The last speaker emphasized the good results that can be obtained by a proper attention to the question and urged her hearers to delay no longer.

"The School and Vocational Training" was the theme for discussion at the afternoon session, the address being given by Prof. G. G. Groat of the University of Vermont. Professor Groat said in opening his argument: "the fundamental basis of the issue of vocational training and the schools is to be found in the fact, equally fundamental, that in furthering human welfare society has not yet attained command over the forces of nature sufficient to warrant any relaxation in its effort to supply wants." With this as a basis, Professor Groat went on to discuss the different aspects of vocational training in its relation to the schools. A general discussion of the subject brought the afternoon session to a close and an informal reception at the home of President and Mrs. Benton followed.

The School Masters' Club held the annual banquet on Friday night. The Carnegie report was discussed. The teachers considered it well written but full of impracticable suggestions.

The conference was closed Saturday morning with a round table conference on the teaching of agriculture in the secondary schools of the state.

Make-Up Exams.

Examinations for the removal of first half conditions commence Monday morning, April 6, and close Tuesday afternoon, April 7. All examinations will be given in Science Hall, beginning at 9 a. m. and 2 p. m. A list is posted on the bulletin board.

Tennis Practice.

Daily tennis practice is being held at the gymnasium. About ten candidates are out getting into the swing of things, and practicing the various strokes. Now that the men are trying to do some indoor work the lack of a court on the gym floor is very apparent.

Velvet

THE
TOBACCO

MUSIC hath charms—add a pipeful of Velvet and you are a whole orchestra. Such is the pleasure of good tobacco. Velvet, the tenderest leaf—aged in the old warehouse for two years—a slow, sombre, time-process of mellowing—in which all harshness is lost—the flavor toned, sweetened, made exquisitely smooth. A smoke without bite—music without discord! Velvet is known to be the most carefully matured smoking tobacco—only time can produce its delights—only patience insures its pleasures. All yours!

LOCALS.

Professor Ogle speaks to-night before the Faculty Club.

Professor Bassett has been out of town a few days the past week.

The "Seen-er hats" are on exhibition at the college store. Admission is free.

Miss Mabel Watts, '15, has returned from Syracuse, N. Y., where she attended the Kappa Alpha Theta district convention held at that place.

Miss Ruth Catlin, Miss Agnes Miller, '16, and Miss Ruth Stuart, '17, are in Canton, N. Y., where they are attending the installation of the New York Gamma Chapter of Pi Beta Phi, which was originally the Omega Gamma Sigma fraternity of St. Lawrence University.

Prof. Slocum has been confined to the house by illness for a week.

Prof. Rich delivered a lecture at M. A. C. last Tuesday evening.

The senior class held a meeting on Thursday. Class finances were discussed. The student council's plan was endorsed. Chairman Hicks of the cap and gown committee announced that all who wish gowns for Founder's day must order them and give their measurements to the committee before vacation. It was moved that the president appoint a committee to draw up resolutions for permanent organization of the class. The president announced that he would appoint all the remaining committees of the year before vacation.

The CYNIC board, managers and news editors, will meet on Friday, April 10 at 4.15 in A North to elect editor-in-chief, managers, and managing editor for next year. The new board will assume its duties on May 11.

President Benton went to Boston last Friday to attend a Phi Delta Theta meeting.

COMMONS HALL To the Men of "Old Vermont"

Commons Hall is now under University management and it is the desire of the authorities to make the Hall serve the student body in the largest way possible. In order to do this, it is necessary to have every table full, for then only can the best food and service be given the patrons.

Those who can are asked to board at this institutional table and those who find that impossible are requested, for the sake of the University, to do what they can for the betterment of

The baseball team of the university in its southern trip, beginning March 23, and ending April 4, played seven college games, winning three, losing three, and breaking even in one. The Georgetown game was cancelled on account of rain, and the game with Washington American League team resulted in the literal swamping of the college team during the seven disastrous innings played. The result of the trip is very satisfactory in view of the fact that the team had had absolutely no outside work in preparation, while on the other hand the southern colleges had been practising two or three weeks. The record compares favorable with that of the team of two years ago, their trip recording two victories, two defeats, and one tie.

The team played excellent ball on the trip, and two of the three defeats were lost by one run. In both games this run came in or after the ninth inning.

The work of the new men upon the team was especially pleasing to Coach Winter. The freshmen pitchers, Spear and Denning, pitched fine ball, and together with the veterans, Malcolm and Gilbert, will form a quartet of box artists the equal of that of any college

STUDENT MILITIA ORGANIZING. Company C, V. N. G., to Become a Student Company.

Adrian St. John, '14, who is acting captain of Company C of the Vermont National Guard, is engaged in changing the personnel of the company and forming a student militia company. Any underclassmen who wish to enter may see St. John at chapel hour in the officers' room in the gymnasium. There will be an opportunity for about 60 students to enter this company and to receive pay for certain of the drills which are already required in the military department of the university. The only additional requirements entailed by enlisting is attendance at the summer militia encampments. These occur annually, lasting two weeks. Next summer's camp will be held upon the coast of Maine. Uniforms are furnished free and additional pay is given during encampment.

ALFRED NOYES READS FROM HIS WORK

Brilliant Young Poet Holds Large Audience at His Reading Under Phi Beta Kappa Auspices.

Alfred Noyes, Litt. D., the well-known English poet, held captive the large audience which filled the assembly hall of the high school last Wednesday night. Mr. Noyes, who spoke under the auspices of the Phi Beta Kappa society, was very happily introduced by Professor Tupper. He spoke with an intimacy and presence, the charm of which was surpassed only by that of his reading. The listener, with no particular notion of the how or why of it, was fairly danced off his feet by the resonant earnestness, the unforced joyousness and the perfect lilt of the reader. "The Admiral's Ghost," "The Forty Singing Seamen," "The Barrel Organ," "The Origin of Life," "The Highwayman Came Riding," and a longer poem from "The Tales of the Mermaid Tavern" of Will Kemp, who danced from London to Norwich in nine days, were the selections read. He closed with two of his peace poems which were very powerful appeals for a cessation of militarism and an international peace policy. He is well known as a peace advocate, and these two poems with his introductory remarks left no doubt in the minds of his hearers as to his feeling in the matter.

There is nothing heavy or pompous about the man or his verse. It is clever workmanship, but clearly it is for the joy of perfect work.

Inspection May 15 and 16.

VERMONT BREAKS EVEN IN DEBATING MIDDLEBURY WINS BOTH

First Triangular League of Vermont Colleges Debates Philippine Question.

A strong forward step toward the revival of debating in the university and State of Vermont was manifested on Wednesday evening, March 25th, when a triangular intercollegiate debate was held between Norwich University, Middlebury College and the University of Vermont. Norwich met Middlebury at Northfield and the U. V. M. teams met Norwich at Burlington and Middlebury at Middlebury. Vermont won from Norwich and Middlebury won both of her debates. The question argued was: "Resolved, That the Congress of the United States should pass a joint resolution definitely promising independence to the Filipinos at a date not later than ten years in the future. The home team upheld the affirmative in all three debates. The debate with Norwich was held in the high school auditorium and a good sized audience attended this function.

The University of Vermont sustaining the affirmative side of the question was represented by M. D. Powers, J. S. Hunt, H. A. Bailey and P. H. Gates, alternate. The negative was sustained by Norwich University represented by O. E. Fisher, M. E. Foster, E. H. Brooks and W. C. Higgins, alternate.

President Benton presided and the judges were John W. Gordon of Barre, Vt., Rev. William P. Jackson of St. Albans, Vt., and Benjamin Gates of Montpelier, Vt.

The debate was closely contested and each side made a very creditable showing. The University of Vermont presented as their arguments: That it was generally recognized that we intend to grant the Filipinos their freedom sometime, and they showed that this was the opportune moment; that they have a capacity for self-government; that they desire independence; that we have not the moral right to withhold it from them; that their retention is disadvantageous both from a political and economic point of view. They furthermore showed that they were a gifted and intelligent people and had proven themselves capable of self-government both in their own government established in 1898, and by the number of offices which they hold under the present system; and that their integrity would be preserved through a neutralization policy.

Norwich University argued on the contrary: That the Filipinos were not capable of self-government in that they

JUNIOR MEETING.

Junior Week Committees Elected.

The junior class met on Friday, March 20th, at the chapel hour and elected the junior week committees, the publicity committee, and transacted other business. There were three junior week committees elected as follows: General committee, Bunce, Leffler, Mayforth, R. D. Smith, Johnson, Edgerton, Fisk, Grandy; peerade committee, Gardyne, Glidden, Knight, Ferrin, A. B. Taylor; prom committee, McCornick, Rich, J. Baker, Dow, Hayden, Malcolm, Olzendam. Misses Holton, McMahon and Spinney. It was voted to let the various committees elect their own chairmen. The following publicity committee was elected: Davis, Ferrin, Healy, Hunt, Gardyne, A. B. Taylor, Grandy. Davis told of some work which the publicity committee had already done, of necessity, in connection with the southern trip of the baseball team. A tax of 50 cents per member was voted to the publicity committee.

The date of junior week was considered, and finally it was decided to ask the student council for the three days beginning Wednesday, May 20, through Saturday, the 23rd.

The new financial plan of the student council was submitted to the class and endorsed unanimously.

MUSICAL CLUBS GIVE SIX CONCERTS

A Trip Through Southern Vermont and Western Massachusetts is Successful.

On Monday morning, March 23, the musical clubs left on the same train as the baseball team for the spring trip, which included six concerts—five in the evening and one in the afternoon.

Rutland was the first and largest city at which the clubs stopped. The concert was given in the high school assembly hall, and the large audience was appreciative of the entire program. After the concert a dance was held and the spirit of light fantastic showed itself. Many of the men now in college live in Rutland and the generous hospitality shown by the townspeople was greatly appreciated by the fellows.

The clubs arrived in Bellows Falls Tuesday and gave the concert there in the opera house. The audience though small, was enthusiastic, and several of the numbers were encored many times.

Brattleboro made an impression on the musicians that will remain for many days because of the enthusiasm with which they were received. At the request of the directors of the in the country. Fitzpatrick, the new outfielder, is playing a fine game, both in hitting and in fielding. Of the veterans, it is enough to say that they are all playing up to their standard of former years.

First Game Won.

The first game, that with Trinity College at Durham, N. C., was won by the score of 2-0. The team played fine ball in this game, and gave good support to Gilbert, who pitched 8 innings. Gilbert held the southerners to six scattered hits. Fraser and Fitzpatrick led in the hitting, each getting two singles to his credit. Malcolm, in the last inning, retired his three men successively, winning the applause of the crowd. The score:

A. AND M. TIED.

On Friday the team went to Raleigh and played a 7-7 tie game with North Carolina A. and M. College. In its report of the game, the Raleigh News and Observer says:

"In a game that furnished one of the most exciting endings, A. and M. saved itself from a sure defeat by the University of Vermont team yesterday by a beautiful ninth-inning rally, and turned what might have been a 7-5 defeat into a 7-7 tie. The work of Maiden, Fitzpatrick and Gallagher, was the feature of the visitors. Gallagher, in left field took care of everything that came his way. Maiden secured two hits out of four times at bat." Denning pitched good ball in the six innings that he worked. The game was called in the ninth on account of the darkness which had made it impossible for the Vermont fielders to see

N. C. UNIV. LOSES TIGHT GAME.

On Saturday the team gathered in a victory over the University of North Carolina by the score of 3-2. Spear, the freshman southpaw pitcher, was in the box for Vermont, and his work was the feature of the game. He held the North Carolina team to three scattered hits and had perfect control. Vermont fielded well in this game, the work of Capt Berry at first being especially good.

W. & L. WINS PITCHERS' BATTLE.

March 30 the team was defeated in a close game by Washington & Lee at Lexington, Va., by a score of 2-1. The team was tired out after a hard all day's journey on Sunday, and to make matters worse the game was played on a mud-covered field, making fast fielding impossible. The work of the two pitchers, Malcolm and Lile featured the game. W. & L. scored a one run lead in the second inning, which they held until the eighth, when Maiden laced the ball over the left field fence for a home run. W. & L. secured the winning run in the ninth. Mayforth made a star play when he raced to the backstop and caught Lile's high foul.

VIRGINIA WINS EASILY.

March 31, at Charlottesville, the team showed a reversal of form and lost to the University of Virginia, by the score of 9-1. The Virginians scored 5 runs in the 4th inning through some bunched hits, the wildness of the Vermont pitcher and errors. They scored again in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings. The Vermont team was unable to do much with James' delivery, Berry, Maiden, Mayforth and Spear being the only ones to connect safely. Gilbert relieved Spear in the fifth.

MT. ST. MARY'S OVERWHELMED.

The Georgetown game was cancelled on account of rain and after a day's rest the team journeyed to Emmitsburg, Md., on Thursday, April 2, and there easily defeated the Mt. St. Mary's team by the decisive score of 17-2. "Speed" Denning was in the box for Vermont, and held his opponents to five scattered hits. The Vermont slugers hammered over eleven hits, and these with the 16 bases on balls given by the St. Mary's team, resulted in the 17 runs. The benefit of the day's rest was seen in this game and the team played in mid-season form. Maiden led with the stick, gathering three hits.

SENATORS ARE UNKIND.

Little can be said of the exhibition game with the Washington Senators, except that the team went up against real pitching, and could do nothing with either Bentley or Gallia, who twirled for Washington. On the other hand the big leaguers had their batting eyes open and pounded out 20 hits for 19 runs in the seven innings played.

C. U. WINS IN TENTH.

The last game of the trip was with Catholic University, and was a closely contested affair throughout. "Jake" Malcolm was in the box for Vermont and pitched great ball, holding his hard-hitting opponents to five solitary hits. Maiden and Gallagher furnished the feature plays of the game. The former, after a hard run knocked down Ringrose's hard hit ball and, while flat on the ground, tossed the ball to Fraser, getting Cartwright who was coming from first. Gallagher made a fine catch of White's hard drive to left. Vermont assumed the lead in the first inning, after Maiden had laced out a three-bagger. C. U. rallied in the seventh and secured one run in that session. Then came two in the eighth, and two in the ninth. This sent the game into extra innings, and C. U. sent the winning run across in the 10th, on Tracy's hit, a sacrifice, and an infield error.

Great credit is due to Dr. Beecher, who accompanied the team. With the aid of his efficient medicine chest, "Doc" kept the team in the pink of condition throughout the trip. Dr. Hewes of Groton, Conn., a member of the famous Vermont team of '92, also accompanied the team. Dr. Hewes' wit and good nature kept all the men in good humor.

The team has made a good start of the season, and through the aid of the experience gained on the southern trip should make a good record this year.

College Atmosphere.

Every college has its own college atmosphere. Ours is distinctive and it seems to be only a truism when we note that the three greatest factors which create our college atmosphere can be found in the term, "small state university." First, as a university, the U. V. M. is educating men and women of widely different aims and aptitudes. Many are entering and pursuing widely separated fields of specialized knowledge, and a broad curriculum is open to each individual. A university atmosphere must be different from a college atmosphere. Second, as a state university, the U. V. M. is ever trying to fulfill her mission of service to the state and will always draw most of her students from Vermont. While not always conscious of it, we must be influenced by the traditions of the state and the qualities of Vermonters. Independence, thrift, and conservatism are sure to be prominent characteristics of the university as of the state. Young men of other states who think that they have anything to gain from contact with the sterling virtues of Vermonters will often consider this side of our university atmosphere. Third, the U. V. M. is small and always has been. Most of us hope and expect that it will grow much larger. However, it offers all the advantages which the small university has over the large college or university,—intimacy with professors, acquaintance with everyone in college more opportunities in undergraduate activities. A small college or university must have a different atmosphere from a large college.

The beautiful location in Burlington and other features help to constitute the atmosphere of the University of Vermont. But the undergraduates in their every-day attitudes are the most important in creating our atmosphere. By virtue of being a small college the influence in each individual becomes more strongly felt. It is largely up to each undergraduate here whether we have an atmosphere of enthusiasm or of apathy, of progress or stagnation, of idealism or expediency, of intellectuality or frivolity. It is only as each individual realizes his own worth and responsibility that we develop the best sort of college atmosphere and through this gain the best kind of college spirit.

Effective Publicity.

The university has never had proper publicity in the large newspapers. The remoteness and small size of the university have been controlling reasons in newspaper offices. Vermont has not been able to furnish much sensational matter and the occasional important college events have not occupied much space in Boston or New York papers. Twenty years of fitful effort by undergraduates have accomplished very little in obtaining the recognition which we deserve. It must be admitted right here that one of the chief reasons is lack of systematic work among the undergraduates. If we had six capable men who would be willing to work regularly for a whole year without any pushing, who would find time to write regularly to certain newspapers, who would look for additional work occasionally after their regular "stunt" was done, and who do not insist upon a reward in money or honor and are not easily discouraged,—one year's work of six such men would do wonders. The discouragements will be many and the tangible rewards may be few. The activity of the present junior publicity committee has been marked with much energy. Their work on the baseball southern trip was certainly effective. We have had several Press Clubs, but organization alone has accomplished little. Consistent workers are needed, and the class of 1915 is entitled to much credit if they have produced some.

1856. REV. GEORGE BURLEY SPALDING, D. D., LL.D.

Rev. George B. Spalding died in Syracuse on March 13. He delivered the address at the Centennial Commencement in 1904, standing in the same spot where his brother, James R. Spalding, '40, delivered an address fifty years before at the semi-centennial.

Dr. Spalding was the third son of Dr. James and Eliza (Reed) Spalding of Montpelier, and was born there 11 August, 1835. He traced his descent to Edward Spalding who came to Braintree, Mass., in 1630 and (by his mother) to John Reed, who settled in Rehoboth, Mass., 1630. His preparation for college was made in the Washington County Grammar School, and he entered the university in 1852. After a course in law under Judge W. G. M. Davis of Tallahassee, Fla., he entered Union Theological Seminary in the fall of 1858. His third year in theology was taken at Andover, where he graduated in 1861. On the 5th of October following he received ordination at Vergennes, Vt. Three years later he took charge of the North (now Park) Church (Dr. Bushnell's) in Hartford, Conn., where he remained until 1869, when he was called to the care of the First Church in Dover, N. H.; here he remained 14 years. Then for two years he served as pastor of the Franklin Street Church in Manchester, N. H., and in 1885 became pastor of the first Presbyterian Church in Schenectady, N. Y. In 1910 he was made pastor emeritus, with a salary of $2,500 through his life, and a life annuity to his wife of $1,000 should she survive him.

While pursuing his theological studies he was a frequent contributor to the New York World, the Courier and Enquirer and the Times. He also wrote for the Evangelist and other literary and theological publications. From 1869 to 1874 he supplied editorials for the Watchman of Boston. In 1881 he founded the New Hampshire Journal, and was its editor till 1885. In 1877 he was a member of the New Hampshire Legislature, and its chaplain. He was also a member of the Constitutional convention of the same year, and was president of the trustees of the State Normal School. In 1879 he presented the oration before the Associate Alumni of the university, and in 1904 gave the centennial address before the college Y. M. C. A. He was chosen trustee of Hamilton College and Auburn Theological Seminary. In 1878 Dartmouth gave him the degree of D. D., and the university bestowed the same honor in 1904; Syracuse made him LL.D. in 1894. He had membership in the Sons of the American Revolution and of the Colonial Wars and in various historical societies. Some of his vacations were spent in travel abroad. Some commemorative discourses were printed, as also a paper on the Idea and Necessity of Normal School Training, 1878.

He married 6 August, 1861, Sarah Livingston Olmstead of Boston, daughter of Rev. John W. Olmstead, D. D., editor of the Boston Watchman.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

At the Y. M. C. A. meeting Tuesday, March 24th, the topic of the evening was the Northfield conference. Prof. Perkins, Sykes, Miller, Mickel and Dean urged everybody to go who possibly could. They spoke of the advantages and benefit of going. There were two who went as delegates from here last year and at least ten or a dozen should go this year.

Senior Committees.

The following senior committees have been appointed by President St. John: Senior week committee, D. W. Howe, chairman, H. A. Styles, F. J. Donahue and R. S. Farr; senior prom committee, L. W. Batchelder, chairman, A. E. Moore, B. W. McFarland, R. S. Gilbert, K. H. Emerson, E. S. Towne, Jr., Miss Philura Beckwith, Miss Ruth O'Sullivan.

WOMEN'S NOTES.

Mrs. Mabel Millman Hincks of Toronto, Canada, District President of Kappa Alpha Theta, was a week-end guest of the local chapter at initiation. On Saturday the Burlington Alumnae Chapter of the fraternity gave a luncheon in her honor at the Klifa Club. On Monday afternoon the active chapter entertained at a delightful tea in honor of Mrs. Hincks at the home of Helen Rutter, '16, on Brookes Ave. Mrs. Hincks, Mrs. Rutter, Miss Bates, and Miss Margery Watson received, and Mrs. Guy E. Loudon, ex-'99, and Mrs. Hollis Gray, '06, poured.

Miss Edith Brown, ex-'14, of Manchester was the guest of Miss Shephardson, '14, for the week end.

Miss Mary Root, '09, of No. Craftsbury was in town to attend the initiation banquet of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Mrs. George E. Howes of Williamstown, Mass., was the guest of Esther Ayer, '17, for a few days.

Miss Winifred Tierney, ex-'15, of Montpelier has been visiting Martha O'Neil, '15, for the past few days.

Ruth Catlin, ex-'12, Agnes Miller, '16, and Ruth Stuart, '17, represented the local chapter of Pi Beta Phi at the installation of New York Gamma Chapter at St. Lawrence University.

MUSICAL CLUBS GIVE

SIX CONCERTS.

Home for Aged People the clubs gave a short program at the beautiful home just outside the city. No audience enjoyed the music and the singing more than did these people, in all probability. The concert in the evening was a great success, artistically, financially and socially. Every performer was encored once, twice, and often three times. The audience numbered six hundred and the proceeds netted $150 for the Ladies' Rest Room of the city. The alumni of Brattleboro held a reception and dance following the concert. The cordiality and interest shown by everyone in the city inspired the men to do their best. The glee clubs of Dartmouth, Amherst and Williams had previously given concerts in Brattleboro, and many people were heard to say that the U. V. M. representatives gave a concert superior in every way.

Roberts, '16, leader of the glee club, who was seriously ill for several days before the clubs left, joined the party in Brattleboro and remained with them to the end of the trip. His solo work was encored many times, while he conducted the club excellently.

Powers, '17, in his pantomime entitled "What Every Woman or Man Knows," was very clever indeed, and was enthusiastically received by the audience.

Swett, '15, found welcome wherever he sang. His rendering of "I Hear You Calling Me," was truly beautiful, and he deserved his many encores.

Lovejoy, '14, very kindly took Roberts' place in the program in Rutland and Bellows Falls, and played several cornet solos, of which the audience was appreciative.

Taplin, '16, rendered "The Prize Song," by Wagner in a most artistic way and was enthusiastically encored.

"Lizzie," by Ellis, '14, pleased every audience which heard it.

Johnson, '14, gave a number of excellent readings, which were exceptionally well received.

For the first time in a number of years the route led outside the boundaries of Vermont. A fairly good sized audience heard the concert at Greenfield, Mass., and showed their interest and appreciation. After the concert the entire two clubs were entertained at the home of Dr. O'Brien, a very loyal alumnus.

Orange was the last stop and owing to a heavy rainstorm the audience was small, but fully as enthusiastic as some of the larger houses.

The clubs have been allowed to fall in the character of their productions in the past few years, and it has been exceedingly difficult for Manager Ellis to secure any dates for this year. After writing many letters to no avail he was forced to visit a number of places in order to secure the desired dates. For this he deserves great credit, for the glee club attracts many men to the university, and the trip just over was very productive in this respect.

VERMONT BREAKS EVEN

IN DEBATING.

were not a homogeneous people but have no efficient leaders; that they were not a homogeneous people but diverse as to language, habits and mode of life; that communications between the tribes were such as to prevent unity and harmony in self-government. They furthermore advanced the argument that the United States was doing a missionary work in the islands which is not completed and from which we have no moral right to withdraw.

The arguments were ably presented and well authenticated on either side, but the affirmative showed a superior unity of material, and clearness of arrangement, and the judges decided unanimously in their favor.

The Vermont team, which went to Middlebury, comprised of Dean, Chatterton and Prindle, handling the negative side of the question, lost to Anderson, Floyd and Voss of Middlebury in a debate that left no little interest and discussion following in its wake. From start to finish both sides were strongly contested. At the outset the Middlebury team, opening the debate, began to show signs of good coaching. By anticipating one or two of the negatives' strongest arguments, they succeeded in turning attention from them and modifying the effects when presented. The debate centered about the Filipinos' ability and capacity to govern themselves. Voss, Middlebury's last man, was their best speaker. Taken as a whole the Middlebury trio lacked the form and finish of the Vermont men both in construction and refutation, but the clarity of their arguments and the cleverness with which they were repeatedly presented went far toward bringing them the victory. The judges were Professor Emery of Dartmouth, Reverend Raymond of Proctor and Reverend Bradford of Rutland. Middlebury also won from Norwich, giving them the championship of the state with Vermont second and Norwich third.

THREE CANDIDATES FOR ALUMNI TRUSTEE.

The committee elected for the purpose by the Associate Alumni of the University of Vermont has nominated the following candidates for the office of trustee of the university to succeed Hon. Henry W. Hill:

Edwin Winship Lawrence, Rutland, Vt.

Born in Rutland, Vt., March 27, 1881; educated at Rutland High School; A. B., University of Vermont, 1901; lawyer, admitted to bar 1902; assistant attorney P. O. department, Washington, 1903-1905; attorney for Rutland Railroad, 1905 to date.

Horace Kent Tenney, Chicago, Ill.

Born in Portage, Wis., Sept. 11, 1859; educated at Hyde Park High School; left college at close of junior year; received degree of LL. B. from University of Wisconsin, 1881; A. B., University of Vermont, 1891; LL. D., 1913; practiced law in Chicago since 1881; professor in University of Chicago Law School, 1902-10; president of Chicago Bar Association, 1905-06; president of Illinois State Bar Association, 1911-12.

James Rignall Wheeler, New York City.

Born in Burlington, Vt., 1859; educated in Burlington, abroad and at Greylock Institute; A. B. University of Vermont, 1880; LL. D., 1909; A. M. and Ph. D., Harvard, 1885; instructor Harvard, 1888-89; professor of Greek University of Vermont, 1889-95; professor American School at Athens, 1892-93; professor of Greek, Columbia University, 1895-1906; professor of Greek Archaeology and Art, 1906 to date; Dean of the Faculty of Fine Arts, 1906-1912; Chairman of the Managing Committee of the American School at Athens, 1901 to date.

Ballots have been sent out to the alumni which will be returned to the registrar by June 15. The announcement of the choice will be made at commencement time.

50TH CLASS ANNIVERSARY.

A movement to celebrate the 50th anniversary of their graduation at commencement has been started by the members of 1864. Five of those who graduated are still living:

Rev. Dennis Donovan, South Lyndeboro, N. H., Baptist clergyman.

Francis Deming Hoyt, Lakewood, N. J., capitalist.

Dr. Edward S. Peck, New York City, surgeon and oculist.

Wolfred Nelson Phelps, South Hero, Vt.

Rev. Earl J. Ward, Meredith, N. H., Congregational clergyman.

WORK OF THE PUBLICITY COMMITTEE.

The junior publicity committee has already made a good start in its most commendable work. The southern trip of the baseball team has been written up in the newspapers of New York and New England as it never was before. The next work of the committee will be to enlarge their list of newspapers and prepare to cover the home games.

The baseballs won on the southern trip have been painted and will be placed in the trophy room to-day. A separate shelf has been reserved in the trophy cabinet for the season of 1914.

Some expensive pieces of photographic apparatus, for making stereoptican views and newspaper pictures, have been secured through the efforts of Photographer Burnham, and will be at the disposal of the committee for two weeks at the beginning of the series of home games.

Several unique advertising stunts for arousing a "fan-spirit" in Burlington have been devised, which the students will see and hear more of later.

ENGINEERING ALUMNI MEET AT NEW YORK.

The second annual meeting of the Engineering Alumni of the university was held on March 31 in New York City, at the Machinery Club at the Hudson Terminal, and was even more successful than the meeting of last year. There were 46 present, representing 32 years of graduation. The meeting was presided over by M. C. Robins, '98, and the guest of honor was Mr. James Harkness, president of the Jones & Lamson Co., at Springfield, Vt. Mr. Harkness is an honored alumnus of the university, and is the president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, which is the highest honor a mechanical engineer can receive in America. Other speakers were: Dean G. H. Perkins, Prof. Freedman, Prof. Jacobs, who is at present on a leave of absence, and Mr. Arthur W. Ayer of Philadelphia, who was professor of mechanical engineering in the university for eleven years. The meeting was successful in every way, and the loyalty of the alumni was strongly in evidence.

Debating Association Meeting.

The usual meeting of the Debating Association was held on Monday evening, March 23. Buchanan, '16 and Crane, '15 met in an informal debate. Jones, '17 gave current events. At a business meeting which followed, it was decided to hold the annual banquet at the Hotel Vermont, the first Monday after Easter vacation. Refreshments were served.

Special Easter Meeting.

"The Last Days of the Kingdom of Jerusalem" will be the topic at a special meeting of the Young Men's Bible Class at the St. Paul's Church next Sunday night at 6 o'clock. The Bible class has been growing and a cordial invitation is extended to college men to attend this Easter meeting.

LOCALS.

Juniors and seniors who wish to have a physical examination by Dr. Marvin may consult him at the medical college any morning next week. The required physical examinations for the two lower classes have been completed.

"Ned" Currier, ex-'15 has a position with F. L. Austin, architect, of this city.

K. A. Emerson, '14 and R. S. Ely, '16 were recently in Hanover where the initiation banquet of the Dartmouth chapter of Sigma Nu Fraternity was held.

J. B. Johnson, '15 went to Hanover Friday to attend the initiation banquet of the Kappa Sigma fraternity at Dartmouth.

The Cynic Indexed.

During the Easter vacation a card index was made of the CYNIC from its beginning in 1883 to the present. Historical and biographical articles and other material of permanent interest are included in the index. It is believed that the index will make a wealth of interesting data easy of access. No attempt was made to include the purely literary material. The card index will be placed in the library near the bound volumes of the CYNIC.

WESTERN N. Y. ALUMNI BANQUET AT BUFFALO

Young Association Has Successful Gathering—Officers Elected.

The second annual banquet of the Vermont Alumni Association of Western New York was held on the evening of March 20th at the University Club of Buffalo. Ex-Senator Henry W. Hill, '76, president of the association, presided. President Benton, Dean Tinkham and Mr. I. L. Rich were the guests of honor. Pres. Benton and Dean Tinkham told of the Carnegie report and Secretary Rich spoke of the endowment fund. Dr. G. A. Jameson, '91 read an original poem written for the occasion, which was heartily received. Thereupon the association elected him poet. The poem appears in next issue. At the close of the banquet the annual election of officers for the ensuing year took place, which resulted as follows:

President, J. D. Allen, '93; first vice-president, Dr. Simon Eschelman, '79; second vice-president, Dr. Walker H. Merriam, '89; third vice-president, Geo. R. Huse, '86; secretary, Roswell Farnham, '13; treasurer, C. S. Tracy, '00; poet, Dr. G. A. Jameson, '91; executive committee, E. D. Strickland, '94, H. J. Adams, '03, Dr. Chas. W. Gardiner, '91, P. F. Kruse, '13, Chas. F. Blair, '99, H. C. Burrows, '04, F. R. Jewett, '99.

Among the others present were: Charles C. Farnham, '86; Dr. Julian P. Hill, '84; Dr. Hiram B. Manchester, '80; Dr. F. D. Carr, '08; R. S. Huse, '10; W. D. Preston, '99; C. A. Tracy, '00; W. S. Wright, '10; P. A. Dewey, '09; A. W. Clark, '04; and Messrs. W. H. Green, John C. Wilber and N. J. Nenno whose sons are now in U. V. M.

COUNCIL FAVORS SCIENTIFIC CLASS TAX SYSTEM.

At the meeting of the student council held March 20, the plans for class finances were discussed and each article was accepted by the council. It is proposed to put the taxes on the term bills. These plans will be placed before the trustees of the university in the near future with the hope of getting their approval.

A report of the chaperones of the sophomore hop was read before the council. The report was very favorable to the two new dances, the hesitation waltz and the one-step, which were permitted on that occasion, for the first time, as a try-out.

Treasurer's Books of '14 on File.

The treasurer's books of the class of 1914, for the years 1912-13, are now on file at the registrar's office. This action was taken in accordance with a provision of the class constitution.

Freshman Meeting.

At the freshman class meeting held Friday, March 20, the subject of class taxes was brought up and a "recommendation for regulation of class taxes" proposed by the student council was read, discussed and accepted. We understand this plan will go into operation next year if approved by all the classes. It was voted that those not having paid this year's class tax by Easter vacation should have no voice in meetings until the tax is paid. It was voted that the executive committee draw up a constitution to be submitted at the next meeting.

Senior Class Meeting.

The senior class met on Thursday, March 26th, and heard a report from the prom and senior week committees. The proposition was brought up of having a commencement week program covering all its activities, of such a nature as to be a real souvenir, instead of having little leaflets as has been the custom heretofore. The program would probably be a little booklet of embossed leather or other material. The committee is taking orders from class members.

Agricultural Club Meeting.

The Agricultural Club held a short meeting at Morrill hall Tuesday evening, March 24. The meeting was rather poorly attended as compared with former meetings of the year, the reason being that a number of the men were away on the baseball and musical club trips. A short program consisting of a reading by Buchanan, '16, and the reading of the Vermont Chronicle by Varney, '17 was rendered. The business session followed this program, at the close of which refreshments were enjoyed.

SOPHOMORE CLASS MEETING.

The sophomore class held a meeting Monday, April 23. The class decided to reconsider its action, and it was unanimously voted to pay the tax of ten cents per member for the support of the debating teams.

Frank Corley was elected class baseball manager. Mack, chairman of the hop committee, gave a favorable report. There were one hundred and eighteen dollars in receipts and expenses were about one hundred and fifty dollars, involving the class but thirty-two dollars, which is a less debt than any class has incurred for this function for several years.

Howard Hall Entertainment.

The girls of Howard Hall gave a very successful entertainment on Tuesday evening, March twenty-fourth, for the benefit of the new piano fund. The program consisted of two parts, a musicale given in the Howard Hall parlors, and a two-act farce in the Howard gymnasium.

The musical program of seven numbers given by Misses Swift, Tenney, Chapin and Holton was enthusiastically received by the audience. The program also included readings by Miss Swift, '16.

The farce "An Open Secret" given in the Howard gymnasium was a great success. The play had been cleverly adapted to fit local conditions, and the audience was very appreciative of the local references. Each of the characters portrayed her part in a manner which reflected credit on the careful drilling of the play by Miss Marshall.

As a result of the entertainment about twenty dollars was added to the piano fund.

Y. M. C. A. OUTLINES WORK OF THE YEAR COMMITTEES APPOINTED

Plans Laid by Organization for Unusually Active Year

Chairmen of the Y. M. C. A. committees for the coming year have been appointed as follows: Membership, J. S. Hunt, '15; New Students, R. A. Healy, '15; Religious, C. C. Buchanan, '15; Bible Study, H. E. Crane, '15; Intercollegiate, H. A. Mayforth, '15; Finance, C. A. Pike, '16; Industrial Service and Mission Study, J. V. Piper, '16; Music, A. D. Seaver, '16. The cabinet thus formed will make one of the strongest in several years, and with President Dean at the head, the Y. M. C. A. will certainly give a good account of itself during the coming year.

At the regular meeting of the Association on Tuesday evening, April 14, Dr. Barnes gave a strong talk on, "How to Read the Bible." This was followed by a discussion of the subject by those present. After the meeting, President Dean struck the right chord in his short, snappy exhortation to those present to get up and get busy. He said that the present cabinet will not be satisfied with an association next year which is a little bit better than that of this year. "It must be so almighty large," said Dean, "that there will be no comparison with this year." He put it up to each member to make himself responsible for the "pushing" of the work, in order to put the Y. M. C. A. in its proper place among college activities, not simply as a religious body, but as a potent factor in college life. The plans which the cabinet have in view are not of the nut-shell variety, and there will be a chance for everybody to "show some stuff" when they are called upon.

President Dean also urged the fellows to take in the Northfield Conference during the last week in June. Several men have already signified their intention of attending, and it is hoped that a large delegation may represent Vermont there this year.

WARREN R. AUSTIN, '99, A TRUSTEE.

Warren R. Austin, '99 has been appointed trustee of the University by Governor Allen M. Fletcher. He succeeds the late Z. M. Mansur upon the board. Mr. Austin is a successful young lawyer of St. Albans, where he has lived since graduation. Many of the students now in college will remember his narration of the early days of the Kake Walk, when he spoke at the smoker which followed the Kake Walk last year. Governor Fletcher is

L. W. DEAN WILL EDIT CYNIC.

W. H. Smith Chosen Manager, and R. M. Olzendam, Managing Editor.

The Cynic board met on April 10th and elected editor-in-chief, managing editor, and manager. These men will assume their duties on May 10th and will be in charge of the paper for one year.

Leon W. Dean of Bristol was chosen editor-in-chief. He prepared for college at Mt. Hermon School. Dean has worked on the Cynic and Crabbe considerably, is president of the Junior class and president of the Y. M. C. A.

Roderic M. Olzendam of Woodstock was elected managing editor. He fitted for college at Trinity School, New York. Besides his Cynic position he is cheer leader and Founder's Day speaker. He is a member of Sigma Nu and Key and Serpent.

Willard H. Smith of Cuttingsville is business manager. He prepared at Rutland high school. He has been assistant manager this year. He is a member of Sigma Phi and Key and Serpent.

The change in the organization adding the Senior managing editor will divide the work at the top and make the whole organization run more smoothly. This is the plan of most college newspapers, and in fact, of all commercial newspapers.

The board will meet early in May to elect other members of the new board.

SINGING, A NEW INTER- CLASS COMPETITION

Elias Lyman, '70 the Donor of a Cup to be the Object of Contest Each Founder's Day.

A new Founder's day event which should interest every undergraduate has recently been added to the program. This is an interclass singing contest such as is held annually at Williams and Wesleyan and will probably take place somewhere on the front campus after the exercises in the gymnasium are over.

A cup has been given by Elias Lyman of the class of 1870, on which the numerals of the winning class will be engraved each year. The competition should bring about a big improvement in the singing of many of our older songs which are unfamiliar to many of the undergraduates and also add some new titles to the next song book.

The movement to establish this contest was started so recently that many details have not yet been arranged but a fuller report may be expected in next week's CYNIC.

to be congratulated upon appointing a man so able and so interested in and familiar with the University.

JUNIOR WEEK PLANS ANNOUNCED THE PEERADE RETURNS

E. S. Hayden is Prom. Chairman, Others Also Elected.

Junior Week is to be a brilliant and lively period this year, according to reports and plans. The Junior week committees have been appointed and have elected their chairmen as follows: General Committee, R. B. Smith; Prom. Committee, E. S. Hayden; "Peerade," W. A. Knight. All of the committees are fast rounding out their plans for these events, and many new stunts will be forthcoming.

The Provisional Program.

Chairman Smith of the General Committee announces that a petition has been sent in to the Student Council that Junior Week may extend from 4 p. m. Wednesday, May 20th to 12 m. Saturday, May 23rd, the Juniors to be excused from classes during that time. The general program as outlined at the present time is as follows: Wednesday evening, fraternity dances; Thursday evening, Junior Prom.; Friday afternoon, "Peerade;" Friday evening, Play; Saturday evening, Boat Ride or the Junior Banquet. It is not definitely decided, as yet, whether the boat ride will be held this year, as there has been difficulty in securing a boat. If the boatripe is held, the class banquet will come on Friday evening, after the play, otherwise on Saturday evening.

The Peerade Revived.

It will be noticed that the "Peerade" is to be revived once more, after being discontinued for a couple of years. The "Peerade" has always been considered, next to the Kake Walk, the big stunt of the year at Vermont, and it is up to everybody to get busy and make this "Peerade" the best yet. The plans which have been smoldering in inventive brains during the past two years should now burst forth into flame and a grand revival of this old custom should be the result. Chairman Knight urges every fraternity and club in the University to put on a float in the "Peerade." The fraternities will undoubtedly respond to this call, and it is hoped that other organizations, as well, will make it a point to put on something. The Chemistry Club, the Aggie Club, the Catholic Club, the St. Paul's Club, the Cosmopolitan Club, in fact every club and organization in the whole college should take this opportunity of showing loyalty to Vermont. Individual costumes will also be in demand. A large cup will be given for the most elaborate float and also one for the most original float in the "Peerade." A small cup will

NEW COLLEGE STORE TO BE ESTABLISHED

A Cooperative Store to be Opened in the Medical Building Next Year.

The present College Store in the Old Mill will be discontinued after this year, and a new store more cooperative in its nature and possibly more limited in its wares, will be started in the Medical Building next year. This action was taken by the faculty senate at its meeting on Monday night. Dr. Marvin and Roy D. Sawyer were appointed a committee to take charge of the new store.

The new store will be located in the large room on the south side of the first floor of the Medical College, between Secretary Swan's office and the medical library. A door will be cut into the medical library and the same force will be in charge of the library and the store. Text books will be sold at low prices, covering only the cost and the express. Lighting and heating will not be figured in the expense of the store. The committee is empowered to buy stationery and supplies which the present College Store wishes to sell.

The room under the chapel now occupied by the store will probably be used as the office of the economics department, unless a change to steam heating should be made. This will be in keeping with the policy of the Buildings and Grounds committee of making commodious and well-planned headquarters in the Old Mill for the Latin and Greek departments, the English department, and the other departments as soon as feasible. The present office of the economics department is very inadequate.

Tennis Opens May 8.

Tennis practice in the Gym is being continued daily until the courts are in condition to be used. The first match comes on May 8th with Mass. Agr. College.

be given for the best individual costume. The "Peerade" will probably occur on Friday.

BASEBALL PRACTICE.

Twenty-two candidates are now out for baseball, and some changes are expected in the line-up. The first game comes with Colby, next Friday. The team has been able to practice out of doors less than half a dozen times, and several of these afternoons it has been too cold for the pitchers to work outside of the cage. A few practice games will be played next week.

PLAY REHEARSALS TO BEGIN.*"Just Out of College" at Junior Week.

The Wig and Buskin Society will begin rehearsals next Monday night for the Junior Week play. "Just Out of College," by George Ade will be the play presented. Two important parts and several minor parts are now open. Professor Max W. Andrews will coach the play.

This play was undertaken last December, but fell through because some of the principal men had conditions in their studies. It will not require a long time to work the play into shape. A trial performance will be given out of town, possibly in Enosburg Falls.

DEBATING ASSOCIATION BANQUET.*Interesting and Instructive Toasts Delivered.

The Vermont Debating Association held its annual banquet at the Hotel Vermont on Monday evening, April 13th. Covers were laid for sixteen. After the banquet the party adjourned to the roof garden, for the post-prandial exercises at which the president of the association, H. A. Bailey, '15, was toastmaster.

Professor A. R. Gifford gave an exceedingly interesting talk on "The Value of Debate." He commented on the splendid manner in which the University as a whole is supporting the Association and urged the members to spread the debating spirit through the student body. After pointing out the many advantages of debate he cautioned the would-be debaters to guard against a sophistical attitude. In conclusion, Professor Gifford contrasted the real purposes of a college training as compared with a vocational training, the former fitting one for life in its broadest sense, the latter equipping one only to make a living.

It being the fiftieth anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson, Professor Tupper, who is familiar with the University of Virginia, outlined the career of Jefferson, touching particularly upon his connection with that institution. He showed the broad education of the man, his love for arts and sciences, and above all, his desire to give others the advantages of a higher education. As the founder of the University of Virginia, Jefferson spared no pains to secure the best instructors from this country and abroad. Professor Tupper thought that the debating situation and its outlook for the future was better than ever before in the history of this University.

Professor Aiken made a few remarks upon debating and its position among other college activities. He emphasized the broadening effect of debating received by those who participate in it. The average reader is likely to become prejudiced in his opinions on a certain question simply because he has not taken the pains to investigate the other side.

J. S. Hunt, '15, and E. L. Chatterton, '17, outlined the history of the Association and gave a report on the Triangular Debate last month.

Plans for the ensuing year will be taken up at an early meeting when there will also be an election of officers.

TENNIS COURTS TO BE PUT IN GOOD SHAPE.

Work has begun upon the tennis courts. The upper court is to have a dressing of clay and coal cinders and some drainage tile and will be put in tournament shape. The second court will soon be in fair playing condition. If the money holds out and the demand seems strong enough, the third court will be put in condition.

Evening of Rhythmic Expression and Gymnastic Exercises.

The young women of the department of physical education presented their annual entertainment of Rhythmic Expression and Gymnastic Exercises on Friday evening, April 17th, in the University Gymnasium. The program contained over a dozen numbers, including dumb bell and Indian club drills, picturesque dances, folk dances, and tableaux. A report of the entertainment will appear next week.

ACTIVE FOR PUBLICITY.*Junior Committee Has Large Program of Work Assigned.

The Junior Publicity committee are on the second lap and stronger than ever. Several newspapers, including the Springfield Union and a number of papers in Northern New York, have been added during the past week to the list of those already printing our news, and other news sheets will later be supplied. The New England papers have been glad to print our news from the first, but the New York papers have refused to give us space. A concentrated movement is now on foot by which the committee hopes to overcome this difficulty.

C. A. Spencer, '15, is, at present, taking pictures of the team at practice, and these cuts will also be sent to the leading papers for publication.

Ferrin is taking charge of a scheme for publicity in the moving-picture world. He is now making arrangements with several of the leading moving-picture companies to make films of our big games. In this way, Vermont will cover a wide range of territory.

A list of prep. school publications is being arranged by Healy, and these will be kept supplied with news of peculiar interest to each.

Another important and very timely task which the Publicity Committee has taken upon itself is the improvement of the scoreboards at Centennial Field. Taylor and Grandy have this work in charge. Plate numbers are to be made for the boards, and the boards themselves are to be repainted and remodeled. One of the committee will then be responsible for the scoring at the home games. This improvement will be much appreciated by the fans.

Hunt has taken charge of the historical side of the baseball movement. He is searching through the annals of Vermont for accounts of our past relations on the diamond with Colby, Syracuse, Georgetown, and Pennsylvania State, teams that we are soon to meet here in Burlington. Records of past games with these colleges will be published in the near future.

The Publicity Committee wishes to announce that any good "dope," which any fellow in college may have in mind for booming the University, will be appreciated if handed over to any member of the committee.

BIG COLLEGE DANCE.*Function for Benefit of Football and Key and Serpent.

On Thursday evening, April 23rd, there will be a combination dance in the gymnasium. The football management, the Key and Serpent Society and the University Band are cooperating to give a big dance for the benefit of football, especially, and secondarily for other college interests. The tickets can be obtained for one dollar of any football, Key and Serpent or band man. Buy one as soon as you have an opportunity. The patronizing of this dance by a large number of college men will insure better things for next year's athletics.

INTERFRATERNITY BASEBALL SERIES.

The Interfraternity baseball schedule as drawn up by the Key and Serpent Society follows. It is quite necessary that the games be played at the scheduled dates because of difficulty in getting grounds, etc.

April 22, Alpha Zeta vs. Sigma Phi; April 23, Phi Delta Theta vs. Kappa Sigma; April 27, Delta Psi vs. Delta Sigma; April 30, Sigma Nu vs. Alpha Kappa Kappa; May 2, Alpha Tau Omega vs. Delta Mu; May 5, Lambda Iota vs. Phi Chi. The winners on April 22nd and 23rd play on May 7th; winners on April 27th and 30th play on May 9th; winners on May 2nd and 5th play on May 11th; winners on May 7th and 9th play on May 12th; winners on May 11th and 12th play off the championship for the cup on May 14th.

HEAD OF A. S. M. E. SPEAKS.*President James Hartness Lectures on Turret Lathe.

Mr. James Hartness, of Springfield, Vt., president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, gave a stereopticon lecture to the entire engineering department on Thursday morning. He demonstrated the development of the turret lathe, and also showed astronomical views and pictures of his splendid observatory.

The speaker dwelt upon the great value of specialization. It was responsible, he said, for the great success of the Ford factory.

AN EIGHT WEEK CLUB.

Organization for Summer Social Work.

An Eight Week Club plan has recently been organized among the girls of the university. The purpose of this eight week club preparation band is, through training, to produce strong leaders who will be able to carry on eight week clubs next summer in their home towns. There are eight meetings to prepare for rural leaderships as follows:

I. Health.—Fundamental problems of rural sanitation. Leader to be a physician or a trained nurse.

II. Reading and Music.—Leader: Librarian who can give information concerning free travelling state libraries. Plan for conducting worth while evening with the victrola. Leader: Member of faculty of conservatory of music.

An informal "Story Hour," in which members take part, telling stories girls would enjoy.

III. The Home.—Single underlying facts concerning home decoration and cooking. Leader: Professor of Home Economics.

IV. The Home.—Modern improvements in the farm home, exhibit and study of approved devices for lightening labor. Leader: Teacher of Home Economics.

V. The Home.—Textiles and uses of different textiles. Native materials that can be used in country handicraft. Leader: Professor of Home Economics.

VI. Good times for country girls. Games "out of doors" that girls enjoy. Value of team play.

VII. Good times for country girls. A seminar in which members discuss what should determine the kind of social life girls in small communities should have; their social assets; their social dangers.

VIII. The Community.—Play festivals and pageants; the need for community spirit and community centers. Tomato and corn growing clubs.

Those who pursue the work of the preparation band and are recommended by the Y. W. C. A. cabinet for their qualities of leadership and who have this recommendation ratified by the student field secretary may receive their "Certificate of appointment as Eight Week Club Leaders" All student associations having at least ten members who send in satisfactory reports of Eight Week Clubs, will receive a certificate for social service from the national board. In the very near future, the Y. W. C. A. will hold an Eight Week Club entertainment service at one of the regular meetings when all who wish to take up this work may join the Preparation Band.

Kappa Alpha Theta Initiation.

Lambda chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta held its annual initiation on Saturday evening, March twenty-first, at the home of Prof. Votey on Main St. The list of initiates includes Irene Barrett, '15, of Burlington; Gladys Fauley, '16, of Bennington; Grace Scofield, '16, of Burlington, and five members of the freshman class, Elizabeth Baker of Montclair, N. J.; Helen Chapin of Jericho, Helen Dewey of Royalton, Pearl Grandy of Burlington and Jennie Maxfield of Johnson. Following the initiation service a banquet was held at Hotel Van Ness, covers being laid for fifty. The large dining-room was decorated with palms, ferns, and cut flowers, under the direction of W. E. Peters.

At the post-prandial exercises, Mrs. Edward Robinson, Iota, '94, acted as toastmistress, and toasts were responded to by Miss Gifford, '14, Miss Fauley, '16, Miss Fullington, '15, Miss Grandy, '17, Miss Brownell, '01, Miss Watts, '15, and Mrs. Hincks of Sigma chapter at Toronto.

Among the alumnae present from out of town were Mary Root, '09, of Craftsbury; Hazel Weeks, ex-'13, of Montpelier, and Edith Brown, ex-'13, of Manchester.

W. M. REED, '86, OF WASHINGTON.

Wendell M. Reed, '86, is the newly elected president of the Washington, D. C. Alumni Association. Mr. Reed was born in Moriah, N. Y., in 1864 and since the time of his graduation has been engaged in engineering problems in the West, going to Colorado where he was associated with Colorado Midland Ry. until 1889 when he undertook professional work in connection with irrigation projects in New Mexico. In 1903 Mr. Reed entered the United States Reclamation Service and for five years was District Engineer, having charge of all the work in New Mexico and western Texas.

In 1912 Mr. Reed became Chief of the Indian Irrigation Service with headquarters at Washington, although the duties of this office require him to travel widely through the Western States.

For seven years Mr. Reed was vice-president of the Board of Regents of the New Mexico Military School and was once elected as Professor of Irrigation Engineering at the New Mexico School of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts which position he did not accept. Other activities were the presidency of the Roswell Printing Co., the presidency of the Chaves County Telephone Co., and a directorship of the Citizens National Bank of Roswell, New Mexico.

SENIOR COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

All but Boatride Committee Named.

The following senior committees have been appointed by President Adrian St. John:

Class day arrangements—H. P. Gaylord, chairman, P. T. Salisbury, Miss Jeanette Sparrow.

Banner committee—Miss Georgia Gifford, chairman, the Misses Jane McLaughlin and Isabel Spofford.

Pipe committee—H. A. Fitch, chairman, E. M. Bissonnette, P. F. Hurley.

Banquet committee—G. H. Seiple, chairman, L. J. Cella, E. S. Grace, E. W. Ellis.

TRACK MEET APRIL 23.

An out door track meet will be held on April 23rd at Centennial field. Snow and cold weather have allowed but little outdoor practice. This meet will be a try-out for candidates for the Colgate dual meet on May 2.

Facts vs. Insinuations.

The attack of the Carnegie Foundation upon the trustees of the University for their policy of spending Federal money for other than strictly agricultural subjects was admirably met by Chief Justice George M. Powers in his recent speech in Morrisville. Various State papers which were inclined to give too much credence to the Carnegie report had taken up the cry against the "alleged misuse of funds," and it was against these attacks that Judge Powers defended the University. His speech was printed in full in the "Free Press" of April 13th. The state papers which are earnest seekers after the truth and publishers of it will give Judge Powers' statements as much publicity as the original slanders.

The Carnegie report noted that the $50,000 given annually under the more recent land-grant college acts was spent upon engineering, natural and physical science, mathematics, economics, and English, as well as upon pure agriculture. The report then said: "This expenditure of federal appropriations upon subjects other than agriculture may or may not be strictly legal." It was also questioned whether the University was following out the intent of Senator Morrill or of Congress who gave the money. An official summary of the report given out to the press stated that "the report showed that the University of Vermont neglected agriculture and used its appropriation for a medical school." This libellous statement has never been defended by the Foundation, although repeatedly challenged.

Judge Powers proved conclusively that these insinuations were not borne out by facts; that we were living strictly up to the spirit and letter of all the appropriation acts; and that we were just the kind of institution which Senator Morrill had in his far-seeing mind in 1862 and later. He quoted liberally from Senator Morrill's speeches. These quotations make especially ridiculous such assertions of the investigators as this: "When the first Morrill act was passed providing for agricultural education, neither Senator Morrill not the states themselves had any clear idea of what sort of institution was to be developed for the people on the farms."

The Carnegie people can hardly defend any of their assertions against such evidence as the following words. uttered at the University commencement in 1893 by Senator Morrill and quoted by Chief Justice Powers:

"In some States there may have been established colleges, so-called, where instruction in agriculture is provided with very little else. If so, it is to be regretted, as it would be a non-compliance with the fundamental condition of the act of 1862. * * * All farmers and their sons should also rigorously protest against the mockery and the pretense of substituting for a liberal education, instruction solely related to agriculture, as though farmers should have only one idea, and be contented with an institution having less equipment than a college of even the lowest grade, * * * and that colleges should not, like timid horses, have blinders to hinder them from seeing anything on either side of them, while men everywhere are reaching out in all directions for wider knowledge."

Letters Solicited.

The CYNIC can not represent the opinions of the whole student body unless it is used more freely as a forum of discussion. We may see newspapers which have few letters from readers other than "cranks," yet many newspapers publish much intelligent discussion every day. In a college paper which should have closer relations with its readers than any daily paper, there is no contributor who should be considered a crank. Besides we are supposed to have a greater proportion of idealists among us than the workaday world. Happy ideas should not perish with their originator, and criticisms are often more useful when published than when harbored. The CYNIC columns are open now as always. Communications should be brief, and in accordance with all newspaper ethics, must be signed.

The Singing Cup.

The gift of the Lyman Cup is surely cause for rejoicing. For years some stimulus has been needed to improve the singing of the college. It is easy to pick up a trio or quartet and to sing very creditably at any hour of the night. Singing en masse in the daytime has usually proved to be a failure. Home football games, the greatest opportunity for college singing, have been reduced to two a year, and smokers are none too regular and often. We have never had the reputation of being a college of singers, but this is a good opportunity to acquire such a reputation. The first competition for the singing cup is not likely to be as keen as later ones, but we can trust that it will be a good beginning.

Debating Team Insignia.

Insignia is suggested as a recognition of the debating team. We see no reasons why this should not be granted, for some such recognition has been earned. Nothing like the athletic letter is proposed, but some sort of distinctive jewelry, like a watch fob, for instance. And who should decide upon such a question? It seems to fall more naturally into the province of the student council than many matters which they have already disposed of.

The Physical Side.

More than a billion dollars is expended annually on athletics by the colleges of the United States, but the major portion of the money does not go to pay for the physical exercises of the students. This information was contained in a report submitted by Dr. H. S. Wingert, director of physical education at Ohio State University.

The majority of American college students do not get physical exercise enough to keep their bodies in a healthy condition, according to the report. He shows that of 116,000 students in 150 colleges only 57 per cent. take any part in varsity or non-varsity games; that 37 per cent. of these colleges take no interest in fostering any type of physical exercise; and that 51 per cent. promote football, baseball, and basketball. Twenty-one per cent. give corrective exercise, 14 per cent. hygienic lectures, 5 per cent. require swimming, and 2 per cent. teach dancing.

We hardly think that general substance of these figures can be effectively disputed. Many students do not get enough exercise; we see it clearly here at Vermont. A majority of college graduates go into sedentary occupations. There they find but two afternoons of leisure, and no convenient gymnasium, winter sports, and tennis courts. Here we have much leisure and all these opportunities, shamefully neglected by many. We venture to predict that such conditions will not last many years. The change can not come through compulsory gymnasium exercise, but the accomplished students, smokers, and "bleacherites" will sooner or later realize that they are not getting all the training needed for a well-rounded man. Then there will be a big awakening. The new Out of Doors Club furnishes grounds for hope that some are waking up. If about thirty freshmen who have done absolutely nothing to make their presence known should report for track practice, it would be another indication of an awakening.

Why We Were Late.

Thirty thousand Easter postals blocked the wheels of progress in the local post office last Saturday and made the CYNIC one mail late.

The CYNIC has joined the Eastern College Newspapers' Association, which now has about 20 members.

CATHOLIC CLUB BALL.*First Dance Proves Successful Affair.

About 75 couples attended the first ball given by the Catholic Club of the University, which was held in the gymnasium Easter Monday evening.

The hall was tastefully decorated with purple and white streamers, from which hung numerous college banners.

In the receiving line were Hon. and Mrs. J. E. Burke, Dr. and Mrs. P. E. McSweeney, Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Tinkham, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Corley, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. T. Magner, and President J. J. Boland.

A delegate from each fraternity attended, and the Columbian Club at McGill University was represented by its president, Mr. Thomas Luby.

This was the first annual ball of the Catholic Club and proved a success in every way. Robinson's eight piece orchestra furnished music for the concert and dancing.

The dance programs were of brown leather. The order included 24 dances.

President Boland was chairman of the committee of seven who were in charge.

A SONG TO THE UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT.

By G. A. Jameson, M. D., 1891.

(Read at the Western New York Alumni Banquet, Buffalo, N. Y., March 20, 1914.)

Behold the bright Star of the East, Where VERMONT lights her sons to the feast;

And her beacon beams ever more fair,
Where the faith of our fathers was tried,

When they planted it there by her side,
And gave for her keeping a prayer.

Within your fair bosom, CHAMPLAIN,
Where the mountain's soft, summer-

refrain,
Like a spirit, fares forth to the sea,
Sing the souls of our sires, that pass

O'er your moon-beaming bosom of glass,
Demanding devotion to thee.

The spirit of life, through your hills,
Melts the mother, of rivers and rills,
That hath poured to your glory CHAM-

PLAIN;
From her bosom our fathers are gone,

And all silent their prayer and their song,
But faith and your glory remain.

The lode-star is bright in your Halls,
Where the voice of your triumph still calls,

Through the years since our fathers
have died,

For your heart keeps their faith and their prayer,

And your tongue has their song and its air,

To crown both your glory and pride.

Upon the green hills of VERMONT,
Through the years there is sparkling

a font,

Where the youth of our country is led,
Where they seek for the spirit and fire,

That the deeds of our fathers inspire,
For the deeds keep living the dead.

There's a song in the land of our birth,
For the glory it has in the earth,

For its wisdom and progress ordain,
The little red school and the college,

Far-famed for their wit and their knowledge,

The scepter and crown of CHAM-

PLAIN.

VERMONT in her beauty and pride,

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION IN VERMONT.*Short Schools Held in Seven Counties.

Largely through the agency of the University of Vermont a campaign for greater agricultural efficiency is being conducted throughout the state. Series of meetings are held in various towns about the state. These meetings are fully attended by the progressive farmers, and sometimes their progressive wives and daughters.

The work itself is under the direction of Prof. Thomas Bradlee who is the general superintendent or supervisor. It is carried out by Prof's. Hills, Jenks, Cummings, Borland, Loveland, and Hawes.

Their talks are confined to the practical side of agriculture. The topics discussed cover the more important branches of garden farming, dairying, animal breeding and care, fruit culture, and forestry. The farmers are taught the principles of and the reasons for rotation of crops, how to set out and spray fruit trees, and methods of breeding cattle with a view to more healthy animals, and the methods of clearing and utilizing waste or swampy land.

The towns where meetings have already been held, or are being held, are Dorset, Bristol, Bradford, Swanton, Barre, Grand Isle, and Barton.

ALUMNI NOTES.

1904. Rev. Arthur H. Sargent is located at North Bend, Oregon, where he is organizing a Unitarian Church. He has founded a free public library. North Bend is two miles from Marshfield, where Cassius R. Peck, 1902, and Arthur Peck, 1908, are practicing law. Mr. Sargent, it will be remembered, was for some time pastor of the Unitarian Church at Eureka, California, and it was while at this place that he presented two plays of his own composition "The Spirit of Christmas" and "Choosing a Profession."

1897. Albert E. Lewis has moved his law offices to the new Parker building, 78 Devonshire street, Boston.

At a recent dinner of the New England Alumni Association of the University of Vermont in Boston, members came from every one of the New England States and also from New York. It is believed that the member who came from longest distance travelled over 230 miles. A relatively large number came from places 50-150 miles from Boston. This speaks volumes for the loyalty of the Vermont men.

Ex-1913. The engagement of G. N. Harmon of Rutland and Miss Helen D. Rhines of Wollaston, Mass., has been announced.

D. G. Babbitt, ex-'15 of Bellows Falls is a reporter on the Boston Traveler.

1908. H. F. Miller has recently been made advertising manager of the Goulds Manufacturing Company of Seneca Falls, N. Y., manufacturers of pumps and hydraulic machinery.

1889. A. L. Kennedy has moved from New York City to Danforth, Me., where he maintains a large outdoor camp. He continues in his business as consulting agricultural chemist.

1909. Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Harrington of Washington, D. C., are the parents of a daughter, Pauline Edna, born March 30.

1889. A. B. Gilbert has been reappointed business manager of the Engineering Record of New York, a position he gave up a year and a half ago to do special work for his company, the McGraw Publishing Co.

Ex-1893. The Rev. Irving A. Flint is now serving his fifth year as minister at the Congregational Church at Hatfield, Mass.

'10. G. M. Cassidy. Recent copies of the Cablenews-American, the leading newspaper in the Philippine Islands and published at Manila, contain very flattering praise of G. M. Cassidy, U. V. M., '10. He is now professor and physical director of the University of the Philippines. Since Professor Cassidy has been at the university there has been a marked improvement in the physical side of the education of its students. At the annual field and track championship meet, held at the carnival stadium at Manila recently, the team from the university easily headed all other teams, of which there were nine, taking the meet by a score of 45, which was 11 points higher than its nearest competitor. At the meet no fewer than twelve of the university records were smashed, and the marks in the other events were high. The story of the meet ends with a paragraph praising very highly the work of Physical Director Cassidy.

1900. Dr. Perley Spaulding, Pathological Inspector of the Federal Horticultural Board at Washington, D. C., delivered the annual John Lewis Russell lecture of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society on March 21. The subject was "Undesirable Foreign Plant Diseases."

1894. Dr. E. G. Spaulding has recently been promoted to a full professorship in philosophy at Princeton University. Dr. Spaulding has been assistant professor and Earl Dodge preceptor in philosophy for some years.

1897. James L. Davis, section engineer for the Board of Water Supply, New York City, and formerly in charge of the board's laboratory, has resigned (contracts under his charge drawing to a close) and has become supervisor of highways for Bennington County, Vermont. He will have additional duties as engineer for the county road work, under the State commissioner of highways. His headquarters will be at Manchester Center.

Dr. Willard Phipard, med. '13, of New York City, and Miss Hazel E. Dearing of Burlington, were married at Burlington, March 20. After a wedding trip to Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Phipard will go to New York City to live.

1909. Fenwick H. Watkins, is still making good. Fargo College of Fargo, N. D., where Watkins is physical director, has won the State basketball championship. The following is a clipping from the article in the Fargo paper:

"... Special credit belongs to Coach Watkins. From the beginning he has worked steadily on the defensive style; at the same time insisting on individual basketshooting ability. He developed these to such an extent that the opponent's plays were broken up in nearly every case. His generalship was evident in every game."

Mr. Watkins was captain of one of the last Varsity basketball teams.

McCULLOUGH ALUMNI CUP.

Stimulates Interest in Class Reunions at Commencement Time.

This coming Commencement will be the seventh occasion at which the various classes will compete for the honors of the J. G. McCullough Cup. Not all CYNIC readers are acquainted with the history of the cup, so the following details of its history have been ascertained from Mr. Charles E. Allen, '59 of this city:

At the Alumni Breakfast at the Commencement of 1907, Pres. Buckham exhibited the Loving Cup presented by Gov. McCullough to the University, and briefly explained the idea of the giver. He hoped it would serve the purpose well in stimulating the interest of Alumni in returning for Commencement week. The object of the donor was to have inscribed upon the Cup, each year, the graduating year of the Class which has the greatest percentage of living members present at Commencement.

Boston University Law School

Three years' course. College graduates are permitted to take the course for the Bachelor's Degree in two years, provided their college courses include certain legal studies (e. g., Constitutional Law, etc.), and if they obtain high standing. Special scholarships ($50 per year) for college graduates. Address.

Dean HOMER ALBERS, 11 Ashburton Place, Boston, Mass.

In 1907 (the first year) the honor fell to two classes, 1857 and 1868, the attendance being 50 per cent. in each Class.

In 1908 the Class of 1858 received the honor with an attendance of 50 per cent.

In 1909 the Class of 1866, (the only survivor being present), 100 per cent.

In 1910 the Class of 1851, (the only survivor being present), 100 per cent.

In 1911 the Class of 1886, with an attendance percentage of 70 per cent.

In 1912 the Class of 1862, had the honor with three out of five present, 60 per cent.

In 1913 the Class of 1855, (three out of five living being present), 60 per cent.

Who will win this year? So far the class of 1889 which celebrates its twenty-fifth anniversary is showing the greatest activity. The class of 1864 with five living members, all living fairly near Burlington seems to have a good show for winning it upon its 50th anniversary. The class of 1884 is another anniversary class which ought to have a good chance for the cup, if a large class reunion is actively promoted.

TEMPLES OF THE FAR EAST.

Dean George H. Perkins gave a stereopticon lecture on Wednesday night on "The Temples of the Far East." He showed many beautiful views upon the screen, including a number of color photographs. He showed the difference in architecture between the temples of Egypt, India, Burma, China and Japan. The magnificence of the temples was pointed out as an indication of the depth of religious feeling in these Oriental peoples.

The lecture was under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. The third lecture of this course will be "A Simple Reader and His Shakespere," by Rev. I. C. Smart, two weeks from now.

St. Paul's Meeting.

The St. Paul's Club meets Monday evening at 8.00 o'clock, April 20, at the Lambda Iota fraternity house. The subject will be "Women's Rights." The committee appointed to secure for Burlington the next meeting of the Annual Conference of New England Student Churchmen will make a report. All men of the university are invited to attend.

INTERFRATERNITY CONFERENCE MEETS.

Rushing By-Laws Further Considered.

The Interfraternity Conference passed no further legislation at its meeting on Wednesday night at the Lambda Iota house. Of the eight academic fraternities represented, all but two reported that they had ratified in toto the five rules passed at last meeting. The non-ratifying fraternities did not wish as long a period as November first before pledging, but will consider further.

The methods of making the proper machinery for enforcement of the rules, for the prompt investigation of reported violations, and for recommendation as to penalty were considered. Committees were appointed to propose suitable penalties, and to draft a plan for an executive committee. The disposition of the period between the opening of college and the pledging day was considered. The next meeting will be at the Delta Psi house on Wednesday, April 29.

CAPTAIN REEVES' NEW BOOK.

"Military Education in the U. S." Will be a Pioneer Work.

Captain Reeves has just completed a new book on "Military Education in the United States" and the book is now in the hands of the printers. The first edition will appear in about a month. It is the only book on this subject that has ever been published, and will appeal to all educators and well-informed people generally.

We are inclined to think, perhaps, that West Point, the land-grant colleges and military camps are about the biggest parts of our national military education. It is amazing to learn that there is a well-organized system containing not less than eighteen different kinds of military education.

TROOPS IN COLLEGE BUILDING IN 1813-15.

The Old Building Rented, Not Seized, Says Evidence.

The statement that the original college building was seized and occupied by United States troops in the War of 1812 has appeared in print in certain historical articles. Documentary evidence recently received by Professor Goodrich is a disproof of the seizure: He writes:

In the Historical Discourse presented by President John Wheeler at the Semi-Centennial Anniversary in 1854, the fact that the college edifice was occupied in 1813-14 as soldiers' barracks is thus referred to:

"The small town (Burlington) was little else than a camp of armed men. The college building was seized for an arsenal, and soon demanded for barracks; and, if refused, forcible possession was determined on."

This seems to misrepresent the attitude and action of the U. S. Government. In 1838 inquiry was made, through Hon. Heman Allen, M. C., of Gen. Alexander Macomb as to the way in which the government came into possession of the building. At his request Capt. Henry Stanton, quartermaster at Burlington in 1813, replies substantially as follows:

"In the winter of 1813-14 General Macomb with his brigade was ordered into winter quarters at Burlington. This addition to the forces already at that place made it necessary to seek more extensive quarters than the public buildings at the post afforded. The college edifice was at the time but partially occupied, and I was instructed by Gen. Macomb to enter into negotiations for its hire.

"A meeting of such members of the corporation as lived nearby was held, at which the General and myself were present. A proposition was made on the part of the University which was not acceded to. A day or two after this meeting, $5,000 per annum was offered for the rent of the building, which offer was finally accepted. A written contract was made and possession given to the United States, at whose expense, it was stipulated, all damages should be repaired. * * * It is not within my recollection that any intention existed on the part of General Macomb of taking forcible possession of the building in question, or of occupying it in any other character than that of an acceptable tenant."

(Stanton was made bvt. brigadier general in 1847, and died in 1856.)

Col. Stanton's letter is dated Washington, February 25, 1838.

AT OTHER COLLEGES.

Several fraternities at Wesleyan have been formulating a plan whereby they may have a common purchasing agent for the fraternity dining tables. It is estimated that $25,000 worth of staple articles are needed annually by the fraternity boarders. It is planned to have a purchasing agent at Middletown or New York, who will fill orders promptly and as cheaply as possible whenever the fraternity stewards make requisitions.

FOUNDER'S DAY COMES NEXT FRIDAY

DR. W. H. HOPKINS, ORATOR

Program of the Day Includes Many Events Besides the Exercises Proper.

The twenty-first observance of Founder's day at the university will occur on next Friday, May first. The exercises of the day will open with guardmount at 8:10 in the morning. Dress parade by the battalion may follow, but this feature of the program has not been fully decided upon.

At nine o'clock the customary exercises of the Boulder Society will be held at the Boulder. The announcement of the Boulder men of 1915 will then be made. The Cap and Skull, the senior medical honorary society, will also choose their men at this time.

The Founder's day exercises will be held in the gymnasium at half past nine. The exercises will include a song, and an anthem, a scripture reading by Professor John E. Goodrich and a prayer by the chaplain of the day. Addresses will be given by Frederick M. Olzendam, '15 of Woodstock and Seth P. Johnson, '14 of Wilston. The oration will be delivered by the Reverend William H. Hopkins, D., '85, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Albany, N. Y. Announcement of the selections of Boulder and Key and Serpent will be made. The first inter-class singing contest will then be held at the statue of Lafayette on the college green immediately after the exercises. The winners of the winning class will be engraved upon the Lyman cup. Each class will sing two songs.

A baseball game with Georgetown University will be played on Centennial field at three o'clock in the afternoon.

The annual Julia Spear prize reading between young women of the freshman and sophomore classes will be held at eight o'clock in the evening at the Billings Library.

Founder's day was first celebrated in 1894. The first exercises were very simple. They were held in the evening at the Billings Library. Rev. Dr. Byington, '52, was the speaker. The next year the exercises assumed the present form. There were two undergraduate addresses and Professor J. E. Goodrich, '53, gave the oration, the subject being "The Relation of the University to the State."

It is interesting to note that Ira Allen, born May first, 1751, died just hundred years ago.

TWO GAMES WITH COLBY.

Baseball Season Opens—Colby's Record.

The baseball team opens the season with Colby at Burlington on Friday and Saturday. Vermont's past record in her baseball contests with Colby has been pretty good. In 1907 two games resulted in scores of 6-0, and 14-0, respectively, and in 1910, Vermont won by the close score of 1-0. It is noticeable that the whole three games were shut-outs. However, last year Colby won from Harvard by a score of 5-2, and this week she won from Dartmouth by a score of 5-3. From all indications there will be two exciting games, and the home rooters will have their first opportunity this season to gauge the work of the Varsity team.

JUNIOR WEEK PROGRAM NOW COMPLETED

Committee Announces Final Schedule of Events.

At a meeting of the junior week committee, called by Chairman R. B. Smith at the Lambda Iota house, at the first of the week, the arrangements for junior week were talked over and a permanent plan made out. Junior week is to start at 4 o'clock Wednesday, May 20th, and continue through to Saturday night, May 23rd. The plan as made out is as follows:

Wednesday, May 20th.

Junior week begins at 4 o'clock with a flag raising in front of campus. Baseball team at West Point. Fraternity dances.

Thursday, May 21st.

St. Lawrence-Vermont baseball game.

Junior prom. at night.

Friday, May 22nd.

"Peerade" at noon.
At 4 o'clock the College Hum on campus.

College play at night.

Junior banquet.

Saturday, May 23rd.

M. A. C.-Vermont baseball game. Junior boatride.

A general petition was sent by the committee to the Student Faculty Council asking permission for all clubs and fraternities to hold a dance during the week.

The committee as met was made up of D. R. Grandy, H. C. Fisk, Jr., H. A. Mayforth, R. K. Edgerton, H. H. Lefler and J. B. Johnson.

College Play Rehearsals.

The Junior Week Play, "Just out of College," is now well under way. The mid-winter rehearsals gave it an exceptionally good start. Twenty-two candidates were out the first night. Professor M. W. Andrews is coaching the play.

GYMNASIUM TO HAVE LARGE ADDITION WILL SEAT 2000

An Ell 120 by 100 will be Made at Once for Auditorium, Drill Room, and Baseball Cage.

An addition upon the east end of the gymnasium was authorized at a recent meeting of the executive committee of the Board of Trustees. Work will start at once and it is hoped that it will be completed by Commencement. The addition will be 120 feet by 100 feet, a one story structure with a dirt floor that will hold about two thousand people.

The hall is needed for the sessions of the Summer School where large assemblages must be provided for. It will also be used as a drill hall, thus saving much wear and tear upon the present gymnasium floor. It will be used as a room for stock judging during the sessions of the winter short courses and especially during Farmers' Week. It will be well-lighted and can be used as a baseball cage which the team has needed for so long.

The floor of the new building will be upon a level with the basement floor of the gymnasium or may be two feet lower. The present east fire-escape will furnish access to it from the gymnasium. The peak of the roof will come just above the fire-escape door. The new building will be the width of the gym floor plus the two wings.

The committee in charge consists of Elias Lyman, C. P. Smith, and Redfield Proctor, and Prof. G. P. Burns. Professor James W. Elliot is designing the roof trusses, donating his services. The other plans will be very simple.

WIG AND BUSKIN OFFERS CUP.

A short business meeting of the Wig and Buskin Society was held at the Phi Delta Theta house on Wednesday afternoon. It was decided to give the "Peerade" committee the sum of twenty-five dollars toward its expenses and to offer a cup to be awarded for the best stunt in the "Peerade."

The proposed trip to Enosburg Falls where the college play would be given was discussed, but nothing definite was decided.

Senior Debate.

A senior debate on the question, "Resolved, That coastwise shipping should be exempt from canal tolls" was won by the negative on Thursday morning, April 16. The winning debaters were Emerson and Salisbury. The affirmative was upheld by Styles and Sykes.

VOLUNTEERS SIGNING UP.

Last Wednesday morning a message came from the adjutant general at Washington to the military department, asking how many men could be raised in the college for service in Mexico. Up to Wednesday night 29 men had volunteered. It will be clearly understood that volunteers if called for enlist for the war period only, in accordance with the volunteer bill which passed the House last Monday.

MUCH TALENT DISPLAYED BY YOUNG WOMEN

"Evening of Rhythmic Expression" is Thoroughly Successful.

The entertainment of Rhythmic Expression and Gymnasium exercises given by the young women of the department of physical education of the University Friday evening, April 17, in the college gymnasium was a great success in every way. The large audience which entirely filled the gymnasium, received the performance with much enthusiasm and appreciation. Each number was encored. The entire program, which was different from anything that has been given here before, was of the very highest order, and was presented in a finished manner which showed excellent training. The dances were selected from the masters of the terpsichorean art in America and abroad. The program follows:

- 1—Grand March, Green and Gold, C. F. Robinson.
  - 2—Dumb-bells, Freshman Class.
  - 3—Fairy Queen, Sophomore Class, (Chalif).
  - 4—Dinah Dolls, Girls' Glee Club and Pickaninnies, J. Sherwood.
  - 5—Sylvette, Solo Dance, Hazel Spinney.
  - 6—One Step, Miss Kingsland and Mr. Van Patten.
  - 7—American and Argentine Tango, Miss Kingsland and Mr. Van Patten.
  - 8—Greek Maidens playing ball, (Chalif).
  - 9—Japanese Fan Dance, (Chalif).
  - 10—Indian Clubs, Sophomore Class.
  - 11—Reaping the Flax, Folk Dance, Mary Hinmon.
  - 12—Hesitation Waltz, Miss Kingsland and Mr. Van Patten.
  - 13—Brazilian Maxixe, Miss Kingsland and Mr. Van Patten.
  - 14—Russian Cossack, Leonora Stiles and Fannie Lewitis.
  - 15—Zouave Drill, Freshman Class. Director: Mabel Eunice Stone.

OUT OF DOORS CLUB TAKES FIRST HIKE

Thirteen Men Tramp Fifteen Miles to Mallet's Bay.

The out-of-doors club took its first hike Tuesday, April 22. This was the first of a series of about three preparatory to the Camel's Hump and Mt. Mansfield hikes. The day, cold and cloudy in the morning, cleared away so that the crowd, thirteen in number, started out under most auspicious circumstances.

The meeting place was Williams Science Hall at 2:30. Going by way of Winooski, the men reached Mallets Bay and circled back through Colchester, South Burlington and Winooski, arriving here at 7:30. Supper was had by all at Commons Hall—a supper spiced with songs and "reminiscences" of the first hike of the Out-o'-Doors Club of Vermont.

A feature of the trip was the crossing of a wide river that covered the place where a shore road ought to be. Ransom did the Charon act with a little nine-foot dingey. Three eventful trips among bushes and uncharted reefs brought all across in safety, but no one yet has been able to figure how to leave the boat on the side where it belonged.

Mallet's Head was the highest point and farthest point reached. Here the bunch gave the "Old Vermont." This is the first of a number of hills and mountains which will hear the Vermont yells before the year is over. Long mountain climbs are planned on May 7th and 14th.

The Out-o'-Doors Club now has about 80 members.

"WOMEN'S RIGHTS" DISCUSSED.

St. Paul's Club Considers Mooted Subject.

The St. Paul's Club met Monday evening, April 20, at the Lambda Iota fraternity house. The question of "Women's Rights" was thoroughly discussed by an interested group. The committee appointed at a previous meeting reported very favorable prospects of securing for Burlington the thirteenth annual conference of New England Student Churchmen to be held next February. The latest meeting of this conference was held at Amherst last February and was attended by college men from nearly all parts of New England. The next meeting of the St. Paul's Club will be held at the Phi Delta Theta house May 25 to discuss means of strengthening alumni bonds and to elect officers for next year.

Freshmen Meeting.

The freshman class held a meeting April 21 during chapel hour. At this meeting Harold O. Wilbur of Buffalo, N. Y., was elected class baseball manager and a pipe committee consisting of Anderson, Marr and Saunders was elected. The question of baseball sweaters was referred to the executive committee.

COMPANY C BEING

RAISED ON HILL.

Major Adrian St. John is trying to raise a militia company on the hill to be known as "Company C of the State Militia." Those who enlist will not be required to attend the summer camp in Maine, unless they care to do so. The first regular inspection will be held on May 15th and privates will be paid $1.50 each for that drill. Forty-one men must appear at the inspection in order that recognition as a regular state company may be secured. Of this number 22 have already enlisted.

GIFT TO UNIVERSITY.

W. W. Scranton Sends a Check for $5,000 to Put the Smith Farm in Shape.

President Guy Potter Benton recently received a check for $5,000 from W. W. Scranton of Scranton, Pa., which will be used in repair work on the Worthington C. Smith farm in St. Albans, which was given to the University by Mr. Scranton some time ago. The University has contemplated using the farm in connection with the agricultural department and the gift in cash will be highly appreciated.

FIRST GAME IN INTER- FRATERNITY SERIES.

Sigs Win From Alpha Zeta.

On last Wednesday in the first game of the inter-fraternity series Sigma Phi defeated Alpha Zeta by a score of 13-11. The game was remarkable for the number of errors made by each side and the loose playing delighted and thrilled an enthusiastic and appreciative audience. The hitting of Burrage, who had a home run and a three-bagger to his credit was a feature of the game. For the Alpha Zetas Schoff and Thomas played good games and for the Sigs McLeod and Foster. The line-up:

SIGMA PHI.	ALPHA ZETA.
Burrage, c.....	1b. Dyke
Kellog, Grandy, 1b.....	3b. Squires
Mack, c. f.....	2b. Mann
Dow, 2b.....	p. Carrigan
Smith, Howe, r. f.....	c. f. Hanson
McLeod, 3b.....	r. f. Wilson
Foster, p.....	c. Schoff
Montague, l. f.....	l. f. Aldrich
Innings .....	1 2 3 4 5 6 7
Sigma Phi .....	0 2 0 7 0 0 4—13
Alpha Zeta .....	0 0 4 2 1 2 2—11

Summary: Home run, Burrage; struck out, by Carrigan 5, by Foster, 11; umpire, Chapin.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN MEETS.

The Deutscher Verein held one of the most successful and enjoyable meetings of the year on Wednesday evening, in the Y. W. C. A. rooms. Professor Appelmann spoke first on the Great League of German Clubs in American Universities. He advised the club to join this league because he thought the benefits of doing this were numerous. It would make the meetings more uniform and bring the club and college in closer relation with the other clubs and colleges in America and also in Germany.

The question of membership of the club was discussed, and it was decided that next year it would be based upon scholarship standing.

President Paulson read several German poems and Miss E. R. Gates, '15, read several humorous selections. Professor Appelmann read some of the most modern German poetry.

After the singing of German songs and the serving of refreshments, the meeting was adjourned. A number of visitors were present.

MUCH TALENT DISPLAYED

BY YOUNG WOMEN.

dance was most gracefully performed. The Dinah Doll dance, while the Girls' Glee Club sang, was well executed and had to be repeated. The dance of the Greek Maidens playing ball was a most artistic bit while the peasant dance, Reaping the flax, was most realistic. The Indian Club drill showed much practice and could not well have been improved upon. The Japanese Fan dance was charmingly done, and the rainbow of colors in the different shades of light made a very pretty picture. The final number, a Zouave drill was the most complicated of all. It was exceedingly well executed by the thirty-five young women who took part in it and showed careful training and long continued practice.

Miss Hazel Spinney, '15, was most light, graceful, and attractive in her solo dance, Sylvette.

Much appreciation and gratitude is due to Miss Caro Kingsland and Mr. Charles Van Patten, who gave an artistic demonstration of the latest dances. It was the first time the University has had the opportunity of seeing the new dances demonstrated by artists and they were most warmly received and heartily applauded. Following the program, a dance of six numbers was enjoyed.

Three prizes were awarded, the first prize, a gold medal, was awarded to Miss Margaret Murphy, '17; the second prize, a silver medal, was awarded to Miss Helen Chapin, '17, Miss Alsey Young being a very close third. These two medals were for work in the Zouave drill. A bronze medal of similar design, was awarded Miss Lucy Swift, '16, for selling the greatest number of tickets for the entertainment. The judges were Mrs. Myrick, Mrs. Stetson, and Captain Myett.

Much praise is due to Mrs. Mabel E. Stone, physical director of women, who had entire charge of the entertainment and the training of the girls. Mrs. L. W. Swan and Mrs. Ira L. Reeves assisted in the costuming of the girls. Robinson's orchestra was in attendance, but Miss Hazel Kimball, '15, was the pianist for the performance. $175 was taken in, about $130 of which is clear profit, and will be used by the women's athletic association. Much of the financial success is due to the energy of Miss Crandall, '14, who is president of the athletic association. The electrical illuminations were in charge of Mr. Huntington.

TRACK SEASON TO OPEN.

Vermont's Chances are Poor in Colgate Meet.

The first of the schedule of series of three track meets will be held next Saturday afternoon on the home oval with Colgate as our opponent. It will be recalled that our last meet with this team occurred two years ago when Al Gutterson was doing business. The prospects this year are not bright. The line-up will be much as follows:

Hayden will run the mile and two mile; Wilbur, Patterson, and Shippy the half mile; Patterson and Cintron, the 440; Bolster and Patterson the 220; Burrage and Hackett, the high hurdles; Wright and Cintron, the low hurdles. Gallagher, Cintron, and Schoff will enter the broad jump; Wilcox, Foster, and Squire the high jump; Burrage, Best, Squires, and Daniels the pole vault; Squires and Schoff will handle the weights.

Colgate is reported to have her usual fast aggregation. Nichols, their 220 and 100 yard dasher and low hurdler, is particularly well known. Only first and second places will count—5 and 3 respectively. Entries are unlimited. The inter-class, preliminary meet scheduled for last Thursday was cancelled on account of cold weather, and probably will not be run off.

BUSY BUSINESS MEETING.

Student Faculty Council Considers Many Petitions.

At a meeting of the Student-Faculty Council at the Billings Library on April 17th the following business was transacted:

The Y. W. C. A. were granted the privilege of holding an entertainment on May 5th. The proceeds derived from this performance are to go to the Silver Bay fund.

The hesitation waltz and one-step were granted for the football, Key and Serpent and band dance in the gym Thursday night, April 23rd, with the restriction that two Boulder men act as floor marshals.

The junior week committee's petition asking for junior week from May 20th to May 23rd was granted. The council sent a recommendation to the Senate in order that the two upper classes might have no college work during junior week.

The Cotillion Club's petition for a dance in junior week was laid on the table until all the requests for dances in this week were in.

Kappa Sigma fraternity was granted a dance at the Hotel Vermont on the night of May 29th.

Phi Chi's petition for a dance was granted.

The resolution sent in by the Vermont Debating Society whereby members of its debating teams might wear proper insignias was laid on the table.

LOCALS.

The track meet and interfraternity baseball game scheduled for Thursday were postponed on account of the weather.

Robert Edgerton, who has recently been ill at the Mary Fletcher Hospital, is about college once more.

Band Stand and Sings.

A movement is on foot to procure a grandstand for the front campus, having weekly sings of one hour duration for the rest of the year after the Founder's day competition. This will enable the college to give concerts during junior week and commencement. Nearly all the classes have begun work on their songs for the Founder's day competition.

ALUMNI NOTES.

1881. Dr. W. R. Newton, Professor of German in Rutgers College, New Brunswick, N. J., has gone to the University of Münster in Münster, Germany, to remain until September 1. Mrs. Newton, 1880, is to join him in a month, sailing by the Canada Fabre Line, Brooklyn, May 30. Dr. Newton will do research work.

Ex-1913. The engagement of Everitt I. Soule of Burlington and Miss Christine Stranahan of St. Albans, has been announced.

1892. Robert E. Lewis, L. H. D., has just finished a series of public lectures under the auspices of Western Reserve University on Democracy in the Far East. Their subjects were as follows: The Impact of the West, The Republican Struggle of 1911, The Present Status of Mr. Hay's Policy of Open Door, Education and Democracy, The Democratizing Power of Religion, The Panama Canal and the Democratizing Process. Summary: Is the Orient to adopt the fundamental conceptions of government and society of the West? America's part in the Pacific drama.

THE NEAR-VOLUNTEER OF '98.

The following is a poem written for the CYNIC just after the outbreak of the Spanish-American war:

War.

Sometimes I really think I'll go and fight
Those horrid beastly Spaniards, don't you know,
And lay a couple hundred of them low
Beneath the pale moon's undulating light,
I think t'would really be a chawming sight
To see them laid out nicely in a row
All ready for the coroner, and so
I'm deucedly good mind to start to-night.
But stay! just let me think; what shall I weah
What best will suit my physique on the road?
Of course I'll want a gawment a la mode
In Spain, as we will probably go theah
Oh deah! 'Tis such an awful ways to roam
I thinks, by Jove, I'd better stay at home.

Retrospect and Prospect.

Now that the baseball and track seasons are upon us and we can feel comparatively secure from snow and zero weather, it might be well to look backward upon the accomplishments of the winter and to look forward at the possibilities of the spring. It was not many years ago that we heard complaints on the score that U. V. M. practically "hibernated" during the winter months. In spite of the rigors of the past winter, it has not been a period of hibernation. There are at least three reasons which contribute to the growth in winter activities. One is the growth in numbers of the student body; more leaders have been developed; and more activities have found their advocates. The second is in the continuance of college chapel through the winter, instead of having only the weekly vesper services at which the college could assemble. Daily chapel exercises certainly help in forming a college consciousness, aside from their contribution to the religious side of the institution. Thirdly, the average Vermont man seems to be a little more awake to his opportunities. "The rocking chair fleet," "the knights of the green felt," and the movie maniacs do not seem to include in their ranks quite such a large proportion of the students as formerly.

This winter has seen the revival of debating, and an unusual activity in all forms of club life. There was a good inter-class basketball series. The Kake Walk set a high record. An Out of Door Club has been organized which promises well for next winter. Hockey was unfortunately allowed to slide. An Interfraternity Conference has been organized and we are well on the road to a well-planned rushing system, such as many have vainly desired for years. Some steps have been made toward student government. The St. Paul's Club by its frank and open discussions of college problems has helped to start a spirit of self-analysis, idealism, and reform. The Y. M. C. A. has shown more life, and the industrial service work has been the first step in the right direction. The Junior publicity committee has started work with a rush.

We have before us two months in which to put a fitting climax to the year. The baseball and track teams need our support. The track team, especially, since it has not the excellent prospects of baseball, needs our continued cooperation. The singing contest should be welcomed and the classes should do their utmost in spite of the short time ahead. It is to be hoped that our college singing will improve this spring, after the inter-class singing has furnished the impetus. There is the Peerade, which should soon call forth plans and preparations. Finally, there is Commencement, which the undergraduates should help to make the best ever.

Concerning Rattling.

At the opening of the baseball season a few words are necessary concerning rattling of opposing teams and players. We have not all of us been in close enough touch with other colleges to realize that this practice has fallen into universal disfavor. The home team have a familiar diamond, the friendly grandstands, possibly more pitchers at hand, and freedom from the discomforts of traveling; they are entitled to no more advantages than these. The Chinese University team last spring had to cope with too many difficulties, and were defeated because they were rattled. Had there been a little more self-control and sportsmanship in the grandstand, we might be able to look back at that game with more satisfaction. In order to fall in line with other colleges and to keep our highest self-respect, we must do nothing in the grandstand which would keep the opposing players from doing their best.

Founder's Day.

Founder's Day is the best of our college customs, because it recalls the highest of our traditions and the greatest of our alumni and benefactors. It used to be necessary to appeal to students to support it by attending the exercises instead of going fishing or going home. But the tendency has been each year to make more of the day, and last year when the exercises were held in the gymnasium and the entire university attended it seemed certain that no appeal for student participation would ever need be made in the future. The program of the coming Founder's Day indicates that Ira Allen's birthday will be celebrated even more notably than before, and it is hard to imagine a student with soul so dead that he believes he can afford to miss it.

Executive Committee Power.

The freshmen seem to be trying a new departure in class government, namely, representative government. Their executive committee is far from being a mere formality. The class seems to leave the committee much work to do, and lately has left to the decision of the committee the matter of determining such an important policy as the giving or withholding of class baseball sweaters. This is an interesting experiment. If the committee is capable, painstaking and conscientious, the method is likely to be more widely adopted in the future. A hundred and fifty is a large number for a business body, unless there is a greater familiarity with the rudiments of parliamentary law than has been shown in most class meetings. Such a meeting may well find it difficult to transact much business within the limits of 25 minutes. If capable executive committees had investigated and directed class finances in the past, we know of several class treasuries which would be in better shape.

Communications.

Students of the University:—

The eight members of the debating teams desire to express their thanks for the hearty support and financial backing given by the students of Vermont. This support has been so influential and interest in debating has been so keen as to place debating in the University of Vermont upon a fairly sound basis.

Results of the triangular debates ought to spur students interested in debate to harder and more consistent work. The debates of this year have revealed two things; first, we have real debating material, and, second, that with consistent coaching that material can win over creditable rivals. Coaching this year although of the best was without system. I have every reason to believe that a system of coaching will be devised which will be highly efficient. Although Vermont failed to win both debates I think there is general satisfaction with the showing made.

So much for this year, what about next year? Prospects are unusually good. In all probability there will be eligible for debating the six men who debated this year, the two alternates, and some fifteen others who were candidates for the team. There will be material for two teams and possibly for three. Finances of this year show that three teams can be supported without inconvenience to anyone. Every man of intercollegiate abilities should be given a chance and will be given a chance to win for Vermont. Preparation for a debate must be so thorough and exhaustive that one debate a year is enough for a single team. Furthermore two or more teams working on the same subject or even on different subjects can be mutually helpful to each other. Frequent clash in practice debates is desirable.

Thanking you again for your hearty support of debating and feeling sure that it will be continued, I am,
Fraternally yours,
H. ALBON BAILEY,
Head Debater, 1914.

MORE WAYS THAN ONE OF SECURING A KEY.

Character and College Activities Some- times Considered—Scholarship Always.

Phi Beta Kappa is a national society but an interesting diversity, nevertheless, exists in the selective practices in vogue at its different chapters. Although the society is generally recognized as a fraternity of the intellectually elect, its requirements for admission are not always based exclusively upon numerical averages.

Here at the University of Vermont character plays an important part in connection with scholarship. On the Monday of commencement week the members of the local chapter of the society vote on the names presented. The decisions are made known the following day. When choosing its members the society consults the standing of graduates as recorded in the final examinations of the faculty to determine scholarship. Another factor, never omitted from consideration is the character of the candidate. No undergraduates may be admitted to the society, nor can over one-fifth of the graduating class be taken in. If one who has been out of college for several years is thought by his classmates to have deserved distinction, they may present his name to be voted on by the whole society.

At Harvard, toward the middle of the college year, the administrative office publishes a list of the twelve highest men in the junior class and the forty-four highest in the senior class exclusive of those already elected. From these lists eight who have been elected to membership in their junior year, known as the junior eight, choose twenty-two seniors and eight juniors and their choice constitutes the election. In making their choice the senior honor men take into account the severity of a candidate's curriculum course, his evident improvement or decline, his special ability in certain subjects and his success in essay writing, debating and other intellectual activities. Five additional seniors may be elected during the year to bring the chapter total up to thirty-five men. A man's distinction in undergraduate activities such as debating and college journalism, his moral tone and his promise for the future greatly influence the character of this final election, but his personality plays no part.

The Yale chapter of Phi Beta Kappa takes in all men who maintain a stand of 330 on a scale of 400 for any two consecutive years or a stand of 350 on a scale of 400 for the senior year alone. No element enters into the election except that of scholarship.

At Princeton, immediately at the close of the first term of senior year the highest one-twelfth of those men who have been regularly entered since the beginning of their junior year for A. B., Litt. B., or B. S. degrees are duly elected. In June additional seniors are picked to bring the total number up to one-tenth of the class. The marks of freshman year are only included in the estimate if they raise the final average.

All men with an average of eighty per cent. at Columbia are eligible for election. Considerable freedom is practiced here as the number of men to be taken is left to the arbitrary choice of a single committee. In cases of doubt preference is generally given to the candidate of superior excellence in undergraduate achievements.

High scholarship is the absolute requisite demanded at Dartmouth. Elections are held there at the beginning, at the middle and at the end of senior year. The first choice includes all men who have a grade of eighty-five or above in fifty-four semester hours, the second and third all men who have a grade of eighty-five in sixty-three and seventy-two semester hours respectively.

At Amherst all men are entitled to nomination by the faculty who have obtained an average of eighty-eight at the end of the first semester of junior year or of eighty-five at the close of either semester of senior year. The nominations, however, are subject to the vote of the active members.

The men chosen at Williams are, almost without exception, those having the highest standing in the class. The highest one-fourteenth of each class is elected to membership at the end of the junior year. Sufficient men to make up one-seventh of the class are elected after the midyear examinations of the senior year provided that none fall below the minimum standing prescribed by the society.

OUR MEDICAL SCHOOL.

Former Student Discusses Situation,
Comparing With Harvard.

Shall the State of Vermont continue to help support its own Medical School or withdraw the meagre assistance it at present is giving, thereby, undoubtedly, terminating the existence of that School? At a time when this question, of such vital importance to our State and our University, is being discussed, not only at home but throughout the country, it is the duty of every son of our alma mater who is able to give information that may lead to a better understanding of the real merits of our Medical School to give that information.

My position is unique. I spent my undergraduate days in close contact with the Medical School. During those years of close association with its students I became familiar with the loyalty to the School and to the State, which was developed in their minds. After graduation I was a student in that department one year, during which time I studied not Medicine simply, but methods and men as well. In the Fall of 1913 I entered what is universally acknowledged the best medical school in New England, and which, with one possible exception, is the greatest institution for this science in this country, if not in the world. Here I have continued to study Medicine, methods, and men. It is a pleasure to give to those interested the following discussion, based upon my own experiences.

Let us first of all consider the buildings and equipment. Vermont has a handsome building of a size adequate to its present needs. Where I am studying at present the buildings are palatial. That is nice, but not necessary. In equipment I found Vermont weak. This defect can be remedied at a comparatively small cost, and once apparatus is supplied it may be maintained indefinitely by perfectly legitimate breakage fees. The equipment at my present location is unexcelled in the world. This is at once an advantage and a disadvantage; an advantage in that it trains men in the use of the best apparatus obtainable; a disadvantage in that it leaves them with little ability to get dependable data with the less expensive equipment with which most of us must be content in practice. In other words, to quote Professor Slocum, "Anyone can get good results with good instruments, but it takes a good man with a good training to get good results with poor instruments." Vermont should have representative pieces with which the students may become familiar by working in relays. The bulk of the work may be done with the less expensive and less complicated apparatus. The product of the School will be graduates who can get good results with good instruments, and also good results with less accurate means. To illustrate my point I give the following incidents: In a talk on sterilizers to my present class the instructor emphasized the value of a certain expensive agent for this work. Later he asked several members of his audience which steril-izer they would have in their offices. All mentioned the one emphasized. A few weeks later, in Surgery, examination tables were similarly discussed and a very expensive article, whose superiority is unquestioned, was recommended. It, also, received the vote of the class. Carry this through to a full office equipment, let the young doctor buy it if he can, then where can he afford to practice? In a little Vermont village? Hardly!

The professional standing of the instructors in the Vermont Medical School is above question, in every instance. Of this any man may satisfy himself easily. While the faculty includes among its members such men as, to mention a few, Dean Tinkham, Dr. Brown, Dr. Whitney, Dr. Wheeler, and that embodiment of everything a physician ought to be, Dr. Lyman Allen, we need have no fear of its degeneration from any cause whatever. Not only are our faculty members physicians of the highest standing, but also they are excellent teachers, which is another matter entirely. It is my experience that the clearness, accuracy, and proper emphasis, with which these men present their subject, are unsurpassed. Their concern for the individual student I have found unequalled. In the Fall of 1912 I was late in entering the School. Consequently I had much back work to do when I did start. Doctors Brown, Hunter, Joseph, Whitney, and Jackson under whom the work came did everything in their power to assist me, spending a great deal of their own time to do so. In the Fall of 1913 I was late here. I passed my work but unassisted. Such things mean much to the student, but far more to the resulting physician, and to the people who employ him.

The clinical facilities here at Harvard are unexcelled in the world, probably unequalled. The great advantage gained by receiving lectures in a hospital, with from one to six patients always "on tap" to illustrate the subject matter under discussion, can be appreciated readily by everyone. However, these clinics were not built up in a moment. They are the result of many years of development. There is a splendid opportunity to develop equally valuable clinics in Burlington. All that is necessary is to build near the School hospitals that the State must have anyway. Vermont people have not come to a full appreciation of the value of hospital treatment, but their appreciation is growing. Regardless of whether the Medical School exists, the people of the State will demand more hospitals, are, in fact, demanding them today. The Medical School will make these hospitals more valuable to the State; the hospitals will make the Medical School more valuable to the State. Neither can be fully efficient without the other.

The men who are fighting for the continued existence of the School are patriots of the highest order. They are fighting against their own personal interests for the sake of the people of the State. There is not a man teaching in the department today who couldn't earn twice the money he gets from the School, by devoting the same time to private practice. Further discontinuance of the School would practically eliminate competition. If the people of Vermont wish to know how medical men of outside training look upon their State as a field for practice, they may get significant information by finding out how many men of such training are practicing within her borders. Before Vermont signs the death warrant of the Medical School she may well ask herself whence she will get practitioners of the future, after the execution.

ALUMNI NOTES.

Med. 1904.—Dr. O. R. Rider and Miss Elsie Borden, both of Fall River, Mass., have announced their engagement. Dr. Rider is a prominent nose and throat specialist.

1910. The engagement of Ira H. White and Miss Marion Joy both of Pittsfield, N. H., has been announced.

1907. The engagement of S. E. Hall of New York City to Miss Helen Lyman of Burlington has been announced.

1910. Marcus J. Burrington, Jr., has taken over the interests of C. M. Lambert of the firm of C. M. Lambert & Son, Bennington, Vt., and with Ernest S. Lambert has formed a partnership under the firm name of Lambert & Burrington, Engineers and Contractors. They will continue the concrete and monumental business under the new firm name and are prepared to take contracts in plain and reinforced construction, bridges, dams, retaining walls, reservoirs, etc.

It will be remembered that Mr. Burrington graduated a few years ago and that he was catcher with Ray Collins.

1910. J. P. Reed, principal of Petersham, Mass., High school, has accepted a position as principal of Hopkins academy at Hadley, Mass. Following his graduation, Mr. Reed was for a year instructor in mathematics at Williston Seminary, after which he took the position at Petersham which he has since held.

1912. Paul W. Waterman has accepted a position in the mathematics department of the Volkman School, a private boys' school in Boston, for next year. He has been teaching at Montclair Academy in New Jersey for the past two years.

Y. M. C. A. MEETING.

Professor Emerson gave an interesting and well attended talk at the Y. M. C. A. meeting this week, taking up our present day attitudes toward social conditions, showing how the aspect had changed from individual to universal and how even that was proving insufficient. "If the United States," he said, "had taken its one billion dollars now invested in Mexico and put it into Mexican missions of the right sort there would have been no war."

At next week's meeting there will be special music and Y. M. C. A. problems at Vermont will be discussed—Industrial service, deputation work, etc.

PROFESSOR TUPPER SPEAKS.

"The Presentation of Current Events" his Subject at Debating Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Debating Association was held Monday evening, April 20, 1914. There was a fair attendance in spite of the weather and the fact that there were several other meetings the same night. The principal feature of the program was a talk by Professor Tupper on the "Proper Presentation of Current Events." He emphasized the fact that many of the current events we read of in the newspapers and magazines are just as truly history as they will be when we read them twenty years hence in some volume of history wherein they appear with their best clothes on. He showed that in trying to study the present we should strive to select those happenings which have real meaning, and then look at them from as many points of view as possible, so that we can estimate their importance aright. In short, our attitude toward current events should be the four-fold one of curiosity, selection, inspection and interpretation. Piper, '16, read a paper prepared by Isham, '16, on "The history of the Canal Tolls Question." There will be a set debate on this question next week. An extempore debate and a question box also formed parts of the program.

MILITARY CAMP SUPPLEMENT.

The CYNIC will publish a supplement next week upon the Student's Summer Military Encampment. It will contain a description of the camp and Burlington with many illustrations. Most of the copies of the supplement will be sent to those who are not CYNIC readers. It is asked that every CYNIC reader pass his copy on to someone who will be interested in the camp.

KEY AND SERPENT AND FOOTBALL DANCE.

A dance for the joint benefit of Key and Serpent and the football association was held in the university gymnasium last Thursday night. Although there were no hall decorations and no refreshments, the dance drew well, and all said they had an excellent time. A college orchestra under the leadership of Carl Robinson furnished music for the occasion.

COMMONS CLUB SERIES.

Baseball Teams to Compete for Cup.

The Key and Serpent Society has offered to provide a duplicate cup to be known as the "Commons Club Cup" to be played for within the club itself. There will be three teams—senior, junior and sophomore, each drawing lots for the best freshmen players. The winning team will play the winning fraternity team for the championship of the college. G. H. Adams is captain of the 1914 team, J. F. Tennien 1915, and W. E. Armstrong 1916.

THIRD Y. M. C. A. LECTURE.

"A Simple Reader and His Shakespeare" by Rev. I. C. Smart.

The third lecture of the Y. M. C. A. lecture course was given Wednesday evening by Dr. Smart on "A Simple Reader and His Shakespeare." Taking up some of the beauties of Shakespeare, in language scarcely less beautiful he signalled the actors one by one from the wings. Human and humorous, Falstaff, Lear, Cleopatra and Anthony, Macbeth, King Henry and all the other old favorites were presented to view. In closing he remarked on how often in reading Shakespeare we seemed to see our own thoughts and read our own words on his pages. Nothing could prove him a greater interpreter of humanity.

A new lecture has been added to the course, which will be given Wednesday evening, May 6th, by Mr. Taylor of the Greater Vermont Association. The lecture will be of particular interest to members of the Out-o'-Doors Club as his subject will be "The Long Trail and What It Means to Vermont." Season tickets also include this lecture. Tickets for the one lecture may be obtained that evening.

THE INTER-CLASS SING.

Rules for Contest Announced.

The following rules, which may later be revised by the Boulder Society have been made for the inter-class singing contest. The contest will be held immediately after the literary exercises on Founder's day, the classes taking positions around Lafayette's statue or if the weather is unfavorable occupying the corners of the gymnasium.

The contest will be between the men of the various classes singing in order seniors first. Two Vermont songs will be sung by each class, no class to choose "Champlain." Each class will elect a leaders or leaders who will submit the titles of the songs chosen by the class to the Boulder Society to prevent duplication. The numerals of the class, which in the opinion of the judges sings the best will be engraved on the Lyman cup. After the contest all the classes will join in the singing of "Champlain."

A rule requiring one of the songs of each class to be original will probably be added next year but the time has been too short to enforce such a rule this year.

What happens—all harshness gradually vanishes—it becomes a leaf of rich mellowness—a flavor as seductive as the strains of good music—too smooth to bite the tongue.

The true art of producing smoking tobacco is manifested in Velvet—it takes time—takes patience—the making expense is more. But —Velvet is Velvet. At your dealers.

Miss Emmeline Platt, '16, is ill with the mumps.

No gymnasium classes were held this week, but the young women have been asked to sign up for the different events for field day and practice will begin very soon.

"Alice in Wonderland," which was presented in the High School auditorium in January by the women of the University with so much success, was given in Essex Junction, Wednesday evening, April 22, and another performance will be given in Richmond tonight.

A most delightful musicale was held at the home of Mrs. Whiting on South Willard St. Wednesday evening, April 22, for the purpose of completing the piano fund for Howard Hall. The musicale took the form of a piano and song recital by Miss Ransom and Madame Hill, piano and vocal teachers, respectively at Bishop Hopkins Hall. The program was a very delightful one and was thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated by those who heard it. Many thanks are due Miss Ransom and Madame Hill, who so kindly offered their services and gave so much pleasure to music lovers; and also to Mrs. Whiting who so generously opened her house for the occasion.

The executive board of the Girls' Athletic Association met Friday night, April 24, at the home of Mrs. Stone to nominate officers for the coming year.

There will be a meeting of the Commons Club Saturday evening at 7:30 sharp. A snappy program, taking the form of a Cosmopolitan entertainment, ought to be of interest. The business part of the meeting will consider amendments to the constitution and by-laws. As two-thirds membership vote is necessary to carry such amendments every interested member should be there. Bring some one with you who says he is not coming.

COMMONS HALL To the Men of "Old Vermont"

Commons Hall is now under University management and it is the desire of the authorities to make the Hall serve the student body in the largest way possible. In order to do this, it is necessary to have every table full, for then only can the best food and service be given the patrons.

Those who can are asked to board at this institutional table and those who find that impossible are requested, for the sake of the University, to do what they can for the betterment of

HOME SEASON OPENS WITH TWO VICTORIES

COLBY DEFEATED TWICE

Malcolm Pitches No-Hit, No-Run Game and Team Shows Much Speed.

With Malcolm in the box, pitching in his old-time form, Vermont had no difficulty in winning its first game of the season from Colby by a score of 7-0. Malcolm had the Colby men under his thumb at all stages, allowing not a single safety, striking out ten, and only giving three passes to first.

Colby had few chances to score and failed to make any of them good. In the third Campbell knocked a fly which Fitzpatrick dropped after a hard run. Campbell made second when Maiden dropped Mayforth's throw, but died there, Malcolm striking out the next three batters. In the eighth, Lafleur was safe on a fielder's choice, Nutting being forced at second; Campbell walked, and each advanced one base when Mayforth let one go through him, but Nutter struck out, and Steves was easy, Fraser to Berry. In the ninth, with two down, Malcolm walked two in succession, but Nutting knocked an easy ground to the pitcher's box.

Vermont had men on the bases in all except the fifth and eighth innings. The scoring began in the first inning, when with two down, Mayforth singled, went to second on Fitzpatrick's single, and scored on Lafleur's error, Fitzpatrick taking third and scoring on Fraser's hit.

Lyons got as far as third in the second inning on a hit, a stolen base and Linnehan's out but was left there when the next two were easy outs.

In the third, with one out, Mayforth drew a pass, stole second, made third on Fitzpatrick's out and scored on Fraser's second hit. Fraser also stole second, reached third when Lafleur made a botch of Gallagher's grounder, and scored by sliding under Colby's catcher who dropped the ball. Lyons made a clean single but Gallagher was caught, left field to third, retiring the side.

In the sixth inning Vermont again got busy, scoring three. Gallagher singled, stole second and scored on hits by Lyons and Linnehan. Lyons also stole second and scored on Linnehan's hit. Linnehan went to second on Malcolm's out and got to third on Steves' wild pitch. The squeeze play was successfully worked, and Linnehan scored, Maiden being safe at first

OUT O' DOORS CLUB IS PLANNING HIKES.

The Out o' Doors Club has started out on the jump for what is likely to be in a few years, first place in point of interest among the clubs of the university. Already the membership has reached eighty and is steadily rising. Capt. Reeves has secured the forty haversacks from the government as he promised, and they will be used on the first long "hike" which will probably be an over night trip to Mansfield on May 30. The trip scheduled for last Sunday and which was to include Red Rocks, Oak Ledge, East Woods and the Holt estate was postponed on account of rain. Prof. Thomson is arranging a series of tramps of interest for the next few weeks. Attendance at three consecutive hikes permits an associate member to be enrolled on the active list.

Washburn, '16 is designing membership cards which will be printed soon.

Reports from Dartmouth indicate that the outing club has had to date one of the best seasons in its history. Here, where the club holds its high place among the other organizations, the interest never lags and all Dartmouth feels that its institution was one of the best things that ever happened to the college.

"PEERADE" PLANS WELL UNDER WAY

Committee Wishes All to Start Preparations At Once.

The revived "Peerade" promises to be even more successful than the brilliant performances of past years. Chairman Knight and the rest of the committee are brimful of ideas and plans, and if everyone turns in and helps the "Peerade" is bound to be one grand, glorious event. All plans are of course not as yet completed but the present scheme is as follows: The "Peerade" will be assembled at eleven o'clock, Friday, May 22nd, in front of the Old Mill at University Place. The band and several buglers will lead the procession, following which will be the leading men of the college including the baseball team. Then will come the fraternity floats and individual "Peeraders." The fraternities and clubs are already busy with their floats and from the ideas and material which they have accumulated during the two years' intermission, we may expect some wonderful productions in this line. The special cup which is to be presented for the best individual costume will doubtless make the competition strong here and we may look forward to seeing some wonderful costumes. Every individual in college should assist the committee by taking

FOUNDER'S DAY IS CELEBRATED USUAL EXERCISES IN GYM

The Day Full of Events and Marked by the First Inter-Class Sing.

The twenty-first annual observance of Founder's Day took place on Friday, May 1. The exercises were opened by the battalion parade at 8 o'clock. This consisted of guard mounting and the regular dress parade in which the whole cadet battalion took part. The Boulder society's exercises were held at the university boulder at nine o'clock, President Guy Potter Benton delivering the address. The Founder's Day exercises were held in the gymnasium at 9.30 o'clock, Professor J. E. Goodrich presiding. Music was furnished by Barton's orchestra. The program was as follows:

1. Selection by the orchestra.
  2. Anthem by the chapel choir.
  3. Scripture reading by Professor J. E. Goodrich.
  4. Prayer by Rev. John Wright Buckham, '88, chaplain.
  5. English Ode by the student body.
  6. Address by R. M. Olzendam, '15.
  7. Song—Champlain.
  8. Address—Seth P. Johnson, '14.
  9. Latin Ode.
  10. Oration by Rev. William H. Hopkins, D. D., '85, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Albany, N. Y.
  11. Announcements.
  12. Benediction.
- Elections to the Boulder and Key and Serpent Societies.

A novel feature was added to the exercises this year in the inter-class singing contest which took place around the Lafayette monument. All four classes competed in this contest.

President Benton, Professor S. E. Bassett, and Mr. Guy N. Hull were judges.

The Julia Spear Prize Reading was held in the Billings Library at 8 o'clock Friday evening.

The addresses and oration at the exercises were of a high order.

"Frederick Billings."

Roderic M. Olzendam, '15, of Woodstock, the first speaker, delivered an address upon "Frederick Billings." He said in part:

"During the year that is behind us the University of Vermont has lost two of its best friends. With the death of Mrs. Julia Billings and Mr. Fritz Billings the close connection of the past seventy years which has existed between the Billings family and the university seems to be ended. It is entirely proper and fitting that today we should speak and think for a

A Good Annual Promised by 1915.

The 1915 Ariel will be on sale next Thursday, May 7. The first consignment of books will arrive on that day, and may be purchased, while they last, from Manager Ballard at Sigma Phi Place. Other shipments will arrive soon after Thursday and copies will be delivered to all who have ordered the book. The price is two dollars, by mail $2.25.

The book is delayed about 12 days now, but if it appears on May 7 it will be an earlier date than any Ariel for a number of years. The book is full of original features, and is advertised as larger and better than any previous annual.

MEET WITH COLGATE AT CENTENNIAL FIELD

Track Season Opens This Afternoon.

The first track meet on the schedule takes place this afternoon at Centennial Field with Colgate. The visitors have some fine track men, among the best of whom are: Pickard, '14, who does the low hurdles in 26 1-5 sec., and the high hurdles in 16 sec.; Muligan, '17, who has a record of 10 1-5 sec. in the hundred yard dash; Ainsmith, '16, who has thrown the 16-lb. hammer 130 feet; Gould and Brinstrom, Colgate's star cross country men, who will run in the mile and two mile respectively; and Nichols, who is entered in the low hurdles, is a former V. A. man, and has been here several times at the interscholastic meets. Colgate is out for a victory and plans to bring a large number of track men for the meet.

The entries for Vermont are as follows: 100 yd. dash—Bolster, Woodbury, Mayforth; 1 mile run, Hayden, Buchanan, Shippy; 220 yd. dash—Bolster, Patterson, Gallagher; 120 yd. hurdles—Burrage, Hackett; high jump—Wilcox, Foster, Squires; 440 yd. dash, Cintron, Patterson; pole vault—Burrage, Squires, Daniels, Best; shot put—Squires, Schoff; 2 mile run—Hayden, Buchanan, Greenwood; 220 yd. hurdles—Burrage, Cintron; hammer throw—Burrage, Squires; broad jump—Schoff, Gallagher, Cintron; 880 yd. dash—Hayden, Patterson, Shippy, Wilbur.

Syracuse Game Cancelled.

A cold rain was responsible for the cancelling of the game with Syracuse which was scheduled in Burlington on Wednesday. It was a great disappointment, for Syracuse has been defeated by close margins in tight games for the last two years, and their team this year has made a splendid record.

FOUNDER'S DAY CELEBRATED.

brief space about the Billings family and the hearty interest which they have taken in our Alma Mater. At seventeen, with scarcely any money, Frederick Billings came to the University of Vermont from Woodstock to receive an education. The young man was an exceptionally brilliant scholar, and his wit and joviality made him a favorite in college and in the social circles of Burlington. When President Buckham entered college some years after Mr. Billings had graduated, he found his fame still fresh in the college traditions, the fame of his splendid scholarship, his popularity, his leadership in social and intellectual affairs. Everyone who knew him then could see naught but a brilliant career for him."

In 1848 Mr. Billings sailed to California where he became very active in the exciting events of the formative period of that state's history. After establishing the first law office in San Francisco he was appointed attorney-general of the state. While President Lincoln was reconstructing his cabinet Mr. Billings was sent to him as the representative of the Pacific coast. Anything which the people of California had in their power to give was his for the asking but he felt the call of Vermont and soon returned to his native state.

"Mr. Billings was princely in his munificence but of all the beautiful gifts which he made none will cause his name to be held in higher esteem than his noble gifts to his Alma Mater. After the death of George P. Marsh, Mr. Billings purchased his famous library and signified his intention to erect a building worthy of this collection and the library of the university. America's greatest living architect was chosen to do the work and the Billings library now stands as the pride of the university. It represents an outlay of a quarter of a million dollars."

This good man predicted a great future for the university on the hill and constantly aided the institution. In his will he said: "When the estate is divided, the children shall share equally but if none are living and leave no heirs, the estate shall go one-half to the University of Vermont."

"There is a type of character, broad, all inclusive, not free from faults, but free from petty faults. The coming of such men as this is one of the mysteries of Providence. Fortunate indeed the people to whom they come. To this type of men belonged Frederick Billings. He was a prince in his faith, he was a gifted man intellectually, religiously, executively and emotionally. President Buckham has said that probably no man that our state has ever produced, and few men of our time, had such power to arouse, and move, and sway the hearts of an audience as Mr. Billings had.

"But we should be untrue to him if we did not stop and hear him say to us all, 'Life is opportunity; win in the fresh morning of your youth the loyal love of faithful friends who will go with you unafraid into the darkening shadows. Think of God as the common father of all men. Be so eager to serve that you will begrudge the hours in which you sleep. That will be success.'"

"Scientific Advancement and Peace."

Seth P. Johnson, '14, of Williston then delivered an address on "The Relation of the Advancement of Science to Universal Peace." He briefly traced the early history of industry, telling of the handcraft stage. The application of steam power was the great agent which caused the development of science, machinery, and industry. The early history of the discovery of steam as motive power was touched upon, the work of James Watt, the inventor of the steam engine being emphasized. The coming of steam power gave a great impetus to manufacture of all kinds. Industrial conditions rapidly changed with the extensive introduction of machinery.

Watt's invention had a profound moral and ethical result upon society. Invention has brought about a new school of ethics. The relation of the wage-receiver to society, his wages, hours, education, and cost of living must be contemplated from the ethical viewpoint. Living conditions of the laborer in this age of machinery are greatly improved over former days. Education and higher sense of morality have gradually brought into men's minds the idea that wars are not advisable when they can possibly be averted. Not only have men's minds changed; but due to the same advancement of science, the character of warfare has changed from fistic encounters and strife with clubs and bow and arrows to virtual slaughter.

The possibilities of a universal peace are now strongly considered. The Hague Peace Conferences have been held for this purpose. The horrors of war have been somewhat relieved, sick and wounded are provided for, and the movement for reduction of armaments started. Arbitration has been widely introduced. The other work of the two Hague Conferences was dwelt upon. The work of one conference is far from perfect. But succeeding conferences may improve upon the work. The Hague Conferences are links in a chain which, encircling the world, will bind the nations closer together, if it does not confederate them.

"The Individual."

The orator of the day was Rev. William Henry Hopkins, D. D., 1885, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Albany, N. Y.

Dr. Hopkins chose for his theme "The Individual" and after some reference to the social thought and enterprises of the time which, as he said, made it at once more difficult and more necessary to discover the individual and give him his place, went on to point out that we need to bring the individual to the front first, in order that he may bear the penalty of his wrong doing. President Wilson was quoted as saying that it is much more important that one really guilty man be put in jail than that a thousand corporations be fined. Dr. Hopkins said the question is not what corrupts the city or cheats the state, not what caused the accident, but who, for the fault is not in the rail so much as in the man who made it, or in the man who should have tested it. We shall deal more surely with the past and better safeguard the future if we can get beyond the secondary and the circumstantial, and reach the individual to whom we can rightfully say "Thou art the man."

The second point was that the individual should be made to shoulder his duty. The social development and industrial intricacy of the times make this more difficult but not less necessary. The revival needed is not that of social responsibility, for we already have it and it nears white heat, but that of individual responsibility when a man shall not say "here am I, send —him" but "here am I, send me and I'll attempt to be the man I ought to be, cutting my path by the survey of duty." And for the third point, the individual should be found and set apart, that he may become aware of the greater self that might be his, and then move on to his high calling. While here and there a man thinks more highly of himself than he ought to think, the too common malady is that men are overwhelmed by the crowd, awed by noisier men, borne down by labor and error, and are without hope of a better day than they know.

Dr. Hopkins contrasted universities saying that it had been and is the purpose of the University of Vermont to develop the individual—and that the men and women of our roster are our greatest treasures.

He closed by saying that if the state had given the University a charter she had given the state life with glory and honor; if the state had given her gold she had given it masters of fields and mines, captains of commerce, teachers, physicians, prophets, philosophers, heroes and martyrs. And surely she will not be led in ways of such ingratitude as to dim the light set on this hill—the brightest in all her country-side, or to this institution which for a century—and beyond any other institution within her borders—has given her gifts of inestimable worth.

on a poor throw by Steves. Maiden, however, was caught at third and Mayforth went out, third to first bringing the inning to a close and ending Vermont's scoring, although in the next inning Fraser got as far as third on a fielder's choice, a stolen base, and a passed ball.

The features of the game were "Jake" Malcolm's demonstration of what good pitching is, and the team's ability to hit, Lyons starring in this respect with three good bingles out of four trips to the plate.

VERMONT 9, COLBY 7.

Timely Batting Rallies Win Second Home Game.

In the second engagement with Colby, Vermont showed its ability to come up from behind by beating the team from Maine, 9-7, after the latter had obtained a four run lead.

The visitors began things in the second when Nutting, the first man up made a single, went to second on Lafleur's hit and scored on Fraser's bingle, Lafleur taking third, and Fraser second on the throw home. Campbell's fly was missed by Fitzpatrick and Lafleur scored, Fraser taking second. Both Campbell and Fraser were advanced on Nutter's sacrifice but were left when the next two men were easy outs.

In the fourth, after Lafleur had struck out, Fraser made his second hit, advanced to second on his brother's error but was caught on a throw from left-field to the plate. Campbell and Nutter made second and first respectively but James closed the inning by flying out to Gallagher.

In the fifth Colby made two more runs, and could have made more but for some good fielding. Schuster, the first man up, singled, went to second when Smith walked, both men advancing on a wild pitch. Schuster scored when Gallagher dropped Cawley's fly, although he failed to touch the plate, the umpire's attention being engaged elsewhere at the time. Cawley stole second, but Smith was caught in trying to score, Cawley taking third on the play. "Stan" Berry showed that he isn't playing first just because he happens to be captain by holding Cawley on third while putting Nutting out unassisted. Lafleur made first on a fielder's choice, and advanced to third on Fraser's third hit, Cawley scoring. Campbell finished the inning, going out Maiden to Berry.

Vermont had men on the bags in the second, third and fourth innings, but failed to score until the fifth when the team went once through the batting order, gathering in five runs. Berry, the first man up hit safely and showed what a big man can do if he tries, by stealing second. Mayforth flew out, and Fitzpatrick singled, scoring Berry, taking second on the throw home, and third on a passed ball. Fraser walked and stole second. Gallagher made first on a fielder's choice, filling the bags. Lyons singled, scoring Fitzpatrick, and keeping the bases still occupied. Fraser and Gallagher both came in on Linnehan's third hit, but Lyons was caught on an attempted double steal, second to catcher, Linnehan making second safely, and scoring when James mishandled Brown's grounder. Maiden, the ninth man up, went out short to first, leaving Vermont one run to the good. Both sides changed pitchers in this inning, Steves taking James' place and Spear going in for Gilbert.

In the seventh Colby regained the lead when Cawley hit safely and moved up one when Spear hit Lafleur. Fraser was safe on a fielder's choice, filling the bases with only one out, and everybody moved up one on Campbell's fly, Cawley scoring. Lafleur and Fraser both scored on Harrison's hit. James struck out, leaving Colby two runs ahead. Vermont, however, was not to be outdone, and succeeded in putting three runs across in its half of the seventh. After Gallagher had struck out, Lyons walked and took third on Linnehan's hit. Linnehan stole second and Spear walked, filling the bases. Maiden hit safely, scoring Lyons and Linnehan and advancing Spear to second. Spear was caught short to second, but Smith muffed the throw on Berry's effort and Maiden scored. Mayforth went out on an easy one to the pitcher, and the score stood: Vermont 8, Colby 7. Vermont got another run in the eighth on Fitzpatrick's three-bagger and Gallagher's sacrifice fly, making the final score 9-7, Colby being unable to get any more men across the plate, although in the eighth, men were occupying second and third with one out.

The Vermont team again showed its ability to bat, making twelve good hits. Fitzpatrick and Linnehan shone in this department, the former making three hits, one of them a triple, out of four at bat, and the latter making four singles out of an equal number of chances.

The score:

SUN ROOM AT GRASS-

MOUNT RE-FURNISHED.

The sun-room at Grassmount has been refurnished, a part of the funds derived from the two Burlington presentations of "Alice in Wonderland" being devoted to the purpose. The room is very attractive, being done in shades of pale gray and blue. The color scheme is carried out in the rugs, draperies, and cushions, and several large wicker chairs add much to the beauty of the room. The committee in charge of the work were Miss Watson, Miss Shepardson, and Miss Ayer.

It is hoped to make this room a center for the social life of all the college women. With this in view a series of informal teas will be held here on Monday and Thursday afternoons for the remainder of the college year, to which the college women and ladies of the faculty are invited. The girls of Grassmount and Howard Hall will take turns in acting as hostesses.

Classical Club Meets.

The Classical Club met on Wednesday evening in the Mill. The meeting was well attended, and the program included a talk on "Theocritus" by Prof. Ogle, and one on "Lucien" by Prof. Bassett. Selections from the works of each author were read by members of the Club.

Outside Credit.

The movement for giving credit for activities outside of the curriculum has never progressed very far at Vermont. At Harvard, for instance, editors of publications receive credit for a certain number of hours. We understand also that athletic managers are to receive credit for the equivalent of certain business courses, although the graduate manager must assume most of the responsibility. All of this seems quite reasonable to the undergraduates concerned. We doubt whether the recent application for credit from students because of their philanthropic work in and about Boston is as favorably received. This is carrying a good thing too far, and were it granted, would soon cause applications for credit for regular attendance at church or for hours devoted to the scientific investigation of feminine psychology. At Vermont it has been occasionally suggested that the CYNIC editor should receive credit for his work. It has never got beyond the suggesting stage, but we take this opportunity of testifying for the benefit of future editors that any editor who does his work spends as much time as he does on any three courses. Some day the faculty may think the work worthy of three or four hours' credit. We should also like to testify on behalf of future CYNIC business managers that there is more aggressive, consistent, painstaking work of a practical sort in this department than in any other position of undergraduate responsibility that now exists. He, too, is entitled to academic credit, and we trust that he will get it some day. The manager of baseball is probably entitled to some consideration for his work aside from the athletic letter. But we hope that the industrial service work and other philanthropic work which students may do will never be considered as a reason for credit in college hours.

Cheering, an Inspiration.

The short editorial on "rattling" in last week's CYNIC was one which we believed that no cool or sane man would take exception to. If it is not in harmony with the sentiment of the great majority of the student body we wish that it would at least call forth a few letters expressing different opinions. A little discussion on this point would be very wholesome; it would bring out different ideas as to what college athletics are for, why we attend the games, what is fair play and what is not, what the attitude and actions of spectators should be, and what is the object of cheering. In our opinion Dean Briggs of Harvard hit the nail on the head, as usual, when he wrote a few years ago that "organized cheering should be an inspiration—never a weapon of offense or defense." Do we attend baseball games in order to see a good game, to inspire the home team to do its best, to cheer the good plays, and to hope for victory; or do we find our only joy in winning, and attend games with the idea of helping the home team and hindering the visitors with every vocal means within our power? Most of the pleasure of sport lies in its evenness and chance. If all bleachers everywhere were satisfied only with victory, perhaps it would be profitable to arrange all games so that the home team were presented by the umpire with ten runs at the end of the ninth inning. And perhaps not. Estimate the numbers that would stay through the game in that case. To have real sport we must have equal opportunity for each team. How can anyone take exception to these statements? We should like to see how contending arguments look on paper.

Peerade Preparations.

Two such annual events as the Peerade and the Kake Walk are quite a drain upon the originality of the average student, but two years of rest from the Peerade should produce many new creations with which to surprise the public. Like the Kake Walk the success of the event depends largely upon early planning and preparation. With less than three weeks for preparation immediate action is necessary, if we are to improve upon former records.

That Honor List.

Where are the names of the freshmen who "are to be commended for high standing in their studies?" It was announced on the official bulletin board last fall, printed in the CYNIC, and now appears on page 69 of the catalog that the names of freshmen who received high rank in their studies would be "announced in chapel and posted on the bulletin board at the beginning of the second half of the Freshman year." Are there none in the Freshman class deserving of this honorable mention which was so wisely introduced and provided for by the faculty? This was part of an estimable movement to give scholarship recognized honor. Like much legislative action, this action by the senate does not seem to work of itself.

The Rushing System.

Gratifying progress is being made in the formation of a well-planned, workable rushing system for next fall. A year ago no one would have prophesied such a unanimity of opinion in rushing reform. If the remaining details of the system are as well worked out, and if all are carefully observed and enforced, the benefits to the fraternities, the freshmen, and the university will be tremendous. For a month the freshman will have a chance to realize that the college is the thing and not the fraternity. He will not be made to feel that he is the most important figure on the campus; and he will be able to make a better start in studies, in college spirit, and in his attitude to all things collegiate. The benefits of this change of attitude should be felt long after the rushing season is over.

The freshman will be welcomed, of course, but will be welcomed as an addition to the college and not as a fraternity candidate, if the spirit of the rules is lived up to; and the spirit with which he is greeted is important. He will surely have a better opportunity to form a wide acquaintance with his classmates and with upper-classmen.

Both fraternity and freshman will have the opportunity of careful judgment and choice. This is a most welcome change. It is absolutely necessary for the best interests of both, viewed from every standpoint.

College spirit will be immensely bettered, fraternity spirit will be less prominent, and inter-fraternity feeling will be more harmonious than ever. All these objects are sure to come from a good rushing system which is properly supported. Are they not worth striving for?

"ALICE IN WONDERLAND."

Entertainment Given in Richmond by Young Women.

Fifteen young women with Miss Marshall went last Saturday to Richmond, where "Alice in Wonderland" was presented in Catholic Hall in the evening. This is the fifth performance of the play, and was very successful. After the play the members of the cast were entertained at the homes of Richmond people, returning to Burlington the next morning. Those who took the trip were Misses Shepardson, Baker, A. Watts, Gilmore, Ayer, Nutting, Coulman, Dudley, Luce, Swift, Maxfield, Chapin, Lewitus, Walker, and C. Votey.

Tennis Outlook Good.

The tennis players are rapidly getting into form, and everything seems to indicate that there will be a strong team this year. There are several men of last year's team: Captain Dow, McFarland, Salisbury, D. Roberts, Remby and Brundage. These men with some promising new material will be able to make a good showing in the intercollegiate matches that have been arranged.

Little, however, has been accomplished towards putting the courts in shape. As far as can be detected by the naked eye, nothing has been done for two weeks in this matter.

COMING EVENTS.

OBITUARY.

Allen Page Bissell, 1858, D. D., 1884.

The son of Mumford Randall and Fanny Reed (Page) Bissell, was born 15 September, 1835, at Rome Mills, in Essex County, N. Y. He got ready for college at Keeseville academy; at graduation had the honor of being valedictorian. He pursued the regular course of study at Union Theological Seminary, graduating in 1868, was ordained in October following by the presbytery of Mankato, Minn.; was pastor at Blue Earth City for three years, at Menominee, Mich., for one year, professor at Blackburn University 1872-76, instructor in Hebrew at Lane Seminary one year, then preached at Delhi, O., 1877-82. The next two years were spent in travel and study in Europe, and gained for him the degree of Ph. D., at Leipsic in 1884. He served as pastor at Shelter Island, N. Y., 1884-89, and after a year at Port Henry, N. Y., became professor of Hebrew at Biddle University in North Carolina, 1891. He published in 1884 "The Law of Asylum in Israel," and the same year received the degree of D. D. from his alma mater. In recent years he has been a teacher in the Nyack Schools of Christian and Missionary Alliance. His death occurred at Nyack, N. Y., 23 March, 1914. He married 4 August, 1863, Lucy Ann Moore of Keeseville, who died 23 December, 1891.

CAPS AND GOWNS TO BE WORN TWICE WEEKLY.

The Seniors voted in class meeting on Tuesday to wear caps and gowns every Monday and Wednesday beginning with Founder's Day.

Louis W. Batchelder was elected class marshal and Joseph E. Carri-gan was elected to deliver the Ivy Oration.

LOCALS.

The Sigma Phi fraternity held an informal dance at the chapter house on Thursday night. Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Woodbury and Mrs. Harry B. Shaw were chaperons. Barton's orchestra furnished music.

The Y. M. C. A. cabinet met with the advisory board of the faculty at 1.30 o'clock Friday afternoon. Important plans for the future were discussed.

The U. K. M. A. society met at the Delta Psi House Friday evening, May 1.

The list of seniors is now on the bulletin board, and it is desired that seniors should ascertain that their names are spelled correctly there, for if no corrections are made the names as given will be written on diplomas.

The various classes have held many rehearsals during the last week in preparation for the sing on the campus in competition for the Lyman Cup.

The baseball teams of the two lower classes have been holding steady practice in view of the sophomore-freshman schedule which is to take place, and the managers report that the teams are being whipped into shape.

AT OTHER COLLEGES.

The deans of the five colleges of the University of South Dakota (academic, music, engineering, law, and medicine) take the place of a president in the university this year and rule it as a commission. The deans alternate as "president pro tem." for one-month periods.

CLUBS IN MORRISVILLE.

Last Concert Very Successful.

"The best concert ever given in Morrisville" was the verdict of the large audience which heard the Musical Clubs' concert in that town on Friday, April 24. A reception and dance followed the concert. This is probably the last date of the year for the Musical Clubs. However, a concert in Plattsburgh is pending.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE

STILL AT WORK.

The Publicity Committee had difficulty in getting good lantern slides of the baseball players but this week the batteries have been shown in the moving picture houses of the city. Those who have attended the home games have doubtless been surprised and pleased to note the much better appearance of the score board at the Colby game. The credit for repainting and otherwise repairing the score board is due D. R. Grandy and A. B. Taylor.

Georgetown at Burlington.

Georgetown was scheduled to play the Varsity at Burlington on Friday. This was the first game with Georgetown this season, since the game on April 1 was cancelled on account of rain.

Penn. State Next Monday.

The next home game will be with Pennsylvania State College on next Monday. A close game is expected.

THE PLAY PROGRESSING.

The college play which will be presented during Junior Week, the evening of May 22, is progressing rapidly. The rehearsals before mid-year's gave a fine start and now Prof. Andrews is coaching the men in the finer details. The play will probably be presented at Enosburg Falls shortly before Junior Week.

Pre-Medic Meeting.

The Pre-Medic Society met on Tuesday night, April 28, at the Owl House. Professor G. H. Perkins addressed the men on the subject of the requisites of a good physician and the usefulness of a physician's academic education. A business meeting of short duration was held afterwards.

Many Opportunities for Work.

The employment bureau of the Y. M. C. A. has received many calls for student labor, and the supply far outnumbers the demand. Men wishing work should register with the secretary, M. H. Davis, at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. In order to develop this bureau to its full scope it is desired that all men who desire work should register at once.

Ye Crabbe Elections.

"Ye Crabbe" has elected the following new members to the board: Miss Bernadine Kimball, '15, Chatterton, '17, Walbridge, '17, and Durfee, '17.

JUNIOR WEEK COMMITTEE BUSY.

The Junior Week committees are busy with plans and preparations for the coming festivities of their class and college. Both the "Prom" and "Peerade" committees have their work well under way.

ALUMNI NOTES.

Miss Cora Parkhurst, '13, has been awarded recently one of the three $500 Fellowships in Economic Research at Radcliffe college, by the Educational and Industrial Union of Boston.

It will be remembered that Miss Parkhurst won the Philo Sherman Bennett prize last June, for original study and a thesis on "Municipal Government by Commission with Expert Administration." Since graduation Miss Parkhurst has been engaged in settlement work among the Italians in East Boston. Her many friends congratulate her upon this honor.

1913. H. R. Dane is a teacher at Allen School, West Newton, Mass.

1913. P. F. Cruse is with the Ontario Power Co., Niagara Falls, N. Y.

1912. J. O. Baxendale is nearing the completion of his first year as principal of Bristol High School, Bristol, Vt.

1845. We note that our oldest brother, Rev. George Gaby Rice of Council Bluffs, Io., still carries his weight of 94 years and 8 months lightly. He attended a church conference last month (April), and "one of the notable features of the meeting was the wonderful address given by our beloved Father Rice. It was the best we have ever heard him deliver. At its close the whole congregation rose to its feet as a tribute of reverence and love for our venerable brother."

"PEERADE" PLANS*WELL UNDER WAY.

(Continued from page 1.) an active part in the "Peerade" and all who are not engaged with the floats should compete for this individual cup.

After forming in front of the Old Mill the "Peerade" will proceed down Pearl St. to Church St., march down Church St., down Main St. as far as St. Paul St., up St. Paul and Pearl Streets to Church Street, and down Church Street again. It will then return to the hill by way of Main Street. In this way Church Street will be covered twice, and this will take place during the noon hour while the city people are not engaged. The judges who are to be selected from the faculty, business men of the city, and officers at Fort Ethan Allen will be stationed in the ell of the New Sherwood, thus insuring them a good view of the procession twice. The cups will probably be awarded at the college play in the evening. It is desired that the fraternities and clubs hand in the plan of their floats to A. B. Taylor, as soon as convenient.

INTERFRATERNITY SERIES.

Delta Sigma Ties Delta Psi in a 10-Inning Game—Kappa Sigs Win Over Phi Delt.

The second game of the Interfraternity baseball series took place on the back campus last Tuesday when Delta Sigma tied Delta Psi in a hot 10-inning game. The game was called on account of darkness at the end of the 10th with a final score of 4-4. It was pretty tight baseball throughout. The feature of the game was when Birney Pease "used his head." The line-up:

DELTA SIGMA.	DELTA PSI
Tomassi, s. s.....3b., Kelley	Palmer, 3b.....c., Ferrin
Holmes, r. f.....s. s., Rawson	Hobart, l. f.....1b., Boardman

Two-base hits—Soules, Ferrin.
Stolen bases—Tomassi 3, Kelley, Rawson, Boardman, Metcalf 3, Page 2, McFarland 2, Batchelder. Base on balls—Off Burleson 2, off Batchelder 4. Hit by pitcher—Pease, Metcalf. Struck out—By Burleson 13, by Batchelder 16. Umpires—Little and Wood.

Kappa Sigs 6—Phi Delt 5.

A large and very genial crowd was present at the next game which was held last Tuesday. The rival pitchers and particularly Pat Hurley received many bouquets. The game was characterized by some good pitching on each side. The Kappa Sigs did the best work with the stick and Leonard got several good outs on second. Mould, the Phi Delt second baseman also made good on every chance offered. Kappa Sigma finally came off victor with a score of 6-5.

The line up:

PHI DELTA THETA	KAPPA SIGMA
Dow, c. f.....c., Murnane	Durfee, c. ....r. f., Abell

Kappa Sigs ...2 1 0 0 3 0 0 0 0—6

The results of the game between Sigma Nu and Alpha Kappa Kappa which occurred Thursday will be printed in next week's CYNIC, as well as the results of the Alpha Tau Omega vs. Delta Mu game today. The games as scheduled for the coming week are: May 5, Lambda Iota vs. Phi Chi; May 7, Sigma Phi vs. Kappa Sigma.

Y. M. C. A. AIMING AT WIDER MISSION.

Lecture on "Long Trail" Next Wednesday.

At the weekly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Tuesday evening, plans for the ensuing year were enthusiastically discussed. Four features in particular were mentioned: 1. To acquire a larger attendance at the weekly meetings; 2. To install Bible classes; 3. To increase the industrial service work throughout the city; 4. To start deputation work in surrounding towns and schools.

Coming down to bed rock, what the association is trying to do is to put the Vermont Y. M. C. A. on an equality with those of other colleges. One of the most puzzling questions to handle is the starting of Bible classes. When an attempt is made it is hoped it will be met cheerfully. Other colleges of like size have one, two, or three hundred men enrolled. Deputation work is going to be started at once in South Burlington. Two more men are wanted as teachers to help Taylor and Heffler in the Lakeside district Tuesday and Friday evenings.

Prof. Aiken will speak next Tuesday night at the regular meeting.

On Wednesday evening, the last number of the lecture course will be given. The speakers will be Mr. Taylor of the Greater Vermont Association. Subject: "The Long Trail and What it Means to Vermont."

PASS IT ON.

Military Supplements Need Circulation.

The military camp supplement which is published with this week's CYNIC is prepared at considerable expense by those who are interested in making the camp a success. Most of the copies which go out with the CYNIC will be useful only if passed on to some college man or prep school senior who would be interested in the camp. Several thousand will be sent out by the War Department, but these are only in answer to applications for information.

So if you wish the supplement to meet the purpose for which it was intended, read it and at once PASS IT ON, mail it to some man who may be more interested than you.

Copies of the supplement will be sent free to any one upon request. If you know of several others who should receive copies, send their names and addresses to Professor Messenger, U. V. M., City.

Football Dance Well Attended.

An informal dance was held at the University gymnasium Thursday, April 23, for the benefit of the football team, band, and Key and Serpent Society. The seventy couples present spent a very enjoyable evening. The chaperons were Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Stone, Prof. and Mrs. W. H. Freedman, and Capt. and Mrs. I. L. Reeves. A seven-piece orchestra under the leadership of Carl F. Robinson, '16, furnished music for the order of 16 dances.

JUNIOR PROM TICKETS ON SALE

Chairman Hayden Planning to Surpass all Previous Records.

Chairman Hayden and the other members of the Prom. committee are making elaborate preparations for this event. The music is sure to be the best as they have already engaged Barton's 13 piece orchestra for the occasion. An enjoyable feature will be the half-hour concert which the orchestra is to give before the dancing begins. As for decorations the committee expects to outdo all former committees in providing tasteful and original designs. The decorations will be of the Grecian style and promise to be very beautiful and unique. A course banquet will be served during the intermission which will come at twelve o'clock, dancing to continue until two. The new dances are to be permitted. The Prom. this year will doubtless be an event which all Juniors and others who attend will long look back upon as one of the especially bright remembrances of their college days. The tickets will be sold at the usual price of three dollars each and may be obtained from any member of the Prom. committee. It is desirable that those who are going should purchase tickets early so that the approximate number to attend will be known and arrangements made accordingly.

TWO MORE RUSHING RULES.

Interfraternity Conference Makes Much Progress.

Most of the problems of the Interfraternity Conference are nearing solution. Two more rushing rules were passed at the last meeting at the Delta Psi House on Wednesday night. The discussion has reached such a point that it is hoped that all the further details of next fall's rushing system will be perfected by the next meeting of the Conference at the Alpha Tau Omega House on May 13th. The following rules were passed at the meeting.

"At 2 p. m. on the day following the close of the rushing period, the members of the conference shall meet, and shall bring all their invitations in sealed and addressed envelopes. Within each envelope shall be only the printed form of invitation properly filled out and an unsealed envelope with the address of the inviting fraternity upon it. The invitations shall then be sorted out and delivered by three messengers all of different fraternities, elected by the conference from men who have taken no part in fraternity rushing. Messengers shall present invitations to freshmen during the afternoon. Each freshman shall in the presence of the messengers inspect the invitation and fill out the blank, "I accept, I do not accept your invitation to membership"; and shall then put each invitation in the envelope addressed to the inviting fraternity. All the invitations with replies shall then be returned by the messengers to the respective fraternities."

"All rushing by-laws take effect from the date of their passage until modified or revoked by the majority vote of the Conference."

The final date for invitation, the length of neutral period, and the length of rushing period were left to next meeting. The penalties for violation and the character and duties of an executive committee were also left for further consideration.

The suggestions now before the Conference are: that the period from the opening of college until the last of October shall be neutral, with no entertainment of or discussion of fraternity matters with the freshmen; that there shall be a three days rushing period about the first of November; that each Saturday night during the neutral period should be an open house night for all fraternities, and that all freshmen or some freshmen might be entertained at only these times at the fraternity houses and rooms; that some further opportunities for entertainment should be allowed; that an executive committee of five should enforce the rules.

Notice.

The Boulder Society notes with displeasure that a few underclassmen are carrying canes in violation of the college custom of long standing which makes wearing a cane a Senior privilege.

DEBATERS TO JOIN DELTA SIGMA RHO.

Regular Meeting Hears Debate on Tolls Question.

The regular meeting of the U. V. M. Debating association took place on Monday evening at 7.20 o'clock. Lefler, '15, gave the current events of the week and told of the work done by a Mr. Hammond in the direction of controlling the movements of ships by wireless telegraphy. A debate on the subject of Panama Canal tolls took place, Hitchcock, '17, and Ellis, '17, supporting the affirmative—that exemption should be given to coastwise shipping, and Crane, '15, and Churchill, '17, supporting the negative. Sanford, '16, Daniels, '15, and Piper, '16, acted as judges, giving a unanimous decision to the negative.

A short business meeting was held afterwards, at which two new names were proposed for membership. Sanford, '15, manager of the Debating teams, gave a preliminary report showing that the debates were run off successfully as regards finances, and that a small surplus exists as a start for the continuance of the work next year.

President Bailey announced that a resolution recognizing Intercollegiate debate was before the Student-Faculty Council. He also announced that the Trustees of the University had voted to grant the members of Debating teams this year, membership in Delta Sigma Rho, a national honorary fraternity whose members have taken part in intercollegiate debates.

It is requested that members be more regular in attendance.

THE VERMONT CYNIC

Vol. 31

Burlington, Vermont. May 2, 1914.

Number 31

Students' Military Instruction Camp Number

Burlington was selected by the Secretary of War as the location for the Government's Students' Military Instruction Camp.

July 6 to August 7, 1914.

"Burlington, Vermont, is the most beautiful place in the world."

WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS

LAKE CHAMPLAIN AS SEEN FROM BURLINGTON.

THE CAMP SITE.

Burlington was visited in the fall of 1913, by Captain Robert O. Van Horn, General Staff, U. S. A., the officer who has been placed in charge of the organization of the United States Government Students' Instruction Camps. Captain Van Horn made a most thorough inspection of the proposed camp site, of the healthfulness of the place, its desirability as a summer residence, and the environs in general and made a favorable report to the Secretary of War and the Chief of Staff. His recommendation was accepted, and Burlington was the first site selected for the location of one of the Students' Instruction Camps.

The ground selected for the camp is on that part of the college farm which lies just east of the U. S. Weather Bureau. This is on top of the hill where the land slopes both east and west. The Green Mountains are in plain view. On clear days Mount Mansfield and Camel's Hump seem very near. A little over a mile to the west is Lake Champlain, with the city of Burlington lying on the slope from the camp to the lake. The Adirondack Mountains on the New York side of the lake form a picturesque background for the ten miles' expanse of Lake Champlain.

The business portion of the city is within easy reach of the camp, and street cars running to the parks, lake front, and other points may be taken just across the college campus.

The water supply comes from Lake Champlain and is unlimited. The quality is excellent. The modern filtering plant makes it always pure and safe to drink. The sewer system is above the average in efficiency, the streets are clean, well kept and shaded by beautiful trees.

BURLINGTON ON LAKE CHAMPLAIN.

Burlington, Vermont, commonly spoken of as "Beautiful Burlington" is situated in the region of lakes and mountains often called the "Switzerland of America" and conceded to be unsurpassed anywhere in the happy combination of city and country, of scenery and history, of beauty and comfort and of lavish attractions of nature so enhanced by the art of man that America's "beauty spot" stands unchallenged as her "most noble pleasure ground" as it was called by Ambassador Bryce. It is celebrated also for its delightful summer climate. The mean average temperature for the hottest month is sixty-eight degrees. The nights are always cool and the air from the lake and the mountains is fresh and invigorating.

Burlington is the largest city in the Champlain region, and is an important trading point both for retail and wholesale. The class of people trading in Burlington makes it necessary to carry a higher grade of goods than is usually carried in a city of its size. The dry goods houses and clothing stores carry the extras and luxuries as well as the necessities. The three largest hotels have roof gardens with dining service. Fine quality candy is manufactured by the ton in the city. No one need want for good things.

In appearance Burlington is a residence city, but there is a large amount of manufacturing and distributing done. The development of electric power which is sold at small cost has made it a desirable place for the manufacture of small articles. Those interested in engineering and industrial possibilities will find much of interest about the place.

STEAMER VERMONT AT HER DOCK IN BURLINGTON.

PURPOSE OF THE CAMP.

Quoted from a bulletin issued by the War Department.

"The object of the camp is to give to the young men of the country who are desirous of accepting it the opportunity for a short course in military training, in order that they may be better fitted to discharge their military duty to their country should it ever stand in need of their service. The time selected for these camps (summer vacation period) is intended to enable college men to attend with the least inconvenience and greatest instructional advantage to themselves.

"In addition to the above patriotic motive of attendance, there are to be considered the physical benefits derived by the students from the active, healthful outdoor life of a military camp for the summer vacation, and this at less expense than is usually required when away from home. These physical benefits are of great and permanent value at this student period of their lives, when the pursuit of their studies during the balance of the year requires a certain amount of confinement. There are also the mutually broadening influences derived from meeting and being intimately associated with students of other well-known institutions, and the opportunity afforded for athletic training and contests, as well as the novelty of the experience itself, all contributing variety and interest to the program.

"Another gain to the student is a certain increase in his economic value due to the increased business efficiency acquired through habits of discipline, obedience, self-control, order, command, and the study of organization and administration as applied in first-class modern armies.

"The benefit of these camps to the Nation is that they foster a patriotic spirit, without which a nation soon loses its virility and falls into decay; they spread among the citizens of the country a more thorough knowledge of military history, military policy, and military needs, all necessary to the complete education of a well-equipped citizen in order that he may himself form just and true opinions on military topics.

"As a military asset, the value of these camps is inestimable. They afford the means of materially increasing the present inadequate personnel of the trained or partially trained military reserves of the United States, and this increase consisting of a class of educated men from which in time of national emergency a large proportion of the volunteer commissioned officers will probably be drawn, and upon whose judgment and training at such a time the lives of many other men will in a measure depend.

"The ultimate object sought is not in any way one of military aggrandizement, but to provide in some degree a means of meeting a vital need confronting us as a peaceful and unmilitary people, in order to preserve the desired peace and prosperity through the only safe precaution, viz., more thorough preparation and equipment to resist any effort to break such peace.

INSTRUCTION IN CONSTRUCTING TRENCHES.

COLLEGE STREET.

REQUIREMENTS.

From the War Department Bulletin:

"Only those will be allowed to attend who are students in standing of a first-class university, college, or in the graduating class at high or preparatory schools; recent university or college graduates, and those who have received a satisfactory special War Department certificate of attendance at a previous military camp.

"Applicants must be citizens of the United States or have declared their intention of so becoming; 18 to 30 years of age, single; of good moral character, and physically qualified.

"Students must attend for the full period of five weeks, unless compelled by actual necessity to leave before that time. They must during this period render themselves subject to the rules and regulations prescribed for the government of the camp, the commanding officer having authority to discontinue their attendance, withhold certificate, or both, upon violation of such regulations.

"Students will be required to pay their traveling expenses to and from the camp; wholesome, healthful and ample meals will be furnished at the rate of $3.50 per week, or $17.50 for the entire period.

"The uniform required will be—

- 1 suit of cotton olive drab colored uniform.
- 1 extra pair breeches.
- 1 campaign hat with distinctive hat cord.
- 1 pair leggings.
- 2 cotton (or wool) olive drab colored shirts.

"These articles (with exception of hat cord) are similar to those prescribed for use in the Regular Army. If not already possessed by the student, they may be purchased by him and will cost from about $5 to $10, depending upon quality.

THE WORK OF THE CAMP.

From the War Department Bulletin:

"The Government will furnish, without charge, cots, blankets, tentage, cooking outfits, a complete infantry equipment for each man, including rifle, bayonet, cartridge belt, canteen, shelter-tent half, pole and pins, haversack, pack carrier, individual mess kit, knife, fork, spoon, and cup, and such other articles of quartermaster and ordnance property as may be found necessary; these to be turned in upon completion of camp. All articles lost or broken to be paid for by student.

"The Government will also provide proper cooking and baking facilities, wagon transportation needed, and the necessary personnel for instruction, organization, and maintenance of the camp, hospital, and medical care and sanitation; in short, everything tending to the health and comfort of those attending, which lawfully can be furnished by the War Department, will be provided.

"Such troops of the Regular Army as may be necessary, and which may be available for this purpose at the time of the camp, will be in attendance and will cooperate in the military instruction and in the different field maneuvers, exercises, and demonstrations. If practicable, cavalry and field artillery instruction will be given and opportunity offered to those who desire it to actually ride the horses of the former or the caissons and guns of the latter.

"The theoretical principles of tactics, including advance and rear guards, patrols, outposts, and combat, will be studied and explained in a series of informal talks, tactical walks, and war games conducted by selected competent officers.

The practical application of the above will be carried out in the field by the students themselves and also in conjunction with the regular troops, blank ammunition being used to make the exercises more realistic.

"Military map making and road sketching will be explained and opportunities for practical work in that subject offered to those who desire it.

"The proper handling and use of the rifle will be taught and experience given by means of gallery (or subcaliber) practice. If practicable, actual firing with the service rifle and ammunition on the target range will be held. To those students making the necessary qualifications over the prescribed course the National Rifle Association of America will give their prescribed marksmanship badges, and also offer a trophy to be competed for by teams representing the different educational institutions.

"Physical drill, marching, camping, tent pitching, making and breaking camp, loading and unloading wagons, camp expedients, field cooking, camp sanitation, first aid to the injured, personal hygiene, and the care of troops in the field will be taught by practice.

"Informal talks by selected officers will be given on the following subjects: Use and duties of the different arms and branches of the service (Infantry, Field Artillery, Cavalry, Engineers, Signal Troops, and the Medical Corps); field fortification, including the laying out, construction, and use of trenches; military bridge building; use of explosives; demolitions; the installation and operation of field lines of electrical information and the use of buzzers, field telephones, and radio-telegraphic apparatus; signal flags, heliographs, and acetylene lanterns, and other apparatus used by Signal Corps organizations in the field; the tactical organization of the military forces of the United States, the reasons therefor, and comparison with that of foreign armies; the supply (food and material) of an army and the problems connected therewith; the psychology of war; the true military history of our country—not the illuminated school book version of our few victories, but the real accounts as taken from the official records of our many defeats and the reasons therefor; military policy, past and present, the necessity for some sound definite military policy and for the adoption thereof, and the present scheme as worked out by the General Staff of the Army.

"The camp will include a practice march of several days duration, in which, as nearly as possible, such actual campaign conditions of march, bivouac, and combat will be followed as the assumed situation would exact.

"To those who successfully finish the prescribed course of instruction at the camp, certificates to that effect will be issued by the War Department, and their names kept on file in the records of said department, with such remarks in each case as may be made by the officers in charge as to degree of efficiency and recommendations as to fitness for future command.

"In return for the above the students are expected to give their best and most honest endeavor to further the success of the instruction and to gain the best results therefrom.

"This will be real military work, not play, and only students who come to learn are desired, correct understanding of the principles involved being considered of more importance in the short time available for instruction than the exercise or movement itself. The minutiae and exact precision of close-order drill will be insisted upon enough only to insure discipline. Extended order drill and field exercises are considered most important. Work will be confined as far as practicable to the morning, leaving the afternoons and evenings, with due regard to proper supervision, at the disposal of the student for rest, athletic sports, and recreation."

MOUNT MANSFIELD FROM UNDERHILL CENTER.

"Companies will be made up, as far as possible, depending upon numbers, of students from the same or similar institutions. All companies will be commanded by a selected Regular Army officer, or officers, and will be aided by subaltern officers and non-commissioned officers selected from among the students themselves, preference being given to selected students of the previous War Department camps.

"The discipline exacted will be strict and just. Students will be on a cadet status; that is, treated with the courtesy due prospective officers, but subject to all rules and regulations of the camp and subject to disciplinary measures for infractions hereof."

"For further information or application blanks apply to Capt. R. O. Van Horn, General Staff, U. S. Army, Office Chief of Staff, War Department Building, Washington, D. C., who has been placed by the War Department in charge of the organization of student camps, and who will forward the application to the proper authority.

"These applications may be forwarded at any time from now on until just before commencement of camp, or until as many have been received as can properly be taken care of.

"Applicants must state full name, age, home address; name of educational institution attending, and address at same; if in high school, applicant must state he is a member of the graduating class.

"Applicants must agree to attend for the entire period unless compelled by actual necessity to leave beforehand, and to obey the rules and regulations established for the government of the camp."

"By order of the Secretary of War:

LEONARD WOOD,
Major General, Chief of Staff."

HISTORIC SURROUNDINGS.

From the very day that De Champlain came sailing up the lake which he had discovered, to meet and defeat the Iroquois, Lake Champlain has been of importance historically. It was then a gateway to the country and was destined to see many struggles.

The spectator from any height in Burlington—from the College belfry or the Ethan Allen Tower—looks upon a scene whose radius of 40 miles sweeps over an area fraught with historic interest. Here, on Lake Champlain, was the beginning of the history of civilized man in this northern region, the beginning of the long conflict between the French and their Indian allies on the one side and the British on the other side, for the possession of this continent. Here, on our right, was the home of the Allens—of Ethan, whose grave and monument overlook the winding valley of the Winooski—and of Ira, the statesman, the diplomatist and the founder of the University. To the northwest is Plattsburgh, near which was fought and won by Lieutenant Mac-Donough, in 1814, the famous naval battle which made Lake Champlain again famous in American history. Away to the north the lake narrows its waters on their way to the St. Lawrence, and makes the passage over which have floated to and fro so many hostile expeditions in the times of the Indian and French hostilities. This whole region affords roaming-ground both for exploration and for historic imagination.

Culture and educational opportunities combined with life in the open air—air from mountains and lake. That describes the Burlington Military Camp.

EXCURSIONS.

Numerous boats going daily between Burlington and other points along the shores of Lake Champlain afford attractive excursions at small cost. Many special excursions will be made during the summer. The round trip to Ticonderoga can be made in a day. Afternoon trips are frequently made around the islands to the north end of the lake and back to Burlington. On Saturday afternoons trips will be made stopping at various camps on the Vermont and New York sides of the lake, and returning after dark with the searchlight playing on the shores and floating craft. On a beautiful evening this is one of the most delightful rides that could be taken.

The sunset behind the Adirondack Mountains, with the gorgeous tints reflected in the water, followed by the moonlight throwing its soft rays over the islands and the waves, while the music of the orchestra seems to mingle with the scenery, produces an effect not to be described and not to be forgotten.

One of the most enjoyable excursions will be that to Ausable Chasm. This Chasm is one of the greatest natural curiosities east of the Rocky Mountains. It is a narrow chasm about a hundred fifty feet deep and full of queer formations cut by age of wear of the waters of the Ausable River. The trip is made by leaving Burlington on one of the Champlain steamers about nine o'clock in the morning, landing at Port Kent, after a ride across the lake. From Port Kent a short ride by rail along the lake shore brings us to the entrance to the chasm. About four hours may be spent in the chasm—during this time lunch is eaten and the return trip made in time for supper in Burlington.

Special trips on the lake can be arranged by small groups of people at almost any time, on one of the lake steamers; or a small launch can be chartered either by the day or by the hour.

WILLIAMS SCIENCE HALL AND SECTION OF COLLEGE PARK UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT.

The roads about Burlington are very good for riding or driving. The popular drives are to Red Rocks, Rock Point, Ethan Allen Park, Queen City Park, Apple Tree Point, Winooski Valley, Twin Bridges, Essex Junction, Malletts Bay, Cedar Beach, Shelburne, Mount Mansfield, Camel's Hump, Mount Philo, and numerous places less conspicuous but very attractive in summer.

The trip to Mount Mansfield may be made on foot, but the more common way is to take a train to Underhill Center, which is near the foot of the mountain, and then walk up the trail. There is a hotel on the top of the mountain and one may stay in comfort over night and return the next day if he wishes to see the sun-set and the sun-rise from the mountain. If a longer route is desired it is possible to come down the other side and return by electric car to Waterbury and thence by steam train to Burlington. As a rule the return trip is made the same day, as it is possible to reach Burlington by train from Underhill about eight o'clock in the evening.

Camel's Hump is also a popular place for tramping parties. A part of the way it is possible to go by rail and then take the trail to the top. For those who wish a longer trip the tramp along the ridge from Mansfield to the Hump is recommended.

Mount Philo is about sixteen miles from Burlington and can be reached by team or auto. It is smaller than the other mountains but is closer to the lake and very attractive. A hotel on top affords accommodations for meals and sleeping if desired.

Shorter tramps to points of interest along the lake shore, to camps, along the winding banks of the Winooski River to Winooski Falls, to Fort Ethan Allen, the cavalry post, and many other places make it possible to find enjoyment for any idle hour.

THE UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT SUMMER SCHOOL. JULY 6 TO AUGUST 14.

The summer school offers college courses for college credit, professional courses for teachers, preparatory courses, and special courses in Art, Music and Expression. All classes are held five times a week. Saturday is left free for excursions. Courses which are given by the University in its regular session will also be accepted for credit when taken in the summer school. For such courses of five hours per week for six weeks credit of two semester hours will be given.

The tuition will be fifteen dollars for a single course or twenty-five dollars for as many courses as are desired.

LECTURES AND ENTERTAINMENTS.

The University of Vermont Summer School, besides offering college and preparatory courses which students in the camp may take so far as it is possible without interfering with camp duties, has provided a number of popular lectures. A lecture will be given every afternoon at four o'clock, and on several evenings in the week there will be lectures, musicals, theatrical performances or other entertainment. The large gymnasium will be used for dances and social occasions. Students in the camp will be invited to mingle with regular summer school students on social occasions.

The following are some of the lecturers and entertainers who have been secured for the summer:

Ex-Governor J. Frank Hanly: Six lectures on The Constitution, Its Times and Its Makers. The subjects of the six lectures are:

1. The Revolution.
2. The Critical Period.
3. The Making of the Great Charter.
4. The Men Who Framed It.
5. The Letter of the Covenant.
6. The Word Made Sentient.

He will also give one lecture on The Patriotism of Peace.

Dr. A. E. Winship: Five lectures on Educational Problems.

Richard Thomas Wyche: Five lectures on Stories and Story Telling.

Dr. Edgar J. Banks: Five lectures, illustrated.

Subjects:—Turkey.

Arabia.

Bismya.

Palestine.

Egypt.

Dr. John A. Lomax: Five lectures on American Balladry including The Songs of the Cowboy.

Dr. S. S. Curry: Six lectures on Great Periods in Art.

Ernest K. Coulter: Two lectures. The Children in the Shadow. The Civic Awakening.

Ex-Governor Herbert S. Hadley: One Lecture. Subject to be announced.

Dr. Philander P. Claxton: One lecture. Subject to be announced.

President Guy Potter Benton: Two lectures. Subjects to be announced.

SOCIAL CENTER TENT.

CONDUCTED BY THE STATE COMMITTEE OF THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS OF VERMONT.

W. J. VAN PATTEN, CHAIRMAN.

BYRON N. CLARK, STATE SECRETARY.

With the hearty approval of Maj.-Gen. Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff, and Capt. R. O. Van Horn, General Staff, U. S. A., the State Committee of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Vermont will conduct a Social Service Tent at the Students' Military Instruction Camp. The plan followed will be similar to that in all camp work with the men of the militia and army.

A large tent will be set up and arranged as a social headquarters of the camp. It will be supplied with electric lights, chairs, benches, ice water tank, tables for letter writing with paper, envelopes, etc., reading tables supplied with the current magazines, and the newspapers from the students' home towns; game tables with chess, checkers, dominoes; shuffle board, piano, gramophone; stereopticon; telephone, telegraph; mail box; information bureau, and many other things for the use and convenience of every one in camp. It will be open from early morning till late at night.

Besides providing the above outfit for the free use of every man in camp, there will be many special events, such as talks by various speakers on vocational subjects, travel, history, citizenship, science, etc. There will be a series of amateur entertainments, debates, sings, readings, and occasional moving picture shows. One of the speakers already secured is Dillon Wallace, the Labrador explorer. A number of camp fires are planned.

The plans for athletic work include intercollegiate baseball league, tennis tournament, field and track events, a volley ball court will be made and the old game of quoits will be used. The baseball scores of the big leagues will be received and posted daily.

Sunday evenings musical services will be held, with brief addresses by good speakers.

The work will be in charge of I. V. Cobleigh, principal of the Vermont Business College, and a former secretary of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, New York City, who has had much experience in this kind of work. He will have a college man as assistant.

The whole service of the tent will be free for all.

ATHLETICS.

The University athletic field will be at the disposal of the Military Camp during the summer. It is planned to organize a baseball team among the men of each of the colleges having men enough to make up a good team and then play a series of intercollegiate games with the special teams thus made up to represent the colleges. Professor Stone, director of physical training and athletics in the University of Vermont has been engaged by the University to assist in carrying on athletic sport.

Tennis and other games may be played on the University courts and if there seems to be sufficient interest a tournament will be arranged.

The military camp offers a splendid outing at very small cost. Instruction and camp equipment are free—only meals to pay for—and these are provided at a low rate.

HON. LINDLEY M. GARRISON, SECRETARY OF WAR.

SUMMER ASSOCIATIONS.

Scenery, climate and conveniences go a great ways toward making a pleasant summer but associations count for as much and perhaps more when we consider the permanent profit. The mingling of students from many colleges will bring benefits not to be gotten in any other way. They will talk about their respective institutions, tell each other how they do things, compare ideas of college life and activities, recount experiences with good, bad and indifferent professors, report successes and failures—how they vanquished opponents, outwitted rivals, captured the girls; and perhaps they may sometimes mention their studies. Whatever the subject of conversation as they sit around the campfire on cool evenings or watch the moon come up from behind Mt. Mansfield, it will be one of common interest because nearly all of their interests are common.

Fraternity brothers will meet and form new and often lasting friendships. But whether they be fraternity brothers or not, college men belong to a brotherhood and they are royal fellows. Rich and poor will meet on the same level and there will be an ideal democracy because it will be an intellectual aristocracy.

Next to the brotherly associations will be that with the army officers in charge of the camp. These officers will be men of calibre, experience and training. Their points of view will have in them new things to many a student whose outlook is only from the classroom and library. The type of instruction and the discipline will be new to many. The student who is awake to all these things will return to his college in the fall a better student and a broader man.

Outside of the camp there will be associations of value also. The University of Vermont will throw open its doors to the camp students. The summer school will be in session. There will be lectures and entertainments and a man may carry course regularly in the college; but whether he does or not he will be invited to social affairs with the summer school student. The summer school is made up mainly of college graduates, college students, teachers and superintendents of schools. The faculty is made up of men from various colleges. The people of Burlington are interested in the camp and will help in entertaining the students.

The successful man of today is the man who has a knowledge of books supplemented by a knowledge of people. Here is an opportunity to make acquaintances that are valuable.

Statement of Hon. Lindley M. Garrison, Secretary of War.

I am very much pleased with the increased interest in the military preparation and needs of our country lately taken not only by the students of Yale University but by students of many other universities and colleges and by the educated people throughout the country. I am sure that, if our citizens only knew more about the subject of national defenses, and the way and means vital and necessary to be properly prepared, the War Department would not have to beg consideration of its projects but the people themselves would demand their carrying out. I believe it is the duty of all true citizens of our country to familiarize themselves with this subject, as upon the mere fact whether or not the country is adequately prepared for war may depend the continued peace and prosperity of the Nation and even their own lives as well.

The subjects of military policy, military organization, and the true military history of our country should be included in the university and college curriculum. This is necessary to the complete education of a well-equipped citizen in order that he may form just and true opinions on military subjects and be able to judge for himself just what is necessary in this respect for the proper safeguarding of the Nation and the means to effect same.

MAJOR GENERAL LEONARD WOOD,
CHIEF OF STAFF, U. S. A.

FIFTH U. S. INFANTRY BAND—THIS BAND WILL BE IN ATTENDANCE AT THE CAMP DURING THE ENTIRE PERIOD.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES ON COLLEGE CAMPS.

President Woodrow Wilson, under date of September 22, 1913, made the following statement:

THE WHITE HOUSE,
Washington, September 22, 1913.

I am very much interested in the successful working out of the idea of these college camps. I believe the students attending will derive not only a great deal of physical benefit from the healthful, open-air life, but also that they will benefit from the discipline, habits of regularity, and the knowledge of personal and camp sanitation which the experience in camp will give them.

The camps will also tend to disseminate sound information concerning our military history and the present policy of the Government in military matters, in addition to giving the young men themselves a very considerable amount of practical military instruction, which would be useful to them in case their services should ever be required.

WOODROW WILSON.

HARVARD MEN ENJOYED MILITARY CAMP.

[Letter of Harvard delegation (from Harvard Crimson, Nov. 29, 1913).]

To the Editor of the Crimson:

We, the Harvard men who attended the military instruction camp at Gettysburg and Mount Gretna, Pa., last summer, strongly recommend the camp and urge all Harvard men to make every effort to attend the one to be organized this summer. We take this opportunity of recounting some of the benefits which we derived from our summer's stay at Gettysburg.

In the first place, we saw Army life at first hand, and by mingling with the soldiers we learned to appreciate and understand the wonderfully efficient organization of the United States Army. Being privileged to meet and become acquainted with the officers, we found them to be men of the highest standards and efficiency, whom we were very sorry to leave on breaking camp.

In the second place, there was the broadening influence derived from close acquaintanceship with men from other colleges, particularly those from the South, whose ideas we found affected our own somewhat prejudiced opinions to a very great extent.

In the third place, the physical and mental training was splendid. The general discipline, setting-up exercises, cavalry and artillery drills and sham battles were not only interesting and, in the latter case, exciting, but they all tended toward the perfecting of brain and muscle, while the regular hours and primeval style of life which we led created energy and vim in our bodies.

Discipline, instruction, and punctuality were not, however, all that made up the camp routine. There were sports of all kinds, including swimming, baseball, and soccer, a long march from Gettysburg to Mount Gretna and a war game with a company of regulars while on the march, which ended in our baggage train being captured just before we reached Mount Gretna. The evenings were passed pleasantly around the camp fire, with an occasional dance at Gettysburg or Mount Gretna.

Finally, men who wish to spend a portion of their summer vacation profitably and happily, yet with an idea of accomplishing something worth while, should join one of the four military instruction camps this summer and benefit their country, their college, and themselves.

OF THE SOCIETY OF THE NATIONAL RESERVE CORPS.

PRINCETON'S VIEWPOINT.

(From the Princetonian, Jan. 8, 1914.)

Long will the camp at Gettysburg and Mount Gretna be remembered by the Princeton delegation with a feeling that the six weeks spent there were ones full of interest and profit from the standpoint of knowledge gained, friendships made, and training acquired.

From the day the camp was established until the day of departure the interest never lagged, due largely to the ably planned program, whereby the work was constantly varied.

The results obtained by the individuals attending and by the camp as a whole were so great that they were not fully realized until after the camp had broken up and time for reflection was given.

The best way of proving the worth of the camps from the Princeton standpoint is that every man who was there wishes to go back again this coming summer.

One of the most pleasing features was the quick way in which the elementary training was gained. This allowed the officers to devote their time to instructing the corps in advanced problems in actual fieldwork, which resulted in the lessening of drill work and made the men feel that they were getting something of real educational value, not only in military training but in lessons to be applied all through life.—G. H. Gaston, 1913.

QUOTATIONS.

From President Henry S. Drinker (Speaking of the Camp of 1913):

"I was greatly impressed with the excellence of the arrangements made for the health, comfort, and pleasure of the students taking part in the camps and with the statements made to me by the Army officers in charge—all picked, splendid gentlemen of high ideals, thorough training, and intensely and patriotically interested in the work."

From President Guy Potter Benton:

"If it be true that the people of a shut-in community easily become provincial, it is much more true that students confined to their own particular college easily become insufferably clannish. The Students' Military Camp will become a great educational melting pot that in its blending effect will prove highly advantageous to our later civilization. The associations and companionships formed during the five weeks of camp life will abide forever as the aroma of fragrant incense to sweeten life through all the busy years that follow."

From ex-President Taft:

"For young men who have a taste for outdoor life and military training—and indeed, for "roughing it"—I can conceive of no better opportunity for them to gratify this taste than to accept the invitation of the War Department."

GUY POTTER BENTON, LL. D., PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT.

CAPTAIN OLIVER EDWARDS,
FIFTH U. S. INFANTRY.

THE COMMANDER AND HIS COMPANY.

Captain Oliver Edwards has been designated by the Secretary of War to command the Students' Camp for the north-east section of the United States, at Burlington, Vermont.

Captain Edwards is a most efficient officer and is especially well equipped for the duty. He was born in Massachusetts in 1871, entered West Point in 1890 and graduated in 1894; he was commissioned a second lieutenant of the 11th U. S. Infantry in that year, was promoted to 1st lieutenant in 1898, and to captain in 1901. He has served in the 11th, 6th, 28, 23rd, and 4th regiments of the U. S. Infantry.

He graduated at the Army School of the Line at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas in 1910 and at the Army Staff College in 1911. He is now in command of Company L of the 5th Infantry. He will bring his company to the students camp and will remain there during the entire period of instruction. They will arrive a few days before the camp opens to put the grounds in readiness.

INSTRUCTION IN THE USE OF TELESCOPIC SIGHTS AND LAYING FIELD GUNS.

CAVALRY TROOP DESIGNATED.

Troop M, Second U. S. Cav., under the command of Captain Edward L. King has been selected for service in the camp. The presence of the cavalry will add much of interest and valuable practice for the students.

RAILROAD RATES AND ROUTES.

Burlington is on the Rutland and the Central Vermont Railroads and may be reached by Lake Champlain steamers connecting with the Delaware and Hudson Railroad on the New York side of the lake. There is direct connection with New York and Boston by rail, or the trip from New York may be made by boat on the Hudson River, Lake George and Lake Champlain. The New England Passenger Association has granted special convention rates over New England lines. A 2 cent rate, short line mileage, will be allowed those attending the camp or the University Summer School. Special rates have also been granted by railroads running from New York.

If your friends wish to come to Burlington during the camp they will find excellent accommodations. The new Hotel Vermont, the Van Ness House and the Sherwood are all large and well managed hotels. Many comfortable homes and boarding houses are open to travellers. Numerous garages attend to automobiles. Burlington is a popular stopping place for automobile parties. It is between the Adirondack and the Green Mountains and it is possible to take cars across the lake on one of the steamers and thus make an easy trip through the most picturesque part of Vermont and into the Adirondacks.

GEORGETOWN PLAYS 14-INNING TIE

BRILLIANT FIELDING GAME

Darkness Ends Exciting Struggle in Which Fraser, Fitzpatrick and Berry Are Stars.

Vermont and Georgetown played to 14-inning, 4-4 tie, in one of the most interesting games ever seen on Centennial Field. It was not a pitcher's battle as might be supposed from the length, but rather one of two evenly matched, fast playing teams. Four double plays were made, Vermont getting three and Georgetown one.

An estimate of the fielding may be obtained from the fact that a grand total of 104 men faced the pitchers, and of these 15 hit safely, 3 walked and 10 struck out, leaving seventy-six to be taken care of by the fielders. Georgetown got 42 put-outs, 20 assists, and 5 errors out of a total of 67 chances, and Vermont made 42 put-outs, 22 assists and 4 errors out of 68 chances.

Georgetown started things with a bang in the first, when Martin and Torney, the first two up, got to Malcolm's delivery for doubles, the former scoring. Torney took third on Fury's out to Fitzpatrick, and scored on McCartney's hit. McCartney got way around to third but was caught trying to come in on Daley's fly to center, Fitzpatrick making a wonderful throw to the plate.

Vermont had a chance in the same stanza when, with one down, Berry singled and stole second, but Mayforth and Fitzpatrick were easy outs.

Georgetown went out in in order in the second and Vermont proceeded to even things up. Fraser beat out a bunt and Gallagher knocked a Texas-leaguer to left field. Shugine attempted to get it but failed and could not recover the ball in time to prevent Fraser from reaching third with Gallagher at the halfway station. Lyons, the next man up, obliged with a lovely wallop, which brought in two runs, and left him on second. The next three men, however, failed to come across and the score remained a tie until the seventh, fast fielding cutting off chances for both sides.

In the third Tyson reached first on an error by Maiden, and second on Martin's sacrifice, but Fraser caught Torney's try and threw it to Maiden at second before Tyson could get back, retiring the side. Fury, Georgetown's right fielder, starred in this inning, first catching Berry's fly, and then, after Mayforth had reached first on an error, making a fine catch of Fitz-

THURSDAY'S RESULTS.

Varsity Wins in Track and Loses in Baseball.

The track team won Thursday's meet with Middlebury at Middlebury, by a score of 75 to 37. The Varsity showed up well in several events where little scoring was expected.

The baseball team was defeated by Dartmouth, 5-2. The Dartmouth team hit in the pinches and fielded well. Lyons got three hits.

The summary:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Vermont,	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	—	2	7
Dartmouth,	0	1	0	0	1	0	3	0	*	—	5	8

Batteries: Willard and Wanamaker; Malcolm and Mayforth.

Both events came too late for full report in this week's CYNIC.

COSTLY ERRORS LOSE GAME WITH PENN STATE

Varsity Plays Listlessly in a Drizzle and Visitors Win 5-3.

On Monday for the first time this season Vermont lost a home game when she met defeat at the hands of the fast Penn. State aggregation by a score of 5-3. Hesselbacher, the pitcher for the visitors, had it over Denning a little, as the former only allowed six hits to Denning's nine, striking out twelve men to Denning's eight and walking four men to Denning's two. However Denning pitched good ball and, had he received the support he deserved the outcome of the game would have been different. It was an uphill fight for Penn. State. It looked after the first inning as if everything was coming Vermont's way and it was not until the fifth that the visitors finally clinched the game.

In the first inning the first three Penn. men at bat went out and in the latter half of the inning Vermont scored all her runs. Maiden, the first man up, walked and got to third on Berry's single, coming in on Mayforth's single. Fitzpatrick's hit brought Berry home and advanced Mayforth to second. Fraser sacrificed and Mayforth scored. The next man, "Rip" Gallagher, walked to first but was caught asleep there. Lyons fanned. There was another chance to score in the fourth when with two men out Linnehan singled, reached third when Weber failed to get Denning's fly. Further chance of scoring, however, in that inning was denied Vermont as Maiden, the next at bat, flew out at first. Again in the fifth inning there was a possible chance to score. In the seventh with one man down Berry again reached second by a single and a stolen base, but could not be rescued

Miss Byrd. R. C. Downing, '14
Professor Max W. Andrews is coaching the cast. The first performance will be given at Enosburg Falls, Monday, May 18th.

The play will be presented in Burlington on Friday, May 22nd, in Junior Week.

TENNIS—M. A. C. VS. VERMONT.

Yesterday afternoon at the courts of the Ethan Allen Club on College Street, the tennis team of Mass. Agricultural College met the Vermont team, consisting of Captain Dow, '15, McFarland, '14, Roberts (Medic) '16, Salisbury, '14, and Ballard, '15. Full particulars of the matches will be given in next week's CYNIC.

The local courts seem to be slow in getting into shape this spring.

COLGATE WINS FIRST TRACK MEET

Cleaning Up Both Hurdle Events the Visiting Team Scores 65½ to Varsity's 38½.

Colgate won from Vermont in track at Centennial Field last Saturday by a score of 65½ to 38½ points. The Varsity showed more strength than was expected in several of the events, but Pickard and Cassidy cleaned up both hurdle races for Colgate, which secured their substantial lead. The high jump also yielded them 6½ points. Aside from these there were no clean-up events, and the meet was closely contested.

Colgate had a well-balanced aggregation, a dangerous man in each competition, while the varsity had to rely largely on Hayden and Squire, Bolster and Cintron, and could not place stars in several of the events. The meet showed that there was nothing that the varsity needs more than a well-balanced track team.

Two years ago the same teams met on the same field with much the same result. Gutterson, however, won three-fourths of Vermont's points. Saturday's result should be regarded as encouraging evidence of our growth toward a team of even strength in all departments. The team is still notably weak in jumpers, vaulters and hurdlers.

Hayden ran a pretty race in the mile and won much applause. He could not hold out against a strong, fresh man in the two-mile and Gould took the race with a strong spurt. Squire was strong in the shot put and Bolster and Cintron also excelled. Pickard, Van Tyle and Adams featured for Colgate.

The score:
100 yard dash—Adams of Colgate and Bolster of Vermont tied for first and second. Time, 10 2-5 seconds.

Mile run—Hayden (V), Bernstorm (C). Time, 4.46.

220 yard dash—Adams (C), Bolster (V). Time, 22 4-5 seconds.

120 hurdles—Pickard (C), Cassidy (C). Time, 16 4-5 seconds.

High jump—Terwilliger (C), Wilcox (V) and Cassidy (C), tied for second place. Height, 5 feet 4 1-2 inches.

NEW YORK ALUMNI HOLD LIVELY SMOKER

Seventy Alumni Hear Prof. Merrill and Elect Officers.

The best smoker ever held by the Vermont Alumni Association of New York took place Thursday night, April 30 at the Chemists' Club with Prof. "Nate" Merrill as the guest of honor.

There were seventy of the members of the association present and a dozen friends and honorary members helped to make the occasion the most enthusiastic in years.

The report of President Robbins and Secretary F. F. Lincoln showed that the association had the most active and prosperous year in its history and the first report of the scholarship fund directors, read by Charles Lamb showed that the entire amount of the money necessary to send a student to the university for the first year had been pledged. This statement was received with riotous applause.

These pledges were limited to $10 each so that as many as possible might share in the fund. During the summer the directors will put the machinery in motion whereby some deserving student will go to the university as the representative of the New York Alumni Association.

The long deferred treat of having Professor Merrill as the guest of honor made the occasion doubly enjoyable. There are few men in college faculties who have exerted a more wonderful influence on all those with whom they have come in contact than Prof. Merrill, and the "boys" were only too glad to attest this influence by their reception. Professor Merrill was received with a big demonstration of affection. After the cheers had at last subsided Charles Lamb moved that Prof. Merrill be made an honorary member of the association for life, which motion was of course carried and took effect immediately.

Professor Merrill's speech was so very intimate and personal, and withal so interesting, that your scribe found to his amazement when it was finished that he had not taken a single note. Obviously, therefore, it would not be proper to quote the speech much, especially inasmuch as it contained characteristic and spicy references and allusions to public questions of the day.

"If my father and mother could see me now, at the age of 65, as I stand here, the last of the family, I know they would be glad they left me here to linger along awhile," began the Professor, and your reporter put down his pencil and listened, sometimes with a lump in his throat, to "Nate," as we all called him affectionately, just talk to us; listened while he conveyed to us the love of Pres. Benton; listened while he told us of the change which had come in the methods and results of education during a lifetime devoted to it alone, as his father's had been; listened while he talked of the "service to the state" conception of education; listened while he declared that those who advocated it did not go far enough—that education should do something more than foster the vocational accomplishment of those whom it trained; that there was need to "breed a brood of thinkers."

And then he cited some examples of the need of it at the present time in certain high places, unnamed, but not unrecognized. After he had finished off the Income Tax and the Increase in Railroad Rates to his own satisfaction and to the intense amusement of the gathering, he turned his attention to the Mexican situation.

Then he went on to explain what came with education which mere vocational training lacked because it forgot that man was a spirit and not a machine. The whole thing is comprised in four words, virtue, grace, beauty and genius.

The others speakers were Charles Whiting Baker, editor of Engineering News, Dr. A. K. Aldinger of the Department of Education of the City of New York, and Professor J. R. Wheeler, professor of Greek in Columbia University. Professor Wheeler in his speech gave an intensely interesting "impression of the University at the time he entered it. Some of the things he told us were absolutely new to some of us even in tradition, and some had come down by that devious path with entirely superfluous accretions. As an instance of the contrast between the new and the old, he cited the fact that he had come upon a bundle last summer in rummaging through his papers and upon opening it found that it contained his marks for four years, tabulated and written in President Buckingham's own hand. His reminiscences of Professors Bliss, Torrey, Barber and Petty were graphic and he mentioned the fact that Elihu Taft had in his possession a set of pictures of the old football games which ought to be in a place where it could be seen.

President Robbins read a letter from the board of trustees of the University expressing the gratification of the trustees at the interest and activity of the New York alumni.

The officers elected to serve for the ensuing year were: President, H. B. Oatley; vice-president, A. B. Gilbert; secretary and treasurer, L. R. Whitcomb; directors, William T. Whelan, P. M. J. Corry, Arthur H. Valiquette and Ferdinand H. Pease; board of directors of the scholarship fund, C. E. Lamb, John M. Evers, M. C. Robbins, John M. Wheeler and Fred B. Wright.

THE PRIZE READING.

Winning Contestants Were the Misses Swift, Votey and Parker.

The annual Julia Spear Prize Reading contest between the young women of the freshman and sophomore classes was held last Friday evening in the Billings Library. Prof. Frederick Tupper, who presided, set forth very briefly the history and purpose of the contest.

In order to gain uniformity the readings were limited to prose selections dealing with nature. The program follows:

"The Seasons and Their Changes," Saunders
Mary Conway, '17.

"The Goings of the Winds"...Guayle
Mabel Derway, '17.

"The Foot-hills Country," Ralph Connor
Emma Fuller, '17.

"Walking" .....Thoreau
Jennie Maxfield, '17.

"The Road to Jo's Pond," James Buckham
Laura Parker, '17.

"The Sea" .....Guayle
Clara Gardner, '16.

"April Days" .....Rowland Robinson
Elizabeth Gilmore, '16.

"News of Spring" .....Maeterlinck
Jessie Southard, '16.

"Who Owns the Mountains?"
Van Dyke
Lucy Swift, '16.

"Gardening" .....C. D. Warner
Dorothy Votey, '16.

The prizes were awarded as follows: First prize of $25 to Lucy Swift, '16. of Middlesex; second prize of $15 to Dorothy Votey, '16, of Burlington; third prize of $10 to Laura Parker, '17, of Burlington.

Mrs. G. W. Wales, Mrs. J. B. Taylor and Mrs. G. G. Groat acted as judges.

BISHOP McDOWELL TO GIVE COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS.

The speaker at Commencement exercises will be Bishop William Fraser McDowell, D. D., LL. D., of Evanston, Ill. He is a speaker of rare charm and eloquence.

SENIOR BOATRIDE COMMITTEE.

The following Senior Boatribe Committee has been appointed by President St. John: Vernon T. Dow, chairman; Dwight M. Bartlett, Fred S. Holden, J. Howard Moore, and W. J. Clarke Agnew.

ECONOMICS DEPT. BULLETIN.

The Vermont Bulletin, Number 7 of Volume 11 appeared this week. It is devoted to the Economics and Commerce Department and contains an outline of the scope of the department and a list of the courses offered in 1914-15 in Economics, Commerce, and Government and Law.

GEORGETOWN PLAYS

14-INNING TIE.

patrick's hit and throwing it to first for a double play.

In the fifth opportunity again knocked at Georgetown's door, but Fitzpatrick, figuratively speaking, had a rag around the knocker, and Vermont's opponents heard only a dull thump. Shugine walked and was forced at second by Connolly. The latter reached the bag just a little ahead of the throw on Lynch's effort, Lynch making first on the play. Tyson flew out to Fitzpatrick, but Martin walked, filling the bases. It looked as though Georgetown were about to resume the lead, but Fitzpatrick prevented it by getting under Torney's long fly, retiring the side.

In the sixth, after Fury had gone out to Fitzpatrick, McCartney made the first station on Maiden's error and stole second. Daley walked but he and Shugine were caught on a fast double play, Maiden to Fraser to Berry. In Vermont's half, Berry reached first on Torney's fumble, was sacrificed to second by Mayforth, and got as far as third, but was left there, neither Fitzpatrick nor Fraser being able to connect safely.

Georgetown cut loose in the seventh and managed to squeeze another run across the pan. Connolly got a scratch, and Lynch sacrificed. Tyson went out but Connolly scored on the play, leaving Georgetown one run ahead when the inning closed with Martin's strike-out.

Vermont went out in order in the supposedly lucky inning, but came back strong in the eighth. Malcolm made first on Torney's error, but was forced at second, Maiden making first in safety. Maiden stole, was advanced to third on Berry's hit, and scored on Mayforth's single. Berry also stole and reached third on the same hit that scored Maiden, Mayforth taking second. Fitzpatrick went out pitcher to first, but Torney could not get the ball back in time to keep Berry from scoring. Fraser was hit, and Gallagher went out, leaving Vermont one run ahead.

The game might have ended with the score at 4-3, but for an unfortunate succession of errors on Vermont's part in the ninth. Daley was out to center field, but Gallagher dropped Shugine's easy fly and the latter made second, scoring on a wild pitch, and an error by Mayforth. Connolly hit safely, but was caught trying to steal and Lynch flew out to third.

In Vermont's half, with two down Malcolm again reached the initial sack on an error by Torney and got around to third on Maiden's single, but Berry hit to third and was an easy out, making extra sessions necessary.

With one out in the tenth, Martin of Georgetown was hit by a pitched ball, and forced out at second on what would have been a double play if he had not held Fraser's arm at a time when the umpire was not looking. Connolly was safe on the play but Fury was easy, Linnehan to Berry.

Georgetown went out in regular order from this inning on, not getting a man on the bags, except Fury, who got a fluky hit in the thirteenth and was caught in an attempt to purloin second. Vermont fared no better, for, although Berry got a two-bagger with two out in the twelfth, Mayforth went out on a foul to third and Berry was left on the bag.

Malcolm spoiled what might have been a hit, by getting his gloved hand in front of McCartney's hot liner in the fourteenth, and hanging on to it. Daley struck out and Shugine flew out the right field. For Vermont, Lyons flew out to center, and Linnehan and Manderville struck out, leaving the score 4-4.

Although both pitchers did excellent work in the box, they would have fared badly but for the fine fielding of their teams. Malcolm allowed six hits, two of them of a very scratchy order, gave three passes, and struck out four. Tyson for Georgetown was touched up more frequently, nine safeties being made off his delivery, but he issued no passes, and retired six men via the sucker route.

The features of the game were mostly in the fielding line. Berry covered first in fine style, getting the throws anywhere they happened to come, and digging half-a-dozen of them at least out of the ground. Fitzpatrick gathered in eight flies in all parts of the outfield and made a throw to the plate that cut off a run. Fraser at second got four putouts and six assists without a miscue, and Lyons in right field made a fine catch of a fly at the outer edge of the running track. Berry made three of Vermont's hits, one of them being a two-bagger.

COSTLY ERRORS LOSE GAME

WITH PENN. STATE.

as Mayforth struck out and Fitzpatrick flew out to Webber.

Penn. State began scoring in the second but it was not until the fifth that the deciding run was brought in. In the second inning Craig got to first on Maiden's error and was advanced to third by Robinson's base hit. Joseffson then flew out to Denning and on Webber's single Craig scored, followed by Robinson who scored on Vogt's sacrifice. In the fifth two more runs were added to Penn's credit. The first man Hesselbacher, fanned. Miller got to first on Maiden's error and was advanced to second when Crawford walked. Both of these men scored by Craig's two base hit but Blyth and Robinson having fled out no more runs were brought in during that inning. The visitors' last score came in the seventh when Miller, the first man up, singled, stole second and came home on Blyth's hit, thus scoring his second run and bringing the visitors' score up to five.

Vermont would have had the game by a score of 3-1, but for very poor fielding. Errors were responsible for four of Penn State's runs.

Mayforth starred for Vermont in the fielding line. In the third he made a quick throw to second of Crawford's attempted sacrifice, forcing Miller out with time to spare. In the seventh he caught Blyth trying to make third, and Craig second, in quick succession. One of the features of the game was the behavior of the Penn. State team. After seeing the teams which have preceded it, it seemed a relief to get a bunch of gentlemen, who neither worked dirty plays, nor labored under the delusion that umpire was paid to throw the game the right way.
